Winner Beats Pain

KINGSTON (CP) — Naasaki Naasaki, a 23-year-old Japanese student attending York University in Toronto, overcame stretched ligaments to capture the men's senior title at the Ontario gymnastics championship which ended Sunday.

Naasaki stretched the ligaments in his right knee while attempting a three-quarter twist on the sidehorse during his third routine. After being checked by doctors, he limped through his two final routines to take first place with 100.25 points.

Steve Mitruk of Hamilton and Bipi Mackie of Thunder Bay tied for second place with 96.10 points.

Majority Favored Majority

SALEM, N.H. (CP) — Silent Majority won the first round of an expected season-long duel with Strike Out as the two Canadian-owned three-year-old pacers met for the first time this season Saturday night in the $25,000 Romeo Hanover Invitational Mile at Rockingham Park Raceway.

Silent Majority, the 4-5 favorite, led all the way as he covered the distance in 2:00 4-5, fastest time on a half-mile raceway by a three-year-old this year.

Owned by Aline White and Irving Leverman of Montreal, Silent Majority has won all three starts this year. He lost his last race when he finished four in to Strike Out in the Roseveek Futurity in New York last October.

This time it was the turn of Strike Out to finish fourth. Owned by John Hayes of Oshawa and Bob and Leonard Shapiro of Montreal, he faded in the stretch and was beaten by American-owned Entrepreneur and Tarport.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, May 9

Aries (March 21-April 19): The balanced limitation you need today is there and real, but not as great as it appears. Self-expression is easier, concise in later hours. Sound off.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Discussions started now ramble on, may drift into disputes if you let them. Work will be a centre of personal conflicts.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You make progress in personal creative ventures. Put an old score right with a few words and some definite action.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): An old system needs some new methods. Take the needs of others into account; make common cause for better results. Home life thrives.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's much stir and mood in today's bickerings but little lasting damage. You can smooth things out by afternoon. Romance brightens where least expected.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If others are to mesh their plans with yours, they must know in detail what you are doing. Likewise, you should pay attention to them.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Don't let anything spoil this day of many moods. Having your own way about everything may cost you future co-operation.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Action runs into unexpected obstacles, interference. Avoid putting any further investment in the last until you have a clear understanding.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): No one seems to agree with anything today. Your own latest ego require sorvice patience.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Tend home and family welfare first. You may have the chance to eliminate a long-standing doubt by alert listening and fast reaction.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Ask your friends and associates for co-operation you need, avoiding disagreements over money. Some discrepancy in your own plans comes to the surface.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Conservative handling of money provides extra benefits, broader choices later. Contacts which stir emotional reactions dawdle.

Suicide Bid Case For Psychiatrist

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My cousin is: "Does everyone who attempts suicide need psychiatric help?"

I have already attempted it once, about seven years ago. If I am pregnant now, I will definitely hang myself.

My husband is overseas and I cannot face him. I don't even know the last name of the man I was with.

How can a psychiatrist help me, an adultress who has an attentive and loving husband?

Yes, I'd say that everyone who attempts suicide needs psychiatric help.

Why? Because a suicide attempt always means some sort of emotional or social problem which the person is unable to solve. Unable to solve without help, that is.

One of the finest books on the subject of suicide was also very simply The Cry for Help, because that is what it is.

Granted that if you are pregnant you have a problem. Suicide would, you realize, "solve" the problem. Solve it? Well, it would get you out of it, of course, but do you think that would be fair to a living human being whose fault it isn't?

You are quite clearly a confused young woman with a profound guilt about (with substantial reason for guilt, so far as that is concerned). But doing away with yourself, and with an unborn baby, when so many couples are hoping for a baby they can adopt, doesn't seem like the best solution in the world, does it?

Obviously the situation is fairly resolved, a psychiatrist can help you find an endurable solution and also help you be yourself and the world and the people in it more tolerable.

It won't be easy, I agree. But it isn't easy to be in the fix frame of mind you are in, either.

Even if you turn out not to be pregnant, you need some psychiatric help promptly. Your life is in serious danger. I suggest you can use some help and counsel in getting it straightened out.

That earlier attempt at suicide indicates you have been harboring the need for that suicide in your mind for a long time, and your attempt to end it solves the immediate predicament. It goes deeper than that.

You don't give your address or even the city in which you live, so I can't be more specific than this:

Lots of people get into jams and can't see any way out. For that very reason, more and more cities have set up services to help such people. Look in the phone book and see if there isn't a listing under the name of Suicide Prevention Centre or some such name. Call that number!

If your city doesn't have one, call the city hospital and ask if there isn't someone who can talk to you. Or call the office of one of the social agencies, or the local mental health society, but get busy and look for some help instead of suffering in your present despairing misery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Organic vitamin tablets cost about 500 per cent more than synthetic ones. A health store tells me that synthetic tablets are useless. I would appreciate your opinion.

Laboratories have analyzed both and can find no difference. Medical researchers have tried to find any difference.

I therefore would like somebody more than somebody's money say-so before spending the extra money for organic vitamins.

Note to Mrs. M.W.: Yes, shaving can help subdue crops of hair like, provided you don't miss any hair shafts that have eggs attached to them.

The bidding:

Opening lead — seven of clubs.

Here is a remarkable hand from the Vanderbilt team of four championship.

At the first table, Sidney Lazard, always an aggressive bidder, opened third hand with five clubs. South bid five hearts and West, George Rapee, doubled.

Rapee led a club and declarer easily made the contract with an overtrick for a score of 1,050 points. Had Rapee made the farfetched lead of the ace and another heart, he would have nipped the contract by an eyelash.

At the second table, Marty Cohn of Atlanta held the East hand and answered the bidding with three hearts!

No trump survey was ever shot! South, Peter Leventritt, no green hand at the game, found himself completely stymied by Cohn's extraordinary bid.

He knew what Cohn was doing, all right, but there was very little he could do about it. He couldn't afford to double — that would have been for takeout as he and his partner played.

And if he did double — and partner responded in one of the other three suits — a four-heart bid would now have registered as a cuebid and not a heart suit.

Nor did Leventritt feel much like bidding three notrump with his 7-3-2-1 distribution for that also would have been a gross misdescription of his hand.

After much travail, Leventritt decided to pass—and in that way came to the best of a bad situation. He hoped to collect enough 50's to partly compensate him for the game he felt sure his side could make.

And so, three hearts became the final contract. Cohn went down seven, but that came nowhere near equalizing the 1,050 points his teammates had scored at the other table.

Tomorrow: Foresight.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three X's, for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Diet Can Cure Schizophrenia

REGINA (CP) — A well-known Canadian psychiatrist says genetics and nutrition are as important as traditional psychotherapy in treating schizophrenia.

Dr. Abram Hoffer of Saskatoon, president of the Canadian and U.S. associations studying schizophrenia, told the annual conference of the Canadian Schizophrenia Foundation Saturday schizophrenia is nothing more than the result of a chemical imbalance in the body.

This imbalance affects the victim's senses, resulting in marked personality alterations.

"It was shown many years ago . . . that there was a very powerful inherited tendency in schizophrenics. If you had a schizophrenic as a relative, your chance of developing schizophrenia were much stronger."

On the other hand, it had been demonstrated that the psychosocial environment—the attitudes of family, friends and the public—had no effect on schizophrenia.

Since nothing can be done to alter a patient's genetic inheritance, Dr. Hoffer concentrates on the food intake and "megavitamin therapy."

Foods which have a personal effect are weeded out and the schizophrenic goes on a special diet high in certain vitamins.

Churches Okay Marriage Kit

TORONTO (CP) — Joint use of a counselling kit for Christian mixed marriages has been approved by the Roman Catholic Church and a majority of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in Canada.

The kit, fassued by a joint working group representing the Canadian Catholic Conference and the Canadian Council of Churches, will be mailed to every minister and priest in Canada.

Vets Ask Raise

SUDBURY (CP) — Delegates attending the War Pensioners of Canada annual national meeting here voted Saturday to ask the federal government for more than a $1,000 increase in the basic annual veteran's pension.

Veterans with 100-per-cent disability now receive $3,504 a year. The resolution was passed unanimously by the 46 voting delegates.

Dealers to Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — The eastern district of the Ontario Retail Gasoline Association will meet here within three weeks to discuss a boycott of giveaway campaigns by oil companies.

District president Claude Burchill said after a meeting here Saturday that service station operators can't afford the giveaway but are forced into them by advertising and other pressures.

Arabs Confer

ALGIERS (AP) — The leaders of Egypt, Libya and Algeria agreed Saturday to provide the Arab Palestinian guerrilla movement "with everything that can support its struggle for liberation." A communique would set up a summit meeting of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, Col. Muammar Kadafi of Libya and President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria.

Recovery Small

NEW YORK (AP) — The 500 largest U.S. industrial corporations staged only a moderate recovery last year, with sales and profits both up about eight per cent over 1970 levels, according to the May issue of Fortune business magazine.

Three Killed

GANANOQUE, Ont. (CP) — Three Ontario men were killed and two injured in a collision Saturday on Highway 32 near here.

Crew Rescued

HALIFAX (CP) — The 38 crew members of the 191-foot Danish fishing vessel Sandberg, which sank 375 miles east-northeast of St. John's Wfld., were rescued early Sunday night, the air-sea centre said. ## Lovesque Backed MONTREAL (CP) — The Parti Quebecois collected $632,000 during a recent fund-raising campaign, more than double the campaign objective, party leader Rene Levesque announced Saturday. "This proves that it is possible for a political party in Quebec to finance itself," Mr. Levesque said.

Trip Delayed

Plan Diet Test

First Mass

QUEBEC (CP) — Roland Dumais, a widower and father of six children, celebrated his first mass Sunday after being ordained as a Roman Catholic priest Saturday by Maurice Cardinal Roy.

Mr. Dumais, married for 35 years, will retain his job as counsellor and director of the audio-visual teaching centre of the Quebec Catholic school commission.

Flooded — Again

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernard Poirier and family could be considered some of Quebec's most dedicated tenting campers — except for the fact they are not too enthused by the results.

For the second consecutive year, Mr. Poirier, his wife and eight children have been forced from their suburban Laval home by flooding.

Swims for Help

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 32-year-old salesman who used to swim competitively in high school stroked through choppy seas for eight miles to summon aid for two friends who were clinging to their capsized 19-foot fishing boat.

Henry Hardesty, of Ormond Beach, Fla., was washed ashore near here Saturday night after spending nearly 13 hours in the water. He flagged down a passing motorist and alerted coast guard officials to start a search.

Joint Transplant

An unidentified 17-year-old youth, whose right hip was deformed by illness, received the hip joint of an unidentified dead donor in a three-hour operation April 25 at the clinic.

A clinic spokesman said the operation was successful and the patient in good condition, with physicians predicting he would soon be able to walk without crutches.

Rhodesian Plan Unacceptable

LONDON (AP) — A British commission has reported that Britain's projected constitutional settlement with rebellious Rhodesia is definitely unacceptable to the people of that central-African country as a whole.

The development, reported by informed sources Sunday night, confronts the government of Prime Minister Edward Heath with a critical choice.

This centres on the crucial question of whether it should now abandon the plan and go on boycotting the regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith or attempt to railroad the plan through despite resistance by Rhodesia's blacks.

Spotless

A Lot of Garbage

4,000 Tons A Day Adds Up

TORONTO (CP) — Garbage in this city of 2 million has been piling up at the rate of 4,0 tons a day for the last 28 day it now totals an estimate 112,000 tons.

Since April 10, about 4,000 outside workers have been on strike against the municipa government seeking 25 cents/hr and improvements in a new two-year labor contract.

The strikers include street cleaners, sewage-disposal workers, parks employees, crews on the ferries to Toronto Island across the harbor, men who look after the animals in the Toronto zoo.

The garbage collectors get the most attention because their absence has caused many of the city's parks to be used as garbage dumps. And many service lanes that run behind stores si commercial districts are clogged with refuse.

The feelings of at least one garbageman were expressed poignantly by Brian Lockhart, 26, in a signed newspaper article:

"I feel I am worth $9,300 a year.

"For the last six years I have made my living as a garbage man, and nobody knows that we exist until our services stop.

"Nobody notices us at 7:30 a.m., when it is just getting light and the temperatures is below zero and you feel like an animal chained to the back of the truck. . . .

"Nobody notices us when the temperature is in the 90s and the stench from improperly wrapped waste is enough to make you sick and the maggots crawl freely up and down the side of the can. . . .

"Some people look down their noses at you, and kids call you names like 'garbage picker' and 'Some people look down their 4 fer cheers I can't put in writ-ing.'"

A SPECIAL GIFT FOR MOTHERS

by Margaret Scott

Candy, flowers and the other traditional gifts on Mother's Day are always appreciated. But one of the best possible presents you, as a mother, can receive from your husband and children, regardless of your age, is an appreciation of the stress load you must carry — the tensions in your life.

Usually it is Dad who talks about his tension — the office, his ornery boss, his frustrating customers or suppliers or the traffic on the way home. He rarely gives thought (though he loves you very much) to the fact that in all probability your stress load during the day has been far greater: problems with the children, a plugged toilet, the breakfast rush and perhaps the same again at noon, a trip to the shopping centre and its parking problems and/or a jammed up line at the checkout counter. Then, the dinner and someone at the door at the wrong time and the potatoes burn, with a chorus from the kids asking when dinner is going to be ready — and perhaps a fight or two about what television program is going to be watched.

Yes, studies show that the average housewife and mother has more real tension problems than the so-called harassed business man — but they are usually not as dramatic and they get little consideration. If you are tired or irritable in the evening, or have a headache, the family doesn't get too concerned. But if Dad is off form you are expected to play a combination cook of nurse and waitress, all the time smiling sweetly.

Well, for Mother's Day, here are a few tips to help you handle your tension build up.

Whenever you begin to feel "up tight" try this drill. From a standing position lift your arms out to the sides and up over your head, taking a deep breath as you do so. Then let everything go loose — let your arms drop to your sides, your knees bend a little ("go soft") and your head drop forward loosely. Repeat this 9 or 10 times.

Then sit in a chair with the palms of your hands on your knees. Take a breath, shrug your shoulders up to your ears, hold it a minute or two and then exhale with a sigh, letting your shoulders go loose and your head drop loosely forward. Do this 9 or 10 10 times as well.

Finally, lie down and see how slowly you can breathe, closing your eyes and imagining you are letting all your tension go. Hold your breath for several seconds at the end of each inhale or exhale. Remember, breathe as slowly as you can and try to make the breathing cycle slower and slower.

RESEARCH REPORT

Premium 'muscle fuel'

Carbohydrates and starchy foods provide the best "fuel" for working muscles in activities of long duration. This is the word from researchers at the United States Army Medical Research and Nutrition Laboratory in Denver.

Fats and carbohydrates both provide fuel, but carbohydrates are approximately 5 per cent more efficient. This doesn't sound like much but it can be the difference between winning or losing a race, or finishing a tough job in the garden without running out of energy.

TREVINO'S SECRET - MIND OVER MATTER

by LLOYD PERCIVAL
Technical Consultant, Golf
Coaching Assn. of Canada

CHAMPIONS . . . and why they are champions

One of the most interesting and colorful golf greats of recent years, Lee Trevino, winner last year of U.S., British and Canadian Opens, can teach both the competitive and weekend golfer some valuable lessons.

As Jyv Scissus, recognized as the greatest teacher in golf, has said, "Most golfers spend too much time on the mechanics of golf and 'not enough on the personality and psychological factors. Mechanics are important, of course, but often the reason you play badly, especially when you most want to win, involves your attitude, your personal psychology."

According to Trevino himself, it is the personality factor, the personal psychology factor, that has made Trevino the great competitive golfer he is. While most golfers worry about the result of each shot as they are preparing to hit it, Trevino's attitude is, "Hit the doggoned thing and worry about where it goes afterwards. Me, I'm a Happy Warrior! I play the game and I don't let the game play me. . . .

I constantly remind myself that fun and fury will spoil my game. Having fun, keeping loose helps me play without tension — and tension spells more golf shots than anything else."

Whenever a great champion is analyzed you find that there usually is some personality or attitude factor in addition to his skill which makes him a champion. In this case, Trevino's Happy Warrior attitude is the key to his success and to his ability to have fun too.

Even if you can't become a Happy Warrior you can use a few tricks to keep you loose out on the course whether you are trying to win your club tournament or hoping to beat 100 for the first time.

Before every shot, shrug your shoulders and let them drop loosely a few times, keep your breathing slow and deep, and letting your muscles relax on the exhale. When you make your shot, let it happen: don't worry about the result before you hit it.

Trevino is also very aware of exactly what he wants to do with each shot before he hits it. He explains: "I once read that the great Ben Hogan said that you should never hit a shot unless you first take a good look and actually "see" where you want the ball to go. Don't just look — imagine that ball in flight, landing where you want it to land.

"By seeing the shot as you want to make it you get a positive image. Do it in practice first, and you'll soon get the knack."

This brings up the vital role the mind plays in golf. It has been proved through careful research that "mental practice", if specific, can actually help your game a great deal. It is not, of course, as effective as actual practice, but it does help.

The principle of mental practice is to sit in a comfortable chair, close your eyes and "see" yourself making various shots under different conditions. Visualize your swing or putt, and "see" yourself doing what you know you should do. Visually, put yourself in a trap and imagine yourself getting out right to the pin.

Practice all your shots and simulations in this way and find out for yourself how it can help.

Trevino has become a great champion because he has realized the role that attitude and mental patterns can play in hitting a golf ball where he wants it to go. Take a tip from the top and let a little bit of the Trevino attitude rub off on you — and hopefully, your clubs!

Coaches must 'think young'

Dr. Coleman R. Griffith, one of the first psychologists to take a serious interest in the application of psychology to sports, has made many illuminating observations on the role of the coach. One of them is this:

"It is worthwhile making the assertion that a coach will be successful in proportion to his ability to keep young in his own spirit and his ability to keep convincingly before him the fervent longings, feelings and desires of the boys and young men he has to teach."

I would suggest that every coach anxious to do an effective job and be happy in his relationship with his athletes — male or female — should pay particular attention to this statement. It has been my experience that coaches tend to become cynical and overly hard in their attitude as the seasons progress. They lose the perspective of their youth and with it their understanding and sympathy for the vagaries and reactions of youth.

RELATIONSHIP

It is natural as we mature to become more critical of ourself and others. But the coach should beware of this; it may well spoil his relationship with his athletes and create in him an attitude and habit pattern that will detract from the efficiency of his coaching.

Youth, it must be remembered, is impetuous, zealous, eager, enthusiastic, prejudiced, full of ebullience, generally prey to ambitions, fears and daydreaming. Actually, it might be said that a part of the coach's job is to help the youth in his charge to develop the means and but still bright and enthusiastic personalities. Understanding is the prime factor in the solution.

Youngsters will not warm up to a coldly mature man who apparently cannot remember his own youth and thus cannot act with understanding. Such an attitude will not only keep him separate from the confidence and affection of his athletes but will also spoil his efficiency — he will coach with opinions and philosophies based on his own maturing feelings and attitudes rather than those of the athletes he is trying to develop.

EFFECTIVE

To quote Dr Griffith again, "To know youth and to live with it on its own level is to become a tremendously effective instrument in the moulding of youth."

It could also be said that to do this is to become a more effective coach who will have a stronger imprint on the character and personality of his athletes.

The coach who can remember his youth and who tries to keep not only an understanding of it but a feeling for it, is the coach who will do a good job — and keep himself young, too.

Perhaps, in these days of the generation gap, all of us — coaches, parents, educators in general — would be wise to remember the fact.

BASEBALL

Front arm power top priority for hitters

How and where to build muscle

By Lew Allan

TED WILLIAMS, one of the greatest hitters of all times, says, "Most baseball coaches and nearly every hitter, even in the major leagues, neglect the role that the front arm plays in hitting the ball squarely and hard. If the action of the front arm is not correct and the hitting muscles of this arm are not strong, power is just not possible. If you want to improve your hitting, work on that front arm until it is strong, fast and perfectly controlled."

What can you do about it?

First, you must develop the strength Williams says is a priority, especially in the deltoid muscles (shoulders). One good way to do this is to get an old heavy bat and wind a lot of heavy metal tape around the thick end. Then, practise your swing using the front arm only, starting from way back and really snapping that bat through hard. Do this until you are tired, rest a couple of minutes and repeat several time.

When you practise this front arm swing, "step in" as if you were actually hitting the ball.

Another very effective way to make your front arm really strong is to do the "bat pull drill". Get your bat back in the ready position and then slowly go through the hitting action, pulling with your front arm and hands, resisting strongly with your right. Do this until you are tired, rest for a couple of minutes and repeat.

To make the wrist and forearm of the front arm strong, use the heavy, taped bat again. Whip it back and forth, twisting it vigorously until the muscles really ache.

Finally, do a lot of hitting practise with the front arm only. Have someone toss the ball to you and "step in" and hit, using your front arm only. Make sure your practise hitting low, medium and high pitches when doing this drill, and keep the step short.

Remember what Williams, one of the greatest hitters of all time, has said: "People say I was a natural hitter — this is hogwash! I practised harder than anyone else. I thought about and studied hitting and I developed a strong, fast front arm."

To get more power and punch into your swing get to work on your deltoids today, no matter what your age or experience!

TENNIS

Green: ATTACK. Yellow: CAUTION. Red: play safe

The Color Guide to better tennis

Charlie Hollis, the great Australian tennis coach who developed Rod Laver, probably the greatest tennis player of all time, has created a simple tactical guide that can help tennis players of all levels of skill—from the "pro" to the weekend player.

He calls it the "Color Guide," and has designed it to give you a mental picture of the court areas in which you should use certain tactics and control.

Hollis says, "Most players lose games because they hit the wrong shots in the wrong court areas. If they play according to their position they will make far fewer errors and accordingly win more games—control shots are lost, not won by placements, especially at the average level of tennis."

In the Color Guide, Hollis separates the court into three areas: from the net to within six feet of the service line (green area); from this spot to about six feet from the base line (yellow area) and from this spot to about six feet past the baseline (red area).

The tactical system is this:

1. In the green area you go for the point, playing aggressively;

2. In the yellow area you play cautiously and unless your opponent is badly out of position or has given you a soft shot you do not take a chance;

3. In the red area you always play carefully, trying to make your return as safe as you can—that is no time to try difficult shots. Get the ball back as deep as possible and give the ball lots of "air" over the net.

Corporation Taxes Cut for Factories

Budget Wins Firms' Praise

By The Canadian Press

Generally, the business community appeared well pleased with Finance Minister John Turner's budget Monday night, but labor leaders, opposition politicians and a few businessmen were critical.

Both praise and blame centred mainly on the corporate tax cuts and other incentives to the manufacturing and processing industries.

"This is a real shot-in-the-arm budget," said Gerard Filion, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, hailing the reduction in corporate income tax as "the best news manufacturers have had in a long time."

But Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield thought concessions to business were not only stimulate employment "sheer stupidity" and hardly labelled it a "big business budget."

Neil V. German, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said the corporate tax reduction to 40 from 49 per cent "will increase business confidence in the long-term growth of the economy and will enable business to plan ahead."

He said the over-all effects of the tax measure will help Canadian industry offset the adverse effects of the Domestic International Sales Corporation set up in the United States by improving its competitive position.

Eastern businessmen, and many in other parts of the country, echoed his sentiments, though some such as R. V. Hicks, president of the Board of Trade of Metropolitan Toronto, thought the tax cuts should have been implemented immediately instead of being delayed until 1973.

First Turner Budget Gives More to Aged

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government promised major tax savings to manufacturers and processors, higher pensions for the aged and veterans and a minor tax break for students in a budget presented to the Commons Monday night.

Finance Minister John Turner announced that federal corporation tax on profits from domestic manufacturing and processing will be slashed next Jan. 1 to a rate of 40 per cent from the scheduled 49 per cent.

Immediately, the cost of new machinery and equipment in those industries may be deducted from income for tax savings over just two years instead of about 10. This is part of a package "to revitalize the manufacturing and processing industries."

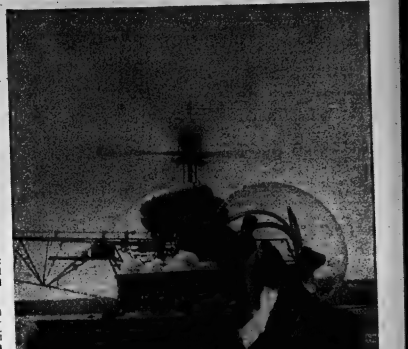
Canada's 1.8 million old-age pensioners are promised increases retroactive to last January. The monthly increases range from $2.88 for those currently getting the basic $80 a month to an extra $21.90 for couples receiving the maximum guaranteed income supplement.

Almost 200,000 disabled war veterans and dependents will receive increases of 3.6 per cent in pensions and allowances, retroactive to Jan. 1—an increase of $47.23 a year on the average annual payment of $1,312.

In future years, each April 1, all old-age and veterans pensions, supplements and allowances will be increased in line with advances in the consumer price index.

Currently, there is no automatic increase in basic old-age and veterans pensions. There is a maximum two-per-cent increase each year for pensioners receiving income supplement, pegged to living cost increases.

A special income-tax exemption for the aged, the blind and invalids is increased immediately to $1,000 a year from $650. That means a single individual would be able to earn $2,600 a year before having to pay tax instead of being taxable for all income over $2,250.



There is a parallel tax exemption for students and trainees in post-secondary schools—an extra $50 a month for time spent in school. That means tax-exempt income for a single student eight months in school would rise by $400.

Although there is nothing in the budget for the majority of the eight million individual taxpayers, it includes features that may well be calculated to please voters in advance of a general election expected soon.

Mr. Turner characterized the tax benefits for manufacturers and processors as a major step in the development of a new industrial policy" to help the manufacturing-industrial sector grow, generate jobs and compete on equal terms with competitors in other countries.

Another budget measure along the same line is designed to encourage development of processing of minerals inside Canada instead of shipping raw materials abroad for refinement.

Toronto Trash Cleanup Will Commence Shortly

TORONTO (CP) — Supervisory staff has started to survey Toronto's piles of putrefied garbage in preparation for a mammoth cleanup campaign that could start later today.

If the 4,000 civic outside workers ratify a proposed strike settlement today, Metropolitan Toronto spokesman say the garbage trucks can roll tonight.

The settlement, based on a document presented Monday to both union and management by Labor Minister Fernand Guindon, gives the strikers an eight-per-cent increase this year and leaves the figure for the second year up to an arbitrator.

The bitter, 25-day strike has left parks and other open areas throughout the city clogged with an estimated 150,000 tons of decomposing garbage.

The garbage, infested with flies and rats, was described as a health hazard by the labor minister and a medical health officer.

North Vietnam Faces New Hazard

Nixon Orders Mining of Ports

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon risked a direct naval clash with the Russians and the collégue of his planned Moscow summit with dramatic decision Monday to mine North Vietnamese ports and attack Soviet war supplies to Hanoi. He also ordered intensified bombing of the North.

Nixon announced his far-reaching moves, the most serious of the long and bloody Vietnam war, in a televised address Monday night, only two weeks before his scheduled trip to Moscow in confer with the Russian leaders.

Nixon embarked on the most hazardous gamble of his political career, appealing to the Russians to co-operate in the cause of peace and to understand why he was taking military measures to counter the use of force to prevent their tanks and armor reaching North Vietnam.

The Associated Press said Nixon delivered what amounted to an ultimatum for the Soviet Union to quit supplying arms and materiel of what he called "the international outlaws of North Vietnam" within three days or face destruction of Soviet ships.

The mines dropped by U.S. Navy planes were set to activate automatically in three days' time—on Thursday. They were planted Monday.

The Associated Press used the term "sea quarantine" to describe the latest escalation of the war.

The defence department said it was not a blockade in the true sense of the word since "it did not involve boarding and searching ships. A blockade usually is regarded as an act of war.

Reuter news agency said it was a blockade and raised the immediate question whether the Russians would serve to accept a possibly humiliating setback or use force to break the American blockade and clear the mines.

The AP said that besides risking collague of summit talks with Soviet leaders, Nixon's act quarantine of North Vietnam posed the potential for perhaps the greatest confrontation of world superpowers since the Cuban missile crisis a decade ago.

Mining, Bombing Already Begun

SAIGON (CP) — The biggest U.S. air and naval force ever assembled in Vietnam began mining the entrances of Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports today and heavily bombarded railways and highways in North Vietnam.

The command said the initial phases of the blockade announced by President Nixon Monday night "have been successfully accomplished" and the navy planes that dropped the delayed-action mines to seal off North Vietnamese harbors had all returned safely to their carriers.

But the commander of a cruiser-destroyer flotilla in the Tonkin Gulf, Rear-Admiral Rembrandt Robinson, was killed Monday night and his chief of staff and his operations officer were missing when their helicopter developed engine trouble and crashed as they were flying to land aboard the cruiser Providence.

The navy said it has marshalled a force of at least 60 ships—including five aircraft carriers with 530 to 400 planes, four cruisers and 20 destroyers —to mine all entrances to North Vietnam's ports, to cut off the delivery of war materials through the territorial waters of North Vietnam, and to sever rail and other communication lines ashore.

Rev. Rex Humbard Meets the Masses

There was standing room only at the Belleville Memorial Arena last night when Rev. Rex Humbard . . . the King of Gospel TV, and his troupe held a religious rally. Originally scheduled as a 90-minute program, the rally came closer to two hours. At the close of the evening of praise, Humbard called on the faithful to come forward and pray with him, after which he shook hands with any and all. For story, see Page 2.

'Flirtation with World War'

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. congressmen are pressing the Nixon administration for clarification of its decision to block-ade North Vietnamese ports, described by Democratic presidential contender George McGovern as "a flirtation with World War Three."

The South Dakota senator, who has taken a strong anti-war stand in his election campaign, said President Nixon's action in ordering the blockade is reckless, unnecessary and unworkable.

"It is, in short, a flirtation with World War Three," he said.

Strong support for the president's action came from the chairman of the Republican national committee, Senator Bob Dole of Kansas, who found it "a bold move, a necessary move."

"The only way left to end the Vietnam war is to deprive the enemy of the supplies he needs to continue the invasion," Dole argued.

Highway Link Subsidy Cut

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Spending restraints imposed by the Ontario Department of Transportation and Communications could seriously affect planned roadway construction in Belleville this year.

This was learned yesterday by city council through a letter from Municipal Operations Engineer A. A. Ward to City Engineer Wilbur Purcell, advising that the department will accept only the Pinnacle Street extension over the Moira river for connecting link subsidy.

Council had asked that Coleman Street and Moira Street also be retained as a Highway 14 connecting link.

(The department pays 75 per cent subsidy on connecting link highway construction through urban areas and only 50 per cent where there is no connecting link agreement).

Humbard Packs Arena

They came from miles around . . . the faithful, the hopeful and the curious. They jammed the Belleville Memorial Arena to the rafters.

And they listened.

Television's King of Gospel, the Rev. Rex Humbard was in town for a 90-minute rally last night, and standing room only was the order of the evening.

Humbard's revival meeting style left few dry eyes in the shoulder-to-shoulder crowd which stretched from as far away as Peterborough, Lindsay and New York to hear him and members of the Cathedral of Tomorrow.

The 52-year-old Arkansas-born evangelist occasioned an emotionalism which literally tingled through the masses. A tradition in such rallies, the close of the gospel call to prayer threatened to engulf the simple platform on which he stood.

Hundreds crowded to the end of the arena to join him in final prayer, for a chance to shake his hand and meet members of his troupe.

His is a simple message designed to reach the hearts and souls of millions of faithful television viewers, and the thousands who jam auditoriums across the continent. Constantly moving to meet and inspire, Humbard and his wife Maude Aimee, the Cathedral Singers, sister Leona and her husband, the Rev. Wayne Jones, sons Rex Jr. and Donald, and other members of his entourage, will be in Owen Sound tonight, Kitchener later in the week, and then on to Ottawa.

Each Sunday, from the massive Cathedral of Tomorrow at Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, a special televised broadcast brings his message to millions of viewers. His is a multi-million dollar enterprise which includes a television station, a college-resort complex on Mackinaw Island, an electronic firm, and an agency.

It's taken more than 19 years to build, and in the midst of all this, he has never lost the down-to-earth relationship with the people he is trying to reach.

Following the rally . . . Humbard stayed until the last hand was shaken. The crowd slowly dispersed, to cars and buses that lined city streets for blocks around.

Highway

Mr. Ward, in his letter to the city engineer, said the proposed Pinnacle Street extension across the Moira to link up with North Front Street at Harvey Street would be designated as the connecting link prior to construction.

This new route, he said would provide an adequate north-south connecting link when opened to traffic.

Accordingly, the designation of the parallel routes on Coleman Street, Holes Street and the southern section of North Front Street would be revoked at that time.

The city had hoped to have a start made this year on the Pinnacle Street extension and new river bridge, but the department engineer said final approval of the work would be contingent on the availability of funds.

The city had scheduled three major engineering link projects for this year. These were the Pinnacle Street extension, Dundas Street from Holden to the west city limits and Dundas Street from Front Street to Bleecker Ave.

The operations engineer in his letter said that with the present financial constraints only one of these projects can be considered this year. However, the city's priority with regard to scheduling would be accepted, and the Ministry will give favorable consideration to a design proposal in advance of contracting for funds to be deferred.

In a memo to city council, the city engineer noted that the Coleman - Moira Street Highway 14 connecting link was shown in all the city's traffic studies as an arterial street and said there is no question that this system will require considerable upgrading if traffic was to be kept from cosnesting the Pinnacle Street arterial.

At the city engineer's suggestion council passed a motion strongly objecting to elimination of the city's westside connecting link.

Fox Rabid

PICTON (Staff) — A fox pursued through the streets by town police recently and later found dead on the shoreline of Picton harbour was rabid according to Picton police chief Garnet Pitt.

The animal was first sighted in the Fawcettville area and subsequently was chased to Bridge Street where darkness forced police to give up their pursuit.

Last week it appeared for suspected of being rabid was chased by police and firemen in the vicinity of Pitt and Main Streets.

It eluded capture after attempting to enter a basement window in a Pitt Street home and startling at the owner when he tried to frighten it away.

A free rabies clinic will be held in Prince Edward in late May or early June.

Brush Fires Under Control

TWEED (Special) —Two brush fires with a total of five acres were reported burning today in the Tweed forest district.

One of the fires, said to have started from brush burning which got out of control, is on a three-acre tract in Carlow township about five miles north of Bancroft.

The other, of five acres extent, in Clarendon township is about 10 miles south of Plevna.

Both blazes were reported to be under control.

Homey Howdy

Subsidies for Families, Not Houses, Favored

A spokesman for the Canadian home building industry says government should subsidize families, not buildings, when the question of housing arises.

He was speaking to 50 members of the Quinte Home Builders Association Monday at the Four Seasons.

Stating there is still hope for the future, Mr. Wilson said one of the problems with applying interest subsidies for government mortgages is that the building has to be pre-termined as a subsidized housing unit.

This in turn causes segregation rather than the more desirable integration of these units and families within the community.

Subsidizing families, he said, would enable them to move into higher quality living areas, thus avoiding congregations of low income groups and attendant degredation.

He related the history of an idealistic - minded housing project called Pruitt Egoe which was initiated in down town St. Louis during the early 1950s to alleviate the city's poverty stricken core.

Quoting from a recent magazine article he described how 44 high-rise apartment buildings had been constructed to house families previously living in slum dwellings. Without surrounding models to inspire the new inhabitants, the project soon deteriorated to the point where today's fine buildings are being knocked down.

His association, he said, is constantly looking for homeowner assistance programs in its regular meetings with the ministry of consumer affairs and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Mr. Wilson has been busy travelling across the country visiting Hudac's 50 member home builder associations. The Calgary resident is vice-president of Engineered Homes, a building company with divisions throughout eastern Canada.

He predicted that with continuer and economic attitudes at their highest in years, the home building industry would continue to mushroom in 1972.

He said the industry provides the basic framework for the very foundation of our society, that is the family," and called Canadians the "finest housed people in the world."

The young people are billeted in the homes of Ottawa Rotarians.

Chamber of Commerce Under Fire from PACE

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce came under criticism Monday from board publication watchdog Clarence Young for its "pious and smug" attitude in connection with the Moira River.

Speaking to city council regarding pollution in the Bay of Quinte, Mr. Young said a source of concern to him was the "pious and smug" attitude of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce which extolled the beauty of a river and a bay with brochures of touched up pictures of clear blue sparkling water, while in reality the stinking green mat bay for years had been covered in slime and scum.

Mr. Young said another source of concern to local PACE members was the rumor that health authorities were thinking of allowing swimming in the bay this year.

"I assure you . . . this will be protested most vigorously," he said.

Commenting on what he called "great quantities of suds" last year at Riverside Park on the Moira, Mr. Young said the bay was considerably worse.

"I wouldn't let my Labrador dog swim there," he said.

Mr. Young called for an independent chemical analysis of baywater and silt which he estimated would cost in the area of $500.

Mr. Young's comments regarding pollution in the Moira River and Bay of Quinte were made immediately after a presentation by Chamber of Commerce president Frank Folwell who asked for a city grant of $6,000 to assist it in his operation of the local tourist bureau.

Mr. Folwell said tour ism was becoming a year-round industry and that the tourist bureau was one of the chamber's most important projects. Belleville brochures would be updated and two students hired to service a North Front Street location. The downtown chamber office would be maintained seven day and Sunday as a service to tourists.

The first request from the Chamber of Commerce was referred to the budget advisory committee.

City to Appeal 1971 Payment

The city of Belleville will seek a rebate of part of its 1971 requisition for the support of the Hastings County Board of Education.

Last year Belleville was granted a change in its assessment equalization factor which in effect reduced the city's percentage payments to the board of education and other areas where costs are shared with county municipalities.

The ruling was the new assessment factor would apply to 1972 and later payments.

However, City Treasurer Frank Morrell feels the assessment factor should have applied to 1971 payments. This he said, would have resulted in a decrease of about $78,000 in the amount of money paid to the board last year.

On the recommendation of Aldermen Bert Corke, council voted to appeal the 1971 board requisition to the city.

Mr. Morrell said the appeal would first be heard by the treasurers of the other member municipalities in the board and failing a satisfactory decision at their hands, would go to the Ontario Municipal Board.

If the appeal was granted, the reduced requisition for Belleville would have to be made up by other member municipalities and the province.

Repairs This Year

New Bay Bridge Ruled Out

The Ontario Department of Transportation and Communications still feels that the swing bridge across the Bay of Quinte between Belleville and Rossmore is adequate for present day traffic.

This is indicated in a letter from the department minister Gordon Carton to city council in reply to council's recent reaffirmation of a previous resolution asking for a high-level bridge over the bay.

Mr. Carton's letter agreed that highway traffic is delayed by the opening of the bridge.

It said a detailed survey was undertaken in July, 1971 to assess the existing and future traffic conditions . . . "but it is our considered opinion that such delays are not of sufficient duration, at the present time, to justify the very high costs involved in constructing a high - level structure; particularly in view of our attempts to curtail major capital expenditures."

But Mr. Carton didn't completely close the door to requests for a new bridge.

He said his department will continue to monitor both the highway and water traffic and will take appropriate action when the need arises.

But the department has indicated it expects the present bridge to be adequate at least for a few more years.

The department's construction program for the 1972-73 fiscal year calls for substructure repair on one of the bridges and deck replacement for both structures.

In recent years there has been a mounting campaign for a new high-level bridge across the bay to replace the existing swing structure, but the highways department has held to its stand that traffic doesn't warrant the expenditure.

But the campaign was resumed with greater emphasis a few months ago when, during a winter storm, a loaded school bus skidded off the causeway coming to a halt within feet of the water's edge.

Sidney Street Bridge Cost Near $1.25 Million

Replacement of that antiquated narrow two-lane bridge over the CN double tracks on Sidney Street with a new four-lane structure will cost close to $1.25 million, members of city council learned Monday.

This is the latest over-all cost estimate from City Engineer Wilbur Purcell following receipt of tender bids for the new four-lane structure and its north and south approaches.

Council Monday accepted the tender bid of H. J. McFarland Construction Ltd. of Picton for building the structure. The bid, the lowest of two received, was for $786,162.56.

Dagmar Construction Ltd. of Toronto was the other bidder, their tender being for $846,258.91.

The over-all $1,227,000 cost figure for the bridge project, is made up of the tender price for the structure and its approaches, service installations, engineering and administration, and the cost of property acquisition.

The cost estimate for the structure project to be built by McFarland was $705,381.

The city's cost for the over-all project, not including administration is estimated at $459,000.

Consulting engineers Damas and Smith said the low tender bid exceeded their estimate by 11 per cent, with the structural concrete item, watermains and related items being the main reason for the increased cost.

The engineers said higher prices for concrete work can be expected this year due to increased labor costs in the skilled trades.

Larsen Grills of Cobourg is McFarland's sub-contractor for the overpass structure.

Of the total $1,226,000 estimated cost of the railway overpass project, approximately $250,000 is accounted for by property acquisition, which ran considerably higher than original estimates.

The new Moira Street alignment of way west of Sidney Street will be to the south of the Sidney Inn grocery store with its present intersection with Sidney Street to be closed off.

Construction of the overhead bridge structure will be in two stages, with the first stage to be built immediately to the west of the present structure.

This will allow use of the present structure while the new bridge is under construction while the old bridge is being dismantled and the second stage of the new overpass is built.

Swamp Being Drained

East Bridge Street residents living near Parrott Drive are going to get a swamp area at the rear of their properties pumped out as an immediate safety measure.

But the owners of the undeveloped property will be expected to install a storm sewer system to permanently drain the area.

For several years area residents have complained to city council about the pond at the rear of their properties and its danger to children.

Two weeks ago at city council, Maurice H. Rollins, as part owner of the property, said he was prepared to go ahead with the storm sewer installation as soon as detailed plans could be prepared.

But yesterday area residents again appeared as a delegation at council demanding action.

City Manager James H. Reynolds told council he had been informed by Rollins Corporation that they would be prepared to call tenders for the sewer installation in a week or 10 days.

But delegation members demanded immediate action in getting the pond drained.

Council agreed that city works department pumps would be put to work and that negotiations be opened with the owner for payment of the pumping costs.

Bridge Noise Annoys

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell has been asked to investigate complaints of West Park Village area residents that the noise of traffic passing over the recently repaired Sidney Street bridge is keeping them awake at nights.

The complaints were made known at city council Monday by Alderman Paul Russell, who said one resident told him he was being kept awake until two in the morning by traffic passing over the railway overpass.

The Sidney Street bridge was redecked with wooden planks placed across the travelled surface and these rumble under the weight of passing traffic.

The city engineer said he hadn't received any complaint but would investigate the problem.

Industry is cutting down on air pollution. Electrically.

Electricity is helping to improve the quality of life in Ontario in more ways than many people realize.

Over and over again, in industry, in business, and in the home, we find that electricity is doing the job efficiently, dependably, and cleanly, too.

For example, there's only one way of melting and heat-treating metals that doesn't cause pollution at the plant. That's the electric way.

Electric induction furnaces provide the metal processing industries with the precisely controllable heat they need—with none of the smoke and dirt and fumes that nobody needs.

Industry is fighting pollution by finding new uses for electricity; and Hydro is helping, too, by developing cleaner ways of generating the power we need.

Hydro clears the air.

Work Load

We are all familiar with the incredible leniency that passes for penal reform these days — notably the short sentences or light fines that often are handed out in the courts of the land, for offences that should warrant greater punishment, and of course the ease with which a man can get parole.

Now we see that Solicitor-General Goyer has offered an explanation, or should it be termed an excuse, for the shortcomings of the Parole Board. He says its nine members are grossly overworked and it is unfair to ask them to work under such a heavy load.

There are up to 17,000 applications a year for parole according to Mr. Goyer and this breaks down to each member handling about 30 files a day. To be sure, this is a lot of work and it is understandable if board members fall behind, become tired and of course, commit errors of judgement. Even with double the number of parole members the work load would be heavy. This being so we wonder is there a place here for computers? They could process applications and provide short lists of men and women whose cases could then be studied by board members for possible parole. At the moment the task is almost impossible; certainly it is one that cannot be performed either with justice to the board members or to the people whose interests they are supposed to espouse, namely the prisoners in Canadian jails.

Newsman's Passing

The death of Lindley B. Calnan of Picton removes from the scene one of the Quinte region's best known personalities.

Mr. Calnan was one of Canada's oldest working journalists. Publisher of The Picton Gazette for more than 50 years, he recently stepped down from this post, following sale of the newspaper, but remained on the staff as managing editor.

A first war navy veteran, Mr. Calnan had been with The Gazette ever since. He travelled widely and shared his experiences with his readers. Few Canadians can claim such a long and active connection with a profession. When we consider that his career outranged even that of the legendary J. Edgar Hoover, in another sphere which had also close links with the media, it is all the more remarkable for that.

We understand that as a young subLieutenant, Mr. Calnan witnessed the surrender of the German Fleet in the first war; if he is no longer among us his life and service nonetheless will remain part of that tradition too; the naval and maritime legend of Prince Edward County whose citizens have many links with ships and the sea.

From on High

The Belleville skyline is changing and it is a curious experience to view it from high ground several miles away to the south and be in some difficulty recognizing certain buildings.

How many in fact have ever stopped on the road above Mountain View, in these days when foliage still does not obscure the distant scene entirely, and pondered the details of that far-off built-up area?

A tall building meets the gaze and just as we raise a pair of binoculars it dawns on us that the building is the new high-rise apartment building on Sidney and Leland. Then eastward a shade and there are the spires of St. Michael's and Tabernacle United and Bridge Street. City hall is visible too, with its flag flying above.

One could drive along this road for a lifetime and never stop to look. Even then it takes a little while to realize that there on the distance it is indeed Belleville.

The village of Mountain View itself is an appropriate setting if one is seeking some high ground amid landscape which offers all too few dramatic changes. The twin spires of Holy Trinity rise up from the heart of the community and the road winds upward to the route leading to Amelisburg. Indeed all roads seem to lead to Amelisburg as we found out once again by turning left from near Victoria village and ascending an escarpment from which yet another fine view of the surrounding countryside could be obtained.

Ross Thatcher Knew the Score

Foreign Investment: Little Change in the Status Quo

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It has taken the federal government almost many months, a great deal of money and a report of 321 pages to decide that it doesn't, after all, want to do very much about the influx of foreign investment into Canada.

While contemplating that obvious cliches such as "the mountain laboring and bringing forth a mouse," it occurred to me the government could have saved a lot of time, effort and money if it had paid greater attention to a former Liberal premier.

The late Ross Thatcher, who headed the government in Saskatchewan, argued eloquently for many years against any attempt to halt or reduce the flow of much-needed foreign capital into the development of Canadian resources and secondary industries. While that socialist, the Watfler, the various Buy-Back-Canada groups were making loud noises in Ontario, Premier Thatcher was heading to the United States and American businessmen that as far as he was concerned and Saskatchewan was concerned, they were welcome in Canada as good corporate citizens.

One of the problems of living in Ontario, and particularly in Toronto or Ottawa, is the tendency to assume that what's good for Toronto or Ottawa is automatically good for Ontario and what's good for Ontario is automatically good for the rest of the country.

Wallace Nesbitt, the Progressive Conservative member for Oxford in southwestern Ontario, would take that a step further. In recent weeks Mr. Nesbitt has been travelling across Canada helping to conduct a number of seminars for his party in preparation for the coming election. He tells me that everywhere he went, except in Ontario, he found the people were largely unconcerned about foreign investment coming into Canada.

They looked at provincial Ontario, where so much of the wealth, business and industry is concentrated, and then examined their own province's economy with a jaundiced eye.

"The extreme view I found is that many think the whole argument about foreign investment is simply a scheme by the Toronto financial interests to limit the amount of capital available so the Toronto financiers can charge what they like in interest. People in the West and in the Maritimes tend to equate foreign investment with Canadian development and

Fashion First at McNabb's

Mrs. Eva Doolittle, centre, displays new summer coat to Mrs. Susanne Schlein and Ben Corke at McNabb's Ladies Wear on Front Street. Mrs. Schlein announced Monday she had sold the 75 - year - old store to Mr. Corke. The shop's tradition of exclusive brand name selling will continue, said the new owner.

Mc Nabb Purchase by Corke Third Shop for Businessman

By BRIAN AMARON

One of the city's oldest and most respected women's wear stores has been sold.

J. A. McNabb's, for 75 years a landmark for fashionable women in eastern Ontario, was bought Monday by Ben Corke from Mrs. Susanne Schlein. No details of the transaction were revealed.

Mr. Corke now owns three women's clothing stores on Front Street.

In taking over his latest acquisition, the city alderman said:

"Nothing will be changed. McNabb's is a unique business. I plan to keep up the high calibre of merchandise and outstanding tradition of the store."

Mrs. Schlein, owner of McNabb's for the past 10 years, plans to retire and move to Toronto where her two sons reside.

Brand names exclusive in this area will continue to be the specialty shop's trademark. Mrs. Schlein revealed that this summer's stock has all been purchased, highlights including some fine Hong Kong cottons and several pure silk dresses.

The store which has outfitted three generations of women is specializing in drip dry goods for easy travelling this year.

Mr. Corke said there would be no conflict between McNabb's and his other stores, Georgia Anne and Marianne's.

"The three are entirely separate specialty shops," he said. "They cater to different groups."

Mr. Corke entered the women's wear business shortly after moving to Belleville in 1954 when he purchased the Georgia Salon next to Lattimer's on Front Street. The salon was destroyed in the West Robertson Block fire of 1965 but Georgia Anne was located nearby to replace it.

Marianne's opened in 1957.

Mr. Corke is only the store's fifth owner. Capt. James McNabb, an enterprising Scotsman, opened a chain of shops in the eastern portion of the province before the turn of the century, selling the Belleville concern to Edward Shapiro in the early 1920s. Mr. Shapiro still owns the 254 Front Street building.

Twenty-five years later, Mr. Nabb's was sold again this time to Ken Schulman who retained ownership for 15 years. Mrs. Schlein and her husband Sol, clothing merchants in Elliot Lake, decided to buy the store when it was put up for sale in 1962. Mr. Schlein died four years ago.

In retiring, Mrs. Schlein commented:

"My mother taught me that good clothes were here to stay. We always believed in the value of selling good merchandise at McNabb's."

Another mainstay of the store was Mrs. Eva Doolittle, who until a year ago, was McNabb's prime buyer and has since been its chief consultant.

Now, after 42 years, she is also stepping down despite Mr. Corke's regrets. No replacement has been named.

Helicopter Deliveries Mean More Fish

By HARRY MULHALL

Not any exotic new species for sportsmen.

In fact, they're brook trout. What makes them different is that they're being airlifted by helicopter — part of a stocking program by department of natural resources conservationists in lakes at the north end of the Quinte district.

The airlift augments a broader hand stocking program, much of which is worked from trucks. In all about 230 lakes are being stocked. Many remoter lakes right now are not accessible by road due to spring breakup conditions. Hence the need for the helicopter, from which about 80 lakes will be stocked.

Hand-feeding the lakes with fish from choppers replaces air drops from winged aircraft and is described by conservation officers as a "soft" technique, which has increased the survival rate of the stocked species.

The result: More fish in the lakes, greater returns for anglers.

The point was proved by research under controlled conditions in Algonquin Park, says Hans Van Rosen, fisheries management officer at the department's Tweed district forestry offices.

This is the third year that soft stocking has been used in the district.

But there appears a lingering research puzzle as to why exactly the soft stocking method results in a better yield.

The earlier aircraft drops were believed to show the best results in lakes around 150 feet, says Hans Van Rosen.

But the height of the drop is not as important as other effects it might have had. We don't know what the effects were. But we do know that a release by hand gives us better results.

"There's some factor we can't identify, but the factor is still there and we're trying to reduce this by the softer release method."

In winter, stocking by snowmobile was also tried but this resulted in "excessive mortality—due to unexplained causes," he adds.

Follow - up research on the springtime airdrops by helicopter showed "vastly superior" results to the aircraft drops — with yields up by at least 30 per cent, says the fisheries officer.

For helicopter release, the trout — from various department hatcheries — are hoisted in plastic bags filled with water and oxygen at takeoff points. In 100-lb. payloads, the bags are loaded in crates lashed to the craft's landing pontoons. The helicopter then hovers immediately above the lake surface while a conservation officer gently releases the trout from the opened bags.

The trout, around a year old, have to be released now since water temperatures at the hatcheries now are growing too warm.

The lakes stocked by helicopter, being more difficult to reach, provide fishing for the more intrepid outdoorsman.

The hand-stocking program has cost the Tweed forestry district extra general budget dollars since it is financed by programs, says the officer.

And by saving fish, already bred by public funds, "we find we are saving the taxpayer money," he adds.

Monday's start saw the district forestry camp at Cashel Lake used as a base for the first helicopter runs. Other bases will later be located in this area and further west at Dacre.

'Pen' Riot Scared Convict Into Bid to Go Straight

CALGARY (CP) — The riot at Kingston penitentiary in 1971 was a turning point for one prisoner who watched the carnage from outside his fourth-floor cell.

Identified only as George, the former prisoner accepted parole in Calgary rather than finish his sentence for possession of stolen property which only had a month to run.

"I could have had complete freedom, but I had to get out of prison and I felt I didn't want to go out to nothing and end up inside again."

He's now working in the construction industry and has a parole officer he likes and respects.

George believes that as long as he remembers the riot in the Ontario institution he will never go back to prison.

"It's nothing to do with trying to go straight, or wanting to make a go of it, or any of that. It's just that I can't go back. It's as simple as that."

George isn't some first offender scared by the sex or violence. He was a repeater, a child delinquent who grew up into a regular offender. As a thief and armed robber, he has served plenty of time.

Then came Kingston and April, 1971, when the rebellion started as 30 prisoners from H block shuffled into the dome, an open area in the centre of the prison, on their way back from the gym.

Several hundred prisoners, George among them, held six guards hostage for the next four days.

During that time two "undesirable" prisoners were killed and a dozen others were tortured and beaten.

What George saw, looking down into the dome from the balcony outside his cell, made him sick to his stomach, he said. Then it affected him so that he didn't care anymore.

He categorized the prisoners, like himself, who stood by and watched as "665 cowards."

He described the plasterers who carried out the torture and beatings as "a bunch of psychotaths."

After it was all over, he said, the group of "undesirables" lay bleeding and battered on the dome floor—"they looked as if they were all dead" and the floor was full of blood.

"We just sat there waiting for daylight, waiting for the army to come in and shoot. We didn't care anymore. We were all sick . . . even the liters were sick," was how George described the aftermath.

"We were in a trance. The leaders—those psychopaths—had us on a string. It was frightening. All the time I was thinking, what am I doing here? It was a nightmare."

George said he didn't understand the effect the violence had on a prison full of men. But it was that violence which steered him away from crime.

Population Curb Essential - - Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister Lester Pearson said Monday that more money is needed for population control despite the fact that world expenditures have jumped 100-fold in 12 years.

"No other phenomena casts a darker shadow over humanity than the rapid population growth," he said at a Western Hemisphere regional meeting of the International Planned Parenthood Federation.

Mr. Pearson, who headed a World Bank committee that won widespread praise for its report on the need for development assistance three years ago, particularly emphasized the negative impact of population growth on developing countries.

He said the world's industrial nations especially must increase their contributions to funds designed to promote population control.

He was supported by Julia Henderson of London, executive secretary of the federation, who told the meeting about $80 million is channelled through the federation's programs.

HAMILTON (CP) — The cultural and financial benefits of the Olympic Games are overstated and "the whole idea has got out of hand," Health Minister John Munro said Monday.

Mr. Munro told a group of high school students that for the Olympics in Mexico, "vast millions of dollars were spent" while "millions of people were living all around in terrible poverty."

Fine for Old Man with Crippled Wife and Job-training Kids

OTTAWA (CP) — A pensioner with a spouse in a wheelchair, children taking on-the-job training courses and a yen for importing goods from developing countries might well think that Finance Minister John Turner brought down a cracker-jack of a budget Monday night.

But for the average working man, with no unusual dependents, no unusual income and no unusual hereditaments, life today will be just about the same as yesterday. Income taxes remain unchanged. So do the rates on booze, cigarettes and television sets.

The long-term effects of the budgetary measures may be profound in igniting the economy, creating new jobs and changing thousands of lives and the immediate impact manages to miss the vast majority of working Canadians.

In this his first budget, Mr. Turner concentrated on the economy and business. When he did look at the lot of individual Canadians, he focused his attention squarely on the elderly and, to a lesser degree, students.

The biggest group, about 1,800,000, will be affected by the announcement of higher old-age pensions. Another 300,000 veterans and dependents will be affected by increases in their pensions and allowances.

About 600,000 will have their tax burdens eased somewhat by the bigger deductions for education, and another 180,000 or so will gain from the broadened base for medical deductions, and the elimination of sales tax from equipment for the physically handicapped.

Smaller groups will be affected by changes in income tax regarding such things as residency or emigration, the export of capital, the higher tariff on British knitted goods, and the lower tariffs on groups from developing lands.

There may be excitement on Bay and St. James streets over the corporate tax cuts, but the average take-home pay in Lunchbridge won't change and neither will the cost of housing in income or the price of food in Corner Brook.

Turner Budget Designed For Long-term Effects

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal tax-and-spending budget outlined Monday night, primarily in record years, is designed more to achieve long-range policy aims than to buy or bludgeon the economy into a short-term change of direction.

Those aims include a redistory more to that in a generation granted competing U.S. industry fate last year.

Apart from pension increases and selective tax benefits that should do this among federal farms in the coming federal election, the main features of the budget are the various tax savings promised for secondary industry—the processing and manufacture of raw materials.

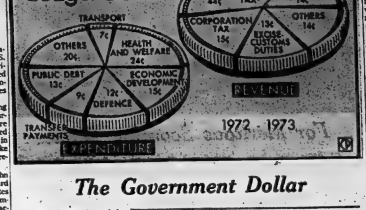
Those measures, now to take effect in the future and all to have a lasting impact, were inspired in part by domestic pressures, but mainly by concern about international trade developments.

Internationally, the government is worried about trends towards trade-restriction blocs in United States and Europe. The U.S. is Canada's main market. Europe its second.

A series of tax-benefit measures introduced by the U.S. since last August gave American manufacturers a decided edge over Canadian counterparts in competition for sales in the U.S. and elsewhere.

Further, with border-hopping relatively easy for manufacturers in North America, there were fears that foreign-owned factories might close down in Canada and move south to take advantage of the easier tax regime.

Finance Minister John Turner, while also using figures to calculate precisely, estimates that the benefits he has promised will put Canadian manufacturers on an equal tax footing with those in the U.S.



At the same time, secondary industries should be encouraged to expand operations and open up more jobs, he says.

The tax incentives promised are designed, he says, as a permanent feature to alter the structure of Canadian economic activity in favor of processing and manufacture, a temporary measure to pep up economic activity generally.

He acknowledges that there is no built-in guarantee that profitmaking companies will use the tax savings to expand production, cut costs and compete more vigorously in world trade. There is a danger that many may just pocket the savings as extra profit.

But he expressed faith in private industry to use the benefits as Canada's advantage. Cost grow, renovate, produce jobs and compete for export sales.

"Canadians expect that and I'll be watching," he said.

The Government Dollar

Graph shows where federal government will get each cent and where it will spend each during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1973. Other expenditures include four cents education assistance. Other revenues include 11 cents non-tax revenues. Fiscal transfer payments include 27 cents, nine cents of the budget dollar. (CP Newsmap)

Aged Get Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — One day not too far off—probably this year—the "golden 65" and "older" citizen will get a windfall cheque in the mail from the federal government.

At the minimum, if the cheques are ready about August, more if they are delayed past summer—will be accumulated money from pension increases made retroactive to January in the federal budget brought down Monday night.

Altogether, about 1.8 million Canadians receiving federal old-age security pensions and supplements, plus about 300,000 veterans and dependents getting disability pensions and allowances, stand to get varying shares of an estimated $300 million in additional payments in the full year—an average of $150 apiece.

Political cynics say the government will make sure that the back-payments will be made in time for the two million beneficiaries—also voters—in selected ridings in advance of expected this year.

Finance Minister John Turner, who announced the increases in his budget, said it especially quickly Parliament passes the necessary legislation to raise pensions. Few MPs are likely to balk at the legislation and risk being accused of delaying extra money for the aged and veterans.

The reason for the coming windfall cheques is the government decision to implement automatic annual increases in pension to match the advance of price inflation. At the outset of the new schemes this year, the neediest pensioners will get an extra starting bonus.

The government reversed an earlier policy whereby the basic old-age security of $80 a month received by about 1,800,000 Canadians—was to remain fixed. The 1,800,000 pensioners who also get guaranteed income supplements because they have little or no other income were to get built-in annual increases limited to two per cent.

That meant, for example, that a single pensioner receiving the guaranteed income supplement of $55 monthly on top of the basic $80-$135 in all—received a raise effective last year of $1.70 to $137.70 a month. A couple getting the maximum supplement would get an increase to $260.10 a month from $255.

Now, the government has decided that the annual April 1 adjustment will apply to all pensioners. The percentage increase will match the rate at which the consumer price index climbed in the previous calendar year, even when it is more than two per cent. Last year, that was 3.6 per cent.

To start the system off, this year's increase will be retroactive to January. Further, neoly pensioners who get the income supplement will receive a lump-sum increase in monthly payments greater than the 3.6 per-cent raise awarded to those on the basic $80 pension.

For example, a single pensioner qualifying for the maximum supplement gets a retroactive raise to $138 a month whereas the basic cost-of-living escalator of 3.6 per cent would have increased the payment only to $138.06.

Unemployment Seen Likely to Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner said in his budget speech Monday he expects unemployment to decline over the next 12 months.

Lower unemployment rates would come as the economy speeded up its recovery from the 1969-1970 recession.

He predicted that Canada's total output of goods and services will increase by six to 6½ per cent this year after allowing the effects of moderate inflation.

Last year's growth in gross national product was 3.4 per cent.

In making the forecast of declining unemployment rates, Mr. Turner appeared to be cautiously aside the cautious qualifications of a government economic review published last week.

The review, prepared by finance department officials, said there are good prospects for a drop in the unemployment rate, but unemployment trends would depend on hard-to-predict factors, like average output per worker and the proportion of people seeking jobs.

Mr. Turner's predecessor as finance minister, E. J. Benson, made a similar forecast, saying in his 1970 budget speech that unemployment would drop.

Turner Seems Wed To Universality

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner's budget announcement of increases in the universal old-age security payments appears to be a turnaround from proclaimed government policies.

But Health Minister John Munro, whose department administers the pensions, and long an advocate of directing the funds to the needy, said Monday night that he does not oppose the shift.

"Not at all," he replied, when asked whether he objected to the increase in the universal payments. He said the increases in the supplementary income payments—geared toward the needy—make it feasible to increase the universal payments without "distorting the objective" of putting money where it is needed.

A few years ago, when the basic universal plan was the biggest part of the whole pension package, his views would have been different, he told reporters.

Mr. Munro and Prime Minister Trudeau have always maintained that it is more efficient to direct money at those in need rather than distributing it to all regardless through universal programs.

Effective Dates

Retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972—Increases in the maximum combined old-age pension and guaranteed income supplement by $15 a month for single persons and $30 a month for married persons.

—Implementation of increases in basic monthly old-age pensions and benefits and on last year's increase in the consumer price index.

—Provision for a $30-a-month exemption against a student's income for purposes for each month in school.

—Allowance for tax deductions for medical expenses for nursing care at home and for those of commercial travel if more than 25 miles to obtain medical care.

—Increases to $1,650 from $650 in the special exemption for those over 65 and for the blind or disabled.

Developing Countries Get Help to Sell Here

OTTAWA (CP) — A system to encourage buying products of developing countries was the major innovation in miscellaneous tariff changes announced in Monday's federal budget.

The system of lower tariffs on goods from developing countries is the result of three years of international negotiations and in response to United Nations recommendations for assistance to developing nations.

Under the Canadian system, a "general preferential tariff" is to apply to most products from developing countries. In many cases, the tariff will be lower than the lowest existing tariff, the British preferential tariff. The other tariffs are the most-favored-nation tariff and the general tariff.

The lower tariffs would apply to about $ million of Canada's $15.5 billion of imports.

For a wide range of manufactured and semi-manufactured goods, duties will be abolished. At present many of these are free only if they come from countries entitled to the British preferential tariff.

Most other manufactured and semi-manufactured goods from developing nations would face duties equal to the British preferential tariff or two-thirds of the most-favored-nation tariff.

People Taking Training Will Get Tax Break

Those qualifying will be able to claim an income tax deduction of $30 a month for every month of full-time attendance at certain schools and institutions. And tuition fees will continue to be a deductible item.

The finance minister said he is introducing the changes because "more and more adolescents and women are resuming their studies to advance their education or for training or to engage in retraining for new occupations in order to meet the requirements of our rapidly changing industrial society."

This was particularly true of married women.

A training program qualifying students for the deduction must take at least three consecutive weeks, and the student must work at least 10 hours a week at work related to the program. Those whose training courses or allowances are paid for by employers will not be eligible.

If a student cannot make full use of the deduction, it can be used by parents, husband or wife.

The qualifying institutions include post-secondary schools and educational institutions certified by the manpower and immigration department in connection with the existing provisions for tuition fees.

Opposition Not Impressed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government budget struck Conservative and New Democrat spokesmen the same way Monday. It might take the Liberals into an election campaign, but it would not do much for the economy, they said.

They welcomed the benefits to pensioners, which they had recommended months ago. But they suggested that tax cuts for corporations will not create employment and could lead to a new round of wage demands.

To Social Credit Leader Real Caouette, the budget was "the most wonderful proof there is that Social Credit is right."

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield called it a disappointing budget without sufficient stimulation to deal with unemployment.

New Democrat Leader David Lewis labelled it a "big business budget" that would give bigger profits to corporations without aiding workers, farmers or small business men.

Both Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Lewis expressed disappointment that personal tax cuts were not included in Mr. Turner's 90 m'nute speech to the Commons.

Mr. Stanfield and NDP finance critic Max Saltsman predicted that when organized labor sees corporate profits rising, they will press for higher wages.

They said that could have been forestalled by providing personal income-tax reductions.

Mr. Lewis put corn's "sheer stupidity" Mr. Turner's hope that reduced corporate taxes will induce companies to provide more jobs.

Corporation Income Tax Cuts Bypass Scheduled Reductions

OTTAWA (CP) — The sharp cut in corporation income tax rates announced Monday by Finance Minister Turner in his budget speech bypasses a series of tax reductions scheduled in personal tax legislation passed last year.

The move reflected government concern about the competitive position of Canadian businesses in world markets.

Mr. Turner, at a news conference following his budget speech, said business has been reluctant recently to commit funds to new investments.

Moves by other countries, including the United States, to provide support for export industries have made it difficult for Canadian companies to compete.

The tax changes announced by Mr. Turner include a reduction next year in 40 per cent from 49 per cent in the top rate on profits from manufacturing or processing in Canada. This sector represents between 40 and 45 per cent of total corporation income, finance department officials estimate.

The tax legislation passed last year set the top tax rate at 50 per cent this year and the maximum rate for all corporations was to be reduced annually by one percentage point.

This schedule still will apply to income from sources other than manufacturing or processing. Mr. Turner told the news conference a firm engaged in other activities—such as retailing—will need separate accounting for tax purposes.

The government plans to publish regulations to enable corporations to distinguish manufacturing and processing income from earnings from other sources.

Mr. Turner also announced Monday a tax reduction to 20 per cent from 25 next effective next year, in the rate on manufacturing and processing income eligible for the small business incentive. This sector covers about five per cent of total corporation income.

The rate on income under the small business incentive generally applies to the first $50,000 of annual business income.

Mrs. Ruth Burrows, the founder and present executive director of the Central Volunteer Bureau in Belleville was the guest speaker at the May meeting of the Argyll Chapter IODE.

In opening, Mrs. Burrows stated that the local bureau is the first of 38 such bureaus to be established across Canada and is fairly supported by the United Appeal. There are 600 registered volunteers from all walks of life who give generously of their time without remuneration.

The speaker explained how many of the services grew out of the needs of the community. Included amongst these are: social group for women on welfare: furniture exchange; nursery for pre-school children of welfare mothers held in five school areas and Loyalist College; English lessons for immigrant groups; nursery school for handicapped children; Christmas sharing program with toys and treats provided by City Firemen; meals on wheels and many visitations are made to the sick and elderly and assistance given in Cancer Society, Red Cross, hospital auxiliary and nursing homes.

Mrs. Burrows works as an unpaid volunteer and is in her office at the United Community Service building, John Street, most afternoons.

Mrs. Ruth Reilly expressed thanks to the speaker.

At the meeting held in the Armories, the Regent Mrs. B. Milroy conducted proceedings. She also introduced Al Bender, a grade 13 student at Moira Secondary School who enlightened the members on the summer project at this high school. This will provide many activities for young people during the summer months and will include sports, home economics, arts and crafts. Students will be in charge of this program for which they will receive a small salary.

The Chapter decided to financially support both of these worthy projects.

Mrs. B. Milroy and Mrs. D. Weskett represented the Chapter as delegates to the annual provincial meeting held in Hamilton April 19-20. It was decided hospital property bags will be filled by members who will bring assorted articles to each meeting.

Mrs. H. Lidell's group served lunch.

Mrs. R. C. Ellis reported that the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra along with guest artists The Concert Brass had presented a fine program, well performed, to an appreciative audience. She also said that an application forms for the A. E. McColl and Grade XIII bursaries had been distributed to the guidance officers in the eligible schools with an explanation of the requirements.

Mrs. C. Whittemore showed an illuminated scroll entitled Why I am proud to be a Canadian, and recommended consideration of procuring a supply for presentation to new Canadians after citizenship courts in place of the maple leaves used presently.

The sunshine draw was won by Mrs. R. C. Ellis.

Next meeting will take the form of a potluck supper on June 6. Following a summer break, regular meetings will recommence in the fall.

An interesting and informative report on the proceedings at the Provincial Chapter annual meeting was given jointly by the delegates, Mrs. C. Lenk and Mrs. Ross Bailey.

New Pill Approved

TORONTO (CP) — A new birth-control pill without estrogen, the hormone blamed for many of the side effects of oral contraceptives, has been approved by the Food and Drug Directorate for sale in Canada.

The pill, marketed by Ortho-Pharmaceutical (Canada) Ltd. under the trade name Microgynon, is believed by the company to be the first of its kind to get official approval here.

Birth-control pills have been available in Canada for 12 years but until now the two kinds of pills available, combination and sequential, have contained estrogen and progesterone and are taken daily for 21 days. The Microgynon tablet is taken every day without interruption.

Rod Mackenzie, president of the drug firm, said the only other North American country to have the estrogen-free pill is Mexico. The pill is in use in Ireland, South Africa and Brazil.

Surprise Party on 25th Anniversary

A surprise party was held recently at Engineers Hall, Pine St., Belleville when friends and relatives gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rice, 18 Bettes St. on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice, the former Keitha Faul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Faul, Frankford, were married at the bride's home April 26, 1947. Their attendants: Miss Sheila Power, Belleville and Harry Faul, also of Belleville were present at this 25th milestone and added to the festivities with amusing anecdotes of the wedding day.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice (Gord and Keitha) have resided in Belleville since their marriage and have a daughter Joan and son Larry who assisted their parents in opening their many beautiful gifts. The guests were thanked most graciously for their part in the unexpected pleasure of meeting and renewing old friendships, including co-workers at Union Carbide where Mr. Rice was employed as foreman for 22 years, before starting his own business, Rice Processing in 1970.

The happy couple extended their sincere thanks to their families and friends who con-

Female Watchman At Plant

DETROIT (AP) — Some of the women employees at General Motors Buick plant thought the company had carried equality and integration too far recently when they spotted a guard's uniform on the ladies' room.

The incident underlined the new role being played by women in what industry has been male jobs at GM plants.

A Buick spokesman said that the plant's watchwoman does virtually the same work as male watchmen, working the same hours, including the night shift. She also is adept at the art of self-defence.

Women at GM also have moved into the previously all-male fields of engineering and industrial administration in greater numbers this year than ever before.

Although established 50 years ago, General Motors Institute had graduated only one woman up to last year, when two women were in the graduation class.

This year, 37 young women are enrolled as regular students at the institute. Another is enrolled in a special preparatory program designed to upgrade a student's skills in math and science so she may enter the regular curriculum. Their numbers are expected to increase.

GM does not yet have dormitory space for the women, but next year it plans to mark off some dormitory space for co-eds.

To become a student, each woman must meet certain academic standards and be sponsored by a GM division. The student spends six weeks at school and then six weeks in a plant of the sponsoring division.

GM spokesmen generally acknowledge the company hasn't hired many, if any, women for jobs in the past because there weren't many with degrees in engineering and business administration.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CORWELL

Do couples need separate vacations?

YES, but only if the couples believe they need vacations away from each other. After all, each man and wife must assess their own life together and, if they decide they must have some time apart, then they should get it. Another couple may need to get away, too, but away from their daily routine—not away from each other. They know they need each other to enjoy their leisure as well as to survive modern tension.

Can a phony have charisma?

NOT a deliberately dishonest phony. People have a way of sensing or detecting duplicity before charisma has a chance to work its magic. Yet there are many instances of an individual having charisma without having the background or ability to deliver the promise inherent in his personal magnetism. In spite of this, his charisma, rather than dimming, will grow stronger because people enjoy being in his presence.

Should Pop see a bad report card?

CERTAINLY; good or bad, a report card should be shown to both parents. Actually, a father's reaction to a bad report card should determine his child's attitude. If the old boy rants and raves sternly because he looks upon the bad marks as a reflection on him, the student may never improve. If the father is sorry because he knows his child isn't trying as hard as he might, the student may make up his mind to do better next time.

Missionary From Africa Addresses ACW Group

ROSLIN — On Wednesday evening St. Paul's Anglican Church A.C.W., Roslin entertained guests, from Madoc, Tweed, Thomasburg, Plainfield, Moneymore and Roslin, at a meeting held in the church hall.

Mrs. Marjorie Gray presided. Mrs. Thelma Goodfellow introduced the guest speaker Mrs. Doris Green, a missionary who is home on furlough from Africa.

Mrs. Green, (the former Doris Badgley) was born in Tweed where she spent her childhood. She is staying with her mother in Napanee at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Green are with the East Central Africa Interdenominational Mission in Tanzania where they are training the Nationals to carry on the work in the event of the missionaries ever being asked to leave the country, as they were in China.

At the present time the natives are very friendly. She spoke of the many contrasts in climate, people and customs. Kijabe is one of the largest mission fields in the world.

At the present time the T.V. Stations are willing to give all the time on the air they can fill, and money is needed to meet the opportunity of spreading the gospel.

Mrs. Green illustrated her talk with many colored slides, and showed a display of African handicrafts.

The thanks of the gathering were extended to Mrs. Green by Mrs. Annie Bates.

After this, all enjoyed a buffet lunch.

A bake sale was convened by Mrs. Gillespie, Mrs. Meeks and Mrs. Thibault.

No Two Childhoods Are Alike

Childhood is a gift the gods give children. It is as precious as the rubies they give the earth and the sun they give the spheres. It is each child's absolutely; as rare as a unicorn or a phoenix.

One childhood is every child. No two childhoods are alike. Childhood is the form that upholds each child's life forever.

If a man or a society tastes a child's childhood, betrayal it, strikes it down, and corrupts it with fear and dreams, then he ruins that child forever, and the judgment on that man and that society will be terrible and eternal.—Ned O'Gorman, in "Our Children". Tweed C.A.A.

Dear Doris: My mother is ill, has been a widow for five years and lives alone next door to us in the country. She does knit, sew, read and watch T.V. but is lonely and needs more of a purpose, more to look forward to doing.

Could you suggest something for her to do at home? Her health is good. Maybe she needs to get out and see people but daily transportation would be somewhat of a problem.

She doesn't belong to any group and I think would be shy about joining something. — Without a Clue.

Dear Without: At 67, and healthy, rattling around in solitary glory, even with the help of knitting needles and television, becomes mighty dim going. She may well have a good portion of her life left to live; and something important to give.

Is there a Women's Institute in your area? Or a Canadian Red Cross branch? You have not mentioned church, but perhaps even this kind of service. In a women's association should be explored.

Once she took the plunge, there would be members ready to pick her up to attend meetings—or I'm a monkey's aunt. She could get a ride to go with her the first time or two, until she made a friend. Or she might form a Red Cross group to meet—for her own home.

One grandmother I know takes over one day a week for her daughter, preparing supper and baking something special. And not only Granny looks forward to that meal!

Dear Doris: A visitor asked my husband: "Do you have a will in case you had an accident and got killed?" My husband said, "No."

Well, he said. "You should have because anyone could come and take your home and everything in it and your family would be put right out." Is this true?

Our home is in both of our names. What if we both got killed? We are still paying monthly on the mortgage. Could they claim the house for the balance we owe them if anything should happen to either of us? Or both? — Parents of Five Girls — All Married.

Dear Parents: It is not quite a question of "they" coming and taking your house, but your debts — like the mortgage — would have to be settled before anything else.

Probably to do this your house and other assets would have to be turned into cash. The whole thing would involve lawyers, inheritance tax, public trustee and so on.

With a will it is different. Your affairs are in order, you know what you want things to go, you make a clear statement about assets, liabilities; and the executor can work with your own chosen lawyer in sorting things out.

Where there is no will there is usually chaos, and often some pretty hard feelings in the family.

(Is it a point of etiquette that is troubling you? Doris can tell you how it's done in Canada.)

Nude Ad

SURBITON, England (AP) — A perfume company's advertisement is creating a stink. It shows a naked man standing behind a nude model. Jackie Coote with the slogan: "When you mean it, wear it, Gala Affair." Ann Landers

Being Good Wife Means Many Things

Dear Ann Landers: I had read the letter from the girl who is 34 and having trouble with her marriage. It seems she can't control her mouth. I used to have that problem, until one day I sat myself down and did some tall thinking.

Brian decided to go back to school when he got out of the service. Holding down a full-time job and going to school demands a lot of energy. When I looked around and saw the problems our friends were having with their marriages I thanked God for this man. My only complaint was that he wasn't able to pay as much attention to me as I wanted.

Many nights I wished we could go to a movie or just talk, but I knew Brian had to study. I'd get busy with a small project so as not to pester him. Being a good wife means more than cooking and cleaning the laundry. It means being a friend. And sometimes friendship demands that you leave people alone.

My typing isn't great and I see I've made some mistakes but if I take the time to write this over I'll find too many things wrong and tear it up. So please accept it the way it is. Thanks, Ann.—Jane

Dear Jane: The typesetters will take care of the mistakes. It's the sense of a letter that counts and yours has it. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: We have two teen-agers who have never given us any trouble. Until now. Perhaps it isn't fair to say they are giving us trouble but they have caused us some sleepless nights. Actually they haven't done anything, but they talk so much about drugs that we are at a loss to know how they can be so knowledgeable unless they have tried it out.

The girl is 15, the boy is nearly 17. They are good students, responsible and responsible, although the girl is a bit moody and the boy is a little sloppy. They have some odd-looking friends but we know where they are at all times. At least we think we do.

Here are some of the statements our children have made and we would like to know if they are true:

Marijuana is harmless. No one has proved otherwise. The world would be a better place if all alcohol was dumped into the ocean and pot was used instead.

It's a lie that LSD users have deformed babies. No, one has ever proved this statement. A certain percentage of babies are destined to be born defective, regardless.

Pills can be a great help to people who need a temporary spurt of energy. They are very helpful in case of emergency. Only the kicks get hooked. If a person knows how to use pills he won't get into trouble.

The media has exaggerated the drug problem. Man has always leaned on something artificial to help him through periods of stress and strain, hunger and fatigue, and even boredom.

Can you tell us, Ann, which of these statements are true and which are false: Today the kids seem to know more than the adults. We'd like to see this letter in the column. Thank you. —Chapel Hill Igoramuses

Farm Credit Moves Praised

OTTAWA (CP) — Critics in the Commons Monday brewed approvingly to government farm credit legislation but raised over-all Liberal farm policy.

Douglas Rowland (NDP—Selkirk) said legislation that would ease restrictions on farmer access to credit is good but is "doomed to be ineffective" unless farm conditions improve.

After commending some aspects of the farm credit bill, J. Angus MacLean (PC—Malpeque) slashed government farm policy which he said is driving small farmers off the land.

The farm credit bill, which was being debated on second reading, would increase the maximum on individual loans to farmers to $100,000 from $40,000.

It also would change the eligibility ages from 21 to the provincial age of majority, which ranges from 18 to 21 across Canada.

In addition, the Farm Credit Corp. would be allowed to make loans to farmers setting up non-agricultural enterprises on their farms.

Mr. Rowland said that before the measure can be effective, the government must first "introduce an element of stability into farm cash income."

He said the farmer is squeezed by rising costs which are outpacing revenue.

Farm Credit Corp. figures revealed that the proportion of borrowers in arrears had risen from 6.4 per cent in 1960 to 9.9 per cent in 1960 and 15.1 per cent in 1970.

"It is well known to all of us with any association with rural communities that a great many farmers are paying back the Farm Credit Corp. loans by borrowing money from their families, relatives and friends and their debt position is increasing," he said.

Mr. MacLean said there seems to be a "gnashing of bigness among government farm policy-makers."

He said:

"When one reads government farm policy he sees that it frequently compares favorably with a treatise on how the New York Rangers should be coached, written by a self-appointed expert of ice hockey who has never been out of Timbuktu in his life."

Irate Singer Walks Out of Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview) angrily walked out of a legislature committee hearing Monday night after being ruled out of order by Margaret Scrivener (PC—Toronto St. David), committee chairman.

The incident occurred shortly after the start of the night sittings of the committee studying the department estimates of Environment Minister James Auld.

Mr. Singer was ruled out of order when he asked the minister about provincial-civic co-operation in disposal of wastes in Metropolitan Toronto.

Earlier, Mrs. Schrivener had ruled Mr. Singer out of order when he raised a hypothetical question about possible mercury pollution in Lake Ontario.

"Madam chairman, you've been ruling me out of order for two weeks, and I'm going to persist," replied Mr. Singer, Liberal deputy leader.

When Mr. Haggerty resumed his questioning, Mr. Singer interrupted.

"Madam chairman, you're absolutely impossible and ridiculous and I'm not going to sit here and listen to that bull from you," Mr. Singer said.

"I'm sorry, but you are out of order," Mrs. Schrivener replied, as the Liberal veteran left his chair.

"Very, we're going to miss you." Mr. Auld said to the retreating Mr. Singer.

Shouting Ends Meet

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A shouting match between government and opposition members caused Speaker Pete Fox Monday night to take the unusual course of shutting down the Manitoba legislature 25 minutes early.

The shouting began over accusations by government back-bencher William Uruski (NDP—St. George's) that some members of the Progressive Conservative opposition were "in the pockets of the insurance companies."

The statement, made during debate on a private member's resolution by Earl McKellar (PC—Souris-Killarney) critical of the provincial government's public automobile insurance plan, drew immediate demands for retraction from the Conservatives.

Bad Boy to Close

TORONTO (Staff) — After more than 30 years of operation in Belleville, the Bad Boy Furniture and Appliances outlet, east of the CPR tracks on Highway 2, is closing its doors.

Mel Lastman, president of the company said in Toronto that decision to close out operations in Belleville was arrived at 'about two months ago.' He does not anticipate opposition at this time.

We operate basically on large volume. We can't generate sufficient volume in the Belleville area. A lot of people just felt they wouldn't get the service there."

Mr. Lastman admitted the Belleville store has been losing business. Although he doesn't place much importance on the widening of Highway 2, his manager, Harold Paige believes the loss of half their parking lot has a direct bearing on head office's decision to close.

The company president expects either to sell or lease the building, and guarantees service to all customers who have purchased goods.

CN Rail Crossing Back to Committee

The city traffic committee and technical staff members will take still another look at plans for the proposed grade tracks on a new Cannifton Road alignment.

Two weeks ago city council heard a presentation from consulting engineers Totten, Sims Hubicki Associates who recommended an overpass on an alignment across the Cub Cavern park as the solution to the present Cannifton Road level crossing problem.

The overpass solution was one of four which had been investigated by the consulting engineers for the provision of a north-south arterial route in the Cannifton Road area.

But last week the city traffic committee recommended an underpass proposal for last west of Hamblly Street, which would cost an additional $300,000.

Since last week, however, chairman of mtnd and last night city traffic committee chairman Alderman Arthur Keegan presented still another recommendation calling for acceptance of the consulting engineer's original proposal.

The only change from the original overpass proposal that Albion Street be rerouted to the west porth of the CN siding tracks to intersect with Station Street 400 feet east of the present Emily Street intersection.

Alderman Ross David said he had contacted business people in the area who favored the latest idea.

But council members wanted cost estimates for the provision of the Albion Street outlet to Station Street and also first-hand comment from the consultants as the feasibility of the plans. The matter was referred back to the traffic committee.

Even North Folks Lack Beaches

TORONTO (CP) — Living in Northern Ontario doesn't necessarily give a person ready access to beaches, MPP Bud Germa said Monday.

"Even though you live up there, you put up with all the problems of living in the north, you still can't get to a beach on a Sunday afternoon," Mr. Germa (NDP—Sudbury) told the legislature.

He said the "private owner" has encircled the lakes, forcing the masses of the public to smaller areas.

Speaking during the tabling of estimates of the department of natural resources, Mr. Germa urged the government to maintain crown land so it wouldn't have to be bought back by the government later.

Teacher Sharon Groot, blind since birth, takes a class at Calvin Christian school in Edmonton. Miss Groot, 23, who teaches language arts and French, says blindness is no handicap. "I get the students to snap their fingers or say their names if they want to answer a question." (CP Photo)

Ontario 'Conned'--Shulman

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has been "conned" into supporting a silver mine, refinery and mine near Cobalt, Dr. Morton Shulman charged in the legislature Monday.

The New Democratic Party member for Toronto High Park made his charges during consideration of estimates of the ministries of Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources.

Dr. Shulman identified the company as Silver Shield Mine Inc., a subsidiary of International Marlner Mines, of which Norton Cooper of Toronto is president.

Mr. Cooper rose to prominence in financial circles as president of Seaway Multi Corp. Ltd. He resigned as president in 1970 after losing a proxy battle.

Dr. Shulman said that "posed" pictures of Alan Eagleson, president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party, and Donald P. Dougiass, deputy minister of natural resources, with Mr. Cooper are being used by a Madison Avenue advertising company to promote the venture throughout the United States.

Dr. Shulman also stated the government loaned Silver Shield $97,500, part of which the company used for lavish promotions including the rental of a train to take prospective investors to the mine.

Northern Ontario mine sets

The NDP member said the Silver Shield project calls for searching for silver in a mine that ran out of ore two years ago, building a refinery, when there was a refinery in this area that closed down due to a lack of ore, and construction of a mint to manufacture silver medallions, artifacts and custom items.

Dr. Shulman said there is currently no market for medallions and collectors items of that nature.

Auto Bounty Considered

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is considering a bounty system for getting rid of abandoned automobiles on its highways, Environment Minister James Auld said Monday.

Mr. Auld told the legislature committee reviewing his department's estimates that a bounty of $5 to $10, paid to citizens who report abandoned automobile hulks, was one of several proposals being considered.

Davis Does Not Know Why Hearings Secret

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said Monday he did not know why a committee studying the operations of Ontario Hydro decided not to hold public hearings.

He told the legislature that the decision was made by the committee. The committee was established under the sponsorship of the Committee on Governmental Productivity. Mr. Davis said.

"There is nothing inconsistent with the way they (the hydro study committee) are doing it from the way the COGP report was produced," Mr. Davis said.

He said the question of funding and individual consultant's fees would be determined at the time the report is finished probably some time this summer.

THE NEW GOODYEAR POLYSTEEL* TIRE

This tire is running over dozens of vicious hardened steel drill bits. A match of steel against steel. And the tire keeps on going without loss of air.

We build it tough with two belts of steel cord to resist impact and penetration in the tread area.

And so you don't feel you're riding on steel, we add a flexible polyester cord body for smoothness.

Chances are, you'll never run over drill bits with your tires. But if you're running on Goodyear Custom Power Cushion Polysteel tires, think of some of the nasty things you could run over—and come away as though it never happened.

The new Custom Power Cushion Polysteel tire.

Ask for it by name. It's only from Goodyear.

Highrise Parking Said Hazard

County director of education, Eric Runacres, will intervene personally today in try to alleviate hazardous traffic conditions in the Leland Dr.-Sidney St. area.

Told at last night's board meeting that the situation has the potential for a fatal accident involving children at S.r Mackenzie Bowell School, the director said he would take action early Tuesday morning to correct the problem.

The police and city council share our concern for the safety of our children," Mr. Runacres told the board.

Trustees Raymond Rowe and James Clarke drew the situation to the notice of the boa.d. They complained of lack of enforcement of city parking bylaws in the neighborhood of the new highrise apartment building on Sidney St.

There have been many complaints, but no action," said Mr. Clarke.

Superintendent Glenn Watson said he saw a child almost killed in the traffic-congested area, and reported the incident to police.

The police told me they couldn't do a thing until council passes a bylaw abolishing parking on Leland Dr.," said Mr. Watson.

The matter was raised in city council two weeks ago, by Ald. Robin Jeffrey. She was told that signs prohibiting parking near the intersection were in place, and the regulations should be enforced more strictly.

The Sidney St. apartment building contains more than 130 units and traffic is generated by both tenants and workmen still on the site.

Business Ethics Defended

Belleville businessman Jack Ireland yesterday gave the lie to the young radical challenge, that all businessmen care about is making money and do not care how they go about it.

He told fellow Rotarians that delegates to a recent conference of appliance dealers in the United States were asked "what do you want to accomplish going to work in the morning?" Mr. Ireland said he went to work to sell furniture and appliances and not one of the 250 or so answers given had to do with making money.

To a series of other questions offered as a sampling of what high school students might ask a businessman speaking on business ethics, Mr. Ireland said if employers were mistreated they would not stay very long. Moreover a man who "pulled shady deals" would not stay in business very long either.

To a suggestion that he and his fellow businessmen were polluting the environment, Mr. Ireland said he was not in manufacturing but his firm's trucks were equipped with exhaust control devices.

Another question was "you only want government intervence when it meets your purpose," and Mr. Ireland replied by saying "I don't know anyone in a retail store who wants a government guy around". To the allegation that businessmen made sure their products did not last, he said this was a manufacturer's problem but "we still ask that our equipment last from 15 to 20 years."

Similarly, with advertising, "we lean over backward to make advertising as honest as possible."

United Community Services director Isidore Cooper in a n initiated the discussion by circulating the questionnaire to members and Mr. Ireland was supported by Exon David who said any businessman and Rotarian who did not follow the Four-Way test of personal and business ethics of Rotary would be guaranteeing he would not last in business.

Retired businessman a n d former Industrial Commission chairman J. C. Houston said "these are the sort of questions they throw at you in union negotiations".

"They are hard-hearted and very militant. These are loaded questions and they throw them at you to take the most advantage."

Hotel manager Michael Broadhurst said when he came to Canada from Britain the biggest shock was bonding, with the implication behind it of "I trust you . . . but may be not . . . or just in case."

Business was becoming more anonymous and he felt there was an element of truth in the question. He cited a 17-year-old youth who had just been married and came to him seeking a loan, principally to help buy a car. Advertising, he suggested, had created in the mind of the young man that a car was essential.

Carolyn Latchford, a grade 11 student at Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, discusses her winning painting of an interior at Corby Distilleries Ltd. with artist Harold Norrington, judge of the competition sponsored by Corby's and the Quinte Arts Council. Eighteen secondary school students took part in the art contest financed by the distillery.

Centre Hastings Artist Is Winner

A 17-year-old Centre Hastings student was judged the winner Sunday of the painting competition sponsored by Quinte Arts Council and Corby Distilleries Ltd.

Carolyn Latchford, a grade 11 student, carried off top honors for her painting of an interior at the Corbyville plant.

The distillery was host to 18 selected students from Hastings county high schools in April. The students later developed their sketches into oil or acrylic paintings or pen and ink drawings and submitted them for judging by Harold Norrington, a young Toronto artist. Mr. Norrington picked the winners Sunday and met the students at Centennial Secondary School.

Cecil Becker of Corby's on hand for the occasion, announced that the paintings will be displayed at the Four Seasons Hotel next weekend, when the local company will play host to a convention with 110 delegates from allied industries.

The young artists' work will go on display at the Corbyville plant during its tour season, from May to September.

Other winners were Tony Svoboda from Centennial, Ivy Smith from Moira, Ken Jessup from Quinte and Brian Stacey from Trenton.

"All the work is very good," said Mr. Norrington. "They have something that gets across to you."

Quinte Arts Council, in promoting the union of artists and industry, hopes it will be a continuing program that will encourage young artists and foster a greater awareness of local firms.

Royals Win Respect

OTTAWA (CP) — Cornwall Royals won a lot of admirers but lost the opening game of the Memorial Cup tournament Monday night. A surprisingly fast and rugged Cornwall club bowed 4-3 to Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association in a game most hockey men figured the Petes would win with little trouble.

Only superlative work by Peterborough goalie Mike Veisor and some poor shooting by the Royals prevented the Quebec junior champions from posting an upset in the first game of the three-game round-robin series leading to a sudden-death game Sunday for the Canadian championship.

The tournament resumes Wednesday when the Petes meet Edmonton Oil Kings, western Canadian champions.

One reason for Cornwall's inaccurate marksmanship could be that game officials swooped into the Royals dressing room prior to the game and ruled that 38 per cent of their shots were too long.

"I'm not crying," said Royals coach Orval Tessier.

"But guys were playing with other players' sticks . . . and that makes a big difference."

The Quebec champions still had plenty of chances to improve on their two-goal output. That they didn't could be attributed to their inability to cash in on clean chances, especially in the third period when they buzzed around the Peterborough net.

Veisor's catching hand ended many of their threats. The Petes outshot the Royals 41-35 during the game but the more dangerous brands were Cornwall's.

In the winning dressing room coach Roger Nelson lamented that his club hadn't played as well as it could.

"We had seen Cornwall play and we knew what to expect," said Nelson. "But we could have played a better game."

A crowd of 7,882, most of them pro-Cornwall, cheered the underdogs as they bumped and skated with the Petes almost to the final bell.

It was only when Royals' defenceman Ron Smith lost the puck in front of his own net 19:57 of the last period, allowing Ron Lalonde to flick it into the Cornwall net for the fourth Peterborough goal, that Royals gave up the ghost.

Both clubs came out bumping in a penalty-filled first period.

Referee Joe Cassidy handed out 14 minor penalties, eight to the Petes, in the first 20 minutes. That, along with a misconduct to Cornwall's John Wensink, convinced the two clubs to stick to hockey and the result was a first-class opener to the Memorial Cup.

Hap Emms Stays in Junior A With Purchase of St. Catharines

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Leighton (Hap) Emms said Monday he has purchased St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series from Fred Muller.

Purchase price was not disclosed.

Last week Emms completed the sale of his Niagara Falls Flyers OHA Junior A franchise to Sudbury. He indicated at that time that he intended to remain in the league.

Emms and Muller said in a joint statement that the increasing difficulty of operating two Junior A teams in such close proximity—the two cities are eight miles apart—was one of the major reasons behind the sale.

"It's simply a case of the Niagara district being saturated with hockey," Emms said. "Many St. Catharines and Niagara Falls fans now attend National Hockey League games in Buffalo. There's a two-tier team in Welland as well as the Niagara District Junior A league."

"Decrease in attendance has been evident in St. Catharines and the Falls and we felt that one Junior A team was more practical."

The team will continue under its present name.

Frank Mathers, who coached the Hawks to the Ontario championship in 1970-71, has been asked to continue as a third term but financial arrangements have not been completed.

The club's directors will include W. A. (Ziff) Potter of Niagara Falls, Harold Hill of Barrie and Walt McCollum of St. Catharines.

Potter was a member of the Niagara Falls executive. Hill has been associated with Emms since he operated the Barrie club between 1946 and 1956. McCollum has been vice-president of the Hawks for two years.

Guelph Player Dies

KITCHENER (CP) — Paul Fendley of Guelph CMCs died in hospital Monday, three days after he suffered a fractured skull in the last game of the Centennial Cup hockey final.

The 19-year-old centre's helmet flew off as he was checked with nine minutes left in the game. He fell heavily, striking his head on the ice, and did not regain consciousness.

The CMCs defeated Red Deer Rustlers 3-0 to capture the cup, emblematic of Tier 2 Junior supremacy, in four straight games. Fendley was his club's leading scorer.

He will be buried in Georgetown, Ont., his home town.

Bruins Break Pattern, Use Johnston in Goal

BOSTON (CP) — Boston Bruins coach Tom Johnson plans to break a habit in the hope of clinching a Stanley Cup victory tonight.

Johnson announced Monday he will interrupt his schedule of alternating goalies Gerry Cheevers and Ed Johnston by putting Johnston in for his second straight game tonight in the fifth encounter with New York Rangers.

The Bruins lead the best-of-seven National Hockey League championship round 3-1 and the Boston coach hopes Johnston's hot hand will put an end to the Rangers in tonight's game starting at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

"I don't know that I've ever seen him play better," Johnson said of the 36-year-old Johnston who stretched his playoff winning streak to six games in Sunday's 3-2 triumph over the Rangers.

Johnston has allowed just three goals in two starts against the Rangers, 19 goals in six post-season games and pushed his unbeaten string to eight games including his last two assignments for Boston during the regular season.

"Maybe I've been him play better in individual games but not in a streak like this," the Bruins coach said.

"It started back with that 2-0 shutout of Toronto," Johnson said, referring to the goalie's victory over the Maple Leafs in the quarter-finals.

The Boston coach also had good news regarding defenceman Bobby Orr whose old left knee injury was aggravated in Sunday's game when he stopped a shot.

There had been reports that Orr would have x-rays on the knee when he got back to Boston but Johnson said Monday the super-star defenceman showed up for practice "feeling great" and no x-rays were required.

"Backs to the wall," "supreme effort," "no mistakes," and "play a perfect game," were some of the phrases Francis used in describing the job his team had cut out for them tonight.

Francis made several references to the Bruins' strength and depth.

"You only have to look at their record over the last two years to realize just how strong they are. You don't fluke your way to the record they have."

But even though the Bruins were impressive in a hard-hitting attack in their Sunday victory, Johnson said he would like to see them improve more tonight.

"I expect Tuesday's game to be the same kind of game," Johnson said.

"Maybe a little better. I'd like to see them hit more and score more."

Johnson said the thing that pleased him most about Sunday's game was that "when we got the lead we didn't lay back."

That was in contrast to the first game of the series when the Bruins took a 5-1 lead and then watched New York come back to tie it before Boston scored a 6-5 victory.

Francis, who has been scrambling to replace injured players throughout the series, envies the Boston bench strength.

"A good example was (Don) Marcotte," Francis said of the Boston utility forward who came off the bench Sunday to score what proved to be the winning goal when Bruins were short-handed.

Marcotte came off the bench to fill in for penalty-killer Ed Westfall, who was nursing a sore back.

"It was a helluva play," Francis said of Marcotte's winning goal which came in much the same fashion as one by Garnet Bailey which won the first game. Bailey, too, had come off the bench, skated in on Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin and flipped the puck high into the net as the netminder flopped to the ice.

Marcotte and Bailey will likely continue in spot roles tonight after Westfall said Monday he expected to be back.

Voyageurs All Square

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia Voyageurs paddled a two-goal second period lead with four unanswered markers in the third period before some 4,000 fans here Monday night to whip Baltimore Clippers 6-4 in the fourth game of their American Hockey League final series.

The win tied the best-of-seven series for the Calder Cup at two games apiece and kept the home-ice win syndrome intact. Baltimore won the first two games at home, but dropped the third game 6-1 here Saturday. The teams continues in Baltimore Thursday night.

The First Connection

Relays Burn Up Trenton Track

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

TRENTON — Trenton High School's new 880,000 track was set on fire last night, but the only damage was to the Bay of Quinte record book.

"Yes, you'd have to say that the track had something to do with it," laughed convenor Gord Smith. The rubberized asphalt service helped some of the 128 relay teams entered cop as much as four seconds off existing records.

Trenton continued to add to its fantastic track record over the years, winning six events and setting five new relay marks in the process. BCI captured four races, while the remainder were divided among the six other schools entered in the meet.

The midget boys section proved to be exceptionally strong for Trenton as they took three titles. Their 4 x 100 entry came through with a 49.4 clocking for a new record and the distance medley team clocking 4:14.6 to establish a new mark.

Other midget boys marks were set by Bayside in the spring treated BCI in the 4 x 200. Trenton captured the 4 x 400 event in non-record time.

The black - and - gold boys team continued their dominance in the open sprints with a 44.9 effort in the 4 x 100 and a 1:37.5 in the 4 x 200, both new records. Napanee came through with a pair of wins breaking the spring medley mark and adding a win in the distance medley. Crestonial took the open 4 x 400 event.

BCI's girls team proved to be the class of the field, capturing three of six events.

The Collegiate midgets set records in the 4 x 200 and the sprint medley. Moira destroyed the 4 x 100 mark with a 53.1 effort that chopped four seconds off the existing record.

In the open events Picton, BCI and Trenton girls all set new records in winning, respectively, the 4 x 100, 4 x 200 and sprint medley.

That mixed schedule of events will get under way at 9.30 a.m. and run through until 8.30 p.m. The Belleville sectional meet is set for Saturday at the new CSD track.

Farrell Changes One Name

The Quinte boys' harrier record didn't have to be completely re-written Monday, just the first name.

Gerrard Farrell kept his family name on record for the two-and-a-half mile road race by breaking the mark set in 1970 by his older brother Jim. The fourth-year student managed an 11:56.6 effort to better his brother's mark by 10.4 seconds.

In the girls' harrier, Regyna Armonas also disposed of a two - year - old record by beating Claudette Rupert's 1970 mark. She covered the one - and - a - half mile distance in 9:19 to shade the old record of 9:25.4.

The record - setting performances by Farrell and Armonas were tops in a field of 872 students who turned out for the competition.

The boys' champion won his second consecutive title by clipping 18.4 seconds off his winning 1971 performance. Ron Bell finished second in the event with a time of 12:34.

Third place in the event went to Roger Ray, while third - year student Ian Hayman was next. In fifth place was Barry Ray with freshman John Sheppard taking sixth and second - year runner Joe Carrell placing seventh.

Two teachers were among the 459 runners in the boys' section, with Mike Hall managing to place 31st.

Miss Armonas, a third-year student, was followed to the tape by sophomore Cindy Sloss. Heather Melbourne followed this pair to give the best showing by a fourth-year girl. In fourth spot was Heather Elliott, while Faye Oliver came fifth. Top performance by a first - year girl was Mary Lou Farrell's sixth place showing.

Northey Has Early Knack

Quinte Mall novices were in the scoring swing of things early as they opened the regular Belleville Minor Lacrosse schedule with a 7-1 shellacking of Bob's Sports.

Hugh Northey paced the Mall with a three-goal performance while Barry Deane and Danny Houtslow connected for two apiece. The lone Bob's goal went to Joe Guthrie.

Expo Hits Come Easy, Runs Another Matter

MONTREAL (AP) — Montreal Expos had no trouble getting hits off Claude Osteen Monday night. Runs, however, were another matter.

The veteran left-hander earned his third victory in four decisions by keeping the Expos in check though just barely—for 8 1/3 innings then giving way to Pete Mikkelsen in the ninth as Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Montreal 2-1.

Los Angles won the game with four runs in the fourth inning, including a two-run homer by Steve Garvey, his second of the season. The Expos got a run in each of the first two innings, but nothing after that.

"I threw fast balls about 90 per cent of the time out there," Osteen conceded. "I couldn't move the ball around like I wanted to.

"Every time I got into a bit of a spot—and that means most of the game—I mixed in a few sliders with my fast balls."

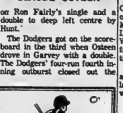
on Ron Fairly's single and a double to deep left center by Hunt.

The Dodgers got on the scoreboard in the third when Osteen drove in Garvey with a double. The Dodgers' four-run fourth inspired outburst closed out the scoring and made a loser out of Montreal starter Ernie Mc-Anally, 4-1.



The Expos had a golden opportunity in the sixth when they loaded the bases with one out on a single by John Bocchella and Maury Wills. But Osteen got Jorgensen to hit to a double play to end that threat.

In the ninth, after Hunt lined out to open the inning, Jorgensen and Ron Woods poked back-to-back singles to knock out Osteen. But Mikkelson came in to strike out Bob Bailey and Ken Singleton for his first save of the season.

The Yankees ended a five-game Minnesota winning streak by Bert Blyleven, 4-1, dating back to Aug. 22. Mel Stottlemyre, 3-3 got the win for the Yankees, with relief help from Sparky Lyle.

Johnny Callison, acquired from Chicago Cubs in the off-season, hit his first homer as a Yankee in the sixth inning.

Pirates Get ID Cards

PITTSBURGH (AP) — General manager Joe Brown of Pittsburgh Pirates said Monday he is issuing identification cards to players to avoid incidents like one last Friday in which a stadium guard barred pitcher Dock Ellis from entering Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

The guard refused to admit Ellis and teammates Willie Stargell and Ramie Stennett through the players' gate unless they showed identification. Ellis became involved in an argument with the guard, who pulled a gun on the 27-year-old pitcher and sprayed him with chemical Mace.

Devlin Wine Explosive

HOUSTON (AP) — "No one will ever know what a difficult shot it was. I can't tell you how tough it was—I dont have the words."

Australia Bruce Devlin was describing explosion from a sand trap on the 18th hole that he called the key to his victory in the rain-shortened final round of the Houston open golf tournament Monday.

He blasted out to within a foot of the cup, sank the putt, saved par two more times coming home and won the 72th hole for a par-clashing 72 last total of 278. That was 10 under par on the wet and soggy Westwood Country Club course and he won by two strokes, collecting prize money of $30,000.

Will Hoznecki of Winnipeg closed with a 71 and collected $15,000 for his 200 total.

Record Toss

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Olympic and track and field officials said Monday a javelin mark set by Andre Claude of Rigaud, Que., at a weekend meet at Quantico, Va., is a Canadian record. Claude, 23, had a toss of 264 feet, three inches, as he became the first Canadian to surpass the qualifying standard for the 1972 Summer Games at Munich. The standard is 262 feet. The previous Canadian mark was set by Stu Hunnings of Lethbridge, Alta., at Vancouver, May 7, 1966. His mark than was 257 feet eight inches.

Series Moves

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — After a week of wrangling, it has been decided to hold the fourth game, and a fifth if necessary, in the best-of-seven Allan Cup hockey final at Kimberley, B.C.

Spokane Jets lead Barrie Flyers 2-0 in games, both played at Spokane Coliseum. The third contest is scheduled tonight at the Coliseum. However, the Coliseum is booked thereafter until May 15.

Universities Need Five-year Plan: Slater

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's universities should be given a chance to govern themselves before the government does it for them, York University Provost David Slater said Monday.

He told a meeting of the commission on post-secondary education in Ontario the 11 universities should form a confederation.

This group should be responsible for intermediate- and long-range planning by creating three- to five-year plans in consultation with the provincial government.

The province lacks long-term planning and each year is "wasting incredible amounts" of the universities' time by making them plan budgets for a changing situation.

For example, he said universities planned for next year last December and the province changed the rules March 28 with a budget that raised fees and reduced grants to students.

The post-secondary commission suggested last January that a government-appointed co-ordinating board should make major policy decisions for the universities.

Dr. Slater said universities should be given "two or three years" to delegate powers to a confederation with student and public representation. This group would make such decisions as which university would have which limited program and what student quotas would exist in the system.

He said if the universities failed then the government should have the right to appoint such a co-ordinating board.

Two-tier Asked

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is being urged to establish a two-level regional government throughout southwestern Ontario.

The request comes from the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. in a submission to the Haldimand-Norfolk study, set up to study land use in the two counties.

An earlier report by the group indicated that a plant to be built by Stelco near Nanticoke, beginning about 1975, together with an Ontario Hydro generating station and other industrial growth, will increase population in the area to about 223,000 by the year 2001 from its present 80,000.

Literary Elite

TORONTO (CP) — The declining ability to read and write could re-create a literary elite according to Joseph Gold, chairman of the University of Waterloo English department.

Speaking to a provincial commission on higher education, Prof. Gold said the new system of optional school subjects is downgrading English and producing students without the ability to communicate clearly.

As a result, he said, an increasing number of people say, "you know what we mean" putting the obligation on the listener to comprehend.

Cells Searched

KINGSTON (CP) — A general all-down strike and work stoppage at Collins Bay penitentiary Monday was apparently sparked by guards searching prisoners cells.

Warden John Meers said the prison schedule would return to normal today. He said the disturbance followed a search of cells last Friday.

Mr. Meers said such checks are carried out periodically to find federal prisoners and items such as illegal drugs, homemade liquor and stolen prison clothing are often seized.

Admits to Fire

KITCHENER (CP) — JOSEP Frank Sikloši, 42, was convicted of arson Monday, despite a request by the Crown that he be found not guilty by reason of insanity.

Sikloši had admitted earlier to setting a $7,000 fire in the legal aid office at the county courthouse in 1970. He was remanded to May 23 by Judge David Charlton.

Drop-out School

TORONTO (CP) — A school for drop-outs and prospective drop-outs was suggested to the Toronto Board of Education Monday.

The Board's alternative schools committee approved in principle the idea presented by a group of 15 high school teachers and three students. They say a "drop-out school" would teach by means of problem-solving and try-to-prepare students to re-enter ordinary schools. The teachers gave it the name Contact.

Work or Else

WINNIPEG (CP) — Social Development Minister Rene Toupin said Monday his department is tightening up welfare regulations that will cut from the welfare roles any able-bodied recipient who refuses to accept work.

Talks Start

OTTAWA (CP) — Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores went to lunch at Prime Minister Trudeau's house Monday, beginning three days of meetings between members of his cabinet and the Trudeau government. The prime minister's office declined to say whether the lunch is formal and private and did not disclose the topics of discussion.

Camp Won't Run

OROMOCTO, N.B. (CP) — Dalton Camp, former national Progressive Conservative president, said Monday he is not going to be a candidate in the next federal election. He said he heard rumors that he was considering seeking the Tory nomination in York-Sunbury, "but I have made a decision I will not run at all."

Admiral Dies

SAIGON (AP) — A helicopter crashed in the Tonkin Gulf Monday night from apparent engine failure, killing the first U.S. Navy admiral to die in the Indochina war. Two high-ranking members of the admiral's staff were listed as missing.

The dead man was identified by the U.S. Command as Rear Adm. Rembrandt C. Robinson, 47, who commanded about 25 cruisers and destroyers bombarding North Vietnamese positions along the coast.

Too Extreme

QUEBEC (CP) — A lawyer-diplomat told the fisheries industry Monday that its "extreme" claim to Canadian ownership of all fish spawning in Canadian freshwaters or on the Canadian continental shelf is an unrealistic position to take in negotiations with other fishing nations.

Mr. Beesley, who has acted as Canadian negotiator in talks with other countries, said the problem is how to persuade other fishing nations "to allow us to own all the fish" spawned in Canadian waters.

But he said that a more modest objective of preventing the depletion or destruction of commercial fishing stocks seems to be in process of being realized.

Yukoners Claim Future at Stake

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Organizers of a petition calling for dissolution of the Yukon Territorial Council said Monday that more than 60 per cent of the eligible voters in the territory have signed the document.

Harvey Kent, spokesman for the Democracy for Yukoners Committee, said in an interview the petition, which calls for new elections, now has 4,628 signatures. He said he hopes to present it to Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener in Ottawa May 17.

Committee members are angered with a lack of government action on two earlier petitions seeking: against introduction of compulsory government medical care premiums in the territory, and the second calling for a plebiscite on the issue.

Mr. Kent, a United Steelworkers Union representative here, said the number of signatures is a very real indication of the growing unrest of the people of the Yukon. All concerned citizens are aware that the very future of the Yukon is at stake, depending on what action the Governor-General takes at this time."

Out of Stock

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker told Monday that Information Canada states it is "permanently out of stock" on pictures of the Queen.

Hammering a familiar personal theme, Mr. Diefenbaker suggested in the Commons that this is further evidence that the government is down-grading the monarchy.

Gas Truck Rolls

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — Firemen took nearly 10 hours Monday to control explosions and fires caused when a tank truck delivering gasoline rolled down a hill and overturned in this Laurentian community.

Everybody keeps telling this kind of car owner what kind of tire he needs.

We think it's time somebody started telling this kind of car owner what he needs.

The birth of the souped-up Muscle Car made it necessary for tire manufacturers, including Uniroyal, to develop special kinds of tires for them.

Reality.

These car owners usually know they need them because of the style of driving they're likely to do. Plus the fact that a lot of money has been spent telling them they do.

Well, there are a lot of car owners who don't need them. They'd be simply wasting their money on this kind of tire. They need something else because of the kind of car they own and the kind of driving they're likely to do.

Among them is the Uniroyal Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester. (Obviously a name only an engineer could love.)

It was created for the family sedan owner who doesn't do a lot of tearing around but instead is more likely to do this kind of driving.

A lot of in-town, stop and go travelling. A day in the country. The office and back. The cottage on weekends. Picking the kids up at school.

If this sounds like you, then the Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester (there's that name again) is ideally suited to your driving needs.

The 4 polyester plies (or layers) make for a carcass that's every bit as strong as the one in a belted muscle car tire. They also make for a cool-running tire with little heat build-up. And the less of that in a tire, the better. Because with intelligent driving, the tire will last longer. (In fact, in most cases every bit as long as a high-priced "performance" tire.)

Also, unlike a lot of tire materials, polyester virtually resists "flat-spotting". (What happens when you've been driving for a while and the tire's a little warm, and you happen to park. A lot of tires form flat spots where the standing weight of the car forces down on them. When you start up again later, the tire's a little out of shape and it starts bumping as it turns, and making noise.)

So along with strength and durability our Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester also gives you a smooth and noise-free ride.

Four full plies.

Then there's our exclusive tread design. It gives our tire skid-resistance and pull-away traction equal to that of a belted muscle car tire.

And gives you some peace of mind knowing that those qualities are there if you ever need them.

All of which brings us back again to "only buy what you really do need."

If it sounds like the Uniroyal Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester just might be it (in spite of its name), you'll need just one more thing.

About $26.

Because at Uniroyal Centres right across Canada, they actually start that low.

UNIROYAL

The Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester.

Bells Ring for The Bells

MONTREAL (CP) — The Bells have come a long way from the zany bleating style of a background noise group that played the posh supper-club circuit.

And still a longer way from the days when Jacki Ralph and Cliff Edwards used to sing at ski chalets in the Laurentians north of Montreal.

Until a couple of years ago they had teamed up with three other singers and were known as the Five Bells, a group of youngsters barely out of high school. Then they disbanded.

"Five years of nothing but clubs, clubs," says Jacki, blonde female lead in the new six-voice group.

"It was just the same old thing—soft nightclub music—day in and day out. We just got sick of it. The group went as far as it could playing that kind of stuff."

As the Five Bells, the group performed in nightclubs and resorts in New York, Miami, the Bahamas, Bermuda and Puerto Rico. However, its one album, Dimensions, with Pelydor Records in 1969, never caught on—although one of the songs, Monday Manitoba Morning by Winnipeg's Rick Neufeld, held plenty of promise.

Today the new Bells—two members have been replaced by three new voices—are considered among Canada's top singing groups and have gold record awards and demands for engagements from all over the world to prove it.

When the group broke up Cliff Edwards went into the production and managing angle of the business with two groups, Tapestry and Rhyme and Reason.

He learned a lot, got a new slant on what he wanted to do and then started the group going again.

Besides Jacki and Cliff, the group includes Denny Will, Doug Gravelle, Mike Ways and Charlie Clarke.

"We're still pretty much middle-of-the-road as far as our music is concerned," says Charlie, who plays lead guitar.

"But there is a big difference musically. The Five Bells used to be cabaret singers but now we're more rock oriented. And ft shows. We can appeal to a 13-year-old, and sitting right next to her is a 45-year-old, and they're both really liking it."

"We're doing the colleges like we always wanted to," Doug adds, "but not the big ones.

"They go for the really big names on the rock and roll scene. The more conservative colleges go for us."

The pace is much faster than it was a few years ago. Sometimes they only have a 45-year-old, and they're both really liking it."

Musical Mary Opens

TORONTO (CP) — Mary, Queen of Scots, stands pennant among the tragic figures of history and, on first reflection, seems an unlikely heroine for a musical.

However, as brought to life in the Charlottetown Festival Company musical production of Mary, the ill-fated 16th-century queen loses none of her tragic stature.

Mary, first performed by the company at the annual summer festival in Charlottetown last year, began a two-week engagement at the O'Keefe Centre Monday night before a near-capacity audience that gave hearty applause for every scene, although only a lukewarm ovation at the evening's end.

There was the inevitable comparison with the movie, Mary, Queen of Scots, that makes more—in the point of altering history—of the conflict between two female rivals for the throne of England, Mary and Elizabeth.

Christopher Gore, a 39-year-old American who wrote the book and lyrics for Mary, says he took the approach "that life is her story, not Elizabeth's."

"We in love story between Lord Bothwell and Mary as the central unifying theme. The conflicting personalities of Mary and Elizabeth."

In this, he has kept closer to the recorded events of history, following Mary's life from the time she left her childhood home in France to return to Scotland as queen, through the intrigues and love affairs that precipitated her eventual fate, death by execution on the orders of Elizabeth.

Marilyn Lightstone, who created the role, endowed the character of Mary with both the gaiety and jole de vivre that exemplified the power and charm history attributes to the queen, who was able to retain her Catholic faith in an environment of fervent Protestantism.

Bothwell was played with gruff roguery by Don McManus.

Director Alan Land's choreography of Scottish dances and stylized battle scenes was strongly applauded, although commercial were heard among the audience that the show's music, by Canadian composer arranger Howard Cable, lacked any memorable melodies.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, May 10

Aries (March 21-April 19): It may seem that all those near you have some inconsiderate or unreasonable request. See that your own response is of a higher quality.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Disrupted routines are normal, but coworkers tend to cancel much of the list of things to be done. Secret transactions beckon promptly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Select solitary activities wherever you can, expecting little effective collaboration. Your patience with loved ones is tested, makes all the difference.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Let major questions ride another day. Settle minor problems without haggling. The unexpected lasts briefly but is exciting while it's fresh.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Think before moving to counter an interruption: there is more to the incident than first impression indicates. Daily routines show some results.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you must make financial moves, do them without fanfare, simply and directly. Home is no place for arguments.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can react positively to criticism instead of being provoked into angry words. Those who love you will be difficult for a while for no apparent reason.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep your sense of humor as you go about the day's work on the right track. Try to improve your appearance. Learn something useful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Pastimes are tempting but costly if you neglect your proper responsibilities. You can expect a long, complete, complex day.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Hold steady for the long pull rather than temporary expedients. Domestic arrangements may not be comfortable, but shouldn't hinder your public image.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your notebook may be your most useful tool. You'll need a record later of whose idea came first, who took responsibility for the choices made today.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): A flaw appears in your scheme of things. Disagreement crops up, has to be worked out before joint action can be taken and on going arrangements settled.

Thyroid Not Tied To Menopause

By G. C. THORESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thoreson: Would you explain if having had a thyroidectomy makes any difference for a woman of 50 in going through menopause?

My thyroid was removed 15 years ago and I've heard such awful stories about thyroidectomy patients ending up in institutions during menopause. I can't seem to find the answer to my question in any article or book I've read.—Mrs. S. G. C.

Neither thyroidectomy nor menopause puts people in institutions but quite possibly the people who propagate such scare stories may have had some effect on the emotional equilibrium of the people who listen to them.

Removal of the thyroid gland (part of it, that is, since part of it is usually left in) has no bearing on menopause and that's why you haven't been able to find any articles about it.

It may be, depending on how much of the thyroid gland was removed, that you may need thyroid medication (or maybe you are already taking it). Other than that, menopause will produce just whatever rate is normal for you and it certainly won't put you in an institution.

Dear Dr. Thoreson: For the past 30 years I have been using coloring in my hair. Now for the past month I've had a very patchy effect. I am 70.

I don't want to stop coloring my hair and my husband was upset when I told him I might have to, but it grew out.

Neither of us likes the idea of a wig. Do you think the coloring might be responsible for the itching.—D. B. B.

It's possible.

There is a tendency at your age for the hair and scalp to become drier. This can cause itching. You might consult a dermatologist about a moisturizing agent for your scalp.

But other factors could be involved. The itching could very well be a result of some of the other drugs you mentioned using. One of these, Lasix, often in some cases, produces a skin reaction.

Perhaps your physician might want to adjust your dosage or medication number to see if this has any effect.

Dear Dr. Thoreson: What can a person do when she's afraid to be alone? It doesn't matter if it's day or night but after dark is worse for me. It seems like I am constantly hold ing my breath.

I'm too old to have such a hangup. I've talked to others about it but they just tell me how silly I am. My husband gets irritated and tells me to grow up.

I've sat for hours telling myself I have nothing to be afraid of but I can't convince myself. Is there anything I can do?—T.Y.

These hangups may be "silly" but they are real. Something of which you yourself are not aware has caused this unreasoning anxiety.

It is quite possible that a psychiatrist, in only a few visits, could find a clue to unravel this problem. He might or might not use some medication to help along. Whether you'll take my advice, I don't know, but that's it.

Opening lead — two of hearts.

There are all kinds of maxims that players get into the habit of leaning upon, but the fact is that most of these bromides are untrustworthy generalizations that should be shrugged in favor of common sense.

Take this adage of "third-hand high." It is true that in most hands, when a defender leads a low card, his partner who knows the third player on the trick, is usually best advised, to play his highest card. However, he sometimes should not — and there are many, many reasons why this is so.

Some of these cases are not well known and may lead to disaster for the defense.

Here is one such case. West leads a heart against six diamonds and let's assume that East, true to the "third-hand high" principle, puts up the king, forcing the ace. Declarer takes a trump finesse, losing to the king, and East must now find precisely the right return to stop the slam.

If he returns a heart in the hope of finding West with the queen, he may well have to endure home sort of discard from partner reflecting on the general level of his intelligence. South would discard the K-Q of spades on dummy's clubs and thus make the slam.

The error is not so much East's heart return as trick three, which is excusable, as his play at trick one. East should play his jack on the opening heart lead, not the king.

True, this would violate the rule of "third-hand high," but it would be right play and the same. By playing the jack, East would learn that South had the A-Q.

East could later put this knowledge to work by returning a spade at trick three instead of making a futile heart return. His foresight at trick one would be suitably rewarded at trick three.

Tomorrow: Judgement

Workers Walking Out As Leaders Go to Jail

Union Leaders Surrender

From left, Quebec Federation of Labor president Louis Laberge, Mrs. Yvon Charbonneau with her husband, president of the Quebec Teacher's Corporation, Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions and his son approach the Quebec courthouse where the three labor leaders gave themselves up yesterday to serve jail terms for contempt. ## Impeachment Suggested

Anti-Nixon Protests Grow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Growing protests swirled on U.S. city streets and college campuses as anti - war demonstrators by the thousands denounced President Nixon's decision to mine North Vietnamese harbors.

It was the most turbulent outburst since the 1970 protests over the U.S. invasion of Cambodia.

Perhaps the strongest denunciation of the president's latest war decision came from Senate Democrats, who Tuesday voted disapproval of the action in caucus, and from anti-war representative Bella Abzug of New York, who talked of initiating impeachment proceedings against Nixon.

Senator George McGovern, the leading anti-war presidential candidate, won the Democratic primary election today in Nebraska, America's conservative heartland, turning back the strong challenge of Senator Hubert Humphrey.

The White House meanwhile awaited the Soviet verdict on its blocking the North Vietnamese ports.

But the impact of dropping the undersea explosives to keep ships in the Communist cargo from entering North Vietnamese ports probably won't be felt on the battlefield for at least three weeks, said White House adviser Henry Kissinger.

Garbage Truck Cheered

TORONTO (CP) — Truck No. 3127 got a standing ovation when it spewed its load into Toronto's Commissioners Street incinerator Tues day. Lugging 1,300-pound load of rotting refuse, the garbage truck was the first to report at the end of the 30-day strike by 4,000 outside workers.

IRA Still Active

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrilla bombers and gunmen struck at civilian and military targets throughout Northern Ireland during the night. Powerful bombs blasted homes and stores in provincial centres and security patrols were raked by gunfire. Four British soldiers and one Ulster policeman were wounded and one guerrilla believed hit.

Slowdown Likely in Britain

LONDON (CP) — Leaders of Britain's railway unions are threatening to plunge the country's train services into another round of turmoil by resuming a work slowdown this week unless pay demands are met immediately.

Union officials said today, however, they are prepared to hold further talks with the employer—the publicly owned British Rail—at any time before their latest deadline expires Thursday night.

West Germans Start Debate on Treaties

BONN (AP) — The deeply split West German parliament opened today its debate on ratifying Chancellor Willy Brandt's East-West treaties, after a procedural test vote that failed to clarify his chances for success.

The last-minute collapse of a compromise between Brandt and Opposition Leader Rainer Barzel to link the treaties meant that powerful Christian Democrat opposition members apparently would try to block ratification of the treaties with Moscow and Warsaw.

On the fate of the treaties hangs the timetable for wider East-West moves to ease tension. It could affect the atmosphere for President Nixon's Moscow trip, and the political future of Brandt.

Martial Law Invoked

SAIGON (Reuter) — President Nguyen Van Thieu declared a state of martial law throughout South Vietnam to take effect at midnight tonight, the presidential palace announced today.

The announcement was read over Saigon radio but gave no details as to what measures would be included under the state of martial law.

Thieu had threatened he be given special powers by parliament to deal with the Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

Quebec Unrest Is Mounting

QUEBEC (CP) — Continuing union protests spread through the province today as resentment mounted against the imprisonment of three Quebec federation leaders.

Workers on at least 13 Montreal construction sites didn't turn up for work. A union official said no picketing is planned.

Montreal police were called to Notre Dame Hospital to clear out about 300 striking non-medical personnel holding a sit-in in the cafeteria. The hospital employees, who began their sympathy action Tuesday, left quietly.

Fernand Daoust, general secretary of the Quebec Federation of Labor, said there are no orders calling for a general strike of organized workers in Quebec.

He said unions would decide locally whether to hold study sessions or limited walkouts.

Protests first erupted Tuesday and included lonesitorrmen in the St. Lawrence River ports of Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec City. The ports were shut down but a back-to-work injunction was obtained Tuesday night and their union was slapped with a lawsuit for permitting the illegal walkout. The ports were operating today.

Marcel Pepin, Louis Laberge and Yvon Charbonneau were sentenced for advising defiance of injunctions ordering maintenance of essential services in hospitals during an 11-day walkout last month of 210,000 public service employees.

The three head respectively the 210,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions, the 250,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor and the 80,000-member Quebec Teachers' Corp.

The 10-member administrative council of the 70,000-member Quebec Teachers' Corp. demanded to be imprisoned with their leaders.

The provincial council of construction trades told Premier Robert Bourassa by telegram that construction sites where its 20,000 members are working will be closed down for an indefinite period, beginning today. Officially, the reason given for the walkout is dissatisfaction with laws governing the construction industry.

And in Montreal, about 7,000 members of the Montreal Building Trades Union were urged to walk out today to protest the sentences which union president Florent Audette described as "sickening."

Hundreds of union members came in buses and cars from other areas of the province, watched over at the legislature buildings by provincial police equipped for riot duty. A cheering, chanting throng marched through the streets to the courthouse where the three leaders were whisked away in a police van to suburban Orsainville prison.

The leaders said they have not yet decided whether to appeal their sentences.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette told the Quebec national assembly justice was carried out quickly without violating the law in the case of the three.

About 5,000 teachers and 1,500 non-medical hospital employees walked out in protest Tuesday despite legislation April 22 ending the strike and forbidding further walkouts.

U.S. Bombs Are Dropped Sixty Miles From China

SAIGON (CP) — Hundreds of U.S. planes bombed the Hanoi and Haiphong area today and streaked to within 60 miles of the Chinese border to attack North Vietnam's northwest rail link to China, informed sources disclosed.

They were the deepest and heaviest strikes into the North in four years, the sources reported.

A destroyer group also bombarded the Haiphong area.

Hanoi radio said 14 U.S. planes were shot down and many pilots were captured."

The command did announce the loss of four more aircraft since Sunday, raising the crash 28 miles northeast of Saigon today of a big U.S. Army helicopter in which 30 Americans were killed. The command said the cause of the crash was not known but the helicopter was on an administrative mission.

36 Ships In Ports Now Mined

SAIGON (Reuter) — Thirty-six foreign ships are anchored outside North Vietnam's seven ports now mined with sophisticated U.S. mines found to activate at dusk Saigon time Thursday.

U.S. military sources reported today that 27 of the ships were from Communist countries and unconfirmed reports said two of the other nine were British-registered.

Ports Mined

The biggest U.S. air and naval task force ever assembled in Vietnam mined the entrances to Haiphong and four other North Vietnamese ports Tuesday. Hon Gai, Cam Pha, Quang Khe and Dong Hoi were also mined. The planes also struck rail lines and highways throughout North Vietnam. (AP Photo)

Two Survive Week in Mine

KELLOGG, Idaho (Reuter) — Two miners came back Tuesday night from the week-long hell of the Sunshine silver mine fire after being trapped near the bodies of seven dead comrades.

Tom Wilkinson, 28, and Ron Flory, 26, told rescuers who hauled through in a capsule from a mile down in the mine that they had survived by eating food from the lunch pails of the dead miners. Both appeared in good condition and were able to walk.

Looking dazed as they walked from the blackness of the mine into applause and a barrage of television lights and camera flashbulbs, they were whisked off to hospital, their wives accompanying them.

At least 42 miners have died in the fire, which flashed through the mine May 2. An additional 44 are missing.

Dr. Elbert Osborn, director of the federal bureau of mines, who organized the rescue attempt of lowering rescuers in a torpedo-like capsule down a narrow ventilation shaft, told reporters: "These men were in good condition. We are hopeful of finding more."

Wilkinson walked out of the mine portal first, his knees wobbling. He was supported by two rescue workers.

His wife Frances, 27, jumped up and down excitedly in front of him, but the miner, blinded by the light, scarcely seemed to see her as he was led to a waiting ambulance.

The husky Flory also had a dazed expression as he was led from the mine. But he suddenly recognized his wife, Myrna, 18, and swept her into his arms.

After they were found, Wilkinson and Flory walked with their rescuers to the bottom of a ventilation shaft nearly half a mile away. Flory was hauled up first through a hole midway through the mine, given a quick check by a doctor and told he could continue on up to be reunited with his family.

He refused, saying he wanted to wait for his comrade. He waited until Wilkinson was checked.

Rescuers reported that Flory and Wilkinson said they were astonished when they found that the air had suddenly become pure the day after the disaster. They expected to be rescued almost immediately.

They opened the door and picked up the handpails of their dead comrades as they walked past their bodies along the tunnel to the main hoist, waiting for the rescuers who were to take five more days to come for them.

The two miners then walked out of a grim, underground world of tunnels, strewn with at least 36 swollen bodies, as a fire crew still burned at the middle level of the mile-deep mine.

Artist-Prince to Meet PM

Nigerian Prince Adebajo Sosanya stopped briefly in Belleville, en route to a meeting with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in Ottawa. Prince Bajo, an actor and artist, will present this symbolic piece of batik work to the Nigerian Embassy. A similar piece of batik work was presented to the Prime Minister this past Saturday. For story, see Page 2.

Price Index Up Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Steeply-climbing food prices continued to push the cost of living upward as the consumer price index rose by eight-tenths of a point, to 128.2 in April from 127.4 in March.

In percentage terms, consumer prices rose six-tenths of one per cent over the month, Statistics Canada reported today. The increase was about average for April. Prices were 4.3 per cent above a year earlier.

Ontario tax increases on tobacco and alcohol and increased Saskatchewan sales license fees also played a part in the rise.

The index is based on 1961 prices equalling 100. That means on the average it would have taken $12.82 last month to buy what cost $10 in 1961.

Statistics Canada said the main contributor to the April increases was food prices, which were nine-tenths of one per cent above March and 7.1 per cent above April, 1971.

The largest increase in consumer-goods categories came in tobacco and alcohol, where prices rose 1.9 per cent over the month.

Other increases: Clothing prices, up seven-tenths of one per cent; housing, up three-tenths of one per cent; transportation, up two-tenths of one per cent; and health and personal care, up four-tenths of one per cent.

Nigerian Prince A Visitor

Prince Adebajo Soaniya, born in the western Nigerian town of Ilaro-Remo, doesn't hold hard and fast to his royal family connections.

In fact, he prefers to search for "fullness and emptiness" he says he prefers to make his own way in the world, meeting people and learning by association with them.

A graduate of the University of Ibadan, he holds a diploma in dramatic arts, which affords him well in pursuit of his life's work — acting and films.

Prince Bajo, as he is known to most, acted with Wole Soyinka, a modern playwright and actor in Nigeria's first feature film Kongi's Harvest.

He says Nigeria is becoming increasingly involved in dramatic arts, with several theatres beginning to update themselves.

As part of this growing society, Bajo has been in Canada since the first of the year, to appear in a second feature film, dealing with relationships between black and white peoples. Filmed partially in Nigeria. It will be completed in Canada.

As a rest from film production, and in order to retain "cultural relationships with my counterparts," Prince Bajo has associated himself with Toronto artists Anson Holmes and Jerome Dehuss of the Aura Galleries da Batik on Adelaide Street.

Here, he has learned of improved batik techniques, worked on native African carvings, leathercraft and candlework.

He has prepared a large piece of batik, entitled Civil War: A Mournful Reminder. But a Human Record Nevertheless: Nigeria We Praise Thee, which he will present to the Nigerian Embassy in Ottawa.

The wax mask on the face of the batik work has been depicted without teeth. As symbolize the end of hostilities in his country. The burnt holes represent bullet holes. The entire work, in a dark green, is surrounded with words of peace and love.

Prince Bajo prepared another piece of batik work which was presented on his behalf to Prime Minister Pierre E. Trudeau this past Saturday. While in Ottawa today, he is scheduled to meet with the Prime Minister.

If funds can be raised, he hopes to present similar works to Nigerian High Commissions around the world.

A second project he is attempting to organize is the production of a Nigeria night to commemorate the 2nd anniversary of Nigeria's independence. A play entitled Ijoye War would be the central theme.

The Nigerian Prince who stopped briefly at The Intelligencer office on his way to Ottawa today says Canada is a lovely country. Toronto is wonderful, but expensive."

He says he has met a wide and varied number of people while here, and has grown closer to understanding white people, and says as far as human beings are concerned: "There are eggs and there are eggs, but many are rotten."

When the film is completed, he will leave Canada for his native country, armed with fresh ideas and a host of experiences. In pursuit of h's favorite art . . . batik, he says learned the Canadian method of hot wax and paints.

In Nigeria, he has only worked with cassava paste, a root product, and the indigo dye (produced from fermented leaves. There are so many more colors to use, now that I've met artists here."

Queen's Park OK For Plan Expected

TRENTON (Staff) — Approval of Trenton's official plan — stalled for 18 months — may come within the next two weeks, Mr. Duncan McDonald told the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board Tuesday.

Announcement that the delays in approval appear over followed a man - to - man conference in Toronto Monday afternoon between the mayor and a senior official of the municipal affairs department's community planning branch.

The Intelligencer learned today the accord with the department of municipal affairs came after planning consultant Dennis Flood of Project Planning had informed council a week ago by letter he had done all he could, but that approval had been received.

Mayor McDonald said this morning a formula was hammered out with Brian Casey, senior planner in the community planning branch, by which approval can be expected to be granted.

The plan must be revised to become a 18 year, not a 20-year plan was originally drafted. The mayor explained difficulties with the plan highlighted in the department's preference for a decade-by decade approach.

Earlier, said Mayor McDonald, felt the official plan as recommended by Flood made single-family land use for the anticipated population increase for the next 15 years. The amount included had been reflected on a 30-year population growth.

Projected population in 10 years is 18,000, in 20 years it will be 26,000. At issue Monday was whether proposed single-family housing developments in northwest Trenton near Mahew's Creek should be permitted. One is a Flemprop project, the other a Walter Palset project.

Mayor McDonald said in the formula agreed to by Mr. Carney, the two projects will be allowed to proceed, and a second density residential land use in the official plan is reduced.

Planner Flood has begun a revision of the land use allocation for early presentation — perhaps within the next week — of the redrafted plan to council and Trenton and Suburban Planning Board.

The mayor says the community planning branch has accepted the Trenton argument that there is not too much industrial land use in the official plan in view of the substantial land holdings of existing industries here.

Contention that the plan had a glut of industrial land use had been one of the municipal affairs department's leading criticisms of the official plan.

Hole Too High

It would seem that a drop of 30 feet would be most disconcerting to the average cat burglar.

Such was apparently the case overnight at the Belleville Memorial Arena. City police report they took time to call in the owner of the pet store. However, when they arrived on the scene, the 3 - foot drop to the floor below, they gave up their attempted breakin as a bad deal.

Investigations continue.

Meeting Tonight

TRENTON (Staff) — The first annual meeting of the Quinte chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will be held tonight in the Lions Club Hall, Campbell St. at 8 p.m.

On the agenda will be discussion of a proposed summer program in reading for area children with perceptual difficulties, a report of the past year's work and an election of officers for the coming year.

The association, under its president, Mrs. June Bailey, was host for the association's Ontario convention last month at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Hospital Phone Service Cut

Telephone service at Belleville General Hospital was almost non-existent Tuesday morning for a period of an hour and 20 minutes. Only three incoming lines were available and all outgoing lines were cut off.

The trouble was found to be a severed cable, cut by construction crews working on resurfacing of Dundas Street in front of the hospital.

One of the three remaining incoming lines was rerouted so that there was no interruption to ambulance service calls.

Bell Canada workmen moved in immediately after the 10:30 a.m. break was discovered. They had complete service restored at 11:50 a.m.

School Building Budget Near $1.5 Million

Hastings county board of education Monday approved a $1,488,000 building program for 1972.

The bulk of the money will be used to construct a new school at Foxboro. The $600,000 school will replace the present three - room Foxboro school and will enrol students from Thurlow and part of Sydney township.

Although county - wide population projections show a 30 per cent decrease in pupils 10 years from now, a shift in county population is increasing the number of children in the Foxboro area by about 10 per cent.

The proposed Foxboro school will have six classrooms, kindergarten, art, science, music, special education, industrial arts, home economics and general purpose rooms and a library.

The board will spend $300,000 on an addition to Moira Secondary. The school's capacity will be increased to accommodate 1,180 students with the addition of four classrooms, a music room, and improved guidance, library and guidance centre.

A $280,000 addition to Queen Elizabeth School in Trenton will add science, art music, home economics, industrial arts guidance and library rooms.

Marmora St. School in Trenton will be renovated at a cost of $100,000 for use by primary children.

Centennial Students' Campaign Under Way

Centennial Secondary School students are beginning a magazine sales fund - raising campaign. The goal is $2,000 for outdoor athletic facilities and student activities. The funds raised will be principally spent on handball courts and tennis courts to be situated on the east and west sides of the Dick Ellis Rink. An added amount will come from funds already allocated by the CSS Student Parliament two years ago for these purposes.

It is planned that the facilities will be completed by September. Work involved includes grading, base and asphalt paving for the courts. These facilities will be available both for students and the general public and will be part of the athletic complex being developed by the city at the corner of Bridge Street West and Palmer Road. Other facilities will include baseball diamonds, and football - soccer fields.

The Centennial campaign will last from Friday, May 5, 1972 to Monday, May 15.

Foster Mother Found for Pups

BANNOCKBURN — Local clergyman Donald McEwen has been engaged in an urgent — and tender — survival mission in recent days.

Now it may be over.

At stake were the lives of five pathetic puppies — were they to be born purebred Siberian huskies.

What happened was this:

Mr. McEwen, who first became enchanted with the husky species during mission work in the Moosonee area — brought his dogs here when he took up residence some years ago and started his own kennels. He enters them in winter team races and deals with them in the both heresbous in winter.

This breeding season, he borrowed a female from another kennel for breeding with one of his own dogs, Last Friday, when her pups were almost due, it was found she had a tonic withered.

Mr. McEwen rushed her to a veterinary at Tweed. She died and the veterinarian immediately afterward saved the pups by caesarean section.

The problem was how to feed them. Several of his own females already are feeding their own litters and couldn't handle the extra burden. Feeding by hand is dangerous, since the puppies, because of their size, may overeat and develop colic. In fact one died after such a feeding.

Feeding them has to be 'a natural process' — similar to the maternal process, Mr. McEwen explains.

He began hunting for a female who might provide an alternative. Monday a broadcast appeal brought several responses — among them that of Mrs. and Mrs. Ronald Guest, of Catherine St., to Bellleville. Their female Basenji, Cindy, offered a possibility since she suffers false pregnancies — a condition which produces no offspring, but all the other symptoms of motherhood, including feeding capability.

Unfortunately, Cindy wasn't accustomed to attending to litters.

Monday night, Mr. McEwen was offered a beagle by a Tweed man. The hound was feeding only two pups and possibly could accommodate the five orphaned off spring.

Mr. McEwen brought the beagle to his home on Hastings County Road 11, just southwest of here and about five miles north of Madoc.

Today, Mrs. McEwen reported both the adoptive mother and pups were 'doing very well.'

Conference Here Said 'Excellent'

On his own admission "a real tough guy to get along with," past president of Rotary International James Conway of Rockville Centre, N.Y. let it be known at the weekend that the Trenton and Belleville and associated Quinte Rotary clubs' handling of the District 707 conference here was one of the three or four in his experience that he would place in the category of "excellent."

District Governor Wilfred Wilkinson of Trenton passed on this information at Monday's luncheon meeting of Belleville Rotary. Accompanying him was the conference chairman, Albert Ward, also of Trenton.

Mr. Wilkinson, who described it as the most successful conference the district had had, said Mr. Conway appeared "cold" and said nothing to him throughout the conference. His first intimation that things were going well in Mr. Conway's eyes was in his address at the Governor's ball Saturday night.

Subsequently Mr. Conway, who is now official representative of the current president of Rotary International, Ernst G. Breithaltz of Kalmar, Sweden, told him that since he attends many district functions he has seen every kind from good, bad and indifferent to "terrible" but Quinte's was excellent.

The district governor said there had never been a plenary session of 707 that mustered as many as the 300 on Saturday morning, apart from the time there had been a combined attendance of men and women totalling 361. He expressed thanks to Belleville and his own club as well as to the Picton and Cobourg clubs for their efforts.

Belleville vice - president Bob Ord said that while there had been some misgivings about the outcome, the conference had proved very successful.

Club president Bill McPherson was unable to be present but he sent a message in which he said the conference had brought credit to the club and to the community. He expressed appreciation of the home hospitality program under Ben Corke and in which the Rotary Anns share.

Four Seasons hotel manager Michael Broadhurst, said from the hotel's viewpoint, and he presumed the other hotels as well, the event had been well organized and everyone had enjoyed the conference.

Mr. Turner's Budget

Finance Minister John Turner of all the members of the Cabinet remains something of an enigma. Of all these gallants he remains the most untarnished by contact with the Commons. Even his name was "Mr. Clean." As a fledgling Finance Minister — graveyard of Messrs Sharp and Benson before him — he may still lay claim to the title ,even after that Monday night "election" budget.

Admittedly his image may have been blotted ever so slightly — after all you cannot please everyone! — following the budget but his measures have found favorable response among the business community and the pensioners also have benefited, if not dramatically then to a degree that provides them with some very necessary leeway in these inflationary times.

The NDP's David Lewis gives the impression the budget should have been some magic wand that would benefit absolutely everyone from farmers and fishermen to goodness knows who, but given the money available to play with and the means remaining after virtual tax audit in four years of government we doubt if even Mr. Lewis could accomplish more.

There is one thing though concerning money availability and we touched on it recently in complaining about government extravagance. Some mean about foreign investment, but where would we be without it? The money and funds we should have as our own, for investment within Canada in productive enterprises, that would act as a cushion against further inflation . . . where does it go? It is squandered by a free-spending bureaucracy and our defence flasco like the Arrow fighter, the Bomarc missile ,the aircraft carrier Bonaventure and an anti-submarine hydrofoil now languishing in mothballs in Halifax harbor.

This we complain about foreign investment — yet toss our own to the four winds — funds which if they were to be more carefully husbanded and used to better purpose for the good of Canadians could benefit those selfasme pensioners, farmers, fishermen and all the rest. The next government, following the election that cannot be far distant, must exercise much closer accounting of the monetary resources of the nation.

U.S. Decision

NDP leader David Lewis has described President Nixon's decision to blockade North Vietnamese ports as 'a criminal act."

What is behind Mr. Lewis' remark? We know of course that he is anti-American and particularly he is anti-Nixon, but is this just a professional stance, a political image he must project because he is of the left-wing or are we to assume that he is a puppet of the Communist world, a frontman right in our own Houses of Parliament for Moscow or Peking? If not, why does he make like he was one of Aeric, or a friend of the puppet government in Hanoi?

Mr. Lewis and others, like the U.S. Congressman reported to have called for the impeachment of Mr. Nixon, are making nothing but bad comfort to the enemy. At the same time they are ignoring the causes of U.S. retaliation which in any event can only hope to contain the Communist offensive rather than turn it back. From this, hopefully, would come another stalemate and perhaps a climate leading to further and more meaningful negotiations at the conference table.

Some are talking of the blockade heralding a third world war. We doubt this. It is a limited, strategic action and it is unlikely the Russians are such fools as to consider the mining of North Vietnamese ports a sufficiently hostile act to warrant that ultimate step. We see Nixon's move as a shrewd military step which may have the effect of cutting supplies to the North Vietnamese and thereby slowing the land war.

At the same time as the U.S. is mining the Communist ports Mr. Nixon is challenged in the courts on the political front to cease aiding the North Vietnamese for offensive purposes. It was reminiscent in a way of President Kennedy's "I call on Chairman Khrushchev . . ." during the Cuban crisis a decade ago when the Soviet leader, fearing some Armageddon, called home the missile ships.

Meanwhile when western spokesmen speak of "criminal acts" and impeachment of their own leaders they might consider the actions of the Communists in Vietnam — flagrant violation of demilitarized zones, execution of officials in captured communities and slaughter of innocent and defenceless civilians. This is the enemy some in our midst would like to see win through to final victory.

European Dictatorships Have Stability—At A Price

By JOHN HASSBON

The jet trek has begun again to those warm and well-disciplined Mediterranean countries, Spain, Portugal, Greece and Italy, too, but for the moment, she is far from well-disciplined.

The only upheaval you might expect on arrival in Madrid, Belgrade br Athens is that global hang-up of lost baggage. In Rome, where strikes are legal, who knows? Omnibus unions can strike all the essential services tourists and natives need to get through the day.

Spain, Yugoslavia and Greece today have much in common. They are all Mediterranean societies, basically conservative underneath, (witness their very tough laws against youthful drug peddlers, years in jail after summary trial, pronounced regionalism, authoritarian governments. The Spanish regime is the oldest in Europe. The aging Generalissimo Francisco Franco, in power since 1939, heads a loyal government of old military cronies and bright, young Catholic technocrats. Definitely right-wing.

Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito, in his mid-70s, is not far behind Generalissimo Franco either in age or length of tenure of his system, which is Communist and also authoritarian. Like Franco's fabric of power, Tito's is there at the edges. Since 1948 Tito has developed with many difficulties, his own brand of Communism.

Greece, under diminutive prime minister and former army colonel George Papadopoulos, is a five-year-old newcomer to the ranks of Mediterranean military regimes. But Franco in Spain, his regime is already has strong marks of self-righteousness about it since Greece, like Spain, is undergoing a record economic boom.

Italy, slowed to a crawl by a democratic electoral and multi-party stalemate, might have an authoritarian and stable, if the late unlamented Benito Mussolini had played his cards as well as Franco during the Second World War. Where Franco fence-sat, paying lip service to Nazi Germany, the ambitious Mussolini threw in his lot with Hitler in the hope of winning an even larger Italian Armpire and lost.

Why do tourists like Mediterranean countries, other than for the sun, surf and salt-cheap prices they offer? Because Spain, Yugoslavia and Greece are peaceful, orderly and quiet. These three countries share these traits. The tourist-income is paying the price for social order, namely Spaniards, Yugoslavs and Greeks.

The real boss of any Spanish province, including the ones along the seacoast where tourists flock, is the unseen general in command, appointed by Franco himself. In Yugoslavia, party functionaries, more than the army, dominate domestic life. And in Greece, a mixture of plain-clothesmen and army officers maintain law and order to the villages and in bustling, tourist-centred Athens.

Why must these favorite Mediterranean countries rely on strongmen and the military to keep the peace, or face the chronic disorder of Italy if they opt for democracy?

Part of the reason also relates to what the tourist goes to see, the colorful differences and regional pulls of these uneasy nations-states. France, the centralist, has always held an uncertain sway over bustling Catalonia in the north, the Spanish Texas, and Tito, the Croat, an even more uncertain hand over his fellow Croats in the north of his country.

Italy, a latecomer to nationhood, only since 1870, had a host of regional societies ranging from the almost pure peasant one of Sicily to the dynamic industrial centres of northern Italy.

Enjoy your spring or summer Mediterranean holiday. But be more than a little uneasy at the price many pay for that local tranquility.

Telephone, TV and Radio From Central Control

Ulster Commentary

An exciting development which could ultimately revolutionize the United Kingdom's communications network is being pioneered in Craigavon, one of Ulster's rapidly-expanding new towns.

The development concerns the telephone service and piped radio and television, either color or black and white.

The means — two points in each new building. One opens up the telephone service to all who want it — because connection is then a quick and simple job. The other feeds radio and television into the sets merely by plugging into a wall socket.

And this is just the first step towards even bigger advances. At present two networks are needed — one to carry telephone service and the other for television and radio. The Post Office, which is operating the system together with the Craigavon Development Commission, is now developing a single network which will carry both services together with others such as local educational television, data services or viewphones.

Initially the scheme takes in homes, flats, hospitals, community centres and schools in Craigavon, but the system will eventually spread throughout the country.

The Post Office, which started work on this 'broad band' system in January 1970, has so far brought more than 1,500 houses and other buildings on to the network. Work is presently on hand with another 1,000. The number is increasing by about 1,200 each year.

Things are now progressing so well that builders are not permitted to hand over houses to prospective buyers or to the Craigavon Development Commission until the television point in each one is working perfectly!

Underground cables are run to each development and then to each house or group of houses in the area where, at present, they serve the telephone, radio and television needs.

A small neat box set into the wall of the building, house or terrace is all that one sees of the actual mechanics. And because there are no telephone poles or unsightly wires running across the skyline, the appearance and amenities are not impaired.

To serve the needs of the whole Craigavon area the Post Office has only had to erect one 80-foot television mast. This has proved a boon to people living there because external television aerials on buildings are not allowed by the Development Commission.

Residential By-Law In The Capital

Ottawa Journal

Ottawa should scrap its discriminatory bylaw requiring civic employees to live in the province of Ontario.

Where a man (or woman) chooses to live is his business. His address should be no more a criterion for holding a job than his race or creed or color.

Before the bylaw was modified in 1968, civic employees had to reside within the city limits. Instead of eliminating the residency requirement completely, as Board of Control (and The Journal) urged at the time, management only the half-step of extending eligibility to residents of Ontario.

Thus, someone could live in Smiths Falls and work for the city, but a person living just across the bridge in Hull could not.

The reason for this petty little proclamation was that some Quebec municipalities had similar laws which prevented Ottawa residents from working for them.

Ottawa should be big enough to take the first step towards ending the balkanization mentality. It is divisive in principle, ridiculous in practice.

Rather than dealing with the individual cases of employees who are in violation of the bylaw, Board of Control should recommend to council at once that the bylaw be repealed.

People on the network are assured of first-class service at all times. The Post Office deals with any failure in the transmission system, though not, of course, with faults in television sets.

A telephone number for reporting any breakdowns is available. But, so far, the Post Office reports only 20 calls to this number — eight faults on the system and the rest set faults. And faults affecting more than one house are dealt with up until nine o'clock each evening.

The experiment has aroused worldwide interest and Craigavon has had many overseas visitors to inspect the new system, much of which was designed by Post Office research staff in London.

Soviet Writers Under Pressure

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Under the title 'Writers Dilemma' a reprint from the Toronto Daily Star tells us what happens to Soviet writers who dare to antagonize their government. While Alexander Solzhenitsyn is too popular a writer to be 'made shorter by a head,' other less important critics of the State are not so lucky.

Also European newspapers tells us that Wladimir Bukovsky, another Soviet writer, received a two-year jail sentence to be followed by five years of hard labor and another five years ban from Moscow. His crime against the State is that he informed the public that critics of the Soviet regime are put into the Asylum for the criminally insane.

Such samples of Soviet justice will not make the Communist cause more popular in a free society.

One of the outstanding advocates for freedom in the western world was J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI. He was also one of the most able men to see through Communist subversion. In one of his last speeches, he warned the nation: "The Communist Party is endeavoring in every possible way to infiltrate Civic clubs, churches, labor unions, schools and patriotic groups. These organizations are the targets of a campaign to increase Communist strength. The pressure is tremendous. The Communists are determined to advance their cause by cunning, stealth and dishonesty."

Bishop Geertin K. Y. Husing, Bishop to Chinese in the USA and formerly Episcopal Bishop in China, states that before the Communists took over in China they infiltrated the churches, seminaries and the Church hospitals (the visible church is a show window for foreign visitors). It was reported that in Seoi, Korea during the war 3,000 Christians were rounded up in one day and mowed down with machine guns for no other reason than that they were Christians. Their identity became known to advancing forces through the infiltrators.

FOR FREEDOM.

Focus on Gasoline Tax

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

On money matters there are a few incidentals of the government's fiscal policies which have been pointed out as time of writing and which deserve some notice.

One was the decision to increase gasoline tax. Treasurer D'Arcy McKeough's announced budget policy was to increase "avoidable" or "enjoyment" taxes. To some degree gasoline comes under this category. If a car is used for pleasure, the tax can be an enjoyment tax. And you can avoid it if you don't drive your car.

But gasoline today is very much a necessity for commercial transportation. An increase in the price of gasoline means an increase in the cost of practically everything used in our society. As such it is inflationary. In fact you probably couldn't find one single item which is more inflationary than gasoline.

However, this was the year that taxes and licences were to be raised all around. Even and Mr. McKeough presumably couldn't resist raising gasoline along with everything else.

Then there is the government's highways policy. The line is to be held on spending on roads. Emphasis now is to be shifted to mass transit.

There is a contrary characteristic in this. The need for mass transit has been becoming critical in Metro Toronto and to some extent in smaller centres in the Golden Horseshoe.

The compelling reason for this has been the centralization of industry in this area and one of the compelling reasons for this concentration has been the fact of modern highways which could have dispersed industry throughout the province.

Major new highways are still needed for Georgian Bay, east of Lake Simcoe and other areas in southern Ontario. If these aren't built, industry will continue to crowd into the already saturated areas. There is concern now that the Toronto subway soon will be over capacity.

The Big-Time Spenders

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Your recent editorial, narrating the details of the cost of refurnishing the Prime Minister's office, was just a bit too much. Just where to our parliamentarians get the authority to spend public money as they see fit — $1,200 for a carpet for an office sounds like the Maharajah of outer Port Credit.

I have had it up to here with the little tin gods of Ottawa, inflated with their own importance, bl'owing their own horns, lance, and piling their nests with feathers plucked from senior citizens.

If you old timers have had enough of being second-class citizens, when the candidates start knocking on your door a-soliciting your vote in the nearby election, you might ask him or her just what he has done, or intends to do, about ameliorating the plight of the old age pensioners.

Remember, if you do not know which side your bread is buttered on, but if top it, the butter side will be down.

E. E. BENNETT.

Tyendinaga Mohawks Active in Association

Ontario's Iroquois Indians are taking the lead in reforming the federal government's Indian Act, and Mohawks from the Bay of Quinte Band are well represented in the movement.

"Our association will be in on the ground floor when it comes to making laws," says its president, Carl D. Brant from Tyendinaga Reserve. "I like to think our association is right on the ball when it comes to working up an argument."

Mr. Brant, a councillor for the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band and a trustee with the Hastings county board of education, was elected president of the association in January.

The association represents about 20,000 Indians from eight bands in Ontario and western Quebec. All executive members of the association are elected band councillors or appointees of the councils.

Mr. Brant has just returned from Ottawa, where the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians spent three days in discussions with Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien and officials of his department.

"I feel the minister is very sincere in his attitude toward the problems of Indians," said Mr. Brant. "He is trying to solve them, but they are so complex."

The association succeeded in having the Mohawk Institute in Brantford turned over to it for use at a cultural centre. The former government-run residential school for the Six Nations Reserve has been closed for a year. The association intends to use it for a teacher-training program— to familiarize teachers with attitudes and values of Indian people before they go on reserves to teach Indian children.

The Institute will eventually become a research centre on the culture of the Indians of the eastern woodlands, and may house a museum of Indian relics.

"The Six Nation band council has agreed to turn the institute over to the association, but because of bureaucracy, it will be tied up in red tape for a while," reported Mr. Brant.

The priority of the Iroquois alliance is reform of the Indian Act and a committee is now at work on the subject. Other committees are concerned with claims and treaties, education, economic development, health and welfare, housing and bylaws.

"We hope to correlate all bylaws so that all bands have the same system of government on their reserves," said Mr. Brant.

Because the Iroquois and Allied Indians have been settled for generations in the most highly industrialized part of Canada, they are more familiar than most with the processes of government and methods of bringing about change. Mr. Brant feels his association is in a unique position to give leadership to other Indians across Canada.

"The main purpose of the association is to bring Indian people together to confer on common problems and to support one another. This is the way the Iroquois Confederacy did it, and it's been a long time since our people have operated in this way," said Mr. Brant.

"It's almost like seeing history unfold again," Mr. Brant terms his association presidency "a great honor."

"It has always been my dream to someday be in the position to be able to help my people in some way."

Village Plans Expansion

STIRLING (Special) — Stirling council last week, in consultation with members of the local planning board, designated areas of the village for future development over the next eight or 10 years. The decision was made following recent discussions with an official from the Department of Municipal Affairs regarding Stirling's official plan.

As determined by the department in agreement with the Ontario Water Resources Commission, Stirling will only be allowed what is termed "fill-in" growth until there is an extension to the sewer lagoon system. Council is currently planning this extension. This means that building permits will be issued only to owners with lots located on existing water and sewer facilities.

Studies have shown that by 1980 Stirling will have a population of 2,000. This week's council meeting was to decide where this expansion will be. A map showing the proposed sewer extensions and related growth land to that, was presented to the council by Peter Anderson, manager of Greer and Galloway, consulting engineers, from Belleville. The selections must now go to the department for approval.

Once the official plan is approved, the accompanying zoning bylaw will be amended to match. As an example, the bylaw allows for about 6,000 people where there will be only 2,000.

The difficult decisions council will be faced with in the coming months is that there are certain property owners who may apply for a building permit, and fail to understand why one can not be issued. Under the official plan, there are rigid restrictions where building will be allowed and should anyone wish to build anywhere else, it will be denied.

All during the lengthy negotiations with Queen's Park over this plan, council has taken the position that once in force, the plan will be enforced.

HELP FOR MEAL PLANNERS

Meal making is easier, more interesting and more economical if you have a basic plan—no matter how simple. In this week's bulletin at Miracle Food Mart, I give a simple formula for meal planning. It's based on Canada's Food Guide, a sound, practical foundation for meals that are enjoyable at the same time they support good health. I included the guide in the second bulletin distributed at your Miracle Food Mart.

Though it's more difficult to provide interesting meals on a low budget, it can be done within the framework of good meal planning.

Bill Lost in Shuffle As PCs Duel wiih NDP

OTTAWA (CP) — Five debat-ing days after it began, Con-servative discussion of a minor gov-ernment bill to loosen farm credit bogged down Tuesday in heated infighting between Prai-rie Conservative and New Dem-ocratic MPs.

The eight-page bill to extend the lending power of the Farm Credit Corp. a Crown corpora-tion that makes most farm loans and give it authority to administer a government pro-gram to transfer farm land to young farmers, was nearly for-gotten in the shuffle.

Jack Horner (PC—Crowfoot), an Alberta cattle rancher, spoke in late Tuesday to sup-port statements by fellow Con-servative Jack Murta (Lisgar) that plans by the Saskatchewan NDP government to set up land banks for the use of young pro-vincial farmers was a move to socialize Saskatchewan farms.

And Mr. Horner used that as a lever to open debate on whether or not Alf Gleave (NDP —Saskatoon-Biggar) sold his small Saskatchewan farm in ex-change for the luxury of an Ot-tawa penthouse. .

"I have reason to believe," said Mr. Horner, "that he (Mr. Gleave) is living in the pent-house of one of the better apart-ment buildings in Ottawa." Mr. Gleave had no reason to worry about provincial attempts to take over Saskatchewan farms, he said.

"The honorable member for Saskatoon-Biggar did not sell his farm; he sold his tractor."

Mr. Gleave rose, amid an up-roar, to thank Mr. Horner for complimenting him on his resi-dence.

"Let me point out that he (Mr. Horner) happens to live in the same place."

Earlier, Lorne Nystrom (NDP —Yorkton-Melville) said the Conservative party was "speak-ing out of both sides of the mouth" by asking the govern-ment for interest-free loans to farmers, but demanding that farmers meet performance standards before receiving loans.

Social Credit Leader Real Caouette and Gilbert Rondeau (SC—Shefford) said farmers, like other Canadians, are vic-tims of Canada's "barbaric fi-nancial system."

Both agreed that interest rates for all loans, including those to farmers, should not ex-ceed two or three per cent.

Rose Trial Nears End

MONTREAL (CP) — Failure to report a crime is not a crimi-nal offence, defence lawyer Robert Lemieux told the 12-man jury during his final address at the Jacques Rose kidnap trial Tuesday.

Referring to the Crown evi-dence concerning Rose's arrest Dec. 28, 1970, in a farmhouse in St. Luc, Que., 20 miles southeast of Montreal, Mr. Lemieux said: "Not one of the policemen said the same thing. Whenever they were asked if Jacques Rose had said anything at the time, they simply repeated the words of Paul Rose."

Paul Rose is serving two con-current life terms for the kid-nap-slaying of Mr. Laporte. Si-mard was sentenced to life im-prisonment for the murder and is to stand trial on the kidnap charge in September.

"It smells bad," Mr. Lemieux said of that particular evidence. "It's contradictory. It smells like a lie. It's a muddle. . . ."

Much business was transacted including Benevolent work and the election of officers with Grand Lecturer, Ola McFarland of Napanee and Deputy Lecturer, Doris Nancarrow of Trenton representing this area, on the executive. It was noted during the convention that the $250,000 Senior Citizens' units at Batawa sponsored by the co-operative effort of the different branches of the Order will begin soon, it is hoped.

Results of ticket draws were announced and Bernard Hearns, 209 Pine Street, Belleville was the winner of a $1000. with seller of the ticket, Robert McConald. Carrying Place Rd., Trenton.

Stars of Praise Festival Present Concert

STIRLING — The Stars of the Festival program in connection with St. Paul's United Church 22nd annual Festival of Sacred Praise was held in the auditorium on Saturday evening, following five days of adjudications.

A large audience was in attendance as relatives and friends gathered from Belleville, Trenton, Tweed, Marmora, Frankford and the Stirling area.

Mrs. B. W. Glendinning, president was chairman and extended a welcome to all. The program opened with Marmora School choir singing with the closing number, the Lord's Prayer, sung by Miss Lana LaChappelle. Thus the festival emphasized the spiritual side of life which was most appropriate. In 1950, when Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker promoted the festival idea, it was to promote a love for the Scriptures and hymns of praise.

Mrs. George Carlisle, the festival secretary and her assistant Mrs. J. Doran have given freely of their time for the five days as well as the book work for the 346 entries.

The Scripture memory was given by Chris Bailey of Mount Pleasant Rawdon and Margaret Ann Thompson of Stirling. The vocal selections were sung by Mary Catherine May, Stirling, Rhonda Cassidy, Tweed; the Tweed junior choir and Kim Bray, Stirling. A piano selection was given by Brenda Bauer, Frankford and a trumpet solo by Robert Rodgers, Belleville.

The Elaine Footwear award of cash was presented by Rev. John May, minister of the church and Miss M. Hales, second vice - president read the list of names. There were six from Tweed. Darrell Moore, Pamela Armstrong, Rhonda Cassidy, Ian Martin, Brien Roy and Michael Earle; four from Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, Heather Hoard, Kenneth Hoard, Linda Hoard and Kim Gauff; two from Belleville, Robert Rogers and Debbie Wood; Barbara Mumby, from Roslin; Kevin Bray, Madoc; Gordon VanVliet, Tarrying Place; Pamela Hazelwood, Codrington, five from Stirling, Deborah LaRue, Marsha Clancy, Richard Hassell, Jeffrey Whiteman, Mary Ellen Thompson and three from Frankford, Brenda Bauer, Joseph Collins, and Frank Foxton.

Mrs. Ed Warren was in charge of the trophies and awards. In the second half of the program the Stirling Public School sang selections, Paul Jones, Stirling, gave a trumpet solo and Linda Walker, Belleville, a clarinet solo. Kevin Bray of Stirling gave the Bible reading. Vocal selections were given by Janet Bauer of Frankford, Jennifer Jayne, Foxboro, Tammy Lawrence, Stirling and Carolyn Lewis, Foxboro.

Tweed gave the double trio; piano selections were contributed by Ursula Berger, Frankford; Ann Marie and Thomas Aquino, Batavia; Robert Ormsby, Trenton and Lee Stratton of Belleville, Kevin and Kim Bray of Stirling gave a vocal duet and William McAvton, Stirling, rendered organ music.

The treasurer Mrs. A. Reilly and second vice - president Miss M. Hales assisted and the large trophies were presented.

At the close Mrs. Glendinning voiced a special thanks to everyone who had contributed to the success of the festival.

Ann Landers

Wife May Not Be Lazy; Just Tired

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I have been married four years. Before I married her I thought she was the most beautiful woman I'd ever seen, as well as the most intelligent and thoughtful. I was sure she'd be the ideal wife and mother. I never dreamed she had a lazy bone in her body.

Everything has changed. My dinner used to be on the table at 5:30. Now I'm lucky if I see it by 6:15. My wife used to be a fabulous cook. Now I think she has a contest with herself to see how fast she can throw a meal together. I'd like to have a nickel for every time I've had to ask her to iron a shirt before I leave for work in the morning.

We have four children; the youngest is three months. I love to come home to a clean house and a decent meal and enjoy my little family.

Is that asking too much? If you say it is, I'll never gripe again. Or should I lay down the law and tell my wife to shape up or find someone who doesn't mind living like a slob? You decide.—Mike in Hamsmead

Dear Mike: So you think maybe you ought to tell her to "shape up?" A woman who has had four babies in less than four years hasn't had much chance to think of her shape, Bub. How much help have you given her, except for contributing to her pregnancies?

I'm not defending the girl's poor housekeeping or the late meals but I am suggesting that maybe she has her hands full with the four little ones and you might give her a lift instead of being so critical. Those "lazy" bones in her body may be tired bones. And by the way, I Planned Parenthood isn't against your religion. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: If you blessed by every beauty salon owner in the world. It's a requiem that mothers leave their kids at home when they go to the beauty parlor.

Our shop is small and we are cramped for space. Occasionally we see a well-behaved child but when we do it is the exception rather than the rule. Most of the youngsters who come here are completely out of control and their mothers could not care less.

The kids run loose, knock into manicure tables, put their hands in the finger bowls and mess with the metal rollers and hairbrushes. Mom, of course, doesn't see or hear a thing. Her head is under the dryer and her nose is buried in a magazine. The kids are so destructive we can't even keep shrubbery outside.

No operator can do justice to a customer when children are stumbling over her feet and banging into the supply trays. If your letter doesn't do it, we'll have to put up a sign. What do you say, Ann?—Dr. Tvaks

Dear Dr.: Here's the letter but it won't solve the problem. Nor will the sign. The mothers with the wild kids never think you mean them.

Dear Ann Landers: Who is your expert on geography? Is he on vacation? In a recent column you mentioned, Asheville, North Carolina. You said, "You are there and I am in Chicago, 1,000 miles away and you ask ME to solve a problem that could be settled with a simple sentence."

Ann, Baby—Asheville, N.C. is 706 miles from Chicago. Get with it.—Tape Measure Harry

Dear Harry: For shame. I goofed. By 300 miles. Will you settle for ten raps with a varnished yardstick?

Should a wife choose the furniture?

HERB should be the final word. If a wife is content to make an apartment, a private home, or whatever, into a home for herself, her husband and children. A wife shouldn't have her dear she want to have—he only word on selecting furniture. As much as a husband groans when he hears: "Don't you think that chair is beginning to look seedy?" he should be ready to start shopping, even if he is only leading backup support.

Natural Health Foods Become More Popular

By ALICE DENHOFF

No doubt about it, the country is interested in natural foods, although what that term really means hasn't been precisely defined. We are more interested in what we eat and what is in the foods we buy and prepare these days. Homemakers are baking bread with stone ground whole wheat flour. Our young people are becoming increasingly health-food-conscious.

Garden Cream Puffs are just the thing for the food-conscious homemaker. Fresh from the oven, she fills them with vegetables combined with yogurt. Broken walnuts are added for texture and a little Tabasco added for zing.

Here are good:

GARDEN CREAM PUFFS

¼ cup water
¼ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup whole wheat flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1½ tablespoons sesame seed
Yogurt Filling (recipe below)

Mix water and oil in medium saucepan; bring to a boil. Stir in flour and salt all at once, beating until mixture forms a ball and leaves sides of pan.

Remove from heat and cool two minutes. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition; continue to beat until no longer glossy. Stir in sesame.

Place in mounds, using one-quarter cup batter for each three inches apart on a well greased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 10 minutes; then reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and continue baking 20 to 25 minutes, until golden brown and crisp, with beads of moisture visible on surface. Remove from oven; cool.

Cut off tops and remove any loose batter inside puffs. Spoon filling just before serving and replace lids. Yield: six cream puffs.

YOGURT FILLING

1 cup chopped pared cucumber
1¼ teaspoons salt, divided
2 cups plain yogurt
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons thinly sliced scallions
4 radishes, sliced
¼ teaspoon Tabasco

Sprinkle cucumber with salt; let stand 30 minutes. Drain well. Drain liquid from top of yogurt. Mix yogurt with drained cucumber, walnuts, scallions, radishes, remaining salt and Tabasco. Chill. Spoon one-third cup filling into each cream puff.

BUCKWHEAT PANCAKES WITH MUSHROOM-CHEESE SAUCE

¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
1 can (6 or 8 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
12 buckwheat pancakes

Melt butter in saucepan over low heat; blend in flour, salt and Tabasco. When mixture is smooth, slowly add milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add cheese, stirring until cheese is melted. Add mushrooms to hot sauce.

Meanwhile, prepare 12 buckwheat pancakes, using your own recipe or a mix. Keep warm in oven at low temperature. When ready to serve place two or three pancakes in a stack on plates and spoon sauce over each portion.

LOOKS like dessert, but there's wholesome vegetables, nuts and yogurt, zingy with pepper sauce, in the cream puffs

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Are children too anxious to please?

YES, although many parents will say, "Not as anyone would notice." Yet they may be speaking precisely of those children who are indeed too anxious to please a mother and father. Some children, though they are especially anxious, are afraid their parents will ridicule them. So, rather than risk being laughed at or admit being afraid of ridicule, they act as if they couldn't care less about pleasing parents—and won't!

Does "it" turn with kindness' work?

YES and no; that is, it works, but kindness doesn't "kill." If a person who is severely being "put upon" by someone reacts by attempting to treat such intruders with kindness, the other individual can't help but change for the better. But it will only work if the sufferer is sincere about being kind. If he is just trying to make the other person feel ashamed, then his "kill 'em with kindness" ploy will misfire.

More Men Join Secretarial Pool

NEW YORK (AP) — The gals aren't the only ones wearing the pants in the secretarial pool these days. Slowly but surely more men are moving back into the field.

The U.S. labor department said there were 2,677,227 stenographers, typists and secretaries in 1970, of whom 48,900 or 1.4 per cent were men.

In 1971, there were 2,851,000 stenographers, secretaries and typists, of whom 63,000 or 1.7 per cent were men. The National Secretaries Association estimates there are about 1.5 million secretaries in the country, about 2.3 per cent o whom were men.

An association spokesman said: "We hear more men are coming into the field because salaries are better and because secretaries are in the centre of things for advancement."

It is difficult to obtain precise information about male secretaries. Only 12 of NSA's 28,000 members are men. The Male Secretaries Association was disbanded several years ago when NSA began accepting men.

Male secretaries are nothing new. In 1880, 10 of every 22 secretaries were men. Employers discovered, however, that men wanted secretarial posts only as stepping stones. Women, conditioned by convention to seek marriage as a goal, were more willing to accept clerical work. Gradually, the ratio of men to women was reversed.

Several men said their secretaries' typists and secretaries of the more tedious chores of secretarial work.

The secretary to the president of a large construction firm, who preferred to remain anonymous, said: "It's the attitude. You're a man and you're working for a man and you're talking man to man. . . . A woman gets loaded up with shopping and stuff. My boss wouldn't dare do that to me."

From the boss' point of view, there are several advantages to a male secretary, he said.

"I get my wife pregnant; I don't get pregnant," he said. "There's continuity. Some of these gals change jobs the way they change their dresses."

Old Possessions May Be Quite Valuable

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I am an antique collector and like to see old folk get fair value for some of their possessions. Would you inform people that old dolls can and often do have a very high value? Before giving, or selling them they'd do best to visit a library or reputable antique shop to establish any value.

Then if they still want to give the doll away, fine, just as long as they know first.

For instance, you had a request for an Eaton Beauty Doll (which is valued at around $200.) and just recently, someone wanted a set of Dionne Quint dolls (these are around $75). The people requesting did not mention these little facts, did they?

It is very admirable of you to try to get collectors some help in locating these, but I don't think it is fair. Poetry is quite one thing, but antiques or collectibles is another. Granted, some people might just want these dolls for sentimental reasons, but most have an eye on the value more and unfortunately many of our older folk get taken in.

Let's keep collectors out of your marvelous column, Miss Clark, please. — Antique Collector.

Dear Collector: Thank you for the warning. You'd be surprised how many times I have to avoid going into the collecting business.

Readers will be grateful for your warnings.

Dear Doris: A reader asked for help in locating a branch of the Family Planning Federation. I would guess that what the writer is asking for is knowledge of contraception techniques, rather than idealistic essays on the quality of family life.

I would also guess that for every reader who would obtain this information by a special letter to you, there would be six who would clip your column and pass it among friends. Perhaps among your literature you have a supply of pamphlets with simply prescribed and illustrated means of contraception.

Surely this knowledge would be a help and encouragement to the girl or woman seeking assistance from a perhaps somewhat disinterested doctor.

Until your family doctor has refused an examination and prescription, it is hard to believe it could happen in the 20th century — It Happened To Me.

Dear It Happened: Controversies about to - be - or - not - to - be, when it comes to giving out contraceptive information wholesale, are by no means over. Some still believe there should be no such thing as a contraceptive!

What I do have is a leaflet which recommends up - to - date b..ks on various aspects of sex and birth control; available (the list) for 20 cents and a self - addressed, stamped envelope. There are some excellent books, modern and well illustrated, to help the reader understand his or her own anatomy.

Certainly the family doctor is counted on to talk about these things — but sometimes he is a pretty busy man. Your best further resource is The Family Planning Federation of Canada, 96 Eglinton Avenue East, Room 206, Toronto, Canada. Ask for the address of their branch nearest you.

Dear Doris: What can you do for dark circles under your eyes? I am 14 years old and get at least 10 hours' sleep every night.

I think I am eating the right foods. I've tried many kinds of make-up but you can't wear make-up all the time. What can I do? — Miss Dark Circles.

Dear Miss: If you are quite sure you are well rested, circles must have another cause — perhaps a medical one.

Right now, by getting a complete physical examination, you might well prevent the unknown cause from making inroads on your health.

Perhaps you are not eating enough of the right foods. Quite possibly there are other things in your life which are contributing into the picture. Your family doctor is the one who can help you now.

Highway to North

Prime Minister Trudeau announced recently that construction will begin this summer on a 1,000 mile all-weather highway from the Alberta - Northwest Territories border to Tuktoyaktuk, N.W.T. There is already an existing highway from the Alberta border to Fort Simpson. Mr. Trudeau said the route would be carefully selected so that it would be of use if oil or gas pipelines were built along the Mackenzie Valley. (CP Newsmap)

Jobless Cheques Will Be Speeded

HALIFAX (CP) — Changes designed to speed up cheques are planned for September by the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Ray Perrault, parliamentary secretary to Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey, said Tuesday. He said difficulties experienced by the commission in January and February have been overcome.

Administrative problems in those two months "were exaggerated but, in any case, corrective action was taken and the situation is now near normal."

He told the annual meeting of Broadcasters the current number of problem cases is about the same as it always is at this time of year.

Mr. Perrault said much of the adverse publicity the commission received during the period came from critics who made no attempt to un..... the commission's problems.

"In fact, every mistake was invariably exaggerated to imply that no one was being paid."

Demonstrators at Bathurst, N.B., had claimed there were 200 delayed claims and the commission "found only 25 true cases after the names were provided. . .

"We had been a report in Toronto about the issuing of 300 cheques without a name or other information but "only one such cheque was ever found."

Some 102 cases in Kitchener "supposedly on welfare due to delayed unemployment insurance cheques, turned out to be only 39 when the commission asked for details."

Bill to Ban Civil Servant Strikes Debated

TORONTO (CP) — A bill which will prohibit 53,000 civil servants from striking was given a stormy second reading in the Ontario legislature Tuesday.

At the conclusion of the often bitter debate, 53 Progressive Conservative votes were enough for approval in principle. There were 28 Liberals and New Democratic party votes against.

The bill now goes to committee for further study and needs another reading in the legislature before it becomes law.

Speaker Allan Reuter several times called for order during the session as a series of opposition members criticized the bill, which lays down the rules of collective bargaining for most of the province's civil servants.

Charles MacNaughton, chairman of the provincial management board, referred to both the recent strike of civil servants in Quebec and the Toronto outside workers strike to bolster the government's position.

"If the province of Quebec had possessed the type of legislation that we are now discussing . . . they wouldn't have approached the scope and almost disaster of 200,000 people on strike, even violating certain decisions of the Quebec legislature."

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon remarked at the beginning of the two-hour debate that of the "people who collect garbage should have the right to strike."

He conceded that some civil servants, such as policemen, should have to submit to compulsory arbitration on contract disputes to ensure public welfare, but said the right to strike shouldn't be taken away from all civil servants.

"Blanket legislation of this type is bad legislation. . . ."

Ian Deans (NDP—Wentworth) said parts of the bill would be "a millstone around the necks of the employees," ensuring "that no changes in working conditions take place unless it happens to be at the will of the government."

Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party leader, termed the bill "a pernicious piece of legislation."

He said Mr. MacNaughton was telling the civil servants of Ontario they were not to be trusted.

No Tax Cut Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is not contemplating a reduction in personal income tax for the province's residents, Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Tuesday.

He was replying in the legislature to opposition questions on the new federal budget announced Monday night. Mr. McKeough said the federal government has seen fit, "in my view perhaps 12 months late, to stimulate the economy in exactly the same fashion that we (Ontario) chose to stimulate the economy a year ago—in terms of tax credits."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are planning on a trip through the Blue Ridge Mountains, Virginia, in the near future. Could you give us the mileage, a description and also a good route?

ANSWER: Spring is a good time to visit these beautiful mountains.

There is a 373-mile scenic drive, the Blue Ridge Parkway, connecting Shenandoah National Park in Virginia and Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee and North Carolina. It follows the crest of the Blue Ridge at elevations of 2,000 to 6,000 feet. At intervals along the drive are parking overlooks, which afford superb views of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The Skyline Caverns are one of the first attractions on the Parkway. Located on U.S. 340 at the northern entrance to the Skyline Drive, these known subsolite formations, flowerlike calcite formations which have excited geologists since their discovery in 1937. Other thrilling sights on a guided tour of the Caverns are Capitol Dome, Trout Stream, Rainbow Trail, the Painted Desert, Rainbow Falls, The Grotto of the Nativity, Cathedral Hall, The Shrine and Fairyland Lake.

An interesting and unusual feature of the drive is the solid grandeur of Marys Rock, not far from Thornton Gap, Va.

Other points of interest include a pioneer mountain farm reconstruction at the Humpback Rocks Visitor Centre, and an exhibit demonstrating the ecological relationships between plants and mammals at the Southern Highlands at the Peaks of Otter Visitor Centre.

Just north of the junction of the Parkway with U.S. 58, is Mabry Mill, a restored water-powered gristmill. Cornmeal and buckwheat flour, ground the oldtime way, are packaged and sold in the mill. There is also a pioneer industry display, including a blacksmith shop, sawmill, sorghum press and mint still.

Bringer Cabin at Mile 238, and Parkway Craft Centre at Mile 294 exhibit old mountain crafts, featuring textile weaving, basketry, furniture and tools. Hand-manufactured and homespun textiles are for sale.

At Mile 336, Linville Falls Recreation Area has picnic areas trails to overlooks of Linville Falls and Gorge. This is a choice spot for picnicking.

Craggy Gardens, near Asheville, is a 700-acre recreation area at an elevation of 5,600 feet in the Craggy Mountains, and is a magnificent sight when the rhododendrons are in bloom about the middle of June.

The speed limit of 45 miles per hour on the Parkway is strictly enforced. Because of its inaccessibility, it is advisable to keep the car's gas tank at least half full at all times.

A good route from Belleville to the Parkway is by 401 Highway to the Thousand Islands Bridge, Interstate 81 to Winchester, Va., and Route 522 to the Blue Ridge Parkway. The distance from Belleville to this point is approximately 595 miles.

An alternative route home could be to take Interstate 81 to Winchester, Va., Routes 7 and 340 to Frederick, Md., 15 to Corning, N.Y., 13 to Portland, N.Y., and 141 to the Thousand Islands Bridge.

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggists and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonfuls twice day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple way way to lose bothy fat and help you feel slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way as blessed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Office Costs Listed Wrong

TORONTO (CP) — An "honest error" led to confusion in accounting for funds to refurnish a cabinet minister's office in 1968, an Ontario legislature committee was told Tuesday.

The renovations were to the downtown offices of Darcy Mc-Keough, municipal affairs minister at the time. He now is provincial treasurer.

The issue came up in the legislature's public accounts committee which has been investigating charges by Thomas Smith that several departments use dummy invoices during the last month of the fiscal year for goods not yet received.

Mr. Smith, a clerk in the provincial auditor's department, said late purchases are made so that funds budgeted for the year can be used up.

N. E. Ellison, of the auditor's department, testified that $36,189.50, the bulk of it budgeted for renovating the minister's office, was improperly allocated to three different branches, instead of to the general office account.

A sum of $14,723.45 was assigned to the community planning branch, $8,797.82 to municipal finance maintenance, and $14,668.32 to municipal administration and assessment.

When the error was discovered, an adjustment was made by which unused funds from other branches were pirated to make up the amount.

"It was mentioned to me that they thought it was an honest error at the time," Mr. Ellison said.

William Ritchie, executive director of the auditor's department at the time, said he takes "full responsibility" for the manipulation, adding it "was lack of knowledge on provincial government procedures" that caused the mistake.

Bales Car Wrongly Certified

TORONTO (CP) — William Ritchie, executive director of the department of municipal affairs, said Tuesday there is "a clear contravention" of government regulations in charging $6,000 for a car for the minister of municipal affairs last year.

Mr. Ritchie told the legislature's public accounts committee that Dalton Bales, now attorney-general, needed a car upon his appointment in February, 1971.

Mr. Ritchie said Mr. Bales' car was finally delivered on June 5. He said the invoice certifying that it had been received at least two months earlier was countersigned by the deputy minister.

"It's no good telling a clerk he shouldn't sign for goods not received when a deputy minister is not merely slipping by regulations but has driven a two-ton brick through them," said Mr. Ritchie.

ALL ABOUT PICKUP CAMPERS, VAN CONVERSIONS AND MOTOR HOMES — John Gartner

It's that time of year again when the gypsy in all of us yearns to take to the open road. Today's gypsies do it in style, in sophisticated campers or trailers with every modern convenience. The author begins his book by defining the various terms used for these recreational vehicles and divides them into the three basic categories, as the title of this book implies. It is also a guide to help you to purchase the right recreational vehicle for your needs.

THE EDIBLE WILD — Berndt Gerglund and Clare E. Bolsby

With more people spending the summer months camping, there has recently been a renewed interest in edible plants. Most wild plants and fruits are edible, and since they have a longer growing time, in most cases their vitamin content exceeds that of vegetables grown in the garden. Designed primarily for those who have never used wild plants as food, there are illustrations of each plant, so that it can be easily recognized, and recipes for their use, many adapted from those used by early pioneer settlers.

COLOR IN YOUR CAMERA — Josta Skoglund

No summer trip would be complete if you did not take along a camera to preserve some of those happy moments. This book, written for both the beginner and the expert, deals with the basic principles of color photography, the camera itself and such technical fundamentals as focal lengths, lens speed, aperture, and exposure values. The aim of the author in writing this book is to help you obtain the best possible results from your color photography.

MALO'S COMPLETE GUIDE TO CANOEING AND CANOE-CAMPING — John Malo

If you have the urge to seek adventure, and get close to nature, canoeing is for you. North America was largely discovered and developed through its many water ways and the men in canoes; today this is still the best way to witness nature unspoiled. The author discusses the various types of canoes, strokes to use, portaging and the equipment needed to make repairs on a trip. The chapter on canoe-camping is full of information about light-weight camping gear and food, where to obtain maps and a list of some of the most popular areas for canoeing enthusiasts;

THE PURSUIT OF THE WILDERNESS — Paul Brooks

While conservation is a much discussed subject these days, what are we doing to save our remaining wilderness in North America? Paul Brooks, a leading conservationist describes six recent confrontations in defence of our environment together with examples of wildlife destruction and protection in other parts of the world. The author discusses three parts of North America where the wilderness is not only spectacular but under heavy pressure from would-be-exploiters.

FISHING MADE EASY — Arthur L. Cone, Jr.

Whether you're fishing for sunfish in a small pond or swordfish and giant tuna far out at sea, you will find this is a practical and entertaining guide to angling basics. This guide will help you select the best rod, reel, lures and bait for your purposes. "Fishing Made Easy" should help you catch more fish around home, and while you are vacationing far from your favorite haunts.

Marmora

Mr. Maurice Lynch is a patient in Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Charles Kelly is spending this week with relatives in Napanee and Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Jedke of Georgetown visited Mr. William Boyce at his summer home in Shanick on the week-end.

Word has been received that Dr. N. J. Coy of Cleveland, Ohio, became ill while visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coy, and is now a patient in Chaffee Hospital, Springville, N.Y.

Rousseau's Two Goals Make Trade Look Good

BOSTON (CP) — Bobby Rousseau silenced Broadway's boo birds Tuesday night, fulfilling a promise he made early in the season with New York Rangers.

Rousseau scored two goals 10 minutes apart in the third period to pull the Rangers into a 3-2 victory over Boston Bruins and send the two teams back to New York for the sixth game of the Stanley Cup final Thursday night, starting at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

The little centre scored only four goals for Minnesota North Stars last year when Emile Francis, Rangers' general manager-coach, acquired him in a straight trade for New York captain Bob Nevin.

The trade was greeted with scepticism by the Ranger fans who saw only a 21-goal scorer en route to Minneapolis and the arrival of Rousseau. He said he'd produce.

Francis stuck by his guns. Rousseau responded with a 23 goal season and the Rangers are still in the thick of the best-of-seven National Hockey League final with the Bruins who hold a 3-2 edge.

The 5-foot-10, 178-pounder from Montreal hadn't seen much action until Francis started juggling his lines early in the third period with the Rangers on the short end of a 3-1 score.

The changes were sudden and electrifying.

Rousseau heeded Francis's charges he wasn't shooting enough and at 2:36 blasted a 45-footer at Boston goaltender Ed Johnston. The goalie made the initial save but lost sight of the puck and it trickled under his pads.

About 10 minutes later, Rousseau got his second score off Boston defenceman Dallas Smith. The puck bounded over

BOBBY ROUSSEAU

"I've had sit shots against the Bruins in this series, and the last two went in," Rousseau said after the game.

"I think Johnston tried to squeeze the first one between his pads and it trickled through. On the second goal, I believe Dallas Smith touched the puck. . . ."

Francis praised Rousseau's effort, but said the tide changed in New York's favor late in the second period when the Rangers played two men short for 1½ minutes and held off Boston's vaunted power play.

"Brad Park, Jim Rolfe and Bruce MacGregor saved the game for us. . . . It was fantastic," the New York coach said.

Goaltender Gilles Villemure, he said, "played a tremendous game," with four or five key saves in the second period.

"When the fans threw stuff on the ice during a stoppage of play, that gave me a chance to rest the three men I had out there.

"When play started again, I put them back out there and they finished the job."

Park almost tied it with the Rangers two men short when he stole the puck at the Boston blueline and skated in alone on Johnston, using Mahovlich as a decoy.

Park's shot hit Johnston's shoulder, the cross-bar and bounded among the spectators.

"We played a fantastic defensive game," said a disgusted John McKenzie in the Bruin dressing room. "We started playing defensive hockey after we got the lead and played them too close.

Veteran defensive ace Ed Westfall agreed the Bruins "went 'Nail,' but they wouldn't play well, you've got to give them credit."

Ken Hodge, who along with Wayne Cashman scored first-period goals for Boston, faulted the Bruins' inability to direct their shots at the New York goal.

"We were missing so many shots . . . at the net," he said.

The Bruins, he was told, were credited with 28 shots at Villemure.

"We have to play the way we played Sunday if we're going to beat these guys," he continued. "They were beat out there with nothing to lose and we were trying to end it there."

McKenzie summed it up for most of the Bruin locker room as he sat around in a dejected mood.

"We didn't hit anybody."

Fillies Shape Up

GUELPH (CP) — The mother of a 16-year-old hockey player, fatally injured in a game here Friday, said Tuesday that her son had received three "hard bumps in the head" in games during the last six weeks.

But, said Phoebe Collins, mother of Paul Fendley, he was examined by the team doctor after each incident.

"I'm perfectly satisfied he received the best treatment and he was all right before he played" said Mrs. Collins, who remarried 6½ years ago after Paul's father died.

Fendley, top scorer for Guelph CMCA, was injured in a 3-0 win over Red Deer Rustlers that gave his team a 4-0 sweep in the Centennial Cup finals.

During third-period play he was checked, spun backwards and hit the ice after losing his helmet.

He died without regaining consciousness.

Injured earlier this season, he returned back to become the squad's top scorer in the play-offs with 14 goals and 18 assists in 26 games.

McNamara Stops Spokane Sweep

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — While Spokane Jets scratched their heads in disbelief at somewhat Tuesday night, Barrie Flyers predicted more of the same after rebounding for a 4-2 victory in the third game of the best-of-seven series for the Allen Cup and the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship.

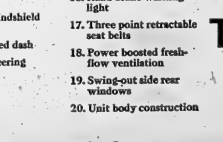
The Flyers, shut out 3-0 in the first game here Saturday and overwhelmed 8-3 Sunday, used tight-defensive play and the solid netminding of Terry McNamara to bewilder the Jets. Before the contest Spokane had been eyeing the possibility of a four-game sweep of the final.

Norm Johnson, coach of the Jets, readily agreed after the contest that "McNamara played a tremendous game." Spokane had a 45-21 edge in shots on goal.

"When you outshoot a team like that, it's a tremendous loss," Johnson said. "This is only the second time we've lost with statistics like that at home."

The first time was in regular season play against Kimberley Dynamiters, the Western International Hockey League team from Kimberley, B.C., which will be used for the fourth and fifth games of the series Friday and Saturday nights.

The Flyers bounded in a 3-0 lead before Spokane could get a shot past McNamara, saw the gap close to 3-2 in the second period, and then got an insurance marker in the third.



Tony Acorsi, winner of the OHA Senior A scoring crown, got the first goal of the game— and his first of the series—at 17:29 of the first period.

Expos Jolt Marichal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juan Marichal never has had a losing streak since joining San Francisco Giants in 1960. Starting this season, he had the best winning percentage among active National League pitchers with more than one year of service, compiling a .676 mark on 321 victories and 155 losses.

He had pitched 59 shutouts, tops among all active pitchers. He had the third best earned-run average in major league history, a 2.94 mark, behind Walter Johnson's 2.37 and Grover Alexander's 2.56.

He ranked 18th on the all-time list with 2,123 strikeouts. He broke into the major leagues with a one-hitter against Philadelphia on July 19, 1960. Giants' defence in the sixth inning helped saddle Marichal with his fifth consecutive set-back.

The Expos had nicked Marichal for a run in the third on John Boccabella's triple and Tim Foli's sacrifice fly and another in the fourth on Bob Day's RBI single, before scoring four times in the sixth with the help of four San Francisco errors.

Bob Bailey opened the sixth with a single and went to third when Marichal fielded Mare Jorgensen's bunt and threw the ball into centre field. Ken Fahrby then lofted a fly ball to centre. Bailey held third, but Jorgensen went to second when Dave Kingman bobbled Ken Henderson's relay throw.

After Ken Singleton was purposely passed, Day hit a grounder to second baseman Pua Fucentes. Fuentes booted the ball into right field, clearing all three runners to score. Day then came home on an error by shortstop Chris Speier.

Meanwhile, Mike Torrez checked the Giants on nine scattered hits for his second victory in two decisions, lowering his ERA to 1.40 in 25 2-3 innings.

"Every time they got a hit," he said, "it seemed like they were two out and I didn't run into too much trouble that way."

Montreal manager Gene Mauch said he thought Torrez had improved greatly over 1970, the season he started so well with St. Louis.

Chicago's Ferguson Jenkins, winner of at least 20 games in each of the past five seasons, hiked his record to 3-2, stopped Cincinnati on five hits, he lost his shutout on Johnny Bench's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth.

Dock Ellis, making his first appearance since being sprayed with mace in Cincinnati last Friday night during an incident involving a stadium guard, worked even longer, being combined with Bruce Kison for a six-hitter in Pittsburgh's victory over Atlanta.

WILLIE MAYS

Mets Can't Afford Mays

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays apparently won't be coming to New York after all — at least not in a New York Mets uniform.

The Mets said Tuesday that the San Francisco Giants' asking price was simply too high.

"They want players, not money," said M. Donald Grant, the Mets' board chairman. "I told them it was improbable the Mets could provide the personnel they need."

Thus the rumored prospective deal for one of baseball's superstars was cooled in a day.

The Giants were reported to have asked for infielder Ted Martinez and one of two pitchers, either John Mallack or Jim McAndrew. The Mets wanted to give the Giants money instead of players.

Mays said he wouldn't mind closing out his playing career in New York, but was annoyed at the way the situation has been handled.

Cleveland Pitcher Early Bird

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The baseball strike has been over less than a month but here comes Cleveland Indians' Dick Tidrow starting work earlier so he can stick around longer.

That may violate the basic rules of unionism but Tidrow won't complain if his prescribed earlier warm-ups enable him to pitch better . . . and longer. Tuesday night, the rookie right-hander came within one out of his first complete game in the major leagues as the Indians shaded Kansas City Royals 3-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit Tigers downed Chicago White Sox 5-2, Minnesota Twins beat New York Yankees 4-2, Oakland Athletics swept a twi-nighter from Milwaukee Brewers 10-2 and 3-0 and Boston Red Sox edged California Angels 4-3. Texas Rangers and Baltimore Orioles were rained out.

Tidrow, a 6-foot-4, 210-pounder who will be 24 on Sunday, began warming up 10 minutes earlier than usual Tuesday night.

"His problem was the first or second inning," explained manager Ken Aspromonte. "He never had that trouble before. It had to be in his warm-up. So we started early."

Tidrow had a two-hit shutout with two out in the ninth when Lou Piniella homered for Kansas City. After a walk and a single, Steve Mingori came on to get the last out.

Tidrow also delivered a two-out single in the eighth inning and Del Unser followed with a homer for the Cleveland runs. Piniella's home run ended a string of 34 scoreless innings by the Cleveland pitching staff.

The White Sox also ended a skein of 34 scoreless innings—by their punchless hitters, not their pitchers. The two runs they scored in the ninth inning were too little and too late to prevent their third consecutive setback.

Minnesota's Jim Kaat, the American league's winningest active pitcher, posted his 271st career triumph with help from Wayne Granger in the ninth as the Twins downed the Yankees despite New York homers by Felipe Alou and Thurman Munson.

Wireless Fritz Peterson was saddled with his fifth straight loss as the Twins scored three times in the second inning on a walk, Bobby Darwin's double, an infield out, singles by Phil Roof and Rod Carew and Cesar Tovar's double.

The Athletics exploded for the biggest inning in their five-year history in Oakland—19 runs in the fourth—and crushed the Brewers in their opener.

George Scott and Curt Motton homered for the Brewers, but they were blanked in the nightcap on five hits by Blue Moon Odom and Rollie Fingers.

Tigers Trade Kilkenny

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers announced Tuesday they have traded left-handed pitcher Mike Kilkenny to Oakland Athletics for outfielder-first baseman Reggie Sanders and an undisclosed amount of money.

Sanders, now playing at Birmingham in the Southern League, will be optioned immediately to the Tigers' farm club at Montgomery in the same league.

Kilkenny, 27, of Bradford, Ont., signed out the Toronto sandlots in 1964. He has been with the Tigers since 1969.

His major league career record is 19-7, with an earned run average of 4.46. His only appearance this season was April 20 when he pitched one inning against Chicago White Sox, giving up a ninth-inning home run.

Green Gaels On Exhibit

Lacrosse players in the Quinte area will have an opportunity to see the game as it should be played when a Junior A exhibition game will be held in Belleville.

The encounter, featuring the Oshawa Green Gaels against Mississauga, TOO's, is being sponsored by Frankford Minor Sports in an attempt to gain funds to start a minor lacrosse league in that area.

The Gaels, in particular have been one of the major powers in Canadian Lacrosse over the years. The Oshawa team captured the Minto Cup as national junior champions for several consecutive years beginning in 1963. The team has graduated a number of outstanding senior and professional players such as Brantford's Gerhard Peeters.

Mississauga figures to provide tough opposition for the Gaels; after stopping their 9-8 exhibition game to Oshawa last week.

The game is slated for Saturday, May 27 in Belleville Memorial Arena getting under way at 8 p.m.

Scales Beat Barbara

MIAMI (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin won 28 races in a historic career as the country's first winning woman jockey, but she's been sidelined by injuries and a losing battle with the scales.

She now is working in the information booth at Calder race track. At 130 pounds she is too tall for a jockey.

"I like this job," she says, "anything to keep me near horses."

Barbara Jo rode her first winner at Charles Town, W. Va. She also rode at Aqueduct where she spent most of those starts. In all she won 28 times in 98 races.

"I had a hard time learning to use the whip," she recalled. "But I discovered I could get to the gate faster then anybody."

Barbara Jo began gaining weight—she was still a growing girl—and tried reducing pills. They had a bad effect, making her tense and nervous.

"When I lost my ability to be completely relaxed as a horse, she said, "I lost my strongest element of my riding talent."

Then, last summer she was riding her quarter horse at her farm near Hollywood when the horse reared. He came down backwards with Barbara still aboard.

"It broke my pelvis and finished things once and for all."

"I've tried to get him interested in Beethoven or Mozart, but this is the only kind of music he likes!"

Getting Their Racquets Crossed

Mike Thompson of the Towers Food City bantams and Tom Coulson of Bobs Sports cross racquets in a Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association bout last night.

Coulson's successful check demonstrates the tough defence played by—Bob's throughout the game as they took a 4-2 decision from Towers. House league games will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Dick Ellis Rink with all-star teams taking over Thursdays.

Harness Driver Takes Horse by the Bit

Hill, helpless in the sulky, was bounced against the inside rail as Fiacco Joe raced on. The other drivers soon became aware of Hill's predicament and scattered wide.

Finally, Fiacco Joe successfully made the clubhouse turn and Hill decided it was time to stop the pacer. He climbed on the sulky shaft and leaped on top of the horse.

Grabbing the ends of the line, he yanked and Fiacco Joe pulled up.

Hill's cousin, Ron Hill, won the race driving Glorious Time. The horse paid $9.40, $5.20 and $3.30.

Downbeat Lobell won the featured sixth race and paid $24, $7.60 and $4.10. Downbeat Lobell led Shaway Blackie across the finish line to provide exactor bettors with an $80.50 payoff.

The daily double of Muddy Belle in the first and Bold Bruiser in the second paid $48.20.

NOT ENOUGH CASH

Devlin, who moved up from 20th to 19th with $44,721 for the year, still trailed No. 16 Lee Trevino by nearly $17,000.

With most of the leaders bypassing the Houston event, the only change in the standings from the week before boosted Grier Jones, who won $3,000 at Houston, into the No. 7 spot with $67,986. Bob Rosburg, who had been seventh but didn't compete, dropped to eighth with $65,361.

QUARRY BARELY WINS

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — Jerry Quarry, the world's No. 2 ranked heavyweight contender, narrowly outpointed Larry Middleton Tuesday in an all-American heavyweight 10-round bout. There were no knockdowns.

WOULDN'T SELL RIVA

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Laurin, Quebec-born trainer of Riva Ridge, this year's Kentucky Derby winner, said Tuesday that owners of the three-year-old earlier this year turned down an offer of $3.5 million for the horse. Laurin said the offer by Riva Ridge was made to Penny Tweedy's Meadow Stable by a syndicate "early this season."

CROWNED PRINCE SOLD

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Crowned Prince sold at auction two years ago at a record $370,000, has been re-sold for $1.2 million to the British bloodstock agency of Ireland and Capt. A. D. D. Rogers. The colt, a full brother to Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner Majestic Prince, will stand at stud at Lucan, near Dublin.

IRA FASTEST LAP

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Gary Bettenhausen turned in the fastest lap ever recorded at the 500-mile speedway here Tuesday, hitting an even 191 miles an hour. He thus became the favorite for Saturday's pole position honors as 38 cars put in an appearance on the 2½-mile oval.

STARS REALLY SHOOT

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Shooting Stars scored four goals in the last 31 seconds of play to defeat Brantford Warriors 21-18 in National Pro Lacrosse League action Tuesday.

Ali-Frazier Bout in '73

MARGATE, N.J. (AP) — Yancey Durham, manager of world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, says there isn't going to be a return fight with Muhammad Ali this year.

"Never mind what Jack Kent Cooke or anybody else says, there isn't going to be a return this year," Durham insisted at the champ's training camp here.

Cooke, owner of basketball's Los Angeles Lakers and hockey's Los Angeles Kings, promoted the first Frazier-Ali fight and has an option for the rematch. He wants to hold it in the Forum which he owns in Inglewood, Calif.

"Even before the first fight I had it in mind that if there would be a rematch, it wouldn't be held until 1973," said Durham.

Nets Nip Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — New York Nets held off a rally by Indiana Pacers Tuesday night to even their American Basketball Association championship playoff series at one game apiece with a 117-115 victory.

The Pacers, behind from mid-way in the second period by as many as 16 points, ran off 18 straight points in the final four minutes to take a 115-114 lead.

Addition to London Scene

The reborn Berkeley Hotel in Knightsbridge is a traditional-style addition to the London scene which has lately become dominated by concrete tower blocks. The owners say that in its luxury and individuality the hotel may be the last of its kind in Europe. The old Berkeley Hotel, in Piccadilly, was a noted society spot in pre-war years. (CP Photo)

Universal Symbols Are Sought By International Organization

GENEVA (Reuter) — The search for a universal symbol for woman that can be immediately understood by people of any country is just one of 20,000 problems for an expert committee which is trying to evolve an international language of symbols.

In a world of ever-increasing trade and travel, short-cut symbols are becoming vital for the technician or tourist who knows no foreign tongue.

The International Standards Organization here has set up a committee to co-ordinate all the 20,000 symbols already in use in the world and to design new ones. This could well be the first phase towards the development of an international language.

The ISO is a Geneva-based federation of the national standards institutes of 56 countries. It was set up in 1946 to help improve quality, increase production, lower prices and expand international trade by the development of common standards.

Many symbols have long won general acceptance — the skull and crossbones for poison or danger of death, the red cross or crescent for first aid, and an arrow or pointing finger to indicate direction.

In known road signs have generally been standardized so that a triangle is quickly recognized as cautionary notice and a circle as a ban. When any motorist will know that a triangle enclosing a cow means "Caution-Cattle Crossing" and a circle enclosing two cars side by side means "No Overtaking."

Standard signs for such facilities as baggage check-in, bank, parking and customs have also been adopted at the world's main airports.

But there is no satisfactory universal sign yet for such simple words as "No Smoking," "on" and "Off," "Push" and "Pull," or for a host of everyday phrases for which signs are needed.

Take this vexed question of "Woman," for example. The sign on most European lavatories is of a bell-shaped figure that corresponds roughly to the European short-skirted female. But it might not be a comprehensive in Asia.

At the 1967 Montreal world's fair the symbol for "women" on the toilets was a silhouette in a three-quarter length garment, but many men thought it represented a man in an overcoat and embarrassing confusion followed.

The committee has at least a dozen suggestions for a symbol for women before it, but none has yet won universal support.

The chairman of the committee's first meeting in Berlin last year, American industrial designer Henry Dreyfuss, indicates the paper symbols in international communication by the three simple signs he found stenciled on packages from the Soviet Union.

They were a pair of arrows indicating "This way up," a cracked goblet indicating "Fragile" and an umbrella to protect from damp.

However, he admits that in one African port the workers took the symbol of a cracked goblet on packages to mean that they contained broken glass and promptly threw them overboard.

Strategic Gaza Strip Seen Vital to Israel

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — this point was the immediate cause of the 1967 war.

The areas of occupied Arab territory that Israel is anxious to hold on to in any settlement of the Middle East conflict are becoming clearer.

Among them, judging by the latest pronouncements, is the narrow, strategic Gaza Strip, stretching along Israel's southwest corner.

Israeli leaders have said they will not give up significant parts of Arab territory occupied in the 1967 six-day war.

But the leaders, who insist they have not drawn any final borders, have been reticent on their attitude towards the strip —administered by Egypt until the war. It contains more than 350,000 Arabs, many of them refugees from the original Middle East upheaval on the creation of Israel 24 years ago.

Its inclusion in a map of Israel would be a departure from the government's general policy of not acquiring significantly more Arab citizens. The addition of the Gaza population would double the number of Arabs in the Jewish state.

Top Israeli ministers have been stressing that they will maintain control of the strip. This could be a reaction to Jordanian King Hussein's proposal in March of a new federation kingdom of Jordan that would include Gaza.

Israel has said it is prepared to return to Egypt most of the 23,622 square mile Sinai Desert —the largest single area of occupied land.

Israel insists however, that it must keep Sharm El-sheik at the tip of Sinai. This guards entry through the Gulf of Aqaba —Israel's oil lifeline—to the Red Sea port of Eilat.

The most complicated sector is the occupied west bank of Jordan. Before the war its border not only divided Jerusalem, but at one point severed Israel into a tight 12-mile waist between Jordan and the Mediterranean.

The Israeli government has declared it will not give up any of the Arab territory it occupied in the 1967 six-day war.

Dominion President J. C. Lundberg read the first lesson with Padre Gordon Humphries reading the second. The padre also read the Thanksgiving and Prayer after the dedication.

The church was filled to capacity and the service was followed by a delightful lunch served by the United Church Ladies.

The chairman of the sick committee reports that the sick list is getting shorter and hopes it will still decrease. All the following comrades are in the hospitals as follows: Mrs. Al. A. Adams, room 484; H. Smale, room 607; D. Gross, 691 and J. Luccisis, room 714.

Board Trying To Fire Teacher

REGINA (CP) — Judgment was reserved Tuesday on an appeal arising from the dismissal of a teacher who permitted her Grade 9 students to read an underground newspaper in class.

Margaret S. Gordon, 22, was fired by the Moosomin school board last Oct. 4 for "gross misconduct" in permitting her Grade 9 students to read a copy of the Vancouver-published Georgia Straight containing an article discussing the first sexual experiences of a 16-year-old girl.

However, Education Minister Gordon Matheson ordered the reinstatement of Mrs. Gordon's reinstatement.

The school board, which had acted because the mothers of three of Mrs. Gordon's students had complained about the Georgia Straight story, tried to have the minister's ruling reversed in Court of Queen's Bench.

Their attempt was turned down and they went to the appeal court.

No date was set for a decision.

Most Offenders Against Stud Ban from U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — United States motorists are hardest hit by Ontario's winter ban of studded tires, the legislature was told Tuesday.

The ban went into effect in 1971-72.

Solicitor-General John Yaremko said that during the first year of the ban, 667 charges were laid by provincial police. Of these, 535 were against Americans, 294 from New York alone, and 206 from Ontario.

There were 115 Quebecers charged in the roundup, three of Manitoba, one each of Alberta, two each from Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan, and one from New Brunswick.

Michigan Seeks Canadian Firms

TORONTO (CP) — In an avowed aim to lure Canadian businessmen to invest in his state, Michigan Governor William G. Milliken brought his travelling Revenue Investment Mission here Tuesday.

He told a luncheon meeting he was not here to try to take industry away from Canada but "about every dollar that will be returned to Canada."

"We are only here to show you that under, some circumstances it could be advantageous for your companies to expand their operations to Michigan," he said.

The governor suggested that the trade ties between Ontario and Michigan will no doubt be expanded as the economies of the two grow.

"As more of our larger corporations place more emphasis on world trade and become multinational in structure, I am sure we will see more of the kind of across-the-border investments and plant expansions that we are talking about here today."

He devoted most of this speech to a pitch for the state as an operational base for access to the rich market of the U.S. Midwest.

He argued that because Michigan's unemployment rate is higher than the United States average and more people continue to enter the labor market, the ready availability of skilled labor is helping to attract new plants to the state.

One important growth sector was the modular housing industry. He predicted the state would become the U.S. leader in this field within a few years.

The governor seemed genuinely puzzled when a reporter asked him if a Canadian firm that built a plant in Michigan could take advantage of the DISC program to export goods back to Canada.

Officials hurried to explain that DISC (Domestic International Sales Corp.) is a tax exemption program in Washington administered by the Internal Revenue Service and thus out of his jurisdiction. He seemed relieved to find it was not a direct concern of his.

A glossy book and much of the promotional material distributed during the day emphasized Michigan's direct connections with 70 per cent of the Canadian market.

Special State assistance for businessmen who want to plant in Michigan was detailed by Richard Helmbrecht, Mr. Milliken's special assistant for economic expansion and deputy state commerce director.

"We can help you cut tape," he said.

One program he outlined was a state plan for a foreign-trade zone at Sault Ste. Marie. Such a zone, he said, "allows an area to operate practically like a by giving the country without a flag.

These zones are considered to be outside the U.S. customs territory and duties become payable only when and if the goods enter the U.S. or any other country.

New materials which might have a high U.S. entry duty can be converted in the zone to manufactured goods which carry low or no U.S. duties. That's one of the advantages— there are many more."

Michigan already has such a zone operating at Bay City.

The mission has been to other parts of the U.S., will visit Europe and is thinking of opening an office in Japan in its search for capital.

NEW SHAKESPEARE

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Students at a local high school introduced an innovation to Shakespeare in their production of Midsummer Night's Dream by giving the play a South American setting rather than the traditional Elizabethan one. They said they felt this would have a greater appeal to a North American audience.

Hasty Pees To Ottawa On Sunday

Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment units from Belleville and Peterborough will go to Ottawa on Sunday, May 14, to take part in an Ottawa Militia District commander's inspection.

Ten units from the district, which takes in the Ottawa Valley and the St. Lawrence Seaway area will be brought together for the annual inspection by District Commander Col. Ben Shapiro.

In recent years, the units have been inspected on an individual basis.

Commenting on the decision to hold a combined inspection at Canadian Forces Base Uplands, near Ottawa, Colonel Shapiro said many of the younger members of the Militia had never seen their counterparts from other regiments in anything but "grimy combat clothing" in the course of weekend exercises at CFB Petawawa.

Hees Says Inflation A Threat

OTTAWA (Staff) — George Hees says inflation is again seriously threatening Canada and the government must reveal what control measures it is prepared to take.

The situation will be further aggravated by Monday's budget, the Prince Edward - Hastings MP claimed today.

His warning followed a Statistics Canada report today which he said showed a cost of living increase of six-tenths of one per cent in April — equivalent to a full-year increase of 7.2 per cent, said Mr. Hees.

This 'shows clearly that inflation has once again become a serious threat to the Canadian economy and steps must be taken to control it".

Monday's budget — with its corporation benefits — will "add considerably to inflationary pressures". Organized labor will "undoubtedly increase its wage demands to match the increased dividends" made available "and undoubtedly paid to shareholders, through reduced corporate taxes.

"For these reasons," said Mr. Hees, "the government must now indicate what steps it is prepared to take to prevent inflation" continuing to rise at its "steadily too-increasing rate."

The Great Pine Ridge Tourist Council, Cobourg, Ont., was awarded the first prize for the best over-all tourist promotion program.

Bay Ballet in Pursuit of Fish

Tony Donovan was in the mood to do some fishing yesterday and wasn't going to let a little thing like a flooded road stop him. To laughter and cheers from his friends on the other side, Tony went for a walk on up toe, to get to where the fish were. His precarious walk was to no avail and the three returned home with nothing to show for their day at the inlet at the south end of John Street.

When the water level goes down, the road will dry and swimmers will frequent the inlet to keep the fishermen company.

Milk Jug Draws Prober's Fire

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A disposable, three - quart plastic milk jug introduced here Monday, has been roundly slammed "by Pollution Probe.

An official of Dominion Dairies Ltd., distributers of Sealtest milk, has circulated a 34-page justification of the disposable plastic container that a Pollution Probe official has termed "ridiculous, a classic in its field".

A press release from Dominion Dairies' sales and marketing division protests the arguments in favor of the non-returnable jug.

It is made of polyethylene, a non-biodegradable plastic. That means it won't rot, in the ground, eventually returning to the soil the elements of which it is composed.

Sealtest gives three prime reasons for the ecological value of its new jug.

Humane Society To Meet Here

For the first time in 10 years, the Ontario Humane Society will hold its annual province-wide general meeting outside of the confines of Toronto.

The two-day program of lectures and meetings will be held in Belleville's Four Seasons Hotel May 26 and 27.

The sessions will include presentations of reports, by-law amendments, election of directors, and appointment of auditors.

Speakers will talk on subjects as wide and varied as polar bears, sport hunting, zoos and intensive farming.

It "incinerates readily and cleanly. Under efficient incineration it burns completely, yielding only carbon dioxide and water, both natural to the atmosphere."

But, says Pollution Probe, no "efficient incineration" methods are now in operation in the province. The only one it knows of is under construction in Toronto.

Local incinerators in the Brockville, Kingston and Belleville areas, where the non - returnable jug will be introduced, are incapable of breaking down the plastic and the result will be smoke pollution.

Industry has a responsibility not to market containers in areas without efficient disposal facilities," says Pollution Probe. "It is passing on pollution."

"Our new polyethylene container is eminently suited to disposal via sanitary landfill and open dumping, says Sealtest.

Sealtest argues that since its plastic is inert, it can't cause leaching into ground waters and is readily compostable, not contributing to land settling.

Since the basic principal of environmental control is the beneficial use of industrial products to natural elements, this three a hearty guffaw from Pollution Probe.

Final argument of Sealtest for the disposable jug eliminates the need for intensive re - washing with caustic solutions.

Caustic solutions used to wash milk jugs are of no harm to the environment, says Pollution Probe.

"Chlorine solutions would be, but dairies don't use them," said the Pollution Probe official. "Caustic solutions are harmless."

Sealtest added a postscript, processed milk is transported by trucks, it says. "The heavier the package, the greater the fuel consumption to move equal volumes of milk, and consequently the greater the exhaust emission into our atmosphere."

Since Sealtest's new plastic jug is lighter than the returnable jug, it adds fewer exhaust fumes to the air.

A Belleville grocery store manager had the answer to that one.

"Why should we buy from Toronto?" he asked. We have local dairies."

Sealtest sent out its press release "because you will appreciate our concern in developing a container of this kind, which may possibly give rise to misunderstanding by ecologically-concerned members of the public".

So what is the ideal, ecologically-sound milk container?

Pollution Probe says it's "an improvement on" the medium - weight, returnable bottle plastic jug developed by such firms as Mac's Milk and Beckers.

"Everything non-returnable is bad," its official said, flatly.

Expert Says Economic Aid Not Going Where Needed

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Canadian and other government-to-government foreign aid programs too long have been concentrating on providing the latest and most expensive machinery for underdeveloped countries.

Michael Lubbock, executive director of the Canadian Association for Latin America, further stated most of those people who benefit from such aid programs are the upper echelon of the society.

He was addressing delegates to the first regular Canadian Business and International Development conference held at the Four Seasons Hotel Tuesday. These conferences, scheduled for centers across the country, will attempt to show Canadian businessmen the increasing dependence of Canada's economy on the prosperity of other countries.

Mr. Lubbock, an acknowledged expert on the economic problems of developing countries and the trade opportunities which they represent, believes in many cases the wrong kind of aid is being poured into underdeveloped nations.

We've spent the last 15 years giving machines, telling them how to run themselves. That's what we've been doing to developing countries . . . until recently."

Within the last three years, he said, a change has swept the World Bank's economic concepts.

Before, the theory of enriching a nation is that the masses, had been a popular program. In this way, said Lubbock, the upper 20 per cent of the population fine their coffers while the masses "live in desolate subsistance."

"Now the bankers are not going to put their money into projects unless they are convinced it is a benefit to all concerned. Development is a matter of business, and not governments," he said.

While he indicated Canadian businessmen were not overly interested in the Latin American market, the former Peruvian banker said there is "a vast untapped market . . . for simple things," in these countries.

Rather than provide the poor farmer with a tractor, businessmen should be concerned about supplying him with a better shovel, hoe or possibly, horse-drawn plow.

"Many of these people are still living in the dark ages," he said.

Because few of the Latin American countries are well equipped with business administrators, the managing of such aid is often channelled into somewhat useless projects.

He cited several incidents wherein large firms had established the latest types of factories. Geared to high profits, they virtually overlook manpower as a source of labor.

Automation has no place in the jungle."

In order to project the type of aid required, Lubbock says developers must visit the countries and ask the people what is needed. With reference to one village, he said the village elders demanded a plaza square, rather than agriculture. It took, water, sewage disposals, or schools, which were offered.

They got the square at their insistance. What the elders were after was status

Guitar, Drum Duo Impressive

By EUGENE LANG

The 1971-72 series of the local Community Concert Association was brought to a conclusion last evening in RCI Auditorium before a sizable audience that was on hand to enjoy a novel and entertaining alliterative in the person of Jorge Morel Duo, consisting of the combination of guitar and percussion.

The celebrated Argentinian guitarist Jorge Morel exhibited a fantastic command over his instrument that at times astounded to virtuosic wizardry, encompassing in his playing every aspect of the use of the classical guitarist along with sundry effects not usually associated with this offshoot member of the lute family. Now add to this the amazing skill of percussionist Ralph Dorsey at the conga and bongo drums, here attaining effects of miraculous ingenuity with his dancing hands and you have a program of most unusual appeal.

The three opening solo numbers for the guitarist gave him splendid opportunity to demonstrate his playing skills in many facets. A tender melody soared above the perpetual motion accompaniment of the Study No. 1 of 19th century Spanish composer Fernando Sor. Measured pace of the sombre Sarabande of early German composer Leopold Weiss was the counterbalance to the spirited gait that the agile fingers of Mr. Morel traversed in the Gigue. The Leyenda of Isaac Albeniz was voiced with haunting chords set off against steady figurations while the same composer's "Seville brought forth an entrancing beat without an insistent pulse. Ida Cazarita of 17th century Gaspar Sanz led loose scope fast passage work in this Suite dance movement. Fellow Argentinian composer Fernando Bustamente's Milonera was a lesson in rhythmic revvy with Ralph Dorsey settling out to exemplify his digital acumen in its most lyrical. A short Paraguayan dance by Pablo Escobar, the teacher of our soloist brought the half way point of the program.

Three original works by Mr. Morel gave him vent to his compositional abilities, of which he proved to be a concoction of much better music than has emanated from more celebrated living composers. In Carnival, percussionist Dorsey broke out into a long cadenza of such complexity of labyrinthine rhythms that had not Yankee Doodle made his incursion into the conclusion of this long lick, all we needed was the howl of Tartan thrust over the pulsating poundings and the scene of

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, May 11: If Aries (March 21-April 19): If you can sense and put modern ideas to use, the future is assured for you. Changes come fast now and for some weeks ahead.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Observe and learn quickly; the next time isn't ripe for overt moves toward your most cherished goals. Side issues are useful to see where people stand.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): If you discuss your plans someone almost certainly disagrees or does not understand; therefore, use discretion and try to mend any past discord.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Local, short-term movement is indicated, with temporary solutions lasting a little longer than planned. Your judgment improves.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): It is unlikely that you can stick to routine or old habits; modern action in your experiments is advised, particularly when changing home arrangements.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take advantage of any chance to improve your financial security. Family and personal involvements heighten with very little special attention.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let old sores settle themselves in forgiveness. Loved ones deserve special attention this evening; may not show much of deeper feeling.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stop to reflect on your progress and position; resolve to better both. Suggestions from friends may be difficult to take, worthy of thought.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The written record turns out important. Take time to make one this busy day. Bring home a welcome surprise for your loved ones.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Ease pent tensions into present harmony. Much of what happens becomes interesting legend later, as people of different experience come forward.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Aside from rearrangement in home and working place, you should try to revise your emotional and mental approach to daily living.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Correspondence, comparison of notes, catching up on family and community news are favored today, being mainly on constructive, informative side.

To Your Good Health

Valley Fever Desert Illness

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After x-rays and other tests my doctor found that I have valley fever. I am told it affects your whole system, takes a long time to recover from and bed rest is recommended as much as possible.

At first I was so weak I couldn't write the "tracks of the storm. Now I am, oh, so much better. I have to go three days a week that I feel strong, then sham! the next two or three, so weak.

It is known in the West, but lately some cases are showing up here in Florida, although everyone I talk to says, "I never heard of it."—L.

Valley fever is most prevalent in the dry desert areas of the West and Southwest. Its medical name is coccidioidomycosis (coks-SID-i-oy-doh-my-KO-sis), which is quite a mouthful to pronounce unless you practice saying it. It is contracted by breathing in the spores of a fungus, coccidioides.

I wasn't aware it was appearing in Florida. Perhaps it is the East but the incubation period can be as long as a month. Did you by any chance visit any of the desert regions a few weeks before becoming ill?

Valley fever is often described as being flu-like in nature and can in many instances be mistaken at first for the flu. Both the chest and skin tests help identify it.

It takes a good deal in severity. Many times a patient isn't seriously ill, then again it can take a aphrenic form with recurrent bouts of fever and joint pain and skin lesions.

When necessary, there is a specific treatment with an antifungal drug but it has to be administered most carefully by your physician. Perhaps you have had or are having it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago I had a rash. The doctor said it was caused from the alfalfa tea that had been recommended for my arthritis.

Now I have a skin itch breaking out. Could this be caused by the alfalfa sprouts I am eating? My doctor has since passed away. Could you recommend some relief?—A.R.

If you were allergic to alfalfa in the form of tea, there's good reason to suspect that sprouts might be allergic to alfalfa sprouts.

Why not stay away from alfalfa in any form and see if it doesn't help? The alfalfa tea won't help your arthritic anyway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about the 14-year-old pregnant girl and my heart went out to her, for I was there once and I felt the turmoil she is going through.

Perhaps advise her to go to her clergyman. It seems beyond human imagination for you to have to tell your parents you're not such a heart-breaking tale. Our clergymen are prepared and experienced in "telling parents."—Mrs. C.C.

I'm sure that is excellent advice but many youngsters don't have a clergyman. I'm sure that there are clergymen or other counselors who would be glad to help a stranger, though.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It has been stated that beekeepers never get arthritis. Is this because bee venom prevents arthritis? I have never seen a beekeeper with arthritis.—I.S.

Bee venom has been tried as a treatment for arthritis and it didn't work. However, it is true that beekeepers never have arthritis. I don't know why. I don't know if bees ever have bees.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

Most hands are simple, everyday affairs. Both sides give their all and the outcome follows a predictable course.

But there are hands where simplicity is not enough and where a player must do something extra-special for the best result to be achieved. Such hands are rare, but they are uncommonly fascinating when they do occur.

Consider this deal from a team match. At the first table, South got to four spades and West led the queen of hearts.

East won with the ace and decided that his best chance of defeating the contract was to get a club ruff. Accordingly, he returned a club at trick two.

This method of defense proved to be eminently successful when declarer won the club in dummy and played a trump to the king and ace. West returned a club, which East ruffed, and West later scored a second trump trick to put Souths down one.

But at the second table, against similar bidding and defense, declarer made the contract. Again East won the heart lead and returned a club.

Declarer was in dummy and played a trump, exactly the same as at the first table. But when East played this with the ten, South played low from his hand and, when there was nothing the defense could do to defeat the contract.

South's duck of the spade was extremely unusual, but it was also well reasoned. Declarer realized that if West had three trumps to the ace, which seemed highly likely, it would be sheer suicide to cover the ten with the king in view of the impending club ruff. South could not be absolutely sure of the adverse trump holding, but he backed his judgment to the hilt and emerged with colors flying.

Second Child Dies

Young Mother Lacked Help

TORONTO (CP) — A social worker said Tuesday that lack of help for a young mother was partially to blame in the death of the woman's child. It was the second of her children to die in 2½ years.

Barbara Chisholm, a free-lance child welfare social worker who lectures at McMaster University, was testifying at an inquest into the death of two-month-old David Covell who was found dead in his crib Oct. 21, 1971.

The boy's mother, Linda Covell, 21, previously lost another baby who died of pneumonia at about the same age as Donald.

Miss Chisholm said Mrs. Covell, whose husband is serving a sentence in Burwash Correctional Centre, is an immature parent who left home shortly after she was 14 and has a Grade 9 education.

Such mothers need help and often are not able to get it from their families, she said. Society should extend help to such mothers and not wait for them to look for help.

Miss Chisholm said, however, that such help is often rejected when offered by professionals.

Coroner A. E. Noble testified that Donald had three broken ribs but said the injury did not contribute to the infant's death. He also said the child had a severe diaper-rash but this was not uncommon.

The jury found Mrs. Covell blameless and recommended more aid and knowledge be made available to young parents.

Native Council Finances Inquest

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Ottawa-based Native Council of Canada announced Tuesday it will pay legal fees at the new inquest to be held into the death of 55-year-old Chilcotin Indian, Fred Quilt.

And council president Tony Belcourt said native leaders from across Canada will be at the hearing in Kamloops under Judge D. F. McNeill of Quesnel, acting as coroner.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson's request for a second inquest is still awaiting British Columbia Supreme Court action and no date has been set.

The first inquest, held in Williams Lake, B.C., found that Mr. Quilt's death was unnatural and accidental and placed no blame. Indian leaders claim he was kicked by one of two RCMP officers who removed him from his truck.

Assessment Rolls Won't Be Supplied

CHATHAM (CP) — The province will not supply copies of assessment rolls to Ontario separate school boards because it would cost too much, Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough has advised Kent Separate School Board.

In a letter Tuesday to Stan Charbonneau, Kent Separate School Board superintendent, Mr. McKeough said only municipalities have a "real need" for copies of the roll, in the form of a computer print-out, and that they are getting them free.

The Kent board was one of many across Ontario that backed a resolution asking have copies of the roll made available through assessment offices.

Mr. McKeough said the cost of reproducing additional computer print-outs was the main factor in the decision.

But he added that if school boards arranged to have printouts reproduced at data centres of their own choices, the province would supply copies of computer tapes.

Pickering Outing Planned

TORONTO (CP) — The country folk near here have invited the city folk to see just what "good living" is all about.

The country folk are the residents of Pickering Township which is designated as the site of Toronto's second international airport. They are also members of People or Places, a group which doesn't like the airport plan.

They want the citizens of Toronto to see why.

So they have arranged a "celebration of the natural beauty of Pickering Township and the creative spirit of its people" this weekend. The celebration will include tours of old houses, dirt shows, bake sales, quilting, kite- flying, sheep shearing and a horse show.

Travel Ads Inaccurate Is Claim

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto law professor says it is astounding that no prosecution has been directed against "inaccuracies and misrepresentations" in travel advertisements.

Professor William Neilson of Osgoode Hall Law School told the Retail Council of Canada Tuesday that package tour and charter flight advertisements "abound with inaccuracies."

He said he hopes sections on advertising and promotions in the proposed second version of the Competition Act will invite investigation of such advertisements.

Moored atop a barge, a 650-ton reactor assembly is towed by barge past Sarnia, Ont., on its way to the Bruce Nuclear Power Generating Station at Douglas Point on Lake Huron which is currently under construction. ## Horizons for Aged Follows Youth Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Horizons for the Aged program mentioned in the Monday night budget speech will be similar to the Opportunity for Youth program already in effect.

Finance Minister John Turner said in his budget speech that Health Minister John Munro would announce details of the program "shortly."

Government sources said Tuesday that the program, still being formulated, will make money available to senior citizens, as it now is made available to young people, to organize community and other projects. But unlike the OFY scheme, the senior citizens will be allowed to launch profit-making projects.

The government is expected to provide about $16 million initially, but officials said this could grow rapidly if there is an enthusiastic response.

Ironically, just a few hours before Mr. Turner delivered his budget speech, the Commons effectively killed a private members' bill that would have established such a program.

Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey-White Rock) had introduced the bill to set up a program for the aged, based on the Opportunity for Youth scheme.

Science Fair

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Ninety-eight students from across Canada converged on Sarnia Tuesday for the week-long Canada-wide Science Fair at Sarnia collegiate and technical school. They are area winners among more than 15,000 young Canadians who entered science fairs this spring and will compete for awards, including a trip to London, England.

Women Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Two women who failed the civil service test of lifting a 35-pound barbell over the head with one hand filed suit in court Monday contending that the requirement is a silly and discriminatory against the female sex. Marilyn Sontag, 36, and Sophie Szepinoff, 58, took the test to gain permanent status in their jobs as audio-visual technicians at Hunter College.

When Victoria became queen, there were ten Deputy Postmasters General, one for Upper and Lower Canada and the other for the Maritimes.

Thief Fed Up

TORONTO (CP) — A man who robbed 18 Toronto banks and trust companies surrendered to police Monday because he was "fed up" with thieving.

David Wartzner Wilson, 33, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to ten counts of robbery Tuesday before Provincial Judge P. J. Bobby. He will be sentenced May 19.

Trudeau Takes Grave View Of Nixon Action in Vietnam

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mitchell Sharp, Canadian external affairs minister, said Tuesday Prime Minister Trudeau takes a grave view of President Nixon's new policy in Vietnam.

Sharp told reporters that he and Trudeau were sitting together in Canada's House of Commons Monday night when they received the word about a half hour before Nixon revealed it in a televised address. Aides relayed the news to him, and he whispered it to Trudeau.

"When I told the prime minister, he took a very grave view of the situation. We both agreed not to jump into making any ad hoc remarks."

Sharp added that Canada hasn't yet developed an official reaction to the Vietnam decision and would be unlikely to do so while he was in the U.S. on a friendly visit.

"The strongest feeling in Canada regarding Vietnam is one of great regret that the United States is involved. It is not an anti-American feeling.

"We are determined that we will remain distinct from Americans. Canadians will always be very friendly toward the United States even if we are not the same."

In an address to the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, Sharp said current Canadian trade and foreign policy is aimed at avoiding a trend toward "total dependency upon the United States."

Statement Refused

OTTAWA (CP) — It is not right to "talk of escalation only by one side" in looking at latest developments in the Vietnam war, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Tuesday.

Replying to a string of questions, mainly by New Democrats, Mr. Trudeau rejected the idea of a Canadian statement on the war now. He said Canada is still trying to ascertain the latest facts, and suggested the best hopes for a reduction in the fighting lie in the planned trip to Moscow in two weeks by U.S. President Richard Nixon.

The United States accounts for about 67 per cent of Canada's exports and about 73 per cent of its imports, he said.

When the high degree of U.S. ownership of the Canadian economy was added, Canada became vulnerable to "the vicissitudes of the American market and to changes in your economic policy."

To offset this, Canada was seeking maximum diversification of export markets.

Ground Proper Place To Stop Hijackings

MIAMI (AP) — The place to prevent hijackings is on the ground, say Canadian researchers. They recommend that air crews confronted by a hijacker should keep him calm, obey his instructions and avoid heroics that could cost lives.

The Canadian physicians, pilots and psychologists studied several dozen American and Canadian hijackings and concluded that air piracy is here to stay.

At a meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association, Maj. William McArthur said the study had determined that "the role of hijack prevention belongs on the ground, and the role of the aircraft crew is to move the aircraft and its passengers from departure to the arrival point as safely and comfortably as possible."

McArthur, a pilot-physician from Canada's Defence and Civil Institute of Environmental Medicine, said air crews should not offer the hijacker drinks, avoid showing in-flight movies and look the hijacker in the eyes when talking to him.

Offering food or drinks to a hijacker could cause him to become suspicious or upset him. All conversation with a hijacker should be carried out in short, simple statements delivered in quiet tones, he said.

Highway-2 Widening Biggest Job in Area

The widening of Highway 2 between Trenton and Belleville to four lanes and the construction of an overpass over the CPR tracks at the cemetery crossing west of the city, is the major provincial roads construction project for the Quinte area this year.

The Belleville — Trenton highway construction job is the major project for this area listed by the Ministry of Transportation and Communications in its 1972-73 highway construction program.

One other large highway project to go ahead this year is the construction of an overpass over the CN double tracks just west of Napanee on secondary highway No. 802.

Other projects int he Belleville area listed in the construction program include deck replacement for the two Highway 14 bridges over the Bay of Quinte between Belleville and Roseneer; paving of Highway 62 between Foxboro and Stanrobe — a distance of 16.1 miles — and construction of a new bridge over the Trent River and canal on Highway 33 at Frankford.

The Frankford bridge over the Trent River has been in the planning stage for several years.

Stirling Reeve Refutes Bush

Stirling Reeve Robert Aedersen today questioned a statement attributed last week to Sidney Reeve Jack M. Bush that Hastings MPP Clarke T. Rollins "had as much-to do as anyone with the withdrawal of Stirling from the Quinte Planning Board."

The statement by Reeve Bush was made at last Thursday's planning board meeting at which it was learned that four member municipalities— Trenton, Brighton and the townships of Brighton and Murray — wanted to opt out of the board.

Last year Stirling asked that it be allowed to withdraw from the Quinte Planning Board to join the Hastings County Planning Board and this has been officially approved by Municipal Affairs with a carbon copy going to Mr. Rollins as MPP for Hastings.

Department of Municipal Affairs with a carbon copy going to Mr. Rollins as MPP for Hastings.

"I just want it clarified that Mr. Rollins had nothing to do with it" (Stirling's withdrawal from the Quinte Planning Board) Stirling Reeve Anderson told The Intelligencer today.

"There was no pressure from Stirling through Mr. Rollins," he said.

He said the move to withdraw from the Quinte Board had originated with a recommendation from the local planning board to village council which in turn had forwarded a resolution to county council.

Reeve Anderson said there was no objection from county council and the resolution was accordingly forwarded to the

as in the Quinte Board, of which it was an official member.

With its withdrawal from the Quinte Planning Board now officially approved Mr. Anderson said Stirling would become an official member of the county board.

CP News Briefs

Families Get Welfare Book

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government is sending a booklet to help them ensure fair treatment by welfare administrators a spokesman for the department of community and social services said Tuesday.

The spokesman said the 41-page booklet is being sent to all persons receiving provincial welfare last March. Everyone applying for provincial welfare will receive the booklet.

He said the booklet tells recipients and applicants how to calculate their own welfare allowance and how to appeal to the Welfare Review Board.

Copies of the booklet also are being sent to private social welfare agencies, poor peoples' groups, community organizations and libraries throughout Ontario.

Doctors' Fees Will Stay Same

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Medical Association has voted to make no change in its fees next year, disregarding its traditional practice of increasing fees every two years.

The last increase was in 1971, but at the association's annual meeting Tuesday the doctors said they would make no changes at least until May, 1974.

Dr. E. J. Moran, chairman of the committee on economics, said the advent of medicare-care insurance late in 1967 had confused the usual factors used to revise the fee schedule. There was no logical basis doctors could use to defend any change in fees in 1973.

Purse Stolen

TORONTO (CP) — About 25 persons ignored a woman's cries for help and watched a taxi driver chase a purse snatcher for a block, police said Tuesday.

Georgina Zilgi, 35, told police she was riding on a bus Monday night during rush hour when she saw a youth's hand reaching into her purse.

Control Feared

OSHAWA (CP) — Government moves towards administrative control of hospitals threaten the effectiveness of individual hospital boards, the president of the Canadian Hospital Association said Tuesday.

William Holland, who also is administrator of Oshawa General Hospital, made the comment in a statement marking the observance of Canada Hospital Day this Friday.

Research Needed

TORONTO (CP) — There is a pressing need for the correlation of transportation research "to reduce unnecessary spending," the Ontario minister of transportation and communication said Tuesday.

In a speech prepared for a Roads and Transportation Association of Canada meeting here, Gordon Carton said transportation research would be one of the major roles of his ministry.

Budget Attacked

SASKATOON (CP) — Roy Atkinson, president of the National Farmers Union, describes the latest federal budget as "crooked" and containing nothing for farmers.

"It's a perfect example of the state being used by the rich and powerful to lift a cool $500 million from the pockets of the rest of us," he said Tuesday in a prepared statement.

Greenpeace Talks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Radio contact with the protest vessel Greenpeace Three was made Tuesday, ending a five-day communications black-out.

Dorothy Metcalfe, wife of Ben Metcalfe, the Greenpeace Foundation chairman, said she received a report from Auckland radio stating that contact had been made with the 35-foot ketch. There was no mention of the condition of the ship or its five-man crew.

Militia Noisy

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — South St. Catharines residents were wakened from their sleep Friday night by what sounded to them like an invasion.

Complaints about the noise came in dozens to the Niagara Regional Police who, at 5:30 Saturday morning, had to put an end to manoeuvres of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment of the militia. The secret manoeuvre that night was intended to "defend" power stations in the area from an "enemy" infiltration attempt.

Tweed

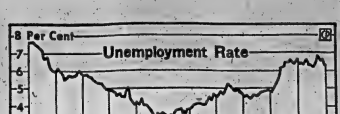
Ken Callahan, of Arthur Street, Tweed is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital Kingston, where he recently underwent surgery.



Mrs. Mary Dunn, of Metcalfe Street, Tweed, has sold her home, and has already left for her new home in Clinton, Indiana, USA.

Disappointed

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Council of Veterans Associations expressed disappointment Tuesday at the 2.6-per-cent increase in veterans' pensions announced in Monday's federal budget.

Records Bad

HAMILTON (CP) — R. W. Gammon, president of the Ontario Insurance Agents' Association, said Tuesday the good records of most automobile insurance companies are spoiled by the poor claims-paying records of "10 or 12 companies controlled from outside Canada."

Job Outlook Uncertain

The government economic review of 1971, tabled in the Commons recently by Finance Minister John Turner says the outlook for the jobless is uncertain. Graph shows the seasonally adjusted unemployment pattern from 1961 to 1971. The review says that unemployment is "the priority problem of economic policy." (CP Newsmap)

Car Purchase Timing Bad

TORONTO (CP) — William Draper, safety director for the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, admitted Tuesday to imperfect timing in his purchase of an executive-driven car owned by Ford of Canada while the company was appealing a board fine.

Asked by Patrick Lawlor (NDP—Toronto Lakeshore) whether he thought the purchase of the car at the time was "altogether prudent" Mr. Draper replied:

"It was done, sir, in all honesty. I suspect that the timing was not perfect."

He agreed with Mr. Lawlor that a man in his position, who makes recommendations on appeals on assessments for poor plant safety records, should use "utmost discretion."

Mr. Draper purchased the car, a 1969 Mustang with 4,753 miles on it, through an Oakville dealer before Ford's first appeal, which was denied.

Earlier, S. Wallace Fear, manager of Ford's policies and procedures department, testified that the company made no consideration for Mr. Draper in determining the selling price. The "regular formula price" was arrived at by discounting the $3,222 book value of the car to the company by 21 per cent.

He said the $1,100 allowed for Mr. Draper's trade-in was negotiated between the WCB safety director and the Oakville dealer.

Pepin Talks in B. C.

Don't Take It Out on Quebec

VANCOUVER (CP) — "If the people of B.C. are not happy with Ottawa, they should make direct representations, direct pressure to that government," federal Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Tuesday night.

"Don't transfer your frustrations on to Quebecers," he told a meeting at which Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford was nominated by acclamation to run for the Liberals in the next federal election in Vancouver Centre.

Mr. Pepin said: "We can all work to give more power to B.C. and Quebec in Ottawa."

He complimented Premier W. A. C. Bennett of B.C. for his plans to encourage secondary industry and farm processing and offered the "unqualified support and use of his federal industry, trade and commerce department in this connection.

Mr. Basford said major changes in the National Housing Act are being discussed with the provinces and are almost ready for introduction.

"They are carefully researched new departures which will promote programs of assisted home ownership, rehabilitation and repair of existing housing, plans to improve and rehouse a whole neighborhood rather than bulldoze them away," he said.

Mr. Basford said recent government efforts in housing have been almost exclusively devoted to providing some form of assisted housing for senior citizens, for those on low incomes, for the disadvantaged."

But a new policy must be devised to help people as newly-married couples, young families and generally those of modest means find easier access to housing, he said.

Mr. Basford said that within a week or two he will introduce legislation to establish a residential mortgage bank and a new form of mortgage investment company to assist the private sector in keep a steady stream of funds going into housing."

New York Assembly Votes

Abortion Stand Reversed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York state Assembly approved a bill Tuesday that bans abortions except to save the life of the mother, reversing the stand it took two years ago to allow abortion virtually on demand.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller reiterated his determination to veto any bill repealing the liberalized law, under which at least 300,000 abortions have been performed.

The 78-to-68 assembly vote followed an intense political struggle over the issue, with pro-denial and abortion, demonstrators pro and con clogging the halls of the Capitol and a statewide campaign spearheaded by the Catholic Church against the liberalized law.

The bill still must be acted on by the state Senate, where debate is expected later in the week.

Terence Cardinal Cooke, Archbishop of New York, released a letter Saturday from President Nixon supporting the Catholic Church's stand against the abortion law.

Maritimes Workers Discontent

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An 'ear to the ground' may be the best way to find out why civil servants are dissatisfied, Nova Scotia's public works minister was told Tuesday as legislatures there.

At Halifax NDP Leader Jeremy Akerman gave Public Works Minister George Riley the ear-to-the-ground suggestion and said he has representations from an "inordinate number" of civil servants expressing dissatisfaction. Later he said these were mainly from hospital workers.

The Nova Scotia house also heard Education Minister Peter Nicholson refuse to disclose further details of a wage offer to the provincial teachers union which is to vote on a 10-per-cent increase over 19 months.

It also heard that if Halifax policemen fail to accept a report expected today and go on strike, arrangements have been made to provide law enforcement. Attorney-General Leonard Pace said they were similar to those made in a two-day Sydney police strike last year, when RCMP moved in, although the Sydney force kept a skeleton staff on duty.

In other provinces:

Fredericton—There may be new mining laws available on New Brunswick's north shore during the next year, Wilfred Bishop, acting economic growth minister, said. He expected "quite a large number of new jobs" would be created at the Brunswick Mining and Smelting Corp mines near Bathurst. Possibility of a new zinc smelter for the area was also mentioned.

Hundreds of men lost their jobs last winter when area companies reduced production.

Sports Firm Is Linked To Mafia

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigator for a House of Representatives committee said Tuesday there is a link between the biggest national sports concessionaire and what he called a Mafia-controlled racetrack near Detroit.

Michael Hommer, an investigator for the House select committee on crime, sought to establish this connection as the panel began a month-long inquiry into the extent of criminal infiltration of professional sports.

Hommer said that Emprise Corp., which owns food-and-drink concessions at scores of sports facilities across the U.S., channeled $750,000 for stock in the Hazel Park track through a Mafia underboss who later became president of the track's racing association.

The accused Mafia figure, Anthony J. Zerilli, along with three others subpoenaed to testify before the committee starting Wednesday, showed no reaction at the testimony and declined to comment after the hearing.

Sugar Beet Aid Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — The government could encourage the establishment of a strong sugar beet industry in southwestern Ontario by demanding that 20 per cent of all sugar sold in Canada be domestically produced, the Commons agriculture committee was told Tuesday.

A delegation of southwestern Ontario farmers was making an official appearance before the committee to argue their case for a national sugar policy that would limit imports of cane sugar from Australia, South Africa and other countries now supplying about 90 per cent of Canada' need.

Committee members were receptive to the farmers' proposal and chairman Bruce Beer (Lt-Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe) indicated the committee would extend its study of the sugar beet situation.

Quebec Protests Go Into Third Day

Town Normal After Riots

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — This strife-torn town on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River returned to normal early today after a day of battles between supporters of three jailed labor leaders and police, Mayor Donald Gallienne reported.

"It's very peaceful today," the mayor said in an interview.

About 75 provincial policemen arrived Wednesday night as reinforcements after the town had been virtually shut down during the day by demonstrators.

A group calling itself the Sept-Iles Workers' Committee said there would be a meeting of all workers today at the sports arena. The committee said it would "explain the situation to all workers."

The provincial police reinforcements, equipped for riot duty, arrived here late Wednesday from St. Hubert, near Montreal, on a Canadian forces aircraft.

They waited at the airport for about four hours because the road leading from the airport to the town was blocked by vehicles strung across the artery.

About 11 p.m., the police moved in and commandeered school buses. Escorted by a road grader and six police cars, they cleared up the roadblock and went to the courthouse.

At the courthouse, police found several windows smashed and two police cars in several pieces around the courthouse grounds. There were burn scars from unsuccessful fire bomb attempts on the side of the courthouse building.

Radio Station Again Occupied

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — Police were called in early today to evacuate about 30 union members from radio station CKJL, the scene of a similar occupation Tuesday. Station owner Jean Lalonde said the workers, from Regent Knitting Mills, moved into the station about 8:15 a.m. They were cleared out by municipal and provincial police 30 minutes later.

Two Ministers Said Quitting

QUEBEC (CP) — The third straight day of labor unrest hit the province today as thousands of union members continued walkouts protesting both the jailing of three Quebec union leaders and their own working conditions.

Published reports said two cabinet ministers had given their resignations to Premier Robert Bourassa, blaming federal government policies for undermining provincial social welfare objectives. The premier was reported to have appealed to them at a cabinet meeting Wednesday night to stay on during the current labor problems.

Police in Thetford Mines, 70 miles south of here, said a general strike was in progress today in the town of 21,000.

"Mine workers and others in the public service—teachers, government employees and all —are staying off the job," a police spokesman said. "We have had no incidents of violence so far."

At Sept-Iles, 400 miles northeast of here, order was returning today after police reinforcements were flown in following violent clashes Wednesday between police and workers who virtually took over the town and held its radio station for about 12 hours.

In Montreal 400 garage mechanics who service buses and subway trains for the public transit system left their jobs to join other sympathy walkouts across the province protesting the imprisonment Tuesday of Marcel Pepin, Louis Laberge and Yvon Charbonneau.

Union leaders said thousands of construction workers, who stayed away from building sites in Montreal and Quebec City Wednesday, were continuing the walkouts today.

Motor traffic was in turmoil early today in Montreal after heaps of nails were dumped on one bridge and a main expressway. Police said the nails on the west-end Mercier bridge across the St. Lawrence River and on the north-end McDropolitan Expressway could "be tied in with the labor conflict."

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette told the Quebec national assembly Wednesday night that Sept-Iles, a town of 11,000, was the hardest hit in the province Wednesday. Seventy-five riot-equipped police were flown in from Montreal to bolster police already in the community.

The justice minister said provincial police had been asked to organize "special counter-guard units" to deal with crisis situations in the province.

More than 1,000 demonstrators carrying baseball bats clashed with about 100 police in Sept-Iles. Ten demonstrators were treated for cuts and bruises and released from hospital.

Traffic Snarled

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal traffic was in a turmoil early today after what appeared to be planned actions of sabotage stopped all traffic on two bridges and an expressway.

The Mercier Bridge in western Montreal was closed to traffic after heaps of nails were dumped at the north and south entrances to the bridge.

Traffic on the Victoria Bridge over the St. Lawrence river was backed up for "at least three miles" he said because a car was burning on the bridge.

The west-bound lane of the Metropolitan Expressway in the north-end Montreal was also the victim of a carpet of nails.

Explosions Do Little Damage

Bombs Aimed at Subway

MONTREAL (CP) — Two small bombs exploded at two separate small power stations servicing this city's subway system today, causing some damage but not interfering with normal operations, a spokesman for the Montreal Urban Community Transportation Commission said.

The rectifier stations, two of 22 across the city which provide electricity and ventilation to the 13.5-mile subway system, were repaired within hours of the explosions.

The first, at a station at 9281 Berri St., at the north end, involved "about two sticks" of dynamite, a police spokesman said. It went off at about 5 a.m., blowing apart a mass of circuit breakers and junction boxes.

While investigators were sifting through the debris, another explosion occurred at a station at 180 Berri St. in the downtown area.

The blast punctured the side of the transformer.

Earlier, the police comm squad was called out to search a mail box on the steps of city hall after an anonymous telephone caller reported than a bomb had been planted in it. Nothing was found.

The explosions occurred shortly after police had cut a swath through picket lines set up by striking transit garage mechanics, allowing buses to go out on their normal routes.

Moscow Protests

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet Union issued a firm protest today over the U.S. blockade of North Vietnam but in doing so made no reference to President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Russia. It demanded that the blockade be lifted immediately.

The Soviet government denounced Nixon's mining of North Vietnamese ports and other Vietnam war moves as "fraught with serious consequences for international peace and security."

News Briefs

Russians See Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met today with two ranking Soviet officials in a surprise session that might indicate his North Vietnamese moves will not wreck the May 22 Moscow summit. The White House described the meeting between Nikolai Patalichev, the Soviet minister of foreign trade, and Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, with Nixon and three of his top aides as a "courtesy call."

Jury Still Out

MONTREAL (CP) — The jury was still out today in the Jacques Rose kidnap trial, with no indications when a verdict might be announced. Mr. Justice Eugene Marquis asked the jury Wednesday, as it left to begin deliberations, to try for a verdict by 10:30 a.m. today, although more time was available if needed. The jury deliberated until midnight Wednesday.

Vessels Flee from Haiphong Before Mines Are Activated

SAIGON (CP) — Several freighters, including at least one flying the Soviet flag, pulled out of Haiphong harbor before the deadline set by President Nixon for safe passage through the mined entrance, the U.S. 7th Fleet announced today.

The mines dropped by U.S. planes Tuesday across the entrances to Haiphong and six other North Vietnamese ports were set to arm themselves at 1 p.m. Saigon time today, or 7 a.m. EDT. After that they can be exploded by ships passing over or near them.

Intense U.S. air and naval bombardment continued against military targets in North Vietnam in the third successive day. The 7th Fleet said the most powerful cruiser-destroyer force assembled in the western Pacific since the Korean War was ranging up and down the coast hitting within four miles of Haiphong.

Informants said U.S. fighter-bombers flew 300 strikes against the Hanoi-Haiphong military complex and other areas of North Vietnam Wednesday and pilots reported shooting down 10 MiG interceptors, the biggest one-day bag of the war.

Despite the naval and air bombardment of the South, which the U.S. says it is doing to halt supplies for the North Vietnamese war machine, the Communist offensive resumed in the South.

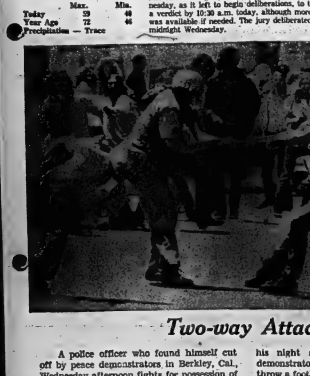
South Vietnam was under a state of martial law with 18-year-old youths ordered to report immediately for military service.

At the same time, the South Vietnamese military command reported fierce hand-to-hand fighting raged inside An Loc near Saigon today after North Vietnamese tanks and infantry attacked the city from four sides.

The new fighting appeared to put the North Vietnamese firmly on the offensive again after what seemed to be a few days of consolidation by both sides on the three fronts—An Loc, the central highlands and the DMZ north near the old imperial capital of Hue.

Bitter Congressmen to Try To Tie President's Hands

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon's escalation of the Vietnam war could provoke a constitutional crisis, with anti-war senators and congressmen now more determined than ever to tie the president's hands in Vietnam.



Senate Democrats, by softly spoken this week to condemn Nixon's decision to block North Vietnamese ports, gave their sharpest rebuff to the president for his handling of the war.

The bitterness and division within Congress over the war have increased, guaranteeing a furious, politically-charged fight over whether to force an end to America involvement by cutting off all further funds for the war.

An unprecedented constitutional crisis over the president's powers to direct war policy would erupt if the war funds cutoff was passed. Under the constitution, only Congress has the right to declare war. There has never been any such declaration in the Indochina war.

'Flagrant Provocation'

PEKING (Reuter) — China attacked today President Nixon's decision to impose a naval blockade on North Vietnamese ports as a flagrant provocation. It was the first official reaction to the U.S. move.

Two-way Attack

Streets and Campuses Become Battlegrounds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of anti-war demonstrators in the United States clashed with police on streets and campuses in the second consecutive day of protests against the U.S. mining of harbors in North Vietnam. Two companies of National Guard troops were ordered to patrol at the University of Minnesota.

Protests over President Nixon's mining decision reached into the Capitol in Washington and out across the country.

Arrests ran into the hundreds Wednesday as police used nightsticks, tear gas and horses to break up protests. Both demonstrators and police were injured. There have been more than 200 arrests country-wide so far this week.

The Massachusetts Senate voted 36 to 1 to condemn the mining "in the strongest possible terms."

Six Democratic governors joined in a telegram urging Nixon "to reverse this grave and dangerous policy decision."

Democratic governors Frank Licht of Rhode Island, Kenneth Curtis of Maine, Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, John Gilligan of Ohio and Wendell Anderson of Minnesota signed the telegram.

Missing Eggs Tragic Mystery

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A novel project which took a Belleville amateur conservationist almost a decade of dedicated work to realize has inexplicably disappeared into the night.

Vanished are the first eggs believed laid by a Canada goose in the Bay of Quinte area in many a year.

The eggs — five in all — disappeared some time in Wednesday morning's small hours from the private conservation area east of Belleville which has fully occupied George Woodhouse's spare time for nearly 10 years.

The eggs were being hatched by one of the Canada geese which Mr. Woodhouse through the years has been coaxing to his ponds with the hope that some day they might produce offspring on the spot.

Mysteriously, not a clue exists on how or what caused the eggs to disappear. Whether it was the work of animal or man is unknown.

Mr. Woodhouse admits to feeling "bitter and disappointed" that a years-long project has been thwarted — and so furtively.

"I almost feel I let the birds down," he says.

His frustration is heightened by a human factor — the fact he is no amateur, professionally, he is a captain with the city's fire department. As an amateur, the wildlife area bothed his Thurlow township home has been created in his spare hours, taking much cash, His conservation status is such his services for years have been used by the department of natural resources in such projects as its annual migrant duck-banding program.

He also doctors injured wild birds — among them Canada geese — which remain on his property until healed and ready to migrate.

A number of convalescing Canada geese wintered on the Woodhouse project, which — as hoped in the beginning — had accordingly become a stopover for some of the migrating species.

This year, about 14 nonflying geese have dropped in. Mr. Woodhouse said he is certain if the missing eggs were produced by resident canvasbacks, migrants, or a combination of both. But, they were the first — and as such the realization of his work.

Several unexplained factors surround the disappearance. The nest was undisturbed and Canada geese are notorious fighters when their territory is threatened. No signs of eggshells have turned up around the Woodhouse conservation area. If it was the work of a single animal theft would have necessitated five trips.

"It's hard to believe a human could do it, because I don't believe there's anybody spiteful enough for that," said Mr. Woodhouse.

"Where, or what took five eggs — and where did they put them?

"It's just a mystery." says the conservationist.

There's one consolation. He's discovered two other migrant geese have recently produced two other eggs. Today the geese were carefully patrolling the nest. And Mr. Woodhouse says he has taken safeguards — including a 24-hour vigil — to guard against a repeat of the mystery.

Psychological Services Cut Causes Concern

TRENTON (Staff) — Stepping down as president of the Quinte chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, Mrs. June Bailley has expressed serious concern over cutbacks in the special education — psychological services field by the Hastings County Board of Education.

Recently elected to the Ontario executive of the organization, the physiotherapist said some parents of children with learning disabilities will be putting their children into the separate school system, where, she said, special education is not suffering cutbacks.

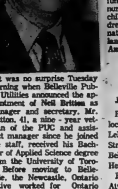
Commenting on the decision to dismiss professional psychological testing specialists and have teachers do testing, Mrs. Bailley expressed the position of the Natal association that testing is not at issue so much as how the tests are analyzed and interpreted in the planning of programs for area children with learning disabilities.

"What we had (in the public school system for these children) was bird-seed anyway and they're getting rid of it," she commented, adding that the local chapter has had the Ontario association to provincial authority on the state of special education and related fields.

"Our parents are most upset," she said.

Malcolm Godin, head of the soon - to - be de-elected psychological services branch of the Hastings County Board, was elected president of the local chapter by an assembly of concerned parents here Wednesday.

Special education chief of the school system Mrs. Dorothy Blakely was selected as first vice - president, Charles Pigeon second vice-president.



Crown attorney John Pringle is the new program chairman; secretaries are Mrs. J. M. Tobin and Mrs. H. B. DeGroot and Mrs. Arthur Brooks is treasurer.

HAROLD FENNELL

Elliott Motors 70 Ltd., are pleased to announce the addition of Harold Fennell to their sales staff.

Harold has many years of experience in the automotive field and welcomes old and new friends and customers to drop in and see him at Elliott Motors.

It was no surprise Tuesday morning when Belleville Public Utilities announced the appointment of Neil Britton as manager and secretary. Neil Britton, 41, a nice - year veteran of the PUC and assistant manager since he joined the staff, received his Bachelor of Applied Science degree from the University of Toronto. Before moving to Belleville, the Newcastle, Ontario native worked for Ontario Hydro. A resident at 6 Southview Crescent, he and his wife Vivian, have four children, Jane, Tom, Julia and Joey, all at home. Mr. Britton will assume his duties June 1 from retiring manager Ernest L. Burnham, who is at present on vacation.

Success Story in the Making

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

An odd-job undertaking that began on a lawn, moved to a basement, within months has blossomed as one of Belleville's most bustling light industries — with an even greater future predicted by its founders.

Molra Fiberglass Industries was the enterprising inspiration of Peter Cox and Keith Collier.

"I'm really convinced we're going places," optimistically predicts Mr. Cox, 41 - year - old company president, who expects the present founding work force of seven men will quadruple in about five years.

Industrial plastics and all that goes with it is Molra's specialty.

All that goes with it so far has ranged from canoes to canopies for railroad layers, a multiplicity of orders that has the workshop on the property of the former Belleville Marine Yards off Dundas St. West, banging.

Both men were co-craftsmen — Mr. Cox a senior foreman — at the marine yards, before its sailcraft production unit was shifted to Niagara Falls in late 1971.

"We decided to start out on our own," says Mr. Cox, a life-long sailing enthusiast.

"At first, they did "anything we could lay our hands on" including boat repairs, on his lawn, recalls Mr. Cox. Then they moved into Mr. Collier's basement.

In January, they decided to expand and amalgamated their operation with a Toronto industry, whose engineering production includes pollution-control equipment, swimming pools and major plumbing installations.

Molra Fiberglass is currently busy manufacturing the fiberglass covering for therapy pools now being distributed by the Toronto firm to hospitals, clubs and health organizations. (A residential therapy pool is now on the drawing boards).

After working briefly last winter from South Front St., quarters, business mushroomed and the operation — with Mr. Collier as vice-president — moved to its present quarters.

Contracts now being worked include orders for a two-man, 13-foot sailing dinghy, 30-foot pontoons for basebooth canopies for Canadian National and Canadian Pacific work tiggers, three sizes of canoes.

The company also has the manufacturing franchise for a diving board. Is agent for a 13-foot single - handed dinghy, and is awaiting the agency for "whalers and other sailing craft," says Mr. Cox.

Along with all that, his company can still concentrate on specialty custom orders from individuals, he says.

The watercraft end of the business has both personal and general interest for the company president.

Not only is he himself an enthusiastic sailor, he also believes the Bay of Quinte "one of the best sailing areas I know."

When they made their last move in February, there were only the two of them. Now — with their own labor force — the company may realize a $100,000 business turnover by the year's end, he adds.

He believes it's the only industry of its kind between Toronto and Kingston — but that's not the basic success element, both men believe.

The key is traditional: Hard work. Both men work long hours, necessary to "get the business going," says Mr. Cox.

Even so, they apparently have had time to contemplate, and act, toward the future — which, to them, is pronounced expansion.

Already, reveals Mr. Cox, the company is seeking an Ontario government industrial initiative loan "so we can put up our own building.

"We anticipate that in five years we'll be employing at least 30 staff."

That Bridge!

The same tiresome answer has come back from the Department of Transportation and Communications regarding the Bay Bridge, following City Council's renewed representations.

It is adequate for the time being, the minister, Gordon Carton, says in effect . . . "particularly in view of our attempts to curtail capital expenditures."

What attempts? Was construction of Ontario Place such an attempt? Or the Science Centre, useful and valuable as both establishments may be. And what about some other items of expenditure: the billion boards that pave "the three or four places you'd rather be," and then there is that little matter of a possible jet aircraft purchase by the Government, not to mention a couple of extra-curricular business cum vacation trips by cabinet ministers Bert Lawrence, to Cuba, and by Premier Davis, on vacation only, by government aircraft, to Stowe, Vt.

The bridge across the bay here must come, sooner or later. The delays encountered as of now are reason enough, but an even more cogent reason — demonstrated by a near fatal accident when a school bus skidded in zero visibility last winter — is the potential threat to human life in the winter months.

Thoughts at Large

Some scattered thoughts on our nutty world:

While awaiting official Soviet reaction (perhaps they are just speechless, flabbergasted) to the U.S. blockade of North Vietnam, what about some of Washington's allies obliging by creating some diversionary incidents to take the heat off this dangerous confrontation. For instance, maybe Britain could lay claim to some chunk of Chinese territory on the border with Hong Kong, or send its navy on "exercises" on the fringe of Soviet territorial waters.

U.S. police dealing with anti-war riots on the campus at Berkeley have adopted a British riot situation weapon: the rubber bullet, first introduced in Northern Ireland and particularly effective against rock throwers.

The editor of a regular bulletin put out by the Press and Information Office of Berlin is one Douglas D. King which may account for some of our more lurid Saturday Anglo-Saxon slang creeping into its pages. The city has been sponsoring an Anglo-German youth exchange program which the bulletin says "is designed to acquaint Great Britain's young people with the 'nitty-gritty' of West Berlin living."

Deliver us O Lord from this and other strange creations of our jargon-filled age: from feedback and from the framing process; from decision-making situations and from resource centres, from . . . well that should do it.

Traffic Hazard

The concern over hazardous traffic conditions in the high-rise apartment area in the Leland Drive-Sidney Street area is justified in view of the close proximity of Sir Mackenzie Bowell School.

We hope the necessary measures are being taken to correct this situation, as promised by Education Director Eric Runacres. Meanwhile we can think of some other areas with a potential for accidents. The Quinte Mall is one with its cars exiting onto busy, virtual collision courses entering and leaving. There are many blind spots here and the recent display of mobile homes on the lot afforded an example. We were almost hit broadside by a car which suddenly appeared at right angles to ours and whose approach was obscured by the mobile homes.

Other supermarket lots require careful driving also — and sometimes eyes in the back of the head.

Cool Spring

We are getting the rain the earth needs for it, proper re-emergence after a long winter. But it has been cool too and between that and the rain there is not much golf, for example, being played. And it is discouraging to have the fuel people arrive to fill up the oil tank, an indication of just how cool it has been of late and the extent to which furnaces have been on the go. Yet there have been sunny days too and it was pleasant to see one or two sailboats out in the bay.

Further Speculation on Election

Diet One of Only A Few Veterans Running Again

By HENRY F. HEALD
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The election speculation train is racing along with the throttle wide open and the brakes will not work ,the deadline for a June election is the next by. Revenue Minister Herb Gray announced the long-awaited package on foreign ownership. Finance Minister John Turner set the date for his budget, but the expectation of an early election remains high.

Early election fever just keeps mowing the date to the next certain possible date. A May 9 budget means an election could be held about July 9 so that is the date seized upon. A sunshine budget and a foreign ownership policy that caters to nationalism but leaves the door open for U.S. funds and then off to the polls for a new mandate, the speculators say.

A bit of it is just wishful thinking. MPs have been pounding the election trail for months now in their official capacities and they want to get the blankety-blank thing over with. They do not look forward to campaigning all summer for a return election on foreign policy in the fall once the date is actually set.

Prime Minister Trudeau's warm reception on his western trip may encourage him to go to the polls soon. He could go as late as mid-July without interfering too much with the budget period. Reasonation would take place while most people weren't still at home. If he goes later he cuts into the period when most people are holiday-minded, if not actually holiday-bound, and the golf club, the summer cottage and the flower garden are tough competition for political meetings.

On the other hand, if he goes too soon in the fall, he may miss a lot of the new 18-21-year-old vote. Enumeration would come while the students are in school and voting day while they are at university.

There are some of the considerations that keep the pot boiling for an early election. There are, however, about as many different reasons as there are interested people. One veteran Liberal MP is expecting an August vote basing his view solely on the prime minister's bent for doing the unusual. At least one Tory MP has a bet on that Mr. Trudeau will not run at all. He thinks the PM is tired and wants out.

Cities Fight Strangulation By Auto

Peterborough Examiner

There was a time when people dreamed of owning a car and when the aim of governments was to raise the living standard high enough so that everybody, or as many as possible, could own a car. Nations' living standards were judged by the number of cars per thousand population.

People still dream of owning a car. But governments and various traffic and pollution experts are beginning to have second thoughts about the advisability of having too many cars on the road.

The automobile, which once introduced miraculously high speeds to traffic, has multiplied so that it now contributes most to slowing traffic to a crawl in most urban centres.

This, and threatening pollution has long since started people thinking and contributed to the support in most cities of the world to the idea of creating car-free malls on downtown streets.

An article in The OECD Observer, a publication of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, of which Canada is a member, sees a pretty good idea of the results of experience in European cities with the magic mall on the auto-free zone.

In Germany alone 28 cities instituted some kind of auto free zone between 1959 and 1971 and English cities have experimented, too.

Volumes could be written about the results — and about the many different interpretations of the results — but some observations make interesting reading.

A ban on cars in parts of Vienna reduced pollution by some 70 per cent. Similarly impressive results were reported from Marseilles and Tokyo.

In some European cities the pressure leading to auto-free shopping areas was to preserve "the historic quality" of certain districts like the Ile Saint-Louis in Paris the Piazza Fontana del Trevi in Rome, the Grabengasse in Salzburg or the Rue du Gros Horloge in Rouen.

In other centres the idea was to "revive" the dying inner-city core and to attract more shoppers and strollers and to make local businesses able to compete with other shopping areas. Just such was the case in some sections of Leeds, Coventry, Bremen, Stuttgart, The Hague, Zurich, Klagenfurt, Bolzen, and others. In Vienna, store owners reported "a 25 to 35 per cent increase in business in the first week after the traffic ban went into effect."

But not all such projects are successful. Stalled pedestrian streets, for example, are rarely able to attract enough people. When too large areas are closed to traffic, transportation and related problems crop up.

"It's probably no accident," the magazine says, "that existing pedestrian precincts seldom exceed 400-500 metres in length; this may be the maximum distance which, it is felt, the average shopper is willing to negotiate on foot. Beyond it, some mechanized circulation system would be necessary."

Another conclusion is that "banning private cars completely is also to be avoided."

Heath Is No Nonsense PM

By JOHN HARBRON

British Prime Minister Edward Heath, tough but unloved, is the sharpest image of moderation in 10 Downing St. since Churchill. Ted Heath, the sailor prime minister, is the first to sail when he feels like it.

Where the sailor-king George V could do so with little criticism, and an earlier less beset age, Ted Heath sits tanned and blase in the front benches of the House of Commons risking opposition charges of self-indulgence.

That's a risk he shrugs off. In his success with the real risks, like up the Tyrrhenian social, economic and colonial ladder, he has displayed British which is the measure of this no-nonsense prime minister.

Unlike Harold Wilson, Ted Heath is also that he began by tackling Britain's problems all at once. These have included British entry into the European Common Market, reducing historic trade union intransigence, facing up to the last sovereignty problems of the old empire, polishing control—and, after its ugly head reared again, the Irish crisis.

Where he was against overconfidence former Labor prime minister Harold Wilson, MP, British entry into the Common Market was uppermost in his mind. In 1963, he had been defeated by the late President Charles de Gaulle in his attempt to bring Britain into Europe as Macmillan's chief Common Market negotiator. And he was determined to succeed. In this success in doing so hasn't been easy.

From Britain now in the European Common Market, Heath anticipates earlier rather than later solutions to some of Britain's basic industrial problems which none of his post-1945 predecessors in office had solved. The dynamic industrial management of the West German and even the Italian economy, for example, are rarely able to attract enough people. When too large areas are closed to traffic, transportation and related problems crop up.

"It's probably no accident," the magazine says, "that existing pedestrian precincts seldom exceed 400-500 metres in length; this may be the maximum distance which, it is felt, the average shopper is willing to negotiate on foot. Beyond it, some mechanized circulation system would be necessary."

Another conclusion is that "banning private cars completely is also to be avoided."

to lagging British industries competing inside the Market.

Heath has stumbled somewhat along the prime ministerial route few thought he would reach before his surprise win over Harold Wilson in 1970. There was last winter's bitter coal-miners' strike, the running sore in Northern Ireland, a rivalry with tiny Malta over failure to agree on the price of more of the British military presence on the island.

Two of his problems, the coal strike and Malta, were solved. The Irish one, alas, dragged somewhat. As soon as he had climbed down from the eight-per cent wage freeze which he imposed early in his ministry and agreed to a two-per-cent packet for the seriously underpaid miners, the coal strike collapsed. A pooling of NATO nations' financial resources to boost Premier Mintoff's ante took Britain and Heath off the hook.

Heath's answer for Northern Ireland, the temporary reversal of the 1921 act of self-government for the north, has not resulted in massive Protestant backlash as everyone thought but an unplugging of the close IRA relations to Northern Ireland's Catholics, as he anticipated.

One of Ted Heath's toughest battles, to change a North American-style collective bargaining act on unruly unions, hasn't been won yet. The British unions are still powerful to oppose his unpopular National Industrial Relations Act.

For all this, Heath gets more brickbats than bouquets. The British now mistrust strong leaders. But they are also fed up with a quarter century of growing, unsolved national problems.

A Legend in His Own Time

Ottawa Journal

The translation of J. Edgar Hoover from an American (and Canadian) folk hero beyond the pale of criticism to a target of attack from ever trendy liberal gals more about the changes in American society than about Hoover.

Hoover didn't change. That fact alone, his critics admit, becomes. He was at the end the same rigid, efficient, incorruptible figure against the forces of evil as he was at the beginning. The more permissive society became the more extreme the demands of the radical left, the more J. Edgar Hoover felt compelled to uphold the law.

The inefficient, idealistic, gullible Berrigans and their friends talking nonsense about blowing up heaters in Washington or kidnapping Henry Kissinger were only "anarchists" to Hoover. The FBI came down as heavily upon them as upon the Mafia, Cosa Nostra.

"A younger man, a less strong-willed man, a more modern man would not have incurred the vicious attacks which were launched against these last unctuous years. The formalities of legal procedure might have been better observed. The FBI would not have been so tightly circumscribed by rules. Fewer agents would have resigned, unable to take the one-man rule.

But would law enforcement have been more effective? Would the FBI have earned as much respect from the public as well as the criminals?

J. Edgar Hoover died still much in the hearts and respect of most of his countrymen, a place he well deserves.

For the final conclusion is that "The fact remains, however, that severe vehicle restrictions have failed over the long run to effect adversely the centre city's development or to promote its decentralization."

The above conclusion is the result of extensive experiments in Bremen. But it probably applies to other centres. In any case, enough examples are now available from a variety of large cities to conclude that traffic bans in certain areas are definitely beneficial.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 11, 1972 . . .

Israel became the 36th member of the United Nations 23 years ago today—in 1949—three days before the first anniversary of the state's proclamation. In late May the UN General Assembly had voted to end the Palestine mandate and divide the territory into a Jewish and an Arab state. For six months after the British withdrew there was chaos, with guerrilla warfare and terrorism throughout the country. Armistices with Israel's Arab neighbors were reached early in 1949.

1887—Canadian officials announced two British soldiers had been killed in reprisal for the execution of two terrorists by the British.

CBC: The Davidson Years

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — The sudden, but perhaps not totally unexpected, resignation of Dr. George Davidson, president of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation recalls the difficulties the government had in selecting a president in 1958.

Alphonse Ouimet had left the post and Judy LaMarsh cast about for a leader to succeed him before decided on Dr. Davidson.

One of the interesting stories at the time suggested that some members of the Liberal party inclined toward the late Donald Gordon. He had resigned as head of the troubled broadcasting organization in 1955 and was a tough-minded, bearded administrator of Mr. Gordon's abilities.

It also was reported that Mr. Gordon was willing to do it if he was persuaded not to by his family. He died some months later.

One thing is certain. The course of the CBC would have been vastly different under Mr. Gordon. There almost certainly would have been a violent confrontation between the president and the government. They have better observed. The FBI would not have been so tightly circumscribed by rules. Fewer agents would have resigned, unable to take the one-man rule.

But would law enforcement have been more effective? Would the FBI have earned as much respect from the public as well as the criminals?

J. Edgar Hoover died still much in the hearts and respect of most of his countrymen, a place he well deserves.

portfolio, Thegesse Ricard. So are some of The Chief's long time friends, Jack Pickersgill, Jack Rigg, Jack McIntosh, and Harry Moore.

There were reports some weeks ago that 20 or 30 Quebec Liberal MPs members would be "persuaded" not to run again. The 20 or 30 were not named but the number has been effectively denied. Eric Kierans will not run again but he did not have to be "persuaded."

If all 100 or so were to resign en-masse they would force the prime minister's hand and we would have an election in short order. The House and the committees have difficulty getting a quorum at times even now. With more than a third of the members gone business would soon grind to a halt.

Who Gets $30 Million?

The secret, inner workings of the federal government have given rise to a number of questions pertaining to local initiatives projects that Canada Manpower cannot answer.

In a recent press release, slight mention was made that additional funds would be supplied to some projects, that they might be continued through the summer, terminating the last day of September.

LIP, which was originally granted $186 million was later boosted by another $50 million.

Now, government sources say the figure will rise another $30 million, making a total of $180 million spent on "worthwhile, community development projects.

A press release from the Department of Manpower and Immigration says "the monies will be allocated to those successful projects which have not only demonstrated their worth in job creation but have provided a needed local service or contained significant quality to the quality of life in the community. Those additional monies will not be used to begin new projects, but to extend current ones."

James Staveley, of Canada Manpower and LIP co-ordinator for the area, told The Intelligencer yesterday, "we don't know enough to fill in a thimble about this new funding. All we are told is to sit back and wait for instructions."

Mr. Staveley did say "there are a number of local projects that are worthwhile and fit the requirements for additional funding and supposedly are being reviewed by a board in Toronto at this time.

"If we are asked for information, we are just not in the position to give any," he said. "The best we can do is offer the Toronto telephone number for the regional office."

If more money is on the way, it needs to come quickly for projects in the Quinte area. Many will be closing up in the next few weeks and some firm notification is needed by project foremen, so they might retain help that would otherwise seek employment somewhere else.

No one, except Bryce MacAusey, minister of Manpower and Immigration, knows what is going on and "we will just have to sit and wait until they tell us."

Members Briefed

TRENTON (Staff) — Members of Trenton and Suburban Planning Board were briefed Tuesday on the proposed new Canadian Tire Store to be located on shorefront property next to the old town hall on Dundas Street.

Although board chairman Dr. Bob Patrick is away for the week and will miss the Ontario Municipal Board hearing Friday on the question of whether property should be rezoned to permit construction of the retail centre, other members of the board were said to be fully briefed on the development.

Clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry also wanted to ensure that everything is handled fully with the rezoning question. In last year's OMB hearing on rezoning of the Fraser property, planning board chairman Patrick told the municipal board he had never even seen plans for the highrise to be built on that west side land parcel very close to property owned by his wife.

Mr. Larry told planning board it occurred to him last week how bad it would be if the Canadian Tire hearing took place without planning board dealing with the matter. "Once' is one thing," he said, "but twice is unforgivable."

The board Tuesday gave its approval to the rezoning of the so-called Powers property from light industrial to commercial on the condition that Canadian Tire provides a green belt along the river-front behind the store. Friday's hearing that begins at the Community Gardens at 11 a.m. was prompted by objections to the rezoning from area residents who wanted their lands rezoned too.

The municipal board will also review here Friday its decision in 1971 not to permit rezoning of the Fraser property that would permit Trenton developer Stan Klemencic (one of the principals of Belleville's Sidney St. Tower) to construct a seven-floor highrise. If sufficient reason is given, a new hearing may be called.

Variety Show Has It

TRENTON (Staff) — Spice O'Life, a benefit variety show with 23 acts, opens tonight at CFB Trenton's southside recreation centre for a three-day run.

Dress rehearsal of the show, organized largely by the base brass and reed band, took place last night before an invited audience of senior citizens from the Belleville-Trenton area.

The show has many strengths, most notably the exuberance and involvement of Broadmoor School children, selections played by the brass and reed band itself and the performances of chanteuses Gayle Deon and singer Bob Wood.

The Rec Centre is not noted for acoustic excellence but most vocal acts and musicians coped well with the auditorium to the delight of area senior citizens.

Broadmoor students sing four street - rock numbers from Oliver, showing creditable stage presence and crisp voices as they attempt with some success to bring a portion of the socialized musical to the Quinte region.

The Sing-out group in its several numbers gets meagrubly better as the show proceeds and so it seems with the lighting for each of their acts.

For Al Jolson fans, Monique Bertrand brings him to the Whoopeeadon audience in adequate pantomime.

Costuming is sound; flaws are largely technical -- particularly use of microphones; the show is chock full of local amateurw talent, bea few low and many high points. Opening time is 7:30 p.m. tonight, Friday and Saturday with all proceeds going to Trenton - Brighton retarded children.

Recycling Scheme Response Is Good

Residents of the city's Park Dale community are generally enthusiastic about the idea of separate collections for recyclable paper.

This was indicated last night when approximately 30 PACE volunteers (People Against Contaminated Environment) canvassed householders in the Park Dale community seeking co-operation in the organization's waste paper pickup planned for the early summer.

Alderman Jean Smith, who reported to council Monday on PACE plans, said today that the last night's canvass received an "excellent response".

Canvassers asked householders to tie waste paper (not waxed) in bundles for pickups to commence Wednesday May 31. Five pickups — May 31, June 14 and 28 and July 12 and 26 are planned for the trial period.

Mrs. Gary Rock, wife of the PACE paper recycling committee chairman said the paper would be taken to a depot for storage and sorting and then would be sold to a local dealer.

Farm Credit Bill Goes to Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — After six days of sometimes-acrimonious debate, the Commons unanimously voted Wednesday to give the government farm credit legislation second reading and send it to committee for detailed discussion.

The Conservatives, New Democrats and Social Creditors, after days of criticizing the government's farm policy, joined the Liberal majority to give the bill general approval.

The bill is designed to extend the lending power of the Farm Credit Corp., a Crown corporation.

The bill would give the corporation power to administer the small farm development program which allows consolidation of uneconomic farms into productive units.

Kerr Is Mediating

TORONTO (CP) — George Kerr, minister of colleges and universities, is mediating between the president and the council of the Ontario College of Art.

Nancy Poole, chairman of the council, and Roy Ascott, the president, met with their lawyers in Mr. Kerr's office Wednesday.

The meeting concerned a committee of inquiry into Mr. Ascott's administration. Mrs. Poole said there was an "amicable discussion" which may lead to Mr. Ascott appointing a representative to the committee.

Mr. Ascott was suspended as college president by the council April 26. He had been hired with a five-year contract last July to overhaul the art college's program.

The council will be presented committee of inquiry into Mr. Ascott's administration. Mrs. Poole

Appraisers Posing As Federal Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — Farmers and other taxpayers should safeguard against hiring an appraiser because they think he is an employee of the revenue department, a department spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman said some persons have called on farmers offering their services in estimating the value of the farm property, for capital-gains purposes. The farmers "have gained the impression" that the callers were department employees and their appraisals would be automatically accepted by taxation officials.

"Any appraisers now engaged in estimating values for owners or a professional appraiser."

He said department officials, who carry identification cards with their photographs, call on taxpayers only for specific purposes related to the taxpayers' tax returns.

He said appraisers can be useful to taxpayers who need estimates of the value of property subject to capital gains tax.

But "for purposes of capital gains the department will not necessarily accept automatically any appraisal by either an owner or a professional appraiser."

Canada's Trade Surplus Is Lowest Since 1969

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's merchandise trade surplus for the first quarter of this year was $157.5 million, the lowest since the second quarter of 1969, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday that imports for the first quarter were $4.32 billion, up from $3.43 billion a year earlier. Last month it reported that exports in the first quarter were $4.48 billion, up from $4.06 billion.

Canada's trade surpluses have been declining since reaching a peak of $947 million in the last quarter of 1970. The surplus for the last quarter of 1971 was $417 million. Export growth has not kept pace with increased imports.

Handicrafts Bought But Not Received

TORONTO (CP) The Globe and Mail says the provincial department of education has not received $3,000 worth of handicrafts although the department paid for them and certified their receipt last September.

The newspaper says the allegation is contained in a report which will be discussed by the legislature's public accounts committee today. It was prepared by a three-man team appointed to investigate spending and invoicing irregularities in government departments.

Quoting from the report the newspaper says:

—Duties on at least 10 invoices for police cars were altered from April to March, 1968, so they could be included in the 1967-68 fiscal year.

—The education department attempted to charge more than $939,000 to the wrong fiscal year.

—The report is critical of provincial auditor George Spence for failing to reprimand the department and for not bringing the matter to the attention of the legislature.

—That audit manager Norman Ellison said he was "very concerned" that the education department paid for goods it hadn't received and said this amounted to the government helping to finance a private company.

—That a spokesman for the company, Canadian Guild of Crafts, Ontario, told Mr. Ellison that it was "a common government practice to hold funds in trust."

Robert Secord, director of the youth and recreation branch of the education department, said in an interview that in the case of non-profit organizations like the handicraft company the government must pay the money first in order to have the project carried out.

Plan Shops

TORONTO (CP) — A private member's bill that would allow Toronto to construct shops and offices in municipal parking lots was approved Wednesday by an Ontario legislature committee.

The proposed City of Toronto Act, sponsored by Thomas Wardle (PC—Toronto-Beaches-Woodbine) now goes to the legislature for further consideration.

Under the bill, the city would be allowed to build and rent shops and offices in municipal parking garages.

News Head

HALIFAX (CP) — W. A. Speers of Vancouver Wednesday was re-elected president of Broadcast News Ltd., the news service of private broadcasting stations in Canada.

Three Men Arrested At Brockville Plant

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Three men were arrested Wednesday after cars belonging to executives at the strikebound Canada Metal Co. plant were damaged, one by a gasoline bomb and one by shotgun fire.

Edward Douglas McLean, 36, and his brother David John, both of Athens, and Lloyd Worden, 23, of Brockville, appeared in court on charges of possession of dangerous weapons, use of explosives and wilful damage to property. All three were remanded to May 14.

Another man from Prescott, Ont., whose identity was not released, has been charged with assaulting a police officer in connection with a separate incident at Du Pont of Canada Ltd.'s Maitland works, about six miles east of here.

A police spokesman said an OPP officer was knocked to the ground after a nail-throwing incident.

Pensioners Get Tax Assistance

TORONTO (CP) — Old-age pensioners in Preston, Ont., will get a break on property taxes under a private member's bill approved Wednesday by an Ontario legislature committee.

The Town of Preston Act, sponsored by Russell Rowe (PC —Northumberland), would allow the municipality power to grant credit not exceeding $75 to pensioners for property tax they have paid.

The act, approved by the private bills committee, now goes to the house for further consideration.

Gap Closed

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Canada's decision to join the inter - American Development Bank reflects determination to close the gap in Canada's relationship with Latin America, Senator Paul Martin told bank governors Wednesday.

Health Unit Nurse Quits

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Miss A. R. G. McNaught, director of nursing of the Leeds, Grenville and Lanark District Health Unit, resigned Wednesday.

Miss McNaught figured in a recent report by Toronto lawyer Julian Porter to Health Minister Richard Potter on the dismissal of Dr. A. E. Thoms as medical officer of health and director of the health unit.

She said she thought the recommendations of the Porter report for administrative communications had not been implemented.

Her resignation takes effect June 30.

Committee Approves Student Representation

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario legislature committee approved a private member's bill Wednesday which would provide student representation on governing bodies at the University of Waterloo for the first time.

A large crowd of students and professors from the university turned out as the private bills committee considered the bill, sponsored by E. R. Good (Lib.—Waterloo North).

The bill, which now goes before the legislature for further consideration, would also make it compulsory for all members of the university's board of governors to be Canadian citizens.

An amendment proposed by Donald Macdonald (NDP.—York South) that would have made it compulsory for 85 per cent of the university's senate to be Canadian citizens, was turned down by the committee.

The proposed University of Waterloo Act provides for five student representatives on the board of governors.

An Orchid for Milady

Gerry Brennan, a member of the executive of the Belleville Progressive Conservative Association pins an orchid on Mrs. Richard Potter at Wednesday's Progressive Conservative Women's Council dessert, bridge and euchre, while Mrs. Lee Grills shows the colorful array of orchids, presented to each guest. Around 300 people attended this annual event.

PC Women's Council Holds Annual Event

As a prehale to Mother's Day the 300 guests at the Progressive Conservative Women's Council bridge, euchre and dessert party held Wednesday afternoon at St. Thomas Parish Hall, each received an orchid. Gerry Brennan, a member of the executive for the Belleville Progressive Party distributed the flowers flown in from Hawaii — courtesy of Canadian Pacific Airline and donated by Gerry Brennan and Fred Deacon.

"We chose orchids because it's so close to Mother's Day and we wanted to let the ladies know we're thinking of them," remarked Mr. Brennan. These flowers were sent from Honolulu Tuesday morning and were picked up at the Toronto International Airport. The delicate flowers were arranged in long oblong boxes in an attractive order.

Conveners for this annual bridge, euchre and dessert party were Mrs. Alec Brownlie and Mrs. E. F. Smith.

Mrs. R. Potter, wife of Minister of Health and Quinte MPP, Richard Potter, Mrs. Lee Grills, wife of Lee Grills, MP for Hastings, Mrs. Jack Ellis and Mrs. Elmer Sandercock received the guests.

The bridge tables were under the direction of Mrs. Smith while Mrs. Helen Vesterfelt tended the euchre tables. Mrs. Harry Yorke and Mrs. Harry Rollins attended the bake table.

Mrs. R. Lock supervised the kitchen.

The proceeds from this event will go towards the Progressive Conservative Women's Council and charitable organizations throughout the city.

This is the ninth year for these annual bridge parties. Yearly luncheons are also held for the members, which total 300.

Various donations for door prizes and card winners were kindly contributed.

Ann Landers

Serious Message Relayed On the wings of A 'Joke'

Dear Ann Landers: I have some advice for the woman who is allergic to her husband's cigarette smoke. It seems the husband insists on smoking the room blue when guests are present because he knows she won't make a scene.

My sister had the same problem. Here's how she solved it. She went to the army surplus store and bought a gas mask. She mailed her husband reached for a cigarette she put on the gas mask. Needless to say this gesture attracted a great deal of attention and raised some embarrassing questions.

When it became apparent that Mr. Marvelous was an inconsiderate heel who set his pleasures before his wife's health, he cut it out.

If this sounds like a radical measure let me assure you that the situation was desperate. Please print this letter for all the folks out there who are sick of inhaling other people's cigarette smoke and would like to take some positive action.—Wishes Salem

Dear Wis: We checked the army surplus stores in Chicago and learned that gas masks are available for $7.95. Thank you for the suggestion. Perhaps one can message has been relayed on the wings of a "joke."

Dear Ann Landers: I was the Other Woman's client in the Second Wife. This letter will run counter to the Puritan ethic, but you probably won't print it. But someone ought to make it clear that there are husbands with legitimate gripes—men who tried to make a marriage work, found it hopeless and showed off.

My husband's first wife nearly doubled her weight within ten years. She ran a dirty kitchen and wasn't overly fastidious about her personal appearance. She was a nagging housekeeper, was jealous of her husband's friends, spent beyond his income and drove him crazy with her nagging.

I did nothing to attract her husband's attention. I was sympathy there when he needed someone to talk to. It could have been one of several women, but I happened to the "the one."

Contented husbands don't look for outside company. They go home to their families after work. The first wife has the first chance. Whether or not she succeeds depends on how good she is at meeting the challenges of marriage.—Indignant

Dear Indignant: Your position must have been validly honest. I'm hearing from more and more people who say their second marriage is a lot better than their first. Apparently some husbands, and some wives, too, must live through an unsuccessful marriage in order to know how to make a second marriage work. Expensive lesson! But it's the only way some folks can learn.

Dear Ann: Why do people tip the waitress when they could spends hours preparing the food and the dishwasher does the dirty work? The waitress only smokes while the real work is being done in the kitchen. All she does is carry out the plates and collect that nice tip. I wish you'd blast this unfair practice. —Mad in Sioux Falls

Dear Mad: The waitress is the one whose personality (or lack of it) makes the first impression on the guest. She takes the order and carries the trays that sometimes weigh 30 pounds. She also keeps her eye on the table and makes sure everyone has what he wants: more water, more coffee, steak sauce, more butter, extra napkins, etc. A good waitress deserves to be tipped as well as treated and smoke. She works like a horse and deserves the tip.

Tots Show Musical Talent Early

By DORIS CLARK

Has it occurred to you that your three - year - old may well be ready for singing and dancing, or at least getting the swing of things?

He enjoys and can repeat snatches of songs especially those which appeal to him — and will enjoy jumping around in time to music when the stereo is on.

By the time he is four he is likely to recognize melodies and able to sing whole songs, such as Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer, The Farmer in the Dell, and other short songs which tell a story.

If you are a musical mother or father and can play the piano even a little, your miniature chip - off - the - old - block will enjoy your playing, and will even want to pick out simple tunes on the piano with one finger if you show him how.

Dancing is fun too, although he is not yet ready, at five, for dancing classes. Youngsters like to dance in bare feet, and if you can plan for a dancing session in loose pyjamas and bare feet just before bedtime this is wonderful fun as well as giving him the special something which we all need from time to time.

Dear Doris: A friend of mine came to me in tears. It seems she was discussing the divorce and remarriage of her son, who has a small child. The mother has the child and is to be remarried.

A friend had told her that once the former daughter-in-law was remarried, she would no longer be grandmother to the child. I tried to assure her that she would always be grandmother to the child but she is making herself sick over this thing. — A Grandmother Too.

Dear Grandma: Of course she will always be grandmother to her own flesh and blood. Handled graciously, this relationship could remain a precious one to both grandmother and grandchild.

Right now is a time when Granny could establish a close relationship by cards, little gifts, little messages to the child; at the same time keeping in friendly touch with the child's mother and expressing hope that they can remain good friends.

Time changes things; and people need their grandmothers!

Dear Doris: I'd like to add my encouragement to yours, for the live-aloners.

I am 72. My dear wife died seven years ago. I do not get time to be lonely; I am always busy doing something usually creative or constructive.

As a "for instance" I have just finished installing a new tile ceiling in my kitchen, and I have countless other projects started. I consider myself fortunate to be able and willing to do everything necessary to be up-to-keep of my home, including cooking, housework, laundry.

I am truly thankful that I am alive, and able to operate without the use of aid-of-all attendants. I hope you don't think I'm a big casoll. but I thought this might encourage somebody not as fortunate as myself. — Thanks For Listening.

Dear Listening: Keep your big enough mouth open to stir those souls who think retirement means the end of any fun. Una Abrahamson, expert in consumer affairs with Chatelaine, says keep taking a look at your home. your kitchen cupboards, your rugs, furniture. Don't let that house you furnished 10 years ago look like a rundown antique.

With today's life expectancy, any retired person is likely to have another quarter century to live in it! (Have you an idea — about people — that you'd like to share? Write to Doris.)

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOAN CAMPBELL

Is a girl happy with a boy's name?

YES, although she isn't happy about continually explaining that she has her own reasons, or a boy's. A girl named Michael, for instance, believes that name is fashion when it refers to her. Indeed, one girl who was called Michael was asked by her parents if she would rather change it to Michele before she started school. She wouldn't hear of it, claiming that being called Michael makes her feel "special."

Must a boss watch an employee work?

ONLY if he knows the employee does his best work even though he is aware he is being watched closely. Otherwise, the boss should "read to his own charts, time schedules, or whatever, because the average person cannot work with someone standing right over his shoulder. To the worker, being clocked is of such a highly critical nature, the boss should teach the employee how to do it, then prove he has faith in his ability.

Can a spouse 'rescue' in marriage?

• YES, and many individuals and wife does just that; especially if a young couple need "this or swine." Many an insecure husband, too, is helped along by the approach to maturity by an understanding wife. But it might be unfortunate enough to have married a girl who is every bit as mature as he is immature. Motivated by love, she might like to be sympathetic to some of stability her husband needs to face his responsibilities as an adult.

Resolution Passed to Protect Landlords

ORILLIA (CP) — A resolution proposing an amendment to the Ontario Human Rights Code was passed Wednesday by delegates to the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women of Ontario.

Submitted by the Hamilton and district council, the resolution asked that the code protect the rights of landlords as thoroughly as tenants.. Delegates were told the resolution followed an incident in Toronto in which a man, looking for a live-in companion for his wife, rejected a black applicant because he thought the applicant would not be compatible with his wife.

Delegates were told there was no racial discrimination involved, but the case went to court anyway.

Other resolutions adopted included:

—Legislation regarding the care of the mentally retarded should be reviewed and, if necessary, changed to ensure that group is receiving essential need.

—The Jurors' Act should be amended to remove the special privileges for the exemption of women.

—Bicycle licensing should be provincially controlled, and manufacturers should be required to install all proper safety features.

—Driver-education courses should be available to all high school students.

The council is also asking for human rights commissions with direct access to government.

Members heard the human rights commissions would be established on a provincial, territorial and federal basis and be directly responsible to the governments involved.

This really deals with the establishment of a human rights commission which ratifies the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights," said Kay Armstrong, the council's outgoing president.

The council decided to defer support of an amendment to the Indian Act to allow an Indian woman marrying a non-Indian to retain her Indian status and transmit it to her children.

Mrs. Armstrong said: "The membership agreed that it was not the right of the council of delegates meeting without Indian representation to express an opinion but might desire on their behalf."

The delegates considered suggestions prepared after study of the report of the royal commission on the status of women. They rejected recommending a federal council on women's status since existing federal agencies can perform much the same functions.

Also rejected was support of a guaranteed income for heads of one-parent families. The women thought the division of government spheres too complicated to make mental responsibilities in this it effective.

Heads Council Of Women

ORILLIA (CP) — Evelyn Harrington of Ottawa was elected president of the Provincial Council of Women of Ontario Wednesday.

She succeeds Kay Armstrong of Toronto, president for the last two years. Mrs. Harrington will be installed today at the last session of the annual meeting.

Other elected officers: Mrs. R. L. Bonnar, Peterborough; Dr. Marguerite Bailey, Toronto; Mrs. S. L. Gertsman, Ottawa; Mrs. W. M. Marshall, Ottawa; S. M. Steadman, Ottawa; and C. Hutton, Owen Sound.

Church Groups

CHRIST CHURCH ACW

An excellent turnout of members and friends were present at the May meeting of Christ Church ACW afternoon group on Tuesday afternoon. President Mrs. R. H. Godden, was a delegate to the Synod meetings in Kingston on that day so the meeting was chaired by vice-president Mrs. F. A. Beety.

Mrs. Ethel Green gave a timely and inspirational talk on the form of a story about the lowly Negrito tribe of the Philippines, entitled "The Law Written on the Heart." This pointed up the many lessons to be learned from the so-called non-Christians of the world and the self-control, self-righteous attitudes of some who think of themselves as dedicated Christians.

Interesting and thorough reports on the recent ACW annual meetings in Kingston were given by Mrs. R. B. dell Wright and Mrs. Jean Kilburn.

A luncheon or supper will be catered for by the group for the Sunday School teachers of Christ Church early in June.

Members were reminded of the giant auction sale, sponsored by the Men's Club (B.A.C.) on May 13th and 13th. Confirmation will be held on Sunday, May 28 at the 10.30 a.m. service with a reception for the bishop, confirmation candidates and their families. This reception will be looked after by the evening group of the ACW with the members of the Altar Guild in charge of the girls' veils.

Mrs. Boyd reported a good collection for the Cent-a-Meal project.

Plans for the Blossom Tea on May 31 were discussed, and conveners introduced as follows: Mrs. Vesterfelt, homecooking; Mrs. Bishop, candy; Mrs. Day and Mrs. Bongard toys and novelties; Mrs. Wright, sewing; Mrs. Hill, aprons; Mrs. Gilbert, tea room; Mrs. Dimont, replenishing and Mrs. Lexier kitchen. Mrs. Button has charge of ticket sales.

Following the meeting tea and refreshments were served by the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. J. H. Rose and Mrs. W. J. Reed.

Rebekahs Enjoy Party

TWEED — Tweed Rebekah Lodge No. 236 were hosts to the other lodges in District No. 4, on May 4 when a birthday party was held and enjoyed by a large number of members and officers.

In attendance were 49 members from Belleville, 40 from Tweed's home lodge and the remainder were from Shannonville, Thomasburg, and Madoc.

Preceding opening of lodge by the Noble Grand Sister Betty Campbell, an impressive pageant "The Golden Chain" was presented by the officers and their supporters of the Tweed Lodge.

The Noble Grand presented each Past Noble Grand with a yellow rose corsage. She opened Lodge, according to the rules and regulations, and welcomed visitors from Belleville, Stirling, Thomasburg and Madoc.

Past Noble Grand Sister Doris Armstrong introduced Sister Ruth Jardine, DDP and she was welcomed and presented with a corsage of yellow roses, then escorted to a chair to the right of the Noble Grand. The District Deputy presided then presented a rose corsage to both the Noble Grand and the Vice-grand.

Sisters of Tweed Lodge, who had been members for 25 years or over, Sister Hazel Albert, Grace Purvis, Vera Graham, Blanche Countryman, Stella Woods, Dorothy Fisher and Sister Mable Foster were presented individually with a gift.

The Noble Grands from Belleville, Stirling, Madoc and Thomasburg spoke briefly and presented Tweed Lodge with a gift for their 50th anniversary.

Sister Ruth Jardine spoke to the Lodge with words of encouragement and thanked the members for their kindness through the year.

Lodge closed and a delicious banquet was served, convened by Sister Donna Armstrong and a social time and good fun was enjoyed by all. Sister Donna had also made and decorated the huge beautiful birthday cake.

Books of the history of Tweed Lodge were given to the members at this time, this was compiled by Sister Grace Purvis, and the official typing of same was done by Sister Marion Tucker.

When the Tweed Lodge was originated in the year 1922, the first Noble Grand was Sister Eva Fawcett, and in the afternoon that day in May, 20 persons were instituted into the new Lodge No. 236, and present for this occasion was Sister Martha Watts, president of the Rebekah Assembly, and her assisting officers.

That evening between the hours of 6.45 and 8.00 p.m. Quinte Queen Lodge, of Trenton, Ontario, installed 38 persons into the Tweed Rebekah Lodge, and this was an impressive ceremony.

The only Charter member who is living at this time (others who joined in 1922 are either deceased or have taken their withdrawal card) is Sister Mabel Francis, formerly of Tweed, now a resident of Smiths Falls, Ontario.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY WI

The May meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was arranged by the conveners of the new standing committee, "Education and cultural activities" by Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Roy Tucker centred on the curator books with a special topic on cultural activities.

Mrs. Roy Tucker was hostess at her home with 11 members in attendance and one visitor, Mrs. Walter Hagerman of Newcastle.

Mrs. George Grills opened the meeting and the secretary Mrs. Gerald Brooks distributed the printed programs for the year. Mrs. Roy Bush was in charge of the historical items on display. This included the River Valley Tweedsmuir history book. The Hastings and Prince Edward Atlas, the new book, "Hutton of Hastings," and a large array of other items which showed pictures of school children and former teachers.

In Mrs. Bush's talk she stressed the value of keeping records of the day by day happenings in the valley and outlined how history is made.

Mrs. Roy Tucker presided over the program and began with a poem. She displayed a plate depicting the Adelaide Hoodless Home, a copy of the "WI History Book" and several other items of interest.

The roll call centred around special dates pertaining to bygone days in the valley which were recorded by the curator.

Mrs. John Mackey read a paper prepared by her son, Rod. He was one of 17 Loyalist College who participated in producing a movie, Angel from the Forest, at the Bancroft Museum. This article will be placed in the Tweedsmuir History Book.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a humorous reading which she had prepared and given 23 years ago at an institute meeting in the Valley.

Mrs. Ernest Carr gave the cultural topic on the theme, "A Visit with Stephen Foster". She displayed memorial pictures of the family plot at Pittsburg and a book of his history.

Mrs. Carr gave a very informative study of his life. In Mr. Foster's relatively short life span of 37 add one-half years, he composed over 200 songs. Stephen Foster died January 3, 1864 and he left a heritage of melodies. His last published song was "Beautiful Dreamer".

Mrs. Evan Bogart played several well-known songs on the piano and Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh sang.

In the business period, delegates were appointed to attend Hastings West District annual meeting at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on May 18.

A letter was received from the women to attend the 4-H Achievement Day at Stirling Junior Public School on May 13.

Miss Alice Heasman was presented with her institute badge.

Mrs. Ernest Carr gave an outline of recent special events in the village and display of pictures.

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave the financial report and Mrs. Percy MacMullen read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Milton Purdy of Home and Country. She also reported a new institute organized in the North West Territories by FWIC.

The ACWW convener gave a special message about Iceland.

Several of the River Valley members brought plants, jars of food and various other items. The proceeds from the sale went towards the penny jar.

Following the meeting, Shirley Carlisle, Essie Tucker and Kathleen Irvin provided refreshments for the social hour.

Mrs. Phillip Conley voiced appreciative thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the first meeting of the new year.

SIDNEY SOUTH WI

The May meeting of Sidney South WI was held at the home of Mrs. J. Caddick with 18 women present. Mrs. Wilson, president, presided over the meeting.

A report on the 4-H Girls work with Achievement Day will be held May 13 in Stirling.

"The Atlas of Hastings and Prince Edward" was donated by Mrs. Dorothy Sargant and will be used by the Institute members. A letter of appreciation will be sent to Mrs. Sargent.

It was also decided that the "Robin Book" will be purchased by the Institute. The meeting was turned over to the Tweedsmuir History convener, Mrs. F. Meeres with "The Settlement of Upper Canada in Sidney Township" as her topic. Maps and books which proved very interesting were circulated among the women.

Following the meeting, the hostess and her assistants served refreshments followed by a social half hour.

Achievement Awards Presented

TWEED — Presentations by various 4-H Junior Homemaker clubs in the northern part of Lennox and Addington County and club awards highlighted an Achievement Day held last Saturday at Cloyne with 21 girls from the Cloyne-Denbigh area taking part.

"Sportswear from Knits" was the theme of the project and four clubs taking part began the afternoon program with a series of activities to test their knowledge of knit fabrics and sewing techniques. The girls judged a series of sewing techniques and fabrics and gave their placing and reasons to the visiting home economist, Mrs. Joyce Patterson, of Napanee.

Of particular interest for the visitors were the club presentations, two exhibits and fashion parade. Janice Petzold was commentator for the Denbigh 1 club's exhibit, "Know Your Knits" and explained the various types of knit fabrics and fibres.

Laura Lloyd, commentator for the Denbigh 2 Club exhibit "Stretch Sewing" carried on to explain the things to remember when sewing with knits. Finally all the club took part in a fashion parade to model their new outfits. One club even had a mock Miss Canada beauty contest and MissQuebec was the winner.

Mrs. Patterson gave some comments on the exhibits and fashion parade, to bring the club presentations to a close.

Probably the highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of advance honors to Janice Plotz of the Denbigh 1 Club. She has completed 18 4-H homemaking projects and was presented with a silver pie server and certificate by Mrs. Eric Newell, (Cloyne) Elzgton Area Women's Institute president, and Miss Jacqueline Graham, county home economist.

Cathy McQuane, also of the Denbigh 1 Club, received her county honor certificate and pin.

To close the program each girl received a sterling silver spoon for completing her project. Tea was served by the members of the Cloyne Women's Institute.

RELATIVE HARMONY

Italy, Japan, Germany Disrupt Trade Patterns

MONTREAL (CP) — The export trade of the United States and the United Kingdom has dropped about 20 per cent in 20 years.

At the same time, the export trade of Italy, Japan and Germany has increased 20 per cent. In latter cases, Canada also has been reporting a surplus in its trade—the difference between what it sells overseas and what it imports.

This dramatic switch in world trade has upset the whole pattern of international trade and, along with it, the international monetary system. Money is involved because funds have to be switched around when goods are bought and sold.

In brief, that is the crux of what now is known as the "trade problem" associated with reform of the monetary system. The whole issue brought into sharp focus last August when the U.S., raising heavy deficits, took stringent economic measures to stem the flow.

The U.S. measures led in December to a realignment of major world currencies and revived trade talks between the U.S. and its major trading partners.

But Canada—the best customer of the U.S. and also the biggest exporter to the U.S.—still has not concluded a new trade pact.

International monetary policy is a complicated matter but, in the final analysis, even the little man will feel the results.

After the December currency value realignment, for instance, the Japanese yen was revalued. As a result, it now costs about 10 per cent more than previously to buy a Japanese-made car in Canada.

That was part of the U.S. idea—to make imports more expensive and thus tend to come closer to balancing its trade with the world.

But it is a long process that will take years.

This is one of the questions being discussed here in closed session by the International Monetary Conference, composed of the top bankers and finance officials of 20 non-Communist nations.

So far there isn't even unanimous agreement that trade should be considered part of monetary reform, although the majority appear to lean to that approach. Canada is one that supports that view.

Leslie C. Peacock, president of Crocker National Bank of the U.S., supported this approach at Wednesday's meeting:

"There can be no resolving of the problem without resolving the other."

Fishermen Want More Consultation

QUEBEC (CP) — The Fisheries Council of Canada wound up its four-day annual convention Wednesday with a plea for more consultation between government and industry in a time of increasing demand, diminishing supplies, and growing headaches over pollution problems and international resource management.

The council heard predictions of continued heavy demand for available supplies of major Canadian commercial fish stocks and little in the near future to ease the pressure, which has sent prices skyrocketing in the last two or three years.

The more than 500 delegates attending the convention were told that strict new federal standards for pollution control at fish plants would be outlined generally by July and applied in their final form early next year.

A federal government official said early in the conference that the industry's demand for a moratorium on Canadian ownership of fish stocks inside the continental shelf was unrealistic.

Despite this, a resolution was passed again this year calling for an outright declaration of ownership of all fish spawning in Canadian waters.

"The council claims Canada cannot manage the resource unless it exerts absolute sovereignty over it, with foreign fishing only by Canadian permission for "Canadian" fish.

Hormones Cure Urge for Divorce

TORONTO (CP) — A four-year study of 1,200 women divided with husbands found 85-per-cent recovery rate in all cases associated with menopause, a United States doctor told the Ontario Medical Association's annual meeting Wednesday.

Dr. F. P. Rhoades of Detroit said a number of middle-aged women scheduling for divorces changed their mind when given hormone treatment.

But Dr. Rhoades said doses of estrogen and progesterone will not renew a woman's desire for sex unless she so wishes.

Changed Strategy Aimed at Appeasing Connally

OTTAWA (CP) — The government appears to be pondering a new approach to the trade disagreements with the U.S.

The change of strategy centres on John Connally, American treasury secretary, who has been a key figure in shaping policy since the U.S. declared all-out war on its international payments deficits last Aug. 15.

The situation, as seen by at least one top-level source here, is that previous Canadian strategy has alienated Mr. Connally and made him hostile to Canadian arguments.

By this view, clumsy and futile efforts were made to isolate Mr. Connally from other members of the U.S. administration. Mr. Connally was portrayed as virtually the sole source of Canadian U.S. trade disagreements.

In late February, after the talks had become stalemated, senior Canadian officials were reported to have told a group of visiting American reporters and editors privately that Mr. Connally was the main barrier to settlement.

The new approach being pondered is additional to the agreement reached here last month between Prime Minister Trudeau and President Nixon to review each country's own bargaining position with a view to tackling the trade impasse soon.

But it is based on the assumption that nothing substantial can occur until after each country has completed national elections. The U.S. presidential vote is next November and a Canadian election is expected this year.

In any event, there is an expectation that the first opportunity will be taken to start removing any ice that Mr. Connally may feel toward Canada through what he regards as lack of adequate concessions in exchange for the devaluation of the U.S. dollar and helping solve the U.S. trade imbalance.

Personal meetings with him would have to be free from publicity and its resulting political pressure, it is suggested. A good opportunity would be on a future national meeting on another issue, during which Canadian representatives could meet Mr. Connally informally.

The May 30-31 meeting of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development may provide such an opportunity.

It is believed that the best hope for settling these is patience. With the elections over, both sides would be under less pressure in their negotiating postures.

Cardinal Denies Pope Murdered

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Carlo Cardinal Confalonieri, for 18 years private secretary to Pope Pius XI and at his side when he died in 1939, denied Wednesday a report that the Roman Catholic pontiff was murdered at the instigation of Italian dictator Mussolini.

Paris Match magazine, which said it was summarizing the personal files of the late Eugene Cardinal Tisserant of France, had reported that Pope Pius XI was given a lethal injection by Francesco Petacci, father of Mussolini's mistress, Clara Petacci.

Paris Match claimed Pope Pius XI was murdered because he was on the point of denouncing the Mussolini regime.

Push to North Under Study

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's push to the North and the North's search on the Atlantic provinces kept men-bers talking in several legisla-tures Wednesday.

Alberta must be the staging area for the $70-million to $100-million all-weather highway to the Arctic Ocean, said Premier Peter Lougheed.

Preliminary work on the multi-million-dollar James Bay power project will not be halted by legal action taken by the Quebec Indian Association against the Quebec government, Premier Robert Bourassa said.

The late spring in the East, which caused widespread frost in Ontario and Quebec over night, embarrassed Nova Scotia tourism department with heavy snow. The storm headed for Newfoundland.

New Brunswick asked Ottawa for an icebreaker to aid 800 residents of Miscou Island off the province's northeast coast. Highways Minister Stewart Brooks said ice conditions were the worst in years.

At Edmonton Mr. Lougheed said the federal government's proposed arctic road, which will run more than 1,000 miles along the Mackenzie River Valley, to Tuktoyaktuk and begin this summer, must begin in Alberta.

He endorsed a member's idea that Alberta expedite matters by offering use of its engineers, highly experienced in building on muskeg and permafrost.

At Quebec City, Mr. Bourassa said Quebec wants to continue negotiations with the Indians and Eskimos who have challenged the constitutionality of the act setting up the James Bay Development Corp.

The Indian association filed legal actions last week against the Quebec attorney-general and contractors at work on the project to halt further development.

At Fredericton Mr. Brooks told the house he had authorized the use of a helicopter to fish Miscou with the rest of the province in event of an emergency during the spring thaw when ice prevents operation of a ferry.

Nature also occupied the Nova Scotia house when Opposition Leader John Buchanan proposed using a thermal power station fueled by provincial coal to smooth out generation of electrical power from Bay of Fundy tides.

At Winnipeg the house was told Manitoba will continue to support dependents of an able-bodied welfare recipient who is cut off welfare for refusing to accept work. Rene Toupin, social development minister, was elaborating on earlier statements that such recipients would be removed from welfare rolls.

Clarence Morris (left) and Harper McIlraith get in some final practice for Saturday's Eastern Ontario Bowling Tournament for the Blind. Both men bowl regularly and will help comprise the Quinte team competing against blind bowlers from Kingston, Ottawa, Cornwall and Peterborough. Saturday will mark the first time that Belleville has been the site of the annual event.

Blind Bowlers Compete In Saturday Tourney

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Touch is an important sense in bowling. It's even more important to Clarence Morris. Clarence is totally blind.

His handicap hasn't prevented him from enjoying the sport for the past 15 years, however. Nor, for that matter, has it prevented him from taking part in tournament competition.

The Belleville resident will be one of five bowlers from this district comprising the Quinte team in Saturday's Eastern Ontario Bowling Tournament for the Blind.

All bowlers in the competition have less than 10 per cent of their sight capacity, and as Clarence cheerfully puts it, "every team has to have one totally blind bowler, I guess I'm ours."

Teammate Harper McIlraith has been bowling with the white cane club since 1964. He enjoys an advantage over most of his teammates, however, since he's able to bowl twice a week. "I bowled with the CN' pensioners before my sight went really bad, and they were good enough to let me keep bowling with them, so now I get double action."

Clarence uses a 14-foot rail to help guide him to the dead ball line and manages to average about 59 pins per game using this method, although he has scored as high as 125.

His counterpart is a "spot bowler" using the marks on the floor to align himself.

"Some days I see pretty well, but not in a wide field," says Harper. Using this system he manages to average around 150 and has rolled as high as 208.

Like all bowlers, he has his good days and bad. "Most of the pensioners I bowl with are around six or seven hundred," he explains, "but last week, I was pretty stinky but they were worse."

The twosome will team up with Helen Wardaugh of Belleville and Ray Payne and Harvey Bailey of Trenton in Saturday's competition. All five have represented the area team in previous years.

Saturday will mark the first time that the tournament has been held in Belleville. Teams from Ottawa, Cornwall, Kingston (2) and Peterborough will be providing the competition for Quinte. Each member bowls three games with the team compiling the best total coming out on top.

Tournament action will get under way at 1.30 p.m. at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome.

Police Peewees Bar Y's Men From Win

Belleville Police Association peewees barred Y's Mens Club from two points last night by taking a 3-2 Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association win. Hugh Graham paced the police with two goals followed by Gerry Beakley with a single tally. For the losers it was Peter Poole looking after the scoring.

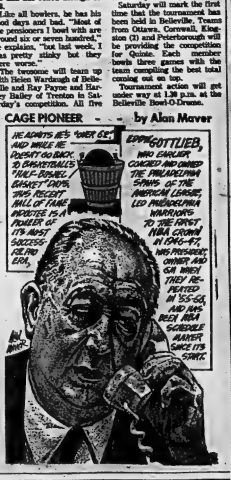
Dairy Queen peewees used the same formula for success as they hung a 3-2 loss on the T-Birds. Scoring for the winners were John Armstrong, Jeff Runciman and Steve Riddell. For the T-Birds it was Rainbolt and Frenette.

Bantam all - star! showed they could hold their own in midget competition by battling the sen cadets to a 5-5 deadlock. Rob Richardson, Brent Walmsley, Joe Charebois, Chris Rutledge and John Green scored for the all-stars while John Bailey, Larry Kester, John Murphy, Terry Cozzo and Barry Mason were the Sea Cadet goalgetters.

In another midget bout, it was A' and D Kass edging Belleville Auto Dealers 7 - 6 despite a hat trick effort by the losers' Mark Walmsley.

Youth Pays Off for Whitleys In Quinte Soccer Opener

It was enthusiasm over experience in the opening game of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association Wednesday, Whitley Travellers parlayed youth and speed into a 1-0 win over their more experienced C F B Trenton opponents.



Henry Somervell gave his team a 1-0 lead at half time with the only score of the first period. The second Whitley goal was scored by Gino Bonnica late in the final half.

McDowell's Luck Holds in Win Over Montreal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The best Sam McDowell ever Clay Kirby talk, you'd think they were subscribers to the Lety Gomez theory that "I'd rather be lucky than good."

"I would say I've been lucky so far this year, and I mean very lucky," said San Francisco's McDowell after running his record to 3-0 with a 7-3 Giants victory over Montreal Expos Wednesday night.

"I feel that when you give up three runs you're lucky to win," said San Diego's Kirby after a 5-3 Padres triumph over Philadelphia Phillies.

Not so fortunate was St. Louis' winless Bob Gibson, who carried a four-run lead into the eighth inning only to have Houston Astros explode for six runs to beat the Cardinals 10-7.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York Mets slipped Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in 14 innings, Atlanta Braves battered Pittsburgh Pirates 8-4 and Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati Reds 4-2.

McDowell, obtained from Cleveland during the winter, has won five of San Francisco's eight victories and is the only reason the last-place Giants are still in the league. And he calls it "a good, though lucky" despite his fastest start ever.

"I'll tell you, this club makes it a little easier for me out there," he said. "They're getting the runs for me. If I can hold the other club close, these guys will get me runs."

Sudden Sam held the Expos as close as you can get—1-1 through seven innings—and the Giants erupted for six runs in the eighth, with Tito Fuentes starting the uprising with a single to drive in the final run.

Garry Maddox, who doubled home the first San Francisco run, delivered a two-run single. Bob Bailey homered for the Expos.

Backed by home runs for Nate Colbert and Fred Kendall, Kirby survived five hits and eight walks to beat the Phillies. He was helped by three double plays.

Gibson, 0-4, was helped to a 7-3 lead by Ted Simmons' grand slam before the Astros teed off with his first major league homer and Jimmy Stewart capped it with a tie-breaking two-run pinch triple. Lee May homered for the Astros in the sixth. Al Santorini was charged with the defeat.

The Dodgers jumped to a 3-0 lead against the Mets with Frank Robinson collecting a run-scoring single in the first inning and a solo homer in the third. But the Mets pecked away at Al Downing and finally caught up in the eighth on Rusty Staub's home run.

The winning run came with two out in the 14th—after Tug McGraw had pitched five innings of one-hit relief for New York—on Bud Harrelson's single, a stolen base, Pete Mikkelsen's wild pitch and an infield hit by Ted Martinez.

The Braves scored four runs on five hits and two Pirate errors in the seventh inning to defeat Pittsburgh behind knuckleballer Phil Niekro.

Earl Williams singled home the first run of the inning. Dusty Baker delivered a pinch double for another run, Marty Perez squeezed home the third and then scored himself when center fielder Al Oliver dropped Niekro's fly ball.

Oliver batted a three-run homer for Pittsburgh and Bob Robertson a solo shot.

Perry Brothers Do Their Thing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim and Gaylord Perry have got it together. Now if they could only get together. . . .

Baseball's pitching brothers did their thing Wednesday, Gaylord tossing a five-hitter to carry Cleveland Indians to a 7-2 victory over Kansas City Royals that vaulted the Indians into first place for the first time in four years, then Jim hurling eight shutout innings at night en route to Minnesota Twins' 2-0 victory over New York Yankees.

In the other American League games, Baltimore Orioles squeezed by Texas Rangers 1-0, Chicago White Sox defeated Detroit Tigers 7-6, Milwaukee Brewers blanked Oakland Athletics 4-0 and California Angels topped Boston Red Sox 5-1.

The last time the Indians were in first on April 19, 1969—and that was on opening day and slightly tainted by the fact that four other teams shared the top spot with them.

"Today they're there on their own, half a game ahead of Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers in the American League East. Are the Indians for real? Is it time to take them seriously?

"The time to get excited, I mean really excited," Gaylord said after chalking up his fifth victory, "is after we hit a slump. Then let's see how quickly we can fight our way out of it and see what happens to our confidence.

"If we don't lose our confidence when we lose a couple of games, it'll be time enough to get excited. In the meantime, this momentum is great."

The momentum is eight victories in nine games and Gaylord has some of his own with three straight trimmers and an earned run average that has dipped to 2.62.

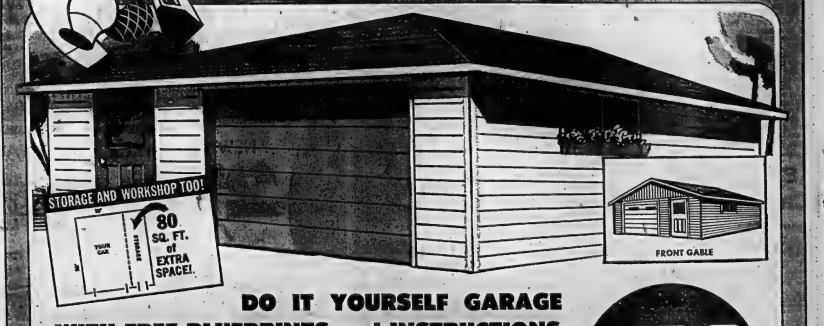
The Indians against the Royals on the strength of Alex Johnson's three-run homer, his third of the year.

Harmon Killebrew's second homer of the season and 517th of his career—moving him within four of ninth-place Ted Williams on the all-time home run list—was what gave Jim Perry and the Twins their victory over the Yanks.

Jim scattered nine hits and needed ninth-inning relief help before notching his third victory and enabling Minnesota to open its American League West lead over Oakland to 1½ games.

"I threw about 10 more pitches than I normally do" in a full nine innings, Jim said. "I didn't walk anybody but I sure had a lot of three-ball counts and it seems the innings were longer."

Jim noted he's never pitched against his brother before except in spring training—Gaylord was with San Francisco of the National League before being traded to Cleveland before this season—then added:



"I don't think the managers would shuffle the pitching rotation to put us against each other. But I think it would be good for both of us and good for baseball, especially if both of us pitched a good game."

They'll have to wait about a month before getting the chance. The Indians and Twins meet for the first time this season June 9 in Cleveland.

And incidentally, if the Perry's meet, they might not be the only brother act on the diamond. The Indians have a third baseman named Graig Nettles and the Twins have his brother, Jim, an outfielder.

Texas fireballer Pete Broberg tossed eight innings of one-hit ball but gave up a ninth-inning single and two walks, then pitcher Ken Sanders threw a double-play ball away to break the scoreless tie and give Dave McNally and the Orioles the victory.

Ballard Backs Canada to Limit

TORONTO (CP) — Full facilities of Maple Leaf Gardens with any profit to be turned over to the National Hockey League players pension fund were offered Wednesday in support of the forthcoming Canada-Russia hockey tournament.

Plans call for a Canada-Russia best-of-seven tournament, to be restricted to amateurs, to play eight games against the Russians in a home-and-home tournament with four games in Canada and the rest in the Soviet Union.

In addition, exhibition games are proposed for Stockholm and Prague.

Harold Ballard, Gardens president, said in a letter to Charles Hay, president of Hockey Canada:

"I am writing in my role as a director of Hockey Canada, reminding that this September we will achieve our first objective when we low Canada's best hockey players against the best from Russia.

"However, by the nature of our Canadian hockey set-up, with so many leagues, associations and organizations, each with its own vested interest, it could be very difficult to assemble our best team if some were to be so short-sighted as to let their private interest prevail.

"As the owner of an NHL club and a major arena, I wish to offer my assistance to you in the following ways:

1. Every player on the Toronto Maple Leafs club, whom Hockey Canada wishes for this event, has my complete permission to participate as needed, with no strings attached.

2. I hereby offer you Maple Leaf Gardens and its complete facilities for use as a training camp, free of charge.

3. Maple Leaf Gardens is available for any, or all, games to be played in Canada on a non-profit basis. To be specific, the entire Gardens' share of the gate receipts, without deduction for expenses of any kind, would be turned over to the NHL players' pension fund.

"From this world series of hockey," Ballard wrote, "it would appear that a substantial profit will be realized and I trust it will be used to further Hockey Canada's second objective, namely the development of the game here at home."

"I ordered a truckload of sand for the den. You can practice basketball shots in there!"

Quinte Area Residents Favored for Leisure Time Activities

Don't paint the Quinte district in workaday colors.

It's a veneer that just won't stick to the facts.

Belleville's Recreation Arena Committee is convinced of that and has organized a lively showcase to prove it.

A tour of the committee - sponsored Leisure Time Exhibition at the Belleville Memorial Arena this weekend should publicly testify to one fact:

The Quinte district is no mere area where people live just because they work there.

It's also a vast outdoor acreage, ideal for leisure in all its aspects and moods — active and passive.

And, inevitably — with such an environment on every Quinte community's doorstep — it's unavoidable that the mood of leisurely living should filter through to the home front.

The Leisure Time Exhibition has perceived this factor of Quinte life.

Hence, it's theme is multiple — keyed also to three accessories that enhance easy living in a domestic setting.

Its displays range from hound dogs to chalets.

The show comes when the real leisure potential of the Quinte district is finally being appreciated, says the chief spokesman for one organization which has been helping promote such a feature for years.

"In Quinte we have without doubt one of the finest recreation areas in North America — in both city and country," says Frank Foxwell, president of Belleville's Chamber of Commerce.

"Maybe for years it hasn't been appreciated as such, but it's finally arriving. The Bay of Quinte and Trent system is one of the best leisure waterways and we have a land area north from Lake Ontario that has more outdoors variety than most."

The exhibition, he feels, will be an excellent showcase reminder of the district's leisure potential.

Johnson Doesn't Think Momentum Crucial

NEW YORK (CP) — The team with the greatest momentum could be the key to winning a Stanley Cup, but Boston coach Tom Johnson is no first believer in the theory.

New York Rangers have the momentum—a 3-2 win over the Bruins Tuesday night at Boston —and the home-ice advantage here tonight for the sixth game in the best-of-seven series for the National Hockey League title.

"It didn't help us," Johnson said Wednesday shortly after his club arrived in the city. "We won here Sunday (3-2) then lost down last night."

The Bruin coach suggested it was not so much New York's ability as his own club's inept performance that enabled the Rangers, who now trail 3-2 in games, to knock off the heavily-favored Bruins in game No. 5.

"As far as I am concerned the Rangers lulled us to sleep," said Johnson, adding: "We didn't play our usual aggressive game."

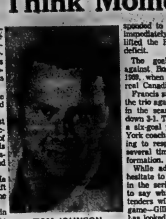
They'll get a chance to reverse the picture tonight in Madison Square Garden starting at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

The Bruins aren't suffering from any of the minor ailments they normally acquire when they're playing the aggressive hitting game that has carried them to two straight East Division titles.

"We really didn't make much contact out there to absorb any punishment," Johnson replied to reporters' questions about the health of his team.

Ranger's Emile Francis, meanwhile, held court for reports in his Garden's office with the tidings from the wee hours of the morning still evident on his face.

The New Yorkers were met by nearly 1,000 fans when they arrived back at LaGuardia airport about 1 a.m. and the buffeting and glad-handing of players and management alike left a warm glow.



"I took more checks going through two lines of those people than I did in my entire hockey career," said the one-time NHL goaltender who performed in the days when it was unheard of for a goalie to forsake the relative safety of his crease.

"We appreciated those people meeting us. The crowd gave us a real lift."

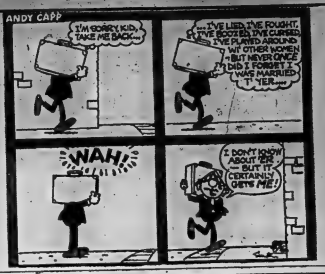
The Rangers got their biggest lift, however, when Francis decided before the third period of Tuesday's game to juggle his lineup, inserting Bobby Rousseau between Ted Irvine and Bruce MacGregor.

It was no shot in the dark. He had used the same makeshift trio several times during the season.

Rousseau, used sparingly in the game as point man on the New York power play, responded in the rotating chores imspediately with two goals that lifted the Rangers from a 2-1 deficit.

TOM JOHNSON

The goals were his first against Boston since Nov. 1, 1959, when he was with Montreal Canadiens.



Francis said he recalled using the trio against Montreal earlier in the season with New York down 3-1. The unit spear-headed a six-goal period and the New York coach has found them willing to respond in emergencies several times since that initial formation.

While admitting he wouldn't hesitate to units the line again in the series, Francis declined to say which of his two goaltenders will start tonight's game—Gilles Villemure, who has looked sharp in his two appearances against the Bruins, or Eddie Giacomin who has been erratic in three games.

Johnson, meanwhile, announced that he's going back to Gerry Cheevers in an effort to wrap the series up by game No. 6. In the event a deciding seventh game is necessary, it will be back in Boston Sunday starting at 2 p.m. EDT.

Cheevers has been anything but steady in two playoff games against New York, allowing five goals in each but got enough support in the scores' upstart to win 6-5.

The Bruins are hoping that with Lord Stanley's silver mug on the line, Cheevers will revert to the two-door performances of two years ago when he ran a record playoff string of 10 straight wins into the first NHL championship for Boston in three decades.

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays meets today with officials of San Francisco Giants and New York Mets to discuss his future in baseball.

The San Francisco superstar flew into New York Wednesday evening and announced:

"I'm here to talk and I can't say any more than that because I don't know any more."

The Mets, interested in obtaining the 41-year-old centre-fielder, resumed negotiations for his services with their top official on hand—chairman of the board M. Donald Grant.

Grant was to meet with Mays and Horace Stoneham, the Giants owner.

MONTREAL (CP) — Donato Fachano's chance to meet Kochi Kojima, the world junior middleweight champion, has been postponed for three or four months, the Japanese boxer's U.S. agent said Wednesday.

Dewey Fragetta, the agent, said the offer of $50,000, for a July title bout, from Fachano's manager Rogre Larivee is very attractive but the champion is not interested in defending his crown this summer.

Kojima took less than a round to dispose of Italian challenger Domenico Tiberia in a title defence last weekend.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Red Sox slugger Carl Yastrzemski was to undergo tests in hospital here today to determine the extent of damage to his right knee and how long he will be out of the Boston lineup.

The three-time American League batting champion arrived in Boston Wednesday night from Anaheim, Calif., where he was injured Tuesday night in the Red Sox victory over California Angels.

TORONTO (CP) — Ray Allen, whose Owen Sound Grey Granite Curling Club burned down 12 days ago, was elected Wednesday as president of the Ontario Curling Association.

The club was insured for $200,000 but Allen will be busy arranging for the rebuilding of the premises as well as handling his new duties as head of the OCA.

OCA vice-presidents elected were Lachlan MacTavish of Toronto, Bill Meyer of Galt, Hew Hewlit of Orillia and Mac Bell of Toronto.

Charges Dropped Against Blues

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — All charges against three St. Louis Blues hockey players and their coach resulting from a brawl with police and fans at the Spectrum last Jan. 6 were dismissed Wednesday.

Judge Maxwell Omlasky dismissed the charges after lawyers for the players and coach read an apology.

Al Arbour, 36, St. Louis coach, and players John Arbour, 30, Floyd Thompson, 22, and Phil Roberts, 23, were cleared of criminal charges.

The coach and the players had been charged with disorderly conduct, assault and battery and conspiracy, and Thompson also faced aggravated assault and battery charges.

The brawl started when a fan poured a cup of beer on coach Arbour. The coach and several players climbed into the stands and fought heckling fans, allegedly hitting them with hockey sticks.

A suit already has been filed by Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Hahns Jr. of Lafayette Hill, Pa., for more than $150,000 damages against the Spectrum management, Philadelphia Flyers and the Blues. Hahns charged his left hand was injured permanently when he was hit by a hockey stick.

In Montreal, NHL president Clarence Campbell said the decision likely clears the way for him to apply league discipline if necessary, to Arbour and his three players.

Campbell said he had films of the incident on hand and likely will call a meeting of the four principals, along with game officials, to determine what disciplinary action he deems necessary.

The owners originally paid $25 each when the horses were yearlings and another $50 last December.

Kings Fume After Petes Win

OTTAWA (CP) — "It's the cheapest way I know to win a hockey game," said Edmonton Oil Kings' general manager Bill Hunter.

Hunter fumed after the Kings lost 6-4 to Peterborough Petes Wednesday night, for what he felt was poor sportsmanship by the Petes and bad officiating by Memorial Cup officials.

Just before the start of the third period, Darcy Rota of the Kings was penalized for having an illegal stick—points out to referee Marcel Vaillancourt of Sherbrooke, Que., by Peterborough—and the Petes scored to break a 4-4 tie.

Rota's stick was 1½ inches thick at the tip, and Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules stipulate that a stick blade may not be more than three inches thick and not less than two inches.

Later in the third period, Brian Ogilvie of the Kings also was called for having an illegally-shaved stick.

"If we're going to lose to them, we're going to lose on the ice . . . not through cheap penalties . . . We'll win it," said Hunter.

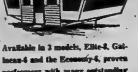
Peterborough coach Roger Neilson said he asked officials to check the Kings' sticks at the end of the first period but didn't think the penalties Edmonton received for the illegal sticks helped his team win the game.

"I know it's a cheap penalty for the Memorial Cup. . . . I goals.

Neilson felt the Petes had the edge in play, especially in didn't call it."

"We heard, that Edmonton was better than Cornwall but I'm not sure now. . . . The edge for us was in the goals."

Ali Brings Income Tax Suit Against Government



CHICAGO (AP) — Muhammad Ali, former world heavyweight boxing champion, and his wife, Belinda, sued the United States government Wednesday to recover $37,961.69 in income taxes they charge were wrongfully collected.

The suit involves the tax-exempt status of the Muhammad Temple of Islam, the Black Muslims religious sect to which and would not be taxable.

Muhammad Ali and his wife belong.

If the temple qualifies as a church, the suit says, then contributions to it could be deducted from Ali's gross income

PGA Prepares for 'Eye-ball' Open

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "Someday," said Bruce Crampton, "I'm not going to play in this tournament. I'm just going to come watch."

Crampton, an Australian veteran who ranked among the favorites, made his comment before teeing off today in the first round of the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament—professional golf's No. 1 gut-wrenching event.

"It's absolutely amazing," said Crampton.

During Wednesday's pro-am, he stopped several times, eyed the gallery and shook his head in something approaching awe. His was not alone. This may be the only tournament on the long, 12-month tour where the players watch the gallery as much or more than the gallery watches the players.

The touring pros are unanimous in their choice of this one as the tour's top gut-wrenching tournament. Whatever is next is a distant second. Concentration on golf is difficult.

It's sometimes called the Eye-Ball Open.

Home and School and Students Combine For Swimming Classes

A dedicated Home and School Association and a handful of high school students have come up with a winning formula for a new school program.

With the impetus of the staff of Queen Victoria School, they are putting grades 3 to 8 pupils in the swim in time for the summer season.

The non-swimmers from the school are now receiving instruction in the Y pool twice a week, on Tuesdays, and Thursdays.

But the program could not have been put into operation without the Home and School's money and the RCI students' expertise.

When principal Donald Lockyer and vice - principal Ev English decided swimming should be part of the course of study, they were stymied by lack of funds. And a swimming program must have supervisors who hold the Royal Lifesaving Society's Bronze Medallion.

The active Home and School Association at Queen Victoria came through with the $15 an hour for pool rental at the Y and RCI's student leadership program supplied four qualified assistants: Kim Shipton, Larry Wilson, Rick Bell and Janice Cooke.

"Since all the qualified members of our staff have let their Bronze Medallions lapse, we couldn't have put on this program without the RCI students," says Mr. English.

Also helping with the program are Mrs. Carol McBride and Mrs. Judy Saulter, volunteers from the community, and Walter Cochrane, educational assistant with the county board.

Mrs. Enid Rowe, aquatics director for the Y has helped with supplies and organizational assistance.

And through Home and School again, women from the Queen Vic area have been recruited for a car pool to get the children to and from the Y.

The instruction will continue for four weeks and a fifth week will be devoted to a testing program. The pupils follow the Royal Lifesaving Society's instructional program.

A school program of instruction for non-swimmers is an innovation in Belleville. Under the old Belleville Public School Board, all grade 5 pupils were taught at the Y and any who couldn't stay afloat were given a 10-lesson course.

But with the creation of the county board, the program ended, and has only been partially revived this year on the initiative of Queen Victoria's principal and staff.

Planning Board Dropouts Meet

TRENTON (Staff) — Representatives of the four municipalities that last week announced withdrawal from Quinte Planning Board gathered here Tuesday night to plot their immediate planning futures.

Gathering in Trenton council chambers, following a session of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board, were Trenton's Mayor Duncan McDonald and Councillor Paul Trow, Brighton Reeve Norman Roberts, Murray Reeve Harry Lafferty and from Brighton Township Roy Chatten.

The closed - door meeting lasted less than an hour with discussion centring on how to confer with Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough on the withdrawal issue.

All municipalities have sent letters to the minister advising him of their individual decisions, to get out of QPB. They now anticipate either requesting a meeting with him or being invited by him to talk the situation over.

Representatives left the informal session here last night resolved that each municipality's council will open-ly discuss their planning futures and draft a position paper. The four municipalities will "each look after its own" said Mayor McDonald.

In dealings with the minister the four municipalities will act independently, although all feel move can be achieved at less cost with a new planning unit, concludes Trenton's mayor. The four pay a total of $40,000 annually in QPB, and believe they get little value.

Kindergarten Enrolment Up

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Prince Edward director of education John McNeil Monday told school trustees a kindergarten enrolment survey which was completed recently indicates "a slight increase" despite predictions to the contrary.

Mr. McNeil added that this year eight teachers have resigned in the Prince Edward County school system to date and said among these there will be only one replacement.

He explained the county's elementary school staff has been modified by seven teachers but stressed this modification does not represent a cutback.

"We have a very attractive teacher-pupil ratio," stressed Mr. McNeil.

The education director and the staff of Queen Elizabeth school in Picton will have four fewer teachers next September while Wellington and North Marysburg each will have one less staff member. Athol and South Marysburg schools will no longer have the shared services of one teacher.

He said last year from 35 to 40 teachers resigned and in 1970 from 35 to 60 in comparison with the eight resignations received to date this year in Prince Edward's school system.

$9.5 Million Tag On Urban Renewal

An estimate more than $9.5 million has been set as the cost of carrying out the work in the public sector recommended in the city's urban renewal scheme, prepared by consulting engineers, Proctor, Redfern Bousfield and Bacon.

This is the figure, given in the final report on the $85,000 urban renewal plan which was presented to council Monday by engineering firm planner Alan Bean.

The final report included cost estimates of renewal projects recommended to be done by the city, along with the recommended staging and implementation of the work.

The "conceptual report of the urban renewal scheme setting out what could be done with the city's downtown area, was presented to council a year ago.

When the city ordered the renewal study done several years ago, the two senior governments contributed heavily to approved work done in the public sector.

The breakdown was 50 per cent subsidy from the federal government, 25 per cent by the province, and 25 per cent by the municipality.

Now, however, both senior governments have withdrawn financial assistance to such schemes, although Mr. Bean did not rule this out completely in special cases.

The initiative, however, he said, must come from the municipality.

The conceptual plan called for extensive property acquisition in the north and south areas of the city's central core with obsolete structures to be razed to make way for new residential and business structures.

The plan called for refurbishing of business blocks in the central core with Front Street to have a mall-like atmosphere.

If the conceptual plan were carried out, it was estimated that property acquisition and clearance with cost $4,718,000, with municipal works and services another $4,769,000 and administrative costs $185,000 for a total of $9,673,000.

Of this total it was estimated an amount of $2,546,000 would be recovered in the sale of land for residential and commercial uses and for parking areas, leaving a net cost of $7,138,000.

Without federal and provincial assistance, this is the amount which it would cost the city to carry out the urban renewal recommendations.

The report was referred to the Quinte Planning Board for possible use in their preparation of an official plan for the city.

What the Stars Say

By FRANK DIXON

Friday, May 12

Aries (March 21-April 19): Group finances come into the cussion. Have your information current and ready to show. Mind your own affairs diligently, get the work week wound up neatly.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): The extra effort needed to press forward is worthwhile. Be tactful despite your insistence and check figures to avoid duplication of expense.

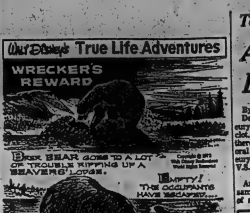
Gemini (May 21-June 20): Some disagreement is inevitable. Direct approaches into the best, leaving side issues for later resolution.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): A little space between you and friends and your cash helps. Don't take moods in others over-seriously.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Emotional stimulus runs to excitement, an element of novelty among the conventional distractions. Co-operation fades; depend on your own resources.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New friends aren't quite ready to work closely with your enterprises. Don't bargain hunting; may bring you a trophy, a long-desired find at reasonable cost.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Very little of today's advice is very useful, well intended. Listen but do your own thinking. Bids for career advancement threaten progress.



Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Early contacts tend to be somewhat abrasive. Your persuasive efforts eventually prevail and your day is successful in proportion to the quality of your effort.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You can talk effectively to the powerful and distant but you may waste precious energy bickering with associates. Don't.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Natural tendencies to consolidate ventures produce positive results. Your work week can be wrapped up neatly, never to be retrieved or sorted out.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19): Fresh contacts are likely but of little dramatic consequence. Most of what you need requires long development, sharing of many experiences.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep an even keel through a stressful day of interests in conflict. Your own interests are a bit to one side.

Aneurysm Weak Blood Vessel Spot

By G. C. THOMPSON

Dear Dr. Thompson: Is an aneurysm the same as a clot, or just the opposite? Is there any information about oral contraceptives causing aneurysms in the brain?—Mrs. V.S.M.

An aneurysm is neither the same as nor just the opposite of a blood clot. The only thing they have in common is that they are troubles involving blood vessels.

An aneurysm is a weak place in a blood vessel. Since it is a weak spot, it follows that there will be some bulging and weakening of the vessel wall. When this happens, a blood clot might not form in or near an aneurysm, the big concern about an aneurysm is however—that it might be weak enough to break down and let blood escape.

"Aneurysm" is a word that covers a lot of territory. Where is it? How big is it? Is it showing any signs of change? Is it what is called a "dissecting aneurysm," meaning that the layers of the blood vessel are separating and the separation is advancing?

A small aneurysm in the brain might be just one more concern than one of similar size elsewhere.

Control of blood pressure obviously is important. Keep pressure within limits and there is less risk of the aneurysm giving trouble. Treatment may depend-ing on size and location, surgical correcting may be the answer—replacing a section of the weakened blood vessel. There also has been great interest in finding methods of reinforcing the weak place.

As to the other part of your question about blood clots, well, a blood clot is just what the name implies. It is blood that has clotted inside a blood vessel. Small ones may be carried through the vascular system and gradually break up and disintegrate. Others, perhaps because of their size, become lodged in a vessel, lodge there and shut off circulation. Clots in the location of the clot is of great significance.

Oral contraceptives have been accused of so many things, with or without justification, that I wouldn't be surprised if somebody hasn't indicated them as contributing factors in aneurysms. However, I have no information indicating that this is so or that there is any reason to fear it.

It is true, however, that "the pill" is not recommended for women already known to have trouble with their veins, i.e., phlebitis in the legs, or varicose veins. It may be small but there seems to be an element of risk in encouraging vascular trouble.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Please tell me if it is possible for a girl to become pregnant without having actual intercourse.—L.S.

Yes—depending o.n exactly what you mean by "intercourse." You've heard of artificial insemination, haven't you? Well, women can get pregnant that way.

The sperm, hunting for an ovum with mating in mind, doesn't care how it gets there. So the fact is that some girls have become pregnant before petting. Remember that the male sperm, once it reaches the female genital surfaces, can travel some distance in search of an ovum. It it finds one—pregnancy!

Dear Dr. Thompson: What time should I go to bed? My mother says 8:30 but I want to go at 9. I am 8. My sister is 11. —V.M.H.

What time do you get up? You need it to 10 hours sleep a night and, so does your sister. Whatever you go to bed at 8:30 or 9 shouldn't cause any family brawls but you do need enough sleep.

Opening lead — five of spades.

Sylvia never did like duplicate bridge. What she enjoyed most of all was playing rubber bridge with the experts in the club, even though she realized she was outclassed.

Her absolutely unlimited variety of incomprehensible bids and plays were stribuitable not to a player with her nature, but rather to the frequently autokilling quirks of thought that might assail her at any given moment. These aberrations, though generally costly, were sometimes successful, and whenever such a victory occurred, the word of Sylvia's latest triumph would spread like wildfire to the entire membership of the club.

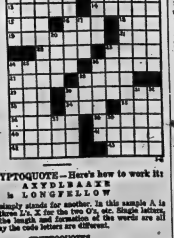
This deal occurred on a night when Sylvia made one of her rare appearances at the duplicate. At each of the 12 tables, South became declarer at three notrump.

At 11 tables South made four notrump after a spade was led to the king and East returned the jack. Declarer ducked and eventually finished with ten tricks after losing a diamond finesse to East.

But at Sylvia's table South went down. West led a spade and Sylvia (East) played the jack instead of the king. South did not dare refuse the jack, since it appeared certain that West had the A-K. So he won with the ace and cashed his all on a diamond finesse.

Unfortunately for South, it failed. Sylvia won with the king and naturally returned the king of spades. West took with the ace, cashed his spades, and declarer wound up by going down two.

There was not much point to asking Sylvia to explain her jack play, because everyone knew of her reluctance ever to part with a king. In fact, had anyone bothered to ask, Sylvia would no doubt have been surprised to learn that any player other than Jack could even be contemplated.



Tomorrow: The robid.

Old Steam Engine To Pull Fun Train

OTTAWA (CP) — "We'll run it slow and easy and if we feel like stopping to pick berries or flowers, or fish, or just throw stones in the river—well, we'll stop and enjoy the day."

That's how Douglas Fullerton, chairman of the National Capital Commission, described Wednesday his latest project to entertain residents and visitors of the national capital area.

It's an old-fashioned, smoke-puffing steam engine that Mr. Fullerton, with the help of the National Science and Technology Museum and

Cornell Arrives

LONDON (CP) — Plans by Ontario for intensifying its trade campaigns in Britain and possibly in Europe generally as a response to enlargement of the European Common Market were disclosed to journalists here Wednesday.

The disclosure came at a press conference marking the arrival in London of Ontario's new agent-general for British Ward Cornell, a former broadcasting personality, university teacher and writer.

Blossoms Late

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Niagara Peninsula's Blossom Sunday will be late this year but its festival will go on as scheduled.

Although Blossom Sunday falls on May 21, the week-long festival will begin May 13.

More to Entertain

TORONTO (CP) — The private bills committee of the Ontario legislature Wednesday approved a private bill allowing Toronto city councillors to spend a total of up to $300,000 annually attending conventions and entertaining visitors.

This is twice as much as is allowed under the Municipal Act. The city had asked approval to spend as much as it wanted, without limit.

The bill must still be approved by the legislature.

Tribunal Sought

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — The People or Places committee has requested that an independent tribunal be set up to study whether a second Toronto-area international airport is needed.

The committee said in a report Wednesday that the request was made to Transport Minister Don Jamieson April 25. The request was being made public because no formal reply had been received.

Death Penalty Urged by Pilots

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association wants the death penalty deterrent for those who murder the chief pilots of commercial aircraft.

Any aircraft commander is charged with the safety and security of hundreds of passengers and his death would necessarily endanger their lives," the association said in a brief to the Commons justice committee Wednesday.

No Injunction

TORONTO (CP) — A Hamilton off-track betting organization, which has been raided about 300 times, Wednesday lost its bid for an order restraining police from interfering with its business.

Mr. Justice John O'Driscoll of the Ontario Supreme Court dismissed the application by Greenback Investments (Hamilton) Ltd. for an interim injunction pending a hearing or other disposition of the action.

No Answer Yet

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government just won't answer questions that might prove embarrassing, John Diefenbaker charged Wednesday.

The former Conservative prime minister complained in the Commons that he has been waiting since March 28 for an answer to a written question on how many red ensigns were sold by the works department when the new Canadian flag was introduced in 1965, how many had since been disposed of by sales to veterans or private individuals and how many remain on hand.

The normal time lapse for such a question, marked with a star to signify an oral rather than a written reply, is four days, he said. It was obvious that those questions which "might prove embarrassing are not being answered."

Test Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has sent a note to the French government opposing French plans for a nuclear test explosion in the atmosphere over the South Pacific soon.

Youth Meeting

LONDON (CP) — The future of youth exchanges in the Commonwealth will be discussed at a two-day meeting in London starting May 18, to which Canada is sending the largest delegation.

Boycott Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday rejected suggestions that he support a boycott of Danish products proposed by one of his ministers by saying "that is not the position of the Canadian government."

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis expressed recently that a consumer boycott of Danish products might encourage that country to stop fishing the declining Atlantic salmon stocks.

Law to Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Job discrimination based on age, sex and marital status is banned under the federal labor code with some exceptions—in legislation given first reading Wednesday in the Commons.

Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said the proposed changes will "substantially raise" forces and improve the government's ability to seek and eradicate such discrimination wherever it occurs within the federal jurisdiction."

Shulman Will Take Sheridan to Mine

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman said Wednesday he will accept the invitation of the president of Silver Shield Mines Inc. to tour the company's mine at Cobalt.

The firm's president, Norton Cooper, extended the invitation after Dr. Shulman's criticism of Ontario government grants to the company and stock deals involving Silver Shield and its parent company, International Mariner Resources Ltd. of Toronto.

Children in Jail

HULL, Que. (CP) — Despite a public outcry eight months ago, children still are being illegally detained in the Hull jail, it was disclosed this week.

Dr. Shulman said he has chosen mining engineer Patrick Sheridan to accompany him on the tour.

Nymph a Hoax

ADELAIDE (Reuter) — The "Wallaroo Nymph," the near naked blonde-haired girl rumored to run wild with the kangaroos in the Australian outback, was revealed Wednesday night to be a hoax.

Mr. Scott, kangaroo shooter, rabbit trapper and fisherman, said the idea of the nymph had been invented in the pub at Encks 900 miles east of Perth.

"We were all sitting in the pub at Encks, drinking on, when someone suggested the idea," Scott said.

Pension Changes Considered

Budget Debate Starts Ahead of Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Sidestepping Commons rules, MPs jumped into debate on old-age-pension increases Wednesday as the opposition welcomed the windfall for pensioners but called it a cynical election gambit by the Liberals.

All parties agreed to set aside the minimum three days usually required to bring a bill to debate in the House, with the aim of bringing the increase to 1.8 million pensioners by June.

Commons legislation increasing veterans' pensions also is planned for passage by the Commons next week. Both measures were included in the budget Finance Minister John Turner brought down Monday.

The current old age pension, given to everybody 65 and over, is $80 monthly. For the neediest, there is a supplement up to $30 a month for single pensioners and up to $85 for couples.

Under present law, those receiving supplements get a two-per-cent increase in their pensions when the cost of living rises that much or more in a two major changes.

First, it would apply the cost-of-living increase to all pensioners, not just those getting supplements.

Second, the increase would reflect the actual increase in the cost of living, not limited to one per cent. For several years the cost of living has increased by more than two per cent, leaving pensioners with declining purchasing power.

The increases would be retroactive to Jan. 1, and the government hopes June pension cheques will include the extra pensions earned in the first six months of the year.

The supplements are being increased $15 a month for single pensioners and $30 a month for couples. That would bring the maximum pension to $100 a month for singles and $285 for couples.

Opposition MPs recalled past government rejection of their pleas to match all pension increases to the actual cost of living.

They said the government has not said is intended to have voters for a summer election.

Opening the pension debate, Welfare Minister John Munro recited government measures to help pensioners and said the government always had planned to raise the ceiling on living-cost increases if the two per cent proved inadequate.

"We are delivering on that promise today."

He called it a great step in support of the elderly, adding Canada treats its senior citizens better than just about any country in the free world.

Jack Marshall (PC—Humber-St. George's-St. Barbe) agreed the bill is a good idea, but was dered at the government change of heart.

On March 23 the Liberals defeated a Conservative motion calling for increases to match living-cost increases.

Evidently . . . the minister has discovered that old age pensioners deserve a better break and a more just cost of living increase in their payments, just as we argued . . . ," Mr. Marshall said.

A conversion is better late than never, he added, but "less deathbed conversions have ever saved a dying patient's life, and this late move is unlikely to

Abortion Law Change Planned in New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York state senate voted Wednesday night to replace the state's liberal abortion law with a much more restrictive one and sent the bill to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has said repeatedly he will veto it.

The 30-to-27 vote came after five hours of emotional debate, during which one member distributed photographs of unborn fetuses and another held up a coat hanger and declared such implements would be in common use for illegal abortions if the bill passed.

The state assembly Tuesday passed the measure, which allows abortion only to save the life of the mother.

save a dying Liberal government."

The bill should be passed quickly to benefit pensioners, but it is clear the government plans to call an election—perhaps for July 17—when pensioners have their big June cheques still in memory.

Mr. Marshall offered an amendment to give pensioners a bonus to reflect living-cost increases since 1967, when the two-percent provision took effect.

Deputy Speaker Russell Durham) thought the amendment inadmissible on procedural grounds, but withheld final judgment after hearing argument from a Conservative and two Liberals.

The rest of the government's Monday budget, with its reductions in corporate taxes and benefits for students, begins the first of eight days of Commons debate today. The pension changes return to the House Friday.

Hydro and Union Differ on 'Facts'

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro and the union representing 11,500 of its employees are circulating among the workers opposing bulletins about Hydro's proposed wage-benefit package.

The management bulletin says Hydro is offering an 11-per-cent average wage increase over two years, with varying increases for different categories.

The union bulletin opposes the varying increases and says many of the terms of the offer are retrogressive.

Negotiators for Local 1000, Canadian Union of Public Employees, have a mandate to call a strike.

The offer includes a three-per-cent cost-of-living escalator in the second year of the contract.

Hydro says it is proposing wage variances to bring rates of pay in all job classifications into line with those in industry. Until 1970 increases were given across the board.

W. A. Vincer, president of Local 1000, said in a bulletin to union members Hydro is hoping employees will calculate their 1973 increase and be so satisfied they will urge a settlement.

Tidal Power

HALIFAX (CP) — The Bay of Fundy tidal power development project is in a state of "suspended animation," Alcan is powership, Dr. T. J. Gray, director of the Atlantic Industrial Research Institute, charged Wednesday.

"No one seems to care," said Dr. Gray, a faculty member at Nova Scotia Technical College here.

Dispute Simmers

TORONTO (CP) — While envoys struggled to clean up the city's parks and streets after settlement of the 30-day garbage strike, outside workers in four boroughs balked at the terms accepted by Metro garbagemen.

When Local 43, Canadian Union of Public Employees, struck last month, York, North York, East York and Scarborough said off their garbage workers because dumping sites were picketed by members of the city and Metro local.

Metropolitan Toronto is made up of the city of Toronto and five boroughs, those mentioned above and Etobicoke.

Now the borough workers, members of locals 114, 368, 13 and 94 CUPE, are asking their own contracts and they are not impressed by the terms accepted by Local 43.

"That's not settlement, that's a saw-off," CUPE national representative A. K. Cunningham, said Wednesday.

"No other local in the area is going to voluntarily settle on the same basis as Local 43. . . . In that settlement in dollars and cents they were literally taking peanuts, . . . We're not going to play games."

Local 43 accepted an eight-per-cent pay raise in 1972 with the increase for 1973 to be subject to arbitration, if the parties cannot agree within 15 days of their return to work.

Mr. Cunningham said the garbagemen and other outside workers in the four boroughs will demand the settlement previously granted by the Borough of Etobicoke—a 15-per-cent increase over two years.

He said he expects "extremely hard lines" in the boroughs.

Locals 114, 368 and 13, covering more than 850 outside workers in East York, Scarborough and York have applied for conciliation.

Mr. Cunningham said North York's Local 94, which represents about 700 outside workers, will likely have a conciliation meeting May 15.

He said the workers in North York could be in a strike position by June.

Elsewhere on the labor front, mediation began Wednesday between the city and Metro and CUPE Local 79, representing inside workers.

Cabinet Closes Ranks In Crisis in Quebec

Two Ministers Stay in Office

QUEBEC (CP) — More illegal strikes, the shutdown of Montreal's six daily newspapers, radio station occupations and continued interruption in school and hospital facilities marked the fourth day of spreading labor unrest in Quebec province today.

The wave of sympathy walkouts — ably linked with mounting protests against the imprisonment Tuesday of three Quebec labor federation presidents for contempt of court.

But some strikes have been called to protest lagging contract negotiations or working conditions in a particular industry.

Two Quebec cabinet ministers, earlier reported to be on the verge of resigning, announced they have withdrawn their resignations because of the current labor crisis.

Claude Castonguay, social affairs minister, said Thursday night he was staying on "principally because of the crisis we are living through."

Jean-Paul L'Allier, civil service minister and the man at the centre of the storm in contract negotiations between the government and 250,000 public service workers announced he'll a statement early today he will continue in the cabinet to help find a solution to the current unrest.

Both ministers in Premier Robert Bourassa's cabinet were reported to be mainly dissatisfied by federal government policies in what they consider to be provincial areas of social welfare and the Quebec government's failure to take a tough line in its negotiations with Ottawa.

Montreal's four French-language and two English-language dailies were forced to suspend publication of today's editions. In some cases their own employees walked out to join the sympathy protests; in others, non-paper union members set up pickets at the newspapers and management halted operations to avoid any confrontation.

The Gazette, The Star, La Presse, La Devoir, Montreal Matin and La Patrie de Montreal all announced they would resume publication Saturday.

More non-medical hospital employees left their jobs in Montreal today, and walkouts spread to communities along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River northeast of Quebec City. The north shore strikes were said to involve some 40,000 construction, mine and other workers in the region.

The leader of the Parti Quebecois in the Quebec national assembly called the labor unrest more serious than the October, 1970, crisis resulting from two political kidnappings that brought army troops into the province under the War Measures Act.

Guerrilla Violence Mounting

BELFAST (AP) — British troops and marauding bands of guerrilla gunmen clashed through the night in Northern Ireland.

In Londonderry, soldiers and Irish Republican Army snipers shot it out in several sectors but no casualties were reported.

In Belfast, however, three troopers were wounded in a gun battle in the IRA-dominated Ramsen Catholic district of Ballymurphy. The army said one gunman was hit.

The shooting followed a day of violence. One British soldier was shot dead, a bullet in his throat, and two guerrilla bombs wounded 95 people, none seriously.

With guerrilla violence apparently on the upturn again after two weeks of relative quiet, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, was to hold some under increasing pressure from the majority Protestant community to crush IRA strongholds in Londonderry and Belfast.

Canadians Are Dismayed

Alaskan Pipeline Route Is Selected by Morton

WASHINGTON (CP) — Interior Secretary Morton has approved the construction of the trans-Alaska pipeline, choosing the route over a Canadian alternative through the Mackenzie Valley.

The decision announced Thursday was hailed by U.S. oil spokesmen but brought dismay from Canadian government spokesmen as well as conservationists in both countries.

Despite Morton's long-awaited announcement, legal challenges facing the Alaska route could delay beginning of actual construction of the line for several years.

Morton said he had approved the trans-Alaska route because it was "in the national interest" of the U.S. to have a pipeline under complete American jurisdiction for its "exclusive use."

Edward L. Patton, president of the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., said the seven-member consortium formed to build the Trans-Alaska route was "extremely gratified" at Morton's approval.

Spokesmen at the consortium's office in Anchorage said construction would not begin until the U.S. district court in Washington had ruled on moves opposing the pipeline.

Several observers predicted a protracted legal battle which would only end in the U.S. Supreme Court.

The pipeline route approved by Morton would move oil from Prudhoe Bay—in Alaska's North Slope where the huge oil deposits are located—southward through Alaska to the ice-free port of Valdez. From there, the oil would be shipped by oil tankers to Washington state via the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Canadian government and conservation groups have opposed the Alaska pipeline because of fears of damage to the environment of the British Columbia coast.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp of Canada said in Vancouver after the decision was announced that efforts to get the Alaska route is a "very, very foolish move." Sharp said U.S. authorities have not given adequate consideration to Canada's submission favoring the Mackenzie route.

Energy Minister Donald Macdonald of Canada, who had proposed the Mackenzie Valley route to Morton in a Washington meeting earlier this year, said in Ottawa he is disappointed with the interior secretary's announcement. Macdonald said in a statement the tanker route down the Pacific coast "could produce difficult inferences in Canada-United States relations."

Also expressing concern over the move was Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia.

Crisis Spread Wide

QUEBEC CITY (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette yesterday told the Quebec National Assembly the strike situation "is under control in all regions where disturbances have been reported."

But here is a summary of the situation by regions Thursday:

Thetford Mines: About 4,300 workers were off their jobs. Five of seven asbestos mines were shut down. Workers had occupied the only radio station in the town, 19 miles south of Quebec City.

St. Jerome: Union officials estimated 30,000 workers walked out in the Laurentians region north of Montreal. Radio station CKJL occupied for six hours Wednesday, was re-occupied Thursday morning but police evicted the demonstrators 20 minutes later. Owner Jean Lalonde then closed it down.

Sept-Iles: About 5,000 construction and metal workers continued their protest started Wednesday. Most business, offices and schools were closed.

The Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway, which carries iron ore from Labrador to Sept-Iles on the St. Lawrence River, was shut down.

Hauterive: About 2,000 teachers, construction workers and public service employees attended a union rally. Radio station CHLC was occupied by union supporters.

Wabush, Nfld.: Between 200 and 250 construction workers at an iron ore mine site walked off their jobs to support the Quebec leaders in jail.

Montreal: Union officials reported 30,000 were off construction sites in the city, employing nearly 40,000 others were idled. But the employers association said workers were being forced to walk out. Trials began against their wills.

About 600 musicians employed by the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission had walked out. Buses and subways were still running.

Most schools in Montreal Island were closed or open. Maintenance workers and professors at the University of Quebec's Montreal campus were off the job as were those at the university at Chicoutimi, Trois-Rivieres, Chicoutimi, Rimouski and Hull.

Quebec City: The Quebec Teachers Corp. reported nearly 90 per cent of the 8,700 teachers in the area did not go to school. Some construction sites in the city were shut down, journalists at Le Soil and L'Action voted not to join their Montreal colleagues in a walkout. Provincial government offices were closed for Ascension Day.

Mont-Laurier: About 125 teachers stayed away from school in this town, 100 miles north of Ottawa.

Chicoutimi: About 1,200 workers at the Music 3 power dam site 30 miles northwest of the city joined the walkouts.

Trois-Rivieres: Four hospitals in the city were affected by walkouts while insecure 1 nearby Shawinigan and Grand'mere stayed away from school.

Sorel: All construction in the region was halted and non-medical hospital workers walked out at area hospitals.

Thirteen CN Men Hurt

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Thirteen members of a work gang were injured Thursday when a CNR freight train derailed on a secondary line about 80 miles northwest of here. The injured, employees of a private contractor in Thunder Bay, were taken here by helicopter and ambulance. Two are in serious condition. The train was on a freight line moving the men to work near the community of Kelly.

Hanoi Evacuated

SAIGON (CP) — David Jackson, commissioner of the Canadian delegation to the International Control Commission, reported today that much of Hanoi's civilian population has been moved into the countryside and some government offices have shut down because of the threat of U.S. air attacks on the North Vietnamese capital.

A major evacuation of residents has taken place," Jackson reported.

UN Building Closed

NEW YORK (AP) — United Nations officials ordered the world body's New York headquarters closed to tourists today because of the "rising tide of demonstrations" against President Nixon's new Vietnam policy. Thousands again took to the streets and campuses Thursday in the third day of widespread protests against the President's decision to mine North Vietnamese harbors. A state of emergency was declared at the University of New Mexico Albuquerque campus.

An Loc Again Entered

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese troops and tanks smashed into An Loc again today despite saturation bombing by 70 U.S. B-52s that raised more than 1,500 tons of explosives on the devastated provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon. It was the war's heaviest concentration of B-52s.

Fierce fighting raged in and around the An Loc this morning, as Communist troops poured more than 3,000 shells on government positions in retaliation for 39 B-52 strikes in the area Thursday night, military sources said.

94 on Freighter Die

None Alive on Hulk After Tanker Hit

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (Reuter) — Navy officers who today boarded the smouldering hulk of the British freighter Royston Grange said they found no survivors among the ship's 94 passengers and crew. It had collided with a tanker in the River Plate.

One officer said that after the Royston Grange rammed the 12,689-ton Liberian tanker Ten Chee 46 miles southeast of here an explosion apparently set the freighter ablaze and destroyed it. Dutchman—19 passengers and an Argentine pilot.

A girl of five and an 80-year-old man were among the passengers on the British ship. Seven of the 10 were Britons; the others were two West Germans and an Argentine woman.

The child, Therese Lillian Hagan, was sailing on the Royston Grange with her father, the chief steward, and mother, who was reported to be working as a stewardess.

Thirty-three survivors from the 16,000-ton Hong Kong-based tanker were taken ashore to a hospital at La Plata, 35 miles south of Buenos Aires.

THE WEATHER

Afternoon temperatures should rise into the upper 60s in the mid 70s in the south. A low pressure area will give some cloudiness and a few showers in the northern regions of the province Saturday. The south will continue predominantly sunny and warm Saturday.

Wall Comes Tumbling Down

Parking can be such sweet sorrow but it is not often that the motorist's woes are literally a ton of stones. Somebody, identity unknown, presumably owns this Ford station wagon, tucked away beneath the remains of a garden wall, which is also hidden away from most eyes by surrounding buildings in the Pinnacle Street - Victoria Avenue area. The wall is believed to have fallen Sunday, but Fire Chief Leo Culhane discounts suggestions its collapse was caused by fire in the old Victoria block nearby. Above Klaas Hekistra, whose barber shop is close by, inspects the car.

No Golf In Parks

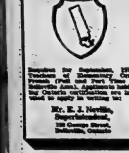
The Belleville Parks Board is going to discourage golf practising in the city's parks.

The decision was taken yesterday at the monthly parks board meeting after it was noted that several complaints had been received of persons using parks as a convenient driving range.

Parks board members agreed the practice not only represented a hazard to other people using park facilities but in certain cases also damages the turf.

Board members voted that it be the policy of the board to disallow golfing in parks except where designated. Board chairman Ald. Paul Boswell said appropriate signs would be erected.



The words "except where designated" leaves the door open for the board to provide driving ranges should this be felt desirable some time in the future.

Plates Late, Fine $20

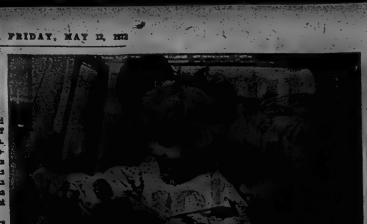
Driving with a car bearing 1971 plates, 10 months after 1972 plates were required, cost a Napanee man $20 in provincial court Thursday.

Thomas Sammon was stopped on Dundas Street East at 12:10 a.m. March 1, by city police Constable Hugh Swanson. New plates were issued inside his car, still in their wrappers.



He was given the minimum penalty.

Flying on the Ground

More than 200 Prince Charles Public School students invaded the Belleville Flying Club Wednesday for a tour and an afternoon outing. Here Lesley Adams (left) and Kelli Walsh (both grade one students) take a turn at the controls of the land - locked plane. Garry Stephenson, member of the club conducted the tour. A highlight of the day was the glider. Children were impressed that it flew without a motor. Over 1,600 students visited the club in September, coming from local and area schools.

Social Workers Move To New-old Quarters

Hastings County Social Services Department is in new office headquarters in the Bridge Street Mission residence more than a century old.

And department administrator Reginald Tucker and his staff of 10 social workers are happy with the move.

The new social department quarters are in the old jail governor's residence which was saved from the wrecker's hammer when the county jail was planned and about a year ago.

"This move to the "new-old" office headquarters was made Thursday and although today staff members are still waiting delivery of some of their new furniture, the changeover from the main county administration building only briefly interrupted normal service.

In the move, staff members carried more than 5,000 files across the open yard to the new office accommodation.

And despite the fact the building itself is at least a century old, the office accommodation is actually new.

The old residence was completely renovated with new wall panelling, new acoustic ceilings, lighting and carpeting.

The new office provides 2,000 feet of floor space — more than double the previous accommodation.

"It's quite an improvement" stated Mr. Tucker as he took up department business from his new second-floor office.

In addition to the main general office, the new accommodation has private offices for Mr. Tucker and his assistant, private interview rooms and a board office for holding monthly committee meetings.

In addition to providing needed extra space for the social services department, renovation of the old jail governor's residence assured preservation of a link with the city's past.

"This is important in view of the fact that many of the city's older buildings are disappearing," Mr. Tucker noted.

And the quality of workmanship in the old governor's residence is of a calibre which would be difficult to match.

Window openings in the old stone residence are all within one-sixteenth of an inch in width and are exactly the same in depth.

"Imagine that kind of workmanship today," commented Mr. Tucker.

Camper Missing

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Provincial police and natural resources officials have launched an intensive search of Presqu'le Provincial Park and surrounding area following disappearance of an early - bird camper.

Park officials indicate a camper arrived at the park four miles south of here last Saturday and constructed a make-shift lean-to against a picnic table.

Ken Moore, superintendent of Presqu'le, who has been preparing for the opening of the park, said he had noticed the camper at the beginning of the week, but says he notified Brighton detachment OPP yesterday because he has not seen him around the temporary camp site since sometime Tuesday.

Police say they believe the camper arrived in the park Saturday on foot and has left behind an assortment of camping equipment that included blankets, food stocks, cooking utensils and canned food.

The missing man is reported in his twenties, tall, thin, with long hair and beard. Because the park is not yet officially open, Presqu'le officials do not have the names and addresses of people using the park.

Brighton detachment spokesman said this morning dawn and night shifts Thursday failed to shed further light on the camper's disappearance. Natural Resources park workers this morning launched a thorough search of the park in attempts to find clues to the man's fate.

Wellington Boy Hit by Car

PICTON (Staff) — A Wellington village child struck by a car early last evening is reported in satisfactory condition today in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital, where he was taken for treatment of a broken leg and head cuts.

Paul Lorne Mastin, 7, of Wellington, collided with a car driven by Garry Stephen Middleton, 17, of Wellington, on Belleville Road, Wellington village, shortly before 7:30 p.m. last night. A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said damage to the car was estimated at $50. Constable W. Walky investigated.

Trenton to Get Another OMB Highrise Hearing

TRENTON (Staff) — In two back-to-back Ontario Municipal Board sessions a review and a hearing . . . now, school board members and Mayor Thompson indicated OMB will be here for Frasc, property zoning case.

However, the Canadian Tire remains hearing matter is the subject for technical reasons.

Thompson reviewed the board's 1971 decision to refuse rezoning of the Fraser property that would have permitted developer Eric Cameron to build a seven-storey highrise on the Dundas West land parcel.

In an interview he commented on his closed-door review: "We're going to see ways why the board refused the hearing."

Those included, inadequacy of water, sewer and traffic and inadequate review of the area by the Trenton and Sidney-Frankford Boards.

Mr. Thompson, who acted as a one-man panel in the review meeting, yesterday, said he was satisfied the town had now explored items that he presented. One number of the board cannot make rulings in the manner of the OMB, but he said " for practical purposes, one can say there will be a hearing on the issues," indicating he favors it.

In the hearing as to whether a riverfront property adjacent to the town offices on the east side should be rezoned to permit a marina, Canadian Tire project, the OMB representative indicated that the board will "review the matter when doing so would contribute an existing official plan. The rezoning of this property contravenes the existing official plan, but satisfies provision of the new plan, soon to be approved by the department of municipal affairs."

He said "common sense would appear to dictate the hearing not be held until the new official plan is approved, or when he said a new hearing could be called at the town's request. Only one family has objected to the rezoning and their grievance is negated by the new plan.

Retardeds' Needs Same as Normal

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — The Challenge of Change was the theme for the 18th annual convention of the Ontario Association for the Mentally Retarded stimulated recently by Russell Williams, special services co - ordinator for Prince Edward County schools.

Mr. Williams told Prince Edward school trustees that there are an estimated 124,000 mentally retarded persons in Ontario or about three per cent of the population.

The Ottawa convention emphasized that the problems and needs of these individuals, though intensified, are the same as every other citizen's: education, freedom from economic distress, realization of full potential, acceptance by the community and where possible, gainful employment.

Change in public attitudes toward the mentally retarded was urged during the OAMR conference and it was noted mental retardation is beginning to be accepted as a community area for concern, not just one of personal or government interest largely through the efforts of the associations.

It was stated at the convention that it is generally agreed the best environment for the growth of any child, except "the most profoundly retarded" is his own home.

The futures of these children are protected through groups such as OAMR which set up programs enabling the mentally retarded to remain in their own communities as happy, useful members of society.

A proposal for smaller hospitals for the retarded, advocated in the recently-published Williston report, was noted by Mr. Williams and he referred to Prince Edward Heights, the Ontario department of health complex near Picton.

The Williston Report recommended "the phasing down" of the traditional large institutions for the mentally retarded and cited their drawbacks as "many".

Because of their size and understaffing, emphasis has necessarily been placed on custodial care rather than on training and rehabilitation.

Their isolation has made contact with the community and the patient's family "painfully rare".

Because the large institutions must treat and have hospital facilities for people with varying degrees of handicaps, they are, in the long run, "decidedly uneconomical".

It was observed during the conference that it costs approximately $500,000 to maintain a patient in a large institution for life.

Political Roots Said Christian

Members of the Bridge Street United Church OATS club and invited guests were told recently that the political foundations of Canada were deeply rooted in Christianity.

The speaker was Hon. Walter Dinsdale, MP for Brandon, well known Salvation Army officer and former minister of northern affairs.

Although this country's political foundations were rooted in Christianity, Mr. Dinsdale said our Western society has become saturated with conditions that are diametrically opposed to traditions that were in the minds of the Fathers of Confederation. Christian laymen cannot change the world overnight but they have a responsibility to give leadership to the Christian democracy.

The speaker was introduced by Lee Griffis, MP for Hastings, and was thanked by club past president Ray Gunnhus.

Destination Described For Exchange Student

Ian Acton, one of two Belleville students heading for South Africa this summer under a Rotary exchange plan, will spend a year at the high school in Dundee in Northern Natal.

A representative of the club, in a lengthy letter to the local student read by Belleville Rotary vice - president Rob Ord Monday, expressed the hope he would bring tidings of the area to those in South Africans and particularly snow scenes which of course are a rare sight for people there.

The letter pointed out that Acton would be the first exchange student of the Dundee club from Canada. Others had come from the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

Dundee has a population of 19,000 and its main industries are a glasswerks, a firm that manufactures bottles, and a confectionary plant. Annual rainfall is 36 inches with hot summers and cold winters. The community is situated at an elevation of 4,000 feet above sea level.

The letter pointed out that all subjects are taught in both English and Afrikaans but it was hoped arrangements could be made for the visitor to continue his study of French.

Proud Father

At a special wings parade ceremony at Trenton Wednesday night, air cadet Michael Ritchie of Trenton received glider pilot wings from his father and teacher glider pilot instructor Rodger Ritchie, former RCAF pilot with 418 night fighter squadron. The presentation marked the first air cadet glider pilot wings to be awarded in the Quinte area as a result of the air cadet glider training program started at Mountain View in 1971. Shown in the photo are father and son with Captain George Miluk, commanding officer of 172 Trenton air cadet squadron.

Goat Handlers To Get Pointers

A large number of healthy young goats are wagging their tails with anticipation, as they make ready for the First Learn to Show Your Goat program May 22 at the Avonlough Road shelter of the Ontario Humane Society.

The program will be a special event, starting at 1.30 p.m. Between 25 and 30 goats will attend, with their handlers, to learn proper showing techniques from goat expert George Moffit of Bradford.

The event is being planned in order to acquaint handlers with proper show methods to be used this summer at the annual Quinte Exhibition. Rather than go in with cold feet, the owners will have at least a working knowledge of the poise and rules involved.

Booths will be set up on the society grounds, with a picnic atmosphere in mind.

The Quebec Drama

In Quebec we are witnessing further evidence of the shape of things to come there.

In the actions of the Common Front recently there was in all probability some justification in terms of a desire for better wages and working conditions. But when legitimate grievances are superseded by elements of ideology, class war, contempt for the law and for the Government verging on revolution then we have a very different situation.

Even the much-publicized surrender of the union leaders — Messrs Laberge, Charbonneau and Pepin — to begin serving one year sentences for contempt was in line with latter-day tactics of confrontation by the forces of dissent. The taking over of a couple of radio stations by young radicals was yet another development. Could this be the sequel to the Cross-Laporte drama in 1970, to The Revolutionary Script which novelist Brian Moore chose as the title for his book on that tense moment in Canadian history?

Will there be further confrontations in the streets? If there are, it looks ill for Quebec and for Canada. Reforms there must be in the province but not at the cost of class war and a population fractured, not at the cost of production lost and essential services disrupted, not at the cost of anarchy and human debasement, for in such intemperate conduct no one wins, everyone loses.

We are reminded once again of the words of playwright St. John Ervine who like Brian Moore came from that land which knows as much of turmoil and unrest as any, Northern Ireland: ". . . A cause could, I think, be made for the belief that all changes for the worse start in the mind of the mob. The mob is a weak and brainless thing, subject to panic and emotion, and easily dominated by eloquence."

If Quebec should descend into anarchy — and the seeds of such a possibility are present — it will be because of a rejection of the people's desire for the human nature and of peaceful evolution. Such a development would also be a reflection of irresponsibility in the union leadership and of manipulative forces in other countries for whom this is a situation an opportunity to further socialist revolution on a world-wide basis.

Area Initiatives

With the cheese industry in general decline in Ontario — victims (the small, continuing plant) of a fresh environmentally imposed production quotas and of competition from larger consolidated plants, it is encouraging to see one such industry still holding up in these parts. We refer to the Elmhoek factory in Prince Edward County.

Saved from the auctioneer's hammer, the plant is under new ownership and has been operating since April 1. Among products are a full line of cheeses and yogurts at a dairy bar. Good luck to this enterprise at Elmbrook. The demand for the products of the smaller plants is undoubtedly still there and is the added incentive of preserving links with the earlier history of the region.

From gourmet delights in the Picton area to handicraft at Cobourg and Colborne, brings us to yet another initiative in the tradition of the past: a revival of a home industry that once saw rural women busily occupied at home in addition to the routine domestic chores.

It is the sort of thing that is still done in Ireland — in the cottage industries of regions like County Donegal and products made from the legendary Donegal tweed, and in Scotland with its famous Harris tweed from the outer islands. The story of Mrs. Tenny Ireland's work in the Cordova area is an inspiring one and is indicative of the hidden resources of our citizens which require only the spark of leadership to become a going concern. Mrs. Ireland is the catalyst in this enterprise and we can see interest in it spreading farther afield.

Bright Corner

As Spring continues to put on a shy face we are happy to see the flowers at least getting off to a brave show, and no more so than in the little park which has taken shape where the old section of the Trent highway converges at the overpass. Just now it is a pleasant milieu of green lawn and red blossoms artistically displayed within a framework of rustic blocks. It all makes for a brighter Belleville and is a credit to all those responsible.

Northern Development, Pipelines and Indians

By HENRY F. REALD
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau's Mackenzie Valley pipeline project is yet very far away from Ottawa before that mighty hunk comes into his eyes and he starts talking about the preliminary proposals for Canada's north.

He doesn not do it with the same emphatic flourish with which Diefenbaker mustered for his "northern vision" nor does he announce his plans with the same dream as Dief's "roads to resources." Nevertheless, there is no mistaking the challenge to the north for the future.

There was no complaint when Mr. Trudeau challenged the nation's youth to turn their imagination loose in creating a modern Arctic city. There was no criticism of his proposed $18 billion Northern development program. No one questioned his decision to spend $75 million on an Arctic research base at Tuktoyaktuk. But when he said part of the cost of the road would be borne by the pipeline companies which will benefit, expanding MP's scratched their heads and said: "Now, what does that mean? What pipeline?"

The prime minister was still basking in the warmth of western hospitality when the penny finally dropped and Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien had to get up and do the combined Tory-NDP onslaught.

Tuker Tory MP Erik Nielsen, pointing out that work on the pipeline had already begun, asked whether treaty rights of Indians affected by the road crosses will be protected and would construction be held up by such problems. Another MP, Mr. Crarian countered that the highway would benefit the Indians by ending their isolation.

But the opposition were not prepared to let it die there. Robert Stanfield and Tommy Douglas recalled that the energy ministers had recently stated that no pipeline applications would be entertained until feasibility studies were completed. Did the highway announcement then mean that the study was completed?

Mr. Chretien said it had been recognized that it was possible to build a road from Fort Simpson north which would help end the isolation of the Indians.

Mr. Thompson was perplexed. "I asked about pipelines and I get a lecture about Indians." he complained.

Mr. Chretien said the pipeline question was hypothetical. Negotiations had not yet been held with the companies concerned but he hoped that at some time in the future there would be both.

Tommy Douglas, former NDP leader, tried to make it less hypothetical. What percentage of the $248 million would the companies be expected to pay.

"When the companies come to see the government with global proposals to build a pipeline, it will be at that time that we will ask them to pay some of the cost of the road," Mr. Chretien replied.

If opposition MPs were baffled, oil exploration companies and pipeline construction companies were even more confused. Knowing that the $248 million highway will have long term social benefits to the north the company spokesmen say it has no bearing on the construction of a pipeline.

When and if a pipeline is built down the Mackenzie River valley at a cost of about $4 billion the additional $100 million for a road is neither here nor there. But pipelines have been built in the past without roads and no road is required to help build one down the Mackenzie Valley.

And before you start getting your car and trailer ready for a vacation junket into the Arctic, remember the word from one of the men who drills for oil up there: "When we talk about a road we're talking about 1,000 miles of the Arctic we are talking about a gravel trail."

In the meantime there is no reply to the question of the feasibility study of a pipeline. It is also not known what Northern Development Minister Donald Macdonald talked a list of 39 research projects which are this year's part of a three-year, $15 million feasibility study of Arctic pipeline construction.

What happens if the studies say "no" to a pipeline? The taxpayers foot the full $248 million highway construction bill.

Ontario's Uneasy Dialogue with Ottawa

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

There should be interest in following relations between the federal government and Ontario over the next while.

These should develop for either better or worse, and probably the latter.

Since Premier Davis took office the attitudes of the two governments towards each other have been somewhat at a standoff still.

They have been neither particularly antagonistic nor particularly friendly.

The many day-to-day relationships between the two governments have been co-operative enough, but, except in extreme circumstances, these customarily are. An exception was the Diefenbaker government was, in lower Ontario ministers used to complain they were "high-hatted" in Ottawa.

But on the major issues, where emotions really now enough, there has been little action.

This could be partly because there hasn't been much occasion for it. There has been relatively little top-level negotiation. As well, Mr. Davis, being relatively new, is still establishing himself and hasn't moved into firm positions.

Changes can be expected, however.

Mr. Davis can't stay aloof forever.

There are natural conflicts between the province and Ottawa, on a good number of them, in addition to the usual strain that both are living out of the same purse.

Inevitably one or other of these conflicts will reach a crisis point and then the province, and its premier, will have to take a forceful line.

Even more pertinent perhaps is that there is to be a federal election.

Mr. Davis intends to take a very active part in this election and it will be almost impossible for the premier to do this with the Ottawa curves at the federal government which will be in office if the Liberals are re-elected, will be remembered.

A most likely conflict to come to a head would seem to be the differences of opinion over federal control of broadcasting.

Quebec has made it clear it intends to fight this firmly and we have indicated we will go along.

The crisis point could come over community cable systems.

These now are completely controlled by the federal Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

Gordon Carton, provincial transportation and communications minister, is already on the record as believing that in these systems are entirely within the province they are within provincial jurisdiction.

He would seem to have a good point. And, as at least some communities haven't been happy about the CRTC administration of cable, it could be a popular one.

Dandelions And All That

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

It is dandelion season again, and that old friend the National Geographic Society has come up with a few choice observations on what most of us consider an unwelcome pest and a scourge of lawn and garden.

But why curse them when you can eat them or convert them to other uses, the Society asks.

To the spring, dandelion greens make a tasty salad when blanched, chilled and served with dressing. They are widely used as potherbs. Gourmets advise cutting the leaves while young, since they grow bitter with age.

"The yuntureome fry dandelion blossoms, and say they taste like fried mushrooms. Many swear by a dandelion infusion as a spring tonic and blood purifier. The dried roots are sold as the drug taraxacum.

Roasted and ground, dandelion roots can be brewed into a palatable, but bitter, coffee.

Legend has it that the Mendicanes friend of Minorca once survived a famine by eating dandelion roots.

"Wine pressed from the flowers is a staple of Americana, conjuring up memories of starched aprons and shaded parlors. . . ."

Named in a corruption of the French dent de lion (lion tooth), it is also known as blowball, cankerwort, horse gowan and Irish daisy. One botanist, says the National Geographic, concludes the weed is so "terrifyingly efficient" it could inherit the earth. We are sure the grasgrowers who would have to agree.

Focus on Mobile Homes

Christian Science Monitor

Mobile homes are the Cinderellas of the American housing scene. Like Cinderella, they lead a dual life of rags and riches. And, their growing impact on the housing market has created problems that need to be understood and dealt with.

With nearly one half million mobile homes sold in 1971 (.43 per cent of all new single-family homes) it is clear that the usefulness of the American family has reached its ultimate. The ancestral homestead has been traded for the portable, packable box to live in.

Critics snill at the mobile home as Kleenex housing, that charge is not entirely groundless despite millionaire hatcheck cop by the American National Standards Institute, and urged upon states by responsible manufacturers of the mobile housing industry. There are still too many instances of shoddy workmanship. Warping, unfinished surfaces, leaky roofs and, worst of all, fire hazards continue to be folted off on consumers. This can be corrected. Every state and local government has enacted building and fire codes. Where these laws are lax concerning mobile homes, they should be tightened up.

A larger range problem is the role of mobile homes as part in urban planning. Whether it costs $6,000 or $13,500 it is still temporary housing in the basic appeal is economy. That is why young couples and retirees are the biggest buyers of mobile homes. Since this group tends to be childless, or have very small families, trailer parks return higher land values than they cost in services. But their population, by nature transitory, do not tend to develop much community social fabric. Urban planners must consider many factors when zoning for land use.

One positive way to see such mobile parks is as land banks. There is no reason why such community cannot some certain areas for mobile housing parks with time limits — renewable, say, in 25 or 45 years. If at the end of that time a better use for the land is seen, the owner will have realized his profits. The existing homes can be inexpensively moved elsewhere, and the land put to a best social use.

Old patterns of thought regarding what makes a home a home have changed. Today's planners must be equally flexible in seeking out urban acres for tomorrow's needs.

History Catches Up With Port of Haiphong

The World Today
By JOHN HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Haiphong, North Vietnam's mobile port, cannot escape history. More than 30 years ago Japan's once-powerful Imperial Navy gathered its warships in the large anchorage of Bay Halong at the entrance to Haiphong in preparation for the assault on South East Asia—a prelude to Pearl Harbor.

Today, this large natural shelter is full of modern cargo vessels, chiefly from the Communist bloc maritime nations. Ships and seamen from the Soviet Union, Poland, Communist China, East Germany, even the occasional Albanian and Cuban vessel, wait heavily-loaded with weapons, trucks, guns and fuel to move up the narrow channel leading to Haiphong's busy docks and warehouses for re-shipment to North Vietnam's armed forces.

Like Japan's battleweapons in that earlier Far Eastern naval crisis, the ships won't be there much longer—not after President Nixon's devastating announcement of a U.S. naval blockade of all North Vietnam's sea ports and the mining of her coastal waters.

What former president Lyndon Johnson, who escalated the Vietnam war, wouldn't do—blockade North Vietnam and attack it on all quarters leading out of Communist China—President Nixon has done. Since last March 30th, when the powerful North Vietnamese divisions of General Giap struck southward threaten not only to destroy Nixon's Vietnamization policy, but South Vietnam's existence.

The immense muscle of American land and air power in Vietnam hasn't won that war, nor stopped it. Nevertheless, Nixon, like the late president Kennedy a decade ago, must move positively to keep the war out of power. In October 1962, U.S. warships and aircraft carriers in effect stopped a few Soviet merchant ships on the high seas. Soviet missiles, including the missile and jet bomber parts were quickly taken during the Cuban missile crisis.

Nixon's blockade in 1972 runs a greater risk of clashes with Russian, as well as Communist Chinese and North Vietnamese ships, going into Haiphong is much greater than Soviet ship movements into Cuba's territorial waters now under threat of U.S. naval interdiction in the event of Soviet missiles and the "prelude to World War III" concerned a few petroleum.

Haiphong is the military supply port for North Vietnam. All during his administration President Johnson refused to mine the first aerial bombing of Haiphong and Hanoi which was restricted by the stiff-control political Gulf of Tonkin naval incident in 1964. Johnson was pressured into a naval blockade. He

Westminster Extension

BBC London Letter

Two young London architects have won first place in a design competition for the proposed extension to Barbara Hepworth's of Parliament, the Palace of Westminster.

Members of Parliament had complained for some time that their present accommodation was inadequate, he said. A proposed new extension and extra building across the road in Bridge Street. The question was how to find it and that would blend in with a densely-built area of the capital.

Entry to the design competition was open to any Commonwealth citizen and 96 entries were received. A panel of four assessors, as well as chairman and short-listed seven of the designs. Prizes for these were ranged from £2,000 to £1,000.

The winning design does not attempt to hide the Victorian Gothic of the present House of Parliament, but rather tries to blend in its proportions and colour with existing famous landmarks as seen from the clockwise. It is rectangular in plan and building round a garden and glass. But the main architectural feature is the glass roof slatted with gold which will give MPs an overhead view.

An underground passage will connect the new accommodation and will include a travellator — a type of conveyor belt powered by moving walkways which provide offices for 650 MPs and their secretaries, a library, interview rooms, radio and television studios and space for recreational facilities in the new swimming pool. The present cost: about £7 million.

TODAY IN HISTORY

IN THE CANADIAN PARSE

May 12, 1972 . . .

The Society of Jesus was incorporated in Quebec 423 years ago today—in 1547—and the Quebec government offered to pay compensation for property taken over when the Pope ordered the disorder a century before. Ontario Protestants led the movement against this in Ottawa on the grounds it meant paying public funds to a religious order and, in the long run, allegiance to the Pope. The federal Parliament refused to interfere.

1862—Thousands of Kentucky ordered federal troops in Birmingham, Ala., to keep order during civil rights demonstrations.

1898—Prince Ali Khan, son of the late Aga Khan, was killed in an auto race at Paris.

1858— Allen Fairchild, former state secretary, became minister of citizenship and immigration.

1937—King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were crowned.

Sludge Lagoon Is OK

Thurlow Township residents have until June 15 to prevent a certificate from being granted to Merle Robinson for the construction of a sludge lagoon.

A bid to halt the fourth companies farmer from spreading sludge over his 84 acres of land was turned down despite the protests of several council members.

Ken Childs, approvals engineer in Toronto for the waste management branch of the department of the environment, told an 11-member delegation at Thurlow Hall Wednesday they must prove that Mr. Robinson is contravening the environmental protection act before the lagoon certificate can be withheld.

"The application complies with all the regulations, there is no contravention of any bylaw and it has the approval of the required agencies," he said. "We are prepared to issue a provisional certificate of approval . . . unless we receive new and substantial evidence to the contrary."

As for the removal of Mr. Robinson's present permit, Mr. Childs replied:

"That is a fall accompli. I have no intention of asking that it be rescinded."

Sludge is human waste which has been chemically treated to remove odors and harmful organisms. Mr. Robinson has been hauling the liquid fertilizer from treatment plants in Belleville, Trenton and Batawa since last December.

He received a certificate of approval to spread sludge from the Department of the Environment last month after getting okays from experts in the Hastings County Health Unit and the government waste management branch.

Now he wants a permit to store the material for use next year. Department officials do not allow spreading in the winter months because of the danger of spring runoff.

Mr. Robinson's neighbors, 32 of whom signed a petition protesting his hauling activities, said Wednesday the treatment process has not removed offensive odors. The problem will be compounded once hot weather sets in, claimed Thurlow Rosen Horne Casey.

In addition, they were upset about the possibility of infectious germs remaining in the sludge. With a school nearby and flies beginning to breed, the spreading constitutes a definite health hazard, they said.

The residents' final accusation was based on information received from local realtors who reportedly said property values would go down because of close proximity to the disposal site. The area is largely residential.

All three complaints are in direct contravention of the protection act, said spokesmen Jim Grey.

Mr. Childs answered the allegations by stating that information received by his office from inspection agencies confirmed the plant's acceptability.

Don Little, manager of the Belleville treatment plant, told council members after the meeting that a sludge lagoon located beside the plant brought no complaints from city council members when they toured the facilities recently.

Germs, particularly a virus causing infectious hepatitis, and a bacteria causing digestive upsets, are effectively destroyed by the 95 degree treatment process undergone by the sludge, said Mr. Childs. He was basing his comment on professional advice unconditionally accepted by the environment department.

A registered nurse in the delegation produced two medical journals and recent statements by a university professor of soil science that claimed the process does not destroy these germs.

Finally, Mr. Childs said there has been no evidence of property values deteriorating because of nearby disposal sites.

Council has no further power to act in the dispute. No bylaw to prevent sludge spreading exists, largely because the problem has never arisen in the past.

On April 18, the body forwarded a strong resolution to Paul Davidson, regional engineer for the waste management branch in Kingston, with regard to another application for a sludge certificate. The recommendation read:

Township council objects to a certificate of approval being issued for a waste disposal site."

Their reasons included poorly located bedrock and population - threatening drainage facilities.

Last Monday, council also passed a motion to prohibit the dumping of sludge and liquid waste in the entire township. Ibid. said Reeve Casey. If a particular area owner can produce council evidence that sludge dumping there would allow dumping there.

Deputy Reeve Borden Forsythe was upset about Mr. Childs decision to uphold Mr. Robinson's certificate.

"I don't know what more objections (the delegation) could present," he said. "It appears (the passing of the certificate) is just a matter of formality.

"Surely we're more familiar with this area than people from Kingston or Toronto."

The protesters plan to recall officials from the air management branch of the department of environment to check odors. The bureau ground approval earlier this year.

They also plan to document a case against the treatment process based on the evidence they presented Wednesday.

This material will be forwarded to officials in Toronto.

J. Byron Harder To Resign Post As Sidney Clerk

J. Byron Harder, since 1949 a caller in the township of Sidney, will step down from his post as clerk within the next three months.

Manager of Stokely - Van Camp of Canada Ltd. in Trenton, he becomes manager of the head plant in Whitby after the Trenton operation is closed and cut this summer.

Mr. Harder has held almost every office in the municipality.

Councillor

From 1949 to 1952, he was a councillor, the latter two years under the jurisdiction of Reeve Lee Grills.

The next year, he became deputy reeve and in 1956, he was elected reeve, serving in that capacity for three years.

He took a year off in 1959 but returned to an active role the next year by assuming the position of clerk following the resignation of Wilmer Bullery. He has held the post ever since.

During centennial year, Mr. Harder and his wife, Thelma, the township secretary, combined to publish a book of historical highlights in Sidney.

Reeve Jack Bath said the vacancy created by Mr. Harder's leaving would likely be assumed by township tax collector Hugh Lyons.

Someone will be hired to fill Mr. Lyon's position and a new secretary will be brought in to take the place of Mrs. Harder, who is accompanying her husband to Whitby.

Students Invited

High school officials, accompanied by secondary school students will be invited to future meetings of the Quinte District Labor Council.

President Reg Loasby said at a council meeting Tuesday in Trenton that several members of the Hastings County Board of Education expressed an interest in the trade union movement and its relationship to modern education during a recent meeting between the two bodies.

The get-together was called to discuss the possible implementation of labor studies in the school system.

Bell Blvd. Extension Cost Under Estimate

Construction of the Bell Blvd. extension from the Quinte Mall to Sidney Street is going to cost considerably less than was expected.

City council Monday approved the tender of Lightfoot Construction Co. Ltd. to build the Bell Blvd. extension and also a short extension to Hanna Street in the city's northwest industrial park area.

The amount of the tender bid for the two projects was $69,492.21 about 25 per cent less than the estimate of $92,743.

Tender specifications call for a gravel road surface with a calcium chloride application to lay the dust and provide compaction. The contractor will have 40 working days to complete the roadway, following his start on the project.

The Bell Blvd. extension will provide a western entrance to Quinte Mall and it is hoped it will reduce some of the traffic along North Front Street.

Harold Vaughan Legion President

Dedicated Legion worker and head of the building committee responsible for construction of the new Pinnacle Street headquarters, R. Harold Vaughan, has been named president of Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Other Legion officers elected are Joe Normington, and Hank McLaughlan, vice-presidents, John Trumpour as treasurer and Fred Smith, Sgt. at Arms.

'Future Shock' Discussed by Guild

Mrs. L. N. Fortin opened her home for the meeting of the Women's Study Guild and acted as chairman in the absence of Miss Olive Elson. Plans were made for a bus trip to the McMichael Art Gallery at Kleinberg late in May.

Mrs. R. C. Ellis in her devotional pointed out that in these days of great change, stress and tension, people need a strong faith. This was a fitting introduction to the review and discussion of the book, "Future Shock", which was conducted by Mrs. L. F. Reid and Miss J. Tickell.

Speaking of the book, Mrs. Reid described it as the most talked-about book of the past six months. Written by Alvin Toffler, it is about the effects that change have on people, products, communities, organizations, families, friendships and love. The new cultural, social and technological revolution of today produces symptoms of shock in physical and psychological beings. This book has been designed to inform the public of the situation and to help survive a collision with tomorrow.

"We are losing our old roots of religion, nation, community, family and work and cannot find new ways to anchor ourselves," said Mrs. Reid. She spoke of ways in which people are trying to "cop out" of today's society — hippies, communes, drugs, alcohol; of the clashes between cultures (east and north); between parents and children (generation gap); husband and wife (divorces); of the lack of permanence in material things, in family relationships, in neighborhood communities and in work situations. Because knowledge system is undergoing upheaval, by the time the public learns of the troubles from college, the amount of knowledge in use may have increased four times, quoted Mrs. Reid.

"Our society is sick right now,' writes Toffler. 'We have a youth revolution, a sex revolution, a racial revolution, an economic revolution and the most rapid technological revolution in history. Science fiction is becoming a reality. Trips to the moon, medical transplants, biological experiments to eliminate diseases and control heredity are in process. What the future holds is unpredictable and alarming, but changes will come, whether we are psychologically or morally prepared for them or not.'

Looking at the present situations and citing what might be expected for the future generations, Mrs. Reid painted a rather pessimistic picture of our adaptability to meet the future.

Miss Josephine Tickell's summary of the second half of the book presented a more optimistic view. First, man has shown himself to be the most adaptable of life forms but there is a physical limit to his capacity for change. When this is reached, the consequence is stress or future shock. Only by understanding and recognizing the effects of rapid change can plans be made to meet them. Second, there are dangers in one's psychological well - being as changes interfere with ability to think, to act rationally and to make decisions, both as individuals and as nations.

"The only way to maintain equilibrium will be to meet invention with invention," said Miss Tickell. "We must design new, personal and social change-regulators to keep change, since it and pace it so that we may gain a new mastery over our destinies."

The prime objective of education must be to increase the individual's adaptability, i.e., the speed and economy with which he can adapt to change. Noting the distinction between knowledge is "data" and "skills" she stressed that everyone should be grounded in basics for common skills needed for human communication and social integration. Another strategy necessary for survival is the regulation of technological advance. A movement for responsible technology is needed if this planet is to survive as a place fit for human habitation. This becomes a political concern. Machinery to exert systematic control over technology must be created.

To plan strategies for control over social futurism Alvin Toffler suggests a Council of Social Advisors to the President of the USA similar to the Council of Economic Advisors. This council would suggest plans that would deal with the quality of life. Suggestions made in its means whereby local, national and international groups could study and forward recommendations to such a council.

"To avoid future shock, man must adapt to rapid change, not revolt against it, but anticipate and design the future, shaping it to meet human guidance," Miss Tickell concluded.

Much discussion ensued concerning the points made before lunch was served by Mrs. Charlotte Lockyer and Mrs. Bruce Kerr.

Nutrition Canada To Conduct Survey

Nutrition Canada, a coast-to-coast survey of the foods we eat, whose purpose is to find out if Canadians are well fed and if not, why, not will be conducting a clinic in the Rawdon Township on Thursday, May 18, 1972. This area is one of 30 Ontario communities selected.

In preparation for this survey, Miss Hilary Stone, Blackstone, Toronto publicity officer for Nutrition Canada Information/ The Intelligencer of plans earlier this week for the survey team and clinic team to arrive in the Rawdon area."

An advance party arrived Thursday to make some 50 appointments for the clinic in this chosen area. This special examination centre at Rawdon Township Fireball in Springbrook, will provide 20 experts including doctors, dieticians, dental hygienists, public health nurses and anthropomedics.

The 90-hour examination will be in two parts: a dietary interview where questions such as "What do you eat? How much? Where do you shop for food?" and How is your favorite dish prepared? A medical and dental check-up where blood and urine samples are tested will also be performed.

Free transportation to the clinic will be provided by bus.

The systematically chosen participants selected in Rawdon Township area will be based on age, sex and family income. All factors including social and religion will be involved in this team survey totalling 21,800 Canadians from coast-to-coast. Results will send of these will include pregnant women.

This survey is sponsored by the Health Protection Branch of Health and Welfare Canada in co-operation with the provincial governments of health and local health units in Ontario.

The results of each examination will be assimilated with data from the four other geographical regions — Atlantic, Quebec, the Prairies, and British Columbia. These findings will aid in planning public health programs and developing food legislation.

Indoor Ads

TORONTO (CP) — Shoppers in 70 supermarkets across the country are being confronted with indoor screens that show them familiar products while a loudspeaker proclaims their virtues.

The idea is the brainchild of Intel Systems Ltd. of Toronto and its executive vice-president, Murray Gould, thinks the steady growth of this form of advertising is an encouraging sign.

"We don't take a brainwashing approach," he said in an interview. "After all, an offensive ad can't help anyone."

"We feel the ads serve as reminders for the busy shopper and may help her in the shopping trip."

As well as letting the customer know about products, Intel will supply clients with a marketing and merchandised service by checking on stock and ensuring the placement in the store.

The company's future plans include the installation of small television sets in bars and restaurants on which products will be advertised to patrons. There will be no sound on these advertisements.

Prepare for Survey

Mrs. Jean Hyatt; left, Director of Nurses, Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit and Dr. Hook, Medical Officer of Health discuss plans for the forthcoming Nutrition Canada survey with Miss Stephanie Blackstone, the Publicity Officer. Rawdon Township has been selected as one of the 30 Ontario communities to be studied and the Health Unit will be taking part in the clinic to be held at Rawdon Township on Thursday, May 18.

Noon Concerts at O'Keefe Centre

The main lounge of O'Keefe Centre on Front Street in the Yonge St. side of the theatre will be action centres this spring and summer.

Free concerts at lunchtime will be featured in the main lounge for three weeks commencing May 15 — and the terrace, an oasis of alfresco and greenery in the midst of the concrete confines of downtown Toronto, will be opened for lunch from June 5 throughout the remainder of the summer.

The concerts, immensely popular during the past five years, are once again provided by grants from the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Record Industries in cooperation with the Toronto Musicians' Association, Local 149, AF of M. There will be 14 of them altogether — Monday through Friday from 12.15 to 1.15 from May 15 to June 2. (The one exception will be Monday, May 22, Victoria Day, when there will be no concert.)

During the three-week concert period, the lounge will be set to all corners over the age of 18. There they will be able to enjoy the music of some of Toronto's best known groups and soloists and, if they choose, have a light lunch and enjoy the bar service.

On the terrace, made vivid with multi-colored umbrellas and table cloths, the menu will be somewhat more elaborate with one hot dish, changing daily, and assorted sandwiches, as well as full bar service. There will be a modest minimum charge. Full details will be announced later.

PM in Effigy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau was tried in effigy on the steps of the provincial courthouse here Saturday.

The mock trial was held at a rally of the British Columbia Women's Abortion Law Repeal Coalition, with a papier-mache figure of the prime minister dragged looking down on the accused.

Mr. Trudeau and his government were found guilty and sentenced to repeal laws against abortion.

About 100 persons attended the rally, most of them women.

The coalition has been circulating a petition which was signed by 1,300 persons Friday, bringing the total now to 15,346 signatures.

The petition supports abortion law reforms introduced in the Commons as a private member's bill by Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway) and Hyland Chappell (L—Peel South).

The B.C. organization is part of the country-wide Canadian women's coalition to repeal abortion laws which hopes to present the federal government with a petition containing 75,000 signatures from across Canada on Mother's Day, May 14.

Successful Living

It's Never too Soon To Start Sharing

By DORIS CLARE

You who are about to take the big step which will join your life with another, for life, take thought for a minute about how well you are sharing things with your beloved.

Sharing means communication: Does he know your thoughts about God, about money, about children? Do you know his? Have you plans, right now, which can lead into shared recreation times later?

All too often such practical talk gets lost in a rosy glow of excitement. All too often what happens in the early years of marriage — those adjusting years — is left to chance.

Then the pattern is set, alas, a long way from the beast's desire.

Dear Doris: My daughter age 18 is now living with a separated man. I nearly had a nervous breakdown over this.

She started rseeding me for no apparent reason when she became a teen-ager. Was jealous of my clothes and my beauty. (I look very young for my 40 years). My younger daughter was never like that but always proud of me.

All of a sudden this older one went living with this married man. Now she is working and keeping him; he goes to university.

What in the name of God did I do to deserve this? — Heartbroken.

Dear Heartbroken: It's hard to know what part family relations play in a youngster's breakaway. Perhaps when the younger one came along there was a case of nose-out-of-joint. Was there?

Have you unconsciously made too much fuss of the younger girl, perhaps because she was easier to get along with or you understood her better? For some reason the older one does not feel that you are her friend.

The only way you can influence her behavior is by letting her know you love her. Among teen-agers, any behavior is often misguided, and if a man 22 gave her admiration this might be too much for her to resist.

Dear Doris: Please send me the details about the Canadian course in creative writing.

Several years ago I wrote to you enquiring about prerequisites for nursing and social work. Your reply encouraged me to go back to school at the age of 42, for the grade 13 science subjects for entrance to the School of Nursing.

Now, five years later, by intuitional, extramural, tutorial correspondence and summer school courses, I have my Bachelor of Nursing Science degree in Public Health Nursing. I am the sole support of my two teen-agers.

I serve as a Public Health nurse in a mostly rural area, and it has become increasingly evident to me that the rural residents receive less service for their health tax dollar. There are fewer resources at their disposal.

The powers - that - be must have this fact presented to them, over and over again. How better can one individual do this than writing, knowledgeably, giving concrete evidence?

This is my reason for wanting to get started in the writing field! — B.N.Sc.

Dear B.N.Sc: Orchids to you! If you have the same drive in writing what you are as you have had in getting in the spot is see it, your efforts are bound to influence the authorities.

But even so-accomplished writers can get a message his member of parliament will take seriously. Get others to work on it too.

(Doris receives 18,000 letters a year, from readers. Please remember to supply the stamp for your reply.)

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONNELL

Once 'burned' does a girl learn?

BARELY, in a romance, at any rate, that hasn't quite reached the point where a girl believes she has been jilted. Nor, for that matter, does it mean a stoical attitude. Anything, a girl who has loved and lost may make the same mistake in her next love affair. Unlike the girl who has no fears about herself as a person, she probably is glad to be able to respond to her emotions even if she gets "burned" again.

Is cockiness the same as confidence?

NO; and the difference is more than cockiness making a person obnoxious and confidence making him an "O.K." guy, James Gordon Addington, in "Psychology for Successful Living" (Funk & Wagnall), says that confidence is the assurance that a person has that he can rely on himself to cope successfully with the demands he makes on himself or that others make on him. Cockiness is the attempt to cover up an inadequate feeling by cockiness where that lack the confidence he knows he should have.

Does discipline "turn off" kids?

NOT as much as it seems to "turn off" parents. Just mention discipline and many parents immediately treat themselves to a controversy over how much or how little discipline there is room for parents to have to make a choice. Discipline can be simply an orderly means of establishing a framework for children's behavior. It should reduce confusion and stimulate an atmosphere of love and understanding.

Ann Landers

Office Worker Irked By Calorie Counters

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me what is happening in our society to create so many weight- and calorie-conscious? I've had women who are darned near stranger to tell my hips are four inches less around. This morning the divorcee, operator confided between the first and fifth floor that she has lost five pounds.

The guy whose desk is behind me asked me this noon what I usually drank with lunch. I said, "You don't need that. A couple of carrots would be a lot better for you."

I told her they don't eat carrots in the hall. She suggested I bring some from home. I lost my cool and said I wasn't there to eat in a health spa. Nutrition.

She stomped back. The people who count bores are . . . I'm sure of it.

Please explain this sudden interest from the health nuts. — Not Starving

Dear Not: These people aren't as nuts. We've learned a lot about nutrition these past 20 years and it's helping to prevent heart attacks and other diet-related diseases. Women who starve themselves for vanity's sake are being silly. It's smart to eat sensibly, exercise regularly and watch your weight.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll come right to the point and hope you will, too. Jim and I went together two years before we were married in a church. We talked about having a family. The idea sparked to him a lot more courting days. "A boy for me and a girl for you"—in fact we said it a few times for our kids.

Now, a year later, he says he's changed his mind. He claims his brother's kids make him nervous. He has decided that we aren't going to have any children, not even adopted ones. The thought of a life without a family upsets me terribly. I feel as if I have been betrayed. Whenever I see a tiny baby I have to fight back the tears. Please help me—23 And Miserable in Montana

Dear Montana: If you're miserable now, wait a while. Your misery will grow with your realization that you and Jim don't see how you can find "peace and contentment with this man. Discuss the problem with the clergyman who married you and listen to what he says.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from O-Hi-O who wanted to know what arsenic, cyanide, phenol, can do about pollution and the ruin of our environment.

When I read that letter I recognized a terrific opportunity to tell the world more about our non-profit group of dedicated people who are working diligently to preserve our environment and quality of life. This group was formed less than two years ago by ten concerned Americans, including Apollo astronaut Walt Cunningham and Apollo 7 astronaut Wally Schirra.

"Awareness" is our middle name. When enough concerned adults and young people get forces to get a job done, there's no stopping them.

Please, Ann, tell anyone who is interested to write to Earth Awareness Foundation, 238 Grove Street, Somerville, New Jersey 08876. Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. We've got lots of ideas. What we need now is people who will help us.—John Hart (Member of Canada chapter, Wizard of Id' and B.C.)

Red Strawberry Luscious Garnish

By ALICE DENNEY

The past provides us with a tempting recipe idea that fit in beautifully with today. In pastry days you note that the modern California strawberry is a direct descendant of the historic early 19th Virginia Scarlet strawberry. With this thought in mind, it is appropriate to use this wonderful berry in an early American pie. A combination of strawberries and grapes and we hope you'll try it as soon as you see the luscious grapes are in your market. Try

STRAWBERRY-GRAPE PIE
1½ pints fresh California strawberries
2 cups seedless green grapes
1 cup sugar
¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
Pastry for double-crust 9-inch pie
1 tablespoons butter
Frosted grapes and strawberries for garnish (optional)

Combine strawberries, grapes, sugar, tapioca and salt. Stir gently until dry ingredients are well mixed with fruit. Let stand while preparing pastry for crust. Spoon fruit into pastry-lined deep-dish pie pan. Dot with butter. Adjust top crust; seal and flute edges.

For short crust, cut a cross about two inches long in centre of top crust. Fold back pastry triangles to give a petal effect. Bake in 425-degree F. oven 40 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

Place aluminum foil under pie if it begins to run over during baking. Let pie cool two to three hours before serving. The longer cooling results in a more juicy, pie.

To frost the fruit, rinse strawberries and small clusters of grapes in cold water; drain on paper towels. Place one cup sugar in small bowl and beat with a fork until frothy. Dip fruit in foamy egg white and roll in granulated sugar until well covered. Dry on rack or paper towel.

To review the cooking course for beginners, here's the standard recipe for:

PASTRY FOR DOUBLE CRUST 9-INCH PIE
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup fluffy all-vegetable shortening
½ cup water

Combine flour and salt in bowl. Cut in shortening until uniform in coarse. Sprinkle with water; toss with fork and press into ball. Roll out dough on floured pastry board or cloth. Now for another look into our culinary past. Also time with a bow to the Indians.

INDIAN CAKE WITH STRAWBERRIES AND CREAM
2 cups yellow corn meal
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
Boiling water (about 2¼ cups)
Sweetened sliced fresh strawberries
Sweetened whipped cream

Combine corn meal, baking soda and salt with boiling water to make a stiff mixture which, though enough to form 18 cakes; consistency is one-half inch thick and about 2½ inches in diameter. Or mixture may be divided into nine cakes and cooked the same way. The thicker cakes should be split and buttered before serving with strawberries and cream.

Fry cake of either size in shortening 10 minutes on each side until golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Serve with the strawberries and cream for a delightful dessert or a hearty snack.

STRAWBERRIES and seedless grapes, California born, team in a delicious pie; frosted, they are attractive edible garnish.

Ex-addicts Recount Drug Experiences

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward Collegiate Institute students from grades 11 and 13 Thursday "rapped" with a panel of experts on drugs and drug addiction during a two seminar chaired by teacher Kenneth MacDonald.

The three - member group included Dr. James Davidson, a psychologist at Collins Bay Penitentiary, Robert Grier, Collins Bay parolee and assistant co-ordinator of The Centre, a Kingston - based drug information referral service and Michael Guthro, a 22-year-old member of The Circle, a Collins Bay inmate organization of ex-addicts.

Robert Grier opened the 90-minute session with a brief explanation of how The Centre evolved from The Circle group and noted the two organizations are interrelated.

The Centre is open for 17 hours each day to all persons seeking to "kick the habit" or to learn more about drugs and the harm they can cause.

It is operated by a federal grant and was officially opened March 8 with a staff of four full-time workers and two part-time workers.

In its first month of operation, The Centre received more than 800 calls and staff members worked directly with 288 persons in consultations.

Mr. Grier stressed today's young people who are taking drugs often are unaware of what they are taking and through The Centre they learn what it is they are actually buying.

Dr. Davidson explained there are "quite a few therapy sessions" for heavy drug users sent to Collins Bay Penitentiary.

Michael Guthro, a young inmate of Collins Bay Penitentiary who is serving a sentence for drug trafficking, said: "The Circle became a group of ex-addicts who organized about one year ago with the prison psychologist.

Parolee Robert Grier added he was one of the five original members of The Circle and said it was formed because "everybody else had a group."

Ex-addicts reminded prison authorities "we too are human beings," and were told "to prove it, according to Mr. Grier.

A self-help group, The Circle emerged without benefit of ideas or policy from the administration.

Dr. Davidson remarked the organization is "working very well" and described it as a multi-phase program set up to allow members to develop a program.

Community involvement, is emphasized as well as a sense of responsibility. Dr. Davidson noted the addict frequently can be characterized by a lack of these qualities.

The success of The Circle Robert Grier when he committed that of its five members released from prison, only one has reverted to drug addiction.

Students of PECI threw probing questions to the drug panel, concerning marijuana, rehabilitation of addicts, the future of the drug scene and the methods employed by The Centre in helping addicts to kick the habit.

Many students were keenly interested in the personal experiences of parolee Robert Grier and inmate Michael Guthro and questioned them in detail regarding the circumstances that led them first to addiction and later to prison.

Michael Guthro explained, "I don't know why I started. I was experimenting and eventually I was hooked on it."

The 22-year-old Collins Bay inmate, the first member of The Circle to address a high school group, said he first tried drugs at a party when he was 15 years old.

He experimented with "a little bit of grass" and a week later tried other drugs. Just a few months time he graduated to speed, heroin and finally cocaine.

When asked if he had ever experienced "a bummer," Mr. Guthro told the teenagers attending the drug panel: "I was always on a bummer, I was the pretty well paranoid. That's why the police rescued me."

He said he trafficked in drugs for three years before his arrest in which time he sold only to confirmed addicts, not young persons just experimenting and therefore felt no guilt for his actions.

"I thought I was above it all started to sell to them," he observed.

Mr. Guthro, when questioned, told students, "When the judge sentenced me I thought when I get out of here I am going to do this but I am going to get a bit better. I think now I'm a better man than before because I quit my habit."

He said the thought of life in Collins Bay frightened him and he stalled at Don Jail in Toronto as long as possible to avoid the penitentiary.

Robert Grier told his story when asked by students to explain how he became an addict and what feelings he experienced as he tried to cope with a habit that was costing him $180 a day in 1967.

He remarked he had been badly burned as a youth of 16 and was in hospital with his injuries. Part of the hospital treatment included doses of morphine and he said: "It made me psychologically comfortable," he recalled.

Following his "shaky background" Robert Grier described drugs after his release from the hospital 21 years ago and became an addict.

He referred to the restricted life he was forced to lead and said he could not go even a short excursion without first asking himself if he had enough money for his habit.

"I existed through 17 years I didn't really live. I didn't really enjoy it," admitted the ex-addict.

He commented it was necessary to become "fairly proficient as a criminal to satisfy physical needs" and said if he was stealing it was essential to look over his left shoulder for the police and if "up-

No Ifs, ands or Butts

As of April 28, smoking in patients' rooms at Belleville General Hospital is banned. Here, Mrs. Dora Garrett Hallam, executive secretary of the Hastings and Prince Edward TB and Respiratory Disease Association, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gray, respiratory committee chairman, hand out a smoking poster in hospital corridor. These stylish posters are being placed around the hospital and in the nurse's Self Care Unit, together with pamphlets reassuring non-smokers in the hospital rooms. Badges and pins are also being worn.

Tweed's Cleanup A Week Earlier

TWEED (Staff) — Rake, broom and hoe wielders here will be pressed in their licks a week earlier than expected. The annual Tweed Spring Cleanup campaign will commence on Saturday, May 13, rather than the 20th, as originally scheduled.

"Everything's going blissfully here. All systems are go," one of the many organizers, said.

The Tweed Horticultural Society is waiting for the arrival of annuals so that flower planters can be prepared for the downtown area. Water levels on Stoco Lake have subsided, and village work crews are already beginning to clean up around the town and on the beach.

Cleanup week "puts the icing on the finishing touch," to the spring program, commented the organizer.

The Tweed Minor Hockey Association and the Tweed Girl Guides have offered their full support and cleanup coordinators are taking full advantage of their offer.

Fred mills have donated rusty bags for garbage and the Lions and Council have given sanction for cleanup on all town-owned land.

Trucks are being made available by private citizens.

One of the biggest tasks to be undertaken by the hockey youngsters will be cleanup of items owned by senior citizens who are unable to swing a rake to any great extent. They will start at the hydro lines north of here, work on ditches and general raking as well as flower planting, until the entire village emerges with a freshly - scrubbed appearance.

Retardation Week

PICTON (Staff) — Mental Retardation Week recognized in Prince Edward County from May 14 to May 20 will feature several special events among them an open house at the adult retraining centre workshop on Chrsons Road.

The open house will be conducted daily from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. from May 15 to May 19.

A presentation and panel on Citizen Advocacy featuring Miss Kren, Special Project Officer for Citizen Advocacy from the National Institute on Mental Retardation, will be held at Queens Elizabeth School, May 16 at 7:30 p.m.

On May 17 at 7:30 p.m. a film and discussion about the horse care of the retarded child compared to institutional care will be presented at QES school.

The CBC film Danny and Nicky will be shown and refreshments served.

The Prince Edward Association for the Mentally Retarded this week stated that there are more than 600 mentally retarded persons in the county living outside the institutions.

The ex-addict pointed out persons experimenting with drugs do not know how to cope with chemical drugs.

He said it takes from four months to a year to determine the effects of "speed" and get it out of an individual's system to the point where he can concentrate on any one thing or adapt to any job or any sort.

"You aren't buying what you think you are," he declared as he referred to the percentage of strychnine in drugs offered on the streets of Kingston.

"This is the gamble you take while someone else sits back with a get rich quick scheme," he noted.

Mr. Grier added, "If you want to experiment, ask how much you can take and I'll assure you're getting it from and how much you respect your own body and mind."

He compared the drug market to the big push of addiction with the market today and observed he used to buy heroin that was 45 per cent to 80 per cent pure for $3 while today it is sold for $20 and is about 7 per cent pure.

The addict of several years ago was isolated in the city's poverty areas and drugs were the poor person's problem.

Today drugs have become a common problem and The Comfortable Society is presented regularly through television commercials offering pain relievers for all minor discomforts.

"There is more drug reliance today and too many get the drugs not knowing what they are getting into," Mr. Grier stated.

He cited the strychnine content in "acid" as the main danger to "the hammer" and added it is this component that distorts objects and makes colors flow and walls melt when a user "takes a trip".

Mr. Grier said the future of The Centre hinges strongly on government grants and added four more applications for them have been submitted.

If these bids fail local service groups will be approached for assistance. He observed, however, that these organizations have "a favorite government" which suggests the Centre should first establish a level of credibility in the community, then seek bids.

Mr. Grier commented The Centre has a working agreement with both the federal and provincial parole services.

This drug information and referral centre is based at 122 Wellington Street, Kingston and handles anybody at all.

Mr. Grier said drug users range in age from 8 to 80 and added drug usage cannot be isolated in any one segment of the population or in any particular age group.

Anglers Get Ready

Pike and yellow pickerel fishing opens tomorrow in the Hastings, Frontenac and Lennox and Addington counties and also in the Tweed forestry district.

The season, which began last week in Prince Edward County, imposes a daily catch limit of six on each fisherman.

But fishermen seeking the prized catch of all sports fish — the maskinonge — will have to wait a little longer.

Season for the rosy sought after catch of all opens June 3 in Hastings and Prince Edward counties, and lasts until Dec. 15.

City Gets Free Help

City Parks Board will take advantage of funds being made available by the Department of National Defence to provide employment for 15 students this coming summer.

The financial allotment for Belleville is based on the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and its being made available, it was learned by the city. Announcement of the allotment was made to City Manager J. R. Reynolds by Lt. Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

In accepting the offer, Parks agreed that the 15 students could be put to work in clean-up operations in several of the city's park areas.

Suggested areas were the Great St. James hillside district, Pinnacle Park quadrangle, the CPR line in the city's west end, Public Utilities vacant property behind the same area and in the Cascade Blvd. district.

Three Arraigned In Arena Stabbing

A young Belleville man charged with assaulting a police officer while performing his duties following a stabbing incident at Belleville Memorial Arena Sat. 6 was given 15 days to pay a $203 fine.

Douglas Harry Mann, 20, of the Queen's Hotel, pleaded guilty to the charge in provincial court Thursday.

Reading the summary, Crown Attorney John Parker told the court Constables John Walker and Ernest Smith were called to the arena at 10.29 p.m. When they arrived, they found Edward Kafka, 17, of RR3, Belleville, lying on the floor.

He was suffering from a stab wound to the stomach. A Belleville General Hospital spokesman said at the time the injury was not serious.

As they bent over the victim, a man identified as Mann pushed a third Constable, Ronald Stable Owens grabbed him by the arm and was struck on the chest by an open hand.

The report said Mann had just pulled his flat back, when a fourth constable, William Brock, grabbed his other arm. The youth was wrestled into a waiting cruiser.

Mann's arraignment on charges of assault, one of obstructing justice and a third of possession of an offensive weapon.

He suggested we are "fast reaching" the age when persons will cope with their problems instead of finding a need for drugs and compared the drug scene with Prohibition as "a phase".

Mr. Grier asserted man is discovering more leisure time and wants to break away from being restricted solely to producing. People want to do things together and use their artistic talents to share.

"There are so many ways of getting kicks out of life," he declared.

Corby's Men Visit Source

CORBYVILLE (Staff) — The distilling industry, in common with all modern business, has a built-in stimulant — competition.

Competitiveness — and rising costs—are major factors facing the industry today says C. John New, president of Corby Distilleries Ltd.

As company head, Mr. New is key executive figure at a three-day national sales conference here to which Corby's has summoned nearly 90 sales and managerment representatives from across Canada.

The first event of its kind at the company's manufacturing centre here since 1967, the conference involves distillery representatives in rounds of business reviews and discussions until Saturday.

It also provides an on-site opportunity for Corby representatives to view the distillery at the centre of their sales network. It's an operation, which, as a local industry is now more than a century old and distributes a $1½-million annual payroll in the Belleville area, company officials estimate.

Also on view in the distillery's latest expansion project — the $2,000 storage building, designed for speedier product shipments to the competitive market place.

"Competition is very keen today, and one has to probably plan more carefully now than in the past," said Mr. New as he joined executives and Thurlow township reeve Howard Conley viewing 1.8-acre building.

"I think that good, aggressive competition is the stimulant to any industry — not only to the distilling industry. Competitiveness is our way of life in the western world."

New cocktail fads also sometimes can determine the future of new products introduced. The distilling industry seems experiencing "several such cycles" at present, he said.

Possible commercial effects of any continuing rising provincial taxation on liquor is something over which the industry has no control, said Mr. New.

Could taxation eventually push liquor prices so high it could affect the market?

"I think that is something that will be something we will have to determine," said Mr. New. "This is what dictates in this world today — what people buy. You'd have to ask the man on the street if he is going to accept this."

As for the distillery remaining an industrial mainstay of local economy, Mr. New indicated the new storage building's 52,000 square feet, as an example of Corby intentions.

"We wouldn't have invested this money in this building in the past 19 months . . . if we weren't staying locally."

Batawa Sewers To Be Studied

Sidney Township and the Ontario department of the environment are hiring consultants to study sewage collection problems in the Batawa area.

The investigation, expected to take about a year, will begin as soon as approval is granted by Queen's Park.

Surface water entering the present sewage system at unknown locations should be eliminated once the redesigned facilities are "complete."

Cost of the study and rebuilding will either be born entirely by the province or in conjunction with the township. Sidney Reeve Jack Bush says a decision on consultant tasks will be to determine which course of action is cheaper for local taxpayers.

The decision to proceed with the study came about after a meeting Monday night involving township council, department representatives Bob Dunn of Kingston and Brian Hogarth of Toronto, and officials from Bata Industries and a number of the Batawa ratepayers association.

Mohawk School Heads the Class

Mohawks on Tyendinaga Reserve may soon get the new school they have been asking for years.

The new school has now moved up to top place on the department of Indian affairs priority list and may be started next year. Target date for completion is 1974.

The proposed 12 - room school will replace the three now in use on the reserve. It will be equipped with all modern facilities, including a gym.

Construction of the school will mark the end of a brief period of integrated education, now opposed by the Indians.

The department of Indian affairs insisted a few years ago that all grades from 4 up be integrated with neighboring schools. Grade 7 and 8 pupils from Tyendinaga were transported to Bolleville schools in a program now being phased out.

Indian policy now is to keep children on reserve schools until they complete elementary school and integrate them as the high school level.

Woman Fined For Assault

Provincial Court Judge J. L. Clendenning Thursday found a South Church Street woman guilty of common assault after she had pleaded not guilty to a more serious charge of causing bodily harm.

Linda Barbary, 29, of 181 South Church Street, was involved in a scuffle at the City Hotel Saturday, Jan. 8. Mrs. Phyllis Jean Saucier of 239 Bridge Street East, who was accused "jumped me from behind and threw me to the floor and struck my head. I went unconscious."

In fining the accused $50 plus $11 court costs, Judge Clendenning remarked the "peoples' attitudes can change after one pint of beer." He suggested "perhaps you'd give up a couple of Saturday evenings in the hotel to pay for your fine."

Bank Shows Interest in Fire Site

Removal of rubble from the destroyed Victoria Block at the corner of Front and Victoria is under way while negotiations for new ownership of the site, destroyed in the April 30 $300,000 arson fire, is owned by Belleville lawyer Louis Maraskas, a majority by the estate of his mother, Mrs. Katherine Maraskas, and a rear portion by Gerry Bougard, owner of Stephen Licence Ltd. Mr. Maraskas said today the Bank of Nova Scotia is "interested" in the site.

Orr Dominates Bruin Cup Win

NEW YORK (CP) — It was much the same as any other game which Boston Bruins' No. 4, Bobby Orr, has dominated in his six National Hockey League seasons.

The only difference Thursday night was that it meant another $15,000- to Orr and his teammates, who blanked New York 3-0 to win the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final in six games.

Orr, the 24-year-old superdefenceman from Parry Sound, Ont., scored once on the power play—the winner—set up a second power-play goal by Wayne Cashman, and in general controlled the game.

"Give my vote to No. 4," yelled one disgruntled Ranger fan in the closing moments of the game after Cashman zeroed in for his second goal of the night with less than two minutes to go.

"The rest of those guys can pump in 30 more goals before this game ends," said another New York fan, "and he'd still get 'em."

In addition to the $15,000 in playoff bonuses, the Bruins collier cornered $2,500 for finishing atop the NHL's East Division and winning the Prince of Wales Trophy for the second consecutive year. The Rangers got $7,500 each on top of $1,250 for finishing second to the Bruins.

Orr was the game's No. 1 star, won the Conn Smythe Trophy and $1,500 as the outstanding performer in post-season play and finished up with another $3,000 in prize money for winning the Hart and North trophies given to him at last Friday's awards luncheon.

The Hart goes to the most valuable player and the North to the NHL's outstanding defenceman.

Despite all the glitter that surrounds the young defenceman, he still treats the game with a simple approach and rarely tries to impress others with oratorical gems that are not part of his nature.

"It's still a big thing," he said of the Stanley Cup victory, the Bruins' second in three years after a drought of almost three decades.

"New York has a heck of a club, but we felt all along we could win," he said later in the Boston dressing room.

It started the second final in which Orr fired the winning goal. Against St. Louis Blues in the 1970 showdown, he tallied at 40 seconds of the first overtime period to give Boston a 4-3 victory and a sweep of that series.

And if the game was an typical of Orr, it was just as much a typical Boston victory—hardnosed along the former of bellum and mayhem that has been their success in recent years.

Their big hitters—Cashman, Ken Hodge, Carol Vadnais, Dan Awrey—had the Rangers shaking with their heads up.

Referee Art Skov had his hands full in the first two periods, dishing out 14 minor penalties—seven apiece—and three fighting majors to each team.

Skov also took exception to one of Orr's remarks and sentenced him a misconduct. To which Orr replied, when asked about it later: "I didn't swear at him, believe me."

Ranger captain Vic Hadfield summed it up nicely—for the players as well as the fans.

"We were even in faceoffs, even in power plays and even in penalty killing. Everything was pretty even, except they had Orr."

BOBBY ORR

Rangers 3-0 to win the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final in six games.

Esposito Big Helper

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Although Phil Esposito didn't get a goal in the best-of-seven final against New York Rangers, he earned enough assists to share Stanley Cup scoring race leadership with superstar Bobby Orr, his Boston Bruins team-mate.

Esposito finished with nine goals and 16 assists for 24 points and a tie with Orr, who had five goals and 19 assists. Each earned two points Thursday night as the Bruins defeated the Rangers 3-0 to win the Stanley Cup.

Voyageurs Deadly When Shorthanded

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nova Scotia Voyageurs moved to a 3-2 advantage in the best-of-seven Calder Cup American Hockey League finals Thursday night, scoring shorthanded goals in each period to take a 4-1 victory from Baltimore Clippers.

The Voyageurs, who dropped the first two games of the series, now are in a position to clinch the championship with a victory at home Monday night.

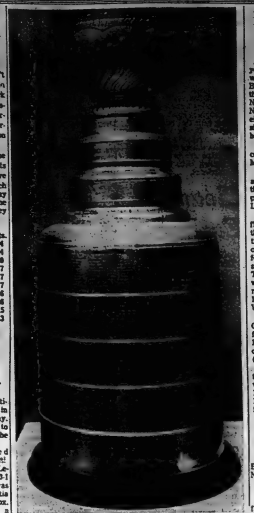
Although Baltimore coach Terry Reardon said he didn't think the Voyageurs "got that many good shots," he conceded that the three shorthanded goals were "goaltenders."

"They killed us," he said.

"The pressure of a needed win to stay in the series is a familiar feeling to Reardon, who had to fight for longer standings during the regular season.

Reardon said: "We have had to come back all year long and now we have to do it the hard way again. We have to win two games, we have to win up here, but it can be done."

He is thinking of making some line changes for Monday.



Nova Scotia's power play-to-reverse antics produced a goal in each period while their own men were in the penalty box.

The first was by former Baltimore defenceman Noel Price in the first two minutes of play. Yvon Lambert scored again to make it 3-0 before the end of the period.

Pete Laframboise scored early in the second to null Balt' more within 3-1 but Chuck Lefley gave the Voyageurs a 3-1 margin before the period was over, scoring while Nova Scotia had one man in the penalty box. The final goal, again while a Nova Scotia player was off the ice, came at 4:34 of the final period on an unassisted tally by Mike Laughton.

"That's the first time I can remember seeing three shorthanded goals, especially in a four-goal game," said Al McNeil, Nova Scotia coach. "They really helped us."

"It was a good win for us, but we still have another game to win," he added.

Boston Wins Fifth Cup

NEW YORK (CP) — This year's Stanley Cup triumph was the fifth for Boston Bruins since they came into the National Hockey League Nov. 17, 1924. The loss was New York Rangers' (NY) 6th eight trips to the cup finals since becoming league members May 15, 1926.

The Bruins have lost seven cup finals—five of them to Montreal Canadiens.

The Bruins' who emerged as an NHL powerhouse late in the 1960s, won the Stanley trophy in 1970, by beating St. Louis Blues.

This year's Bruins-Rangers final was only the second in their history. In 1929, when the cup final still was a best-of-three affair, the Bruins defeated the Rangers two straight, outscoring them 4-1. The other Boston cup victories were in 1939, by over Toronto Maple Leafs, and in 1941, by 4-0 over Detroit Red Wings.

The Bruins' five losses to Canadiens in the Stanley Cup finals were in 1930, 1946, 1953, 1957 and 1958. They also lost cup-final series to Chicago (1937) and Detroit (1943).

The Rangers' last cup victory was in 1940. They also won the trophy in 1933 and 1928. In 1932, 1937 and 1950 they were beaten in cup finals—just like this year.

No Champagne In Celebration

NEW YORK (CP) — "The losing teams.
jinxpact doesn't really hit you until you realize you won't be playing Sunday," said Tom Johnson, nearly an hour after his Boston Bruins had won the Stanley Cup.

The Boston coach, his tone tiredly lifeless after a huge game in his teeth, was analyzing with his usual patience the 3-0 victory that ended the 55th National Hockey League championship for the second time in three years.

"This was a great way to win the Cup, in New York and with a shutout," he said. "This was the best all-around game we played in the series."

Because the Bruins won away from home in six games, their dressing room frolics were not as wild as they might have been. The champagne which had been ready for a celebration after the fifth game in Boston Tuesday was unavailable, so they made do with beer and soft drinks in a dressing room jammed wall to wall with well-wishers, reporters and photographers.

Johnny Bucyk, who is 37 today, said of his brief post-game address to Madison Square Garden with the Stanley Cup: "It was a greater thrill the first time, but it still feels nice."

Don Awrey, rugged Bruin rearguard from Kitchener, Ont., felt the Boston team had proved a couple of things by winning the Cup in New York.

"It was important to us to beat them here, to show them we weren't boners. . . .

"And when they put that stuff to the press before being near out of shape and the Rangers being tougher than we are, it bored us. They said we weren't in good physical condition but I guess we showed them. Other than wins in the third period tonight.

"We've had letdowns in the third period but it wasn't conditioning, never that."

The Ranger dressing room was subdued, as is usual with

ROD GILBERT

Rod Gilbert, one of the several New York players who were handicapped by injuries during the playoffs, and in deep gloom. Then he stopped in his tracks, retire at age 30, despite the fact the past season was his most productive in 10 with the Rangers, his 41 goals and 54 assists placing him fifth among NHL scorers.

"For 10 years we've been saying it like the Brooklyn Dodgers, 'Wait till next year,'" he said.

"I'm not going to say it this year. This could be it for me."

Gilbert was inconsolable.

Emile Francis, the New York general manager-coach, praised the winners—"Boston has a very fine hockey team"—but expressed the wish that the Rangers had been at full strength. Jim Neilson, Ron Stewart and Jean Ratelle were out with injuries during the final series and performers handicapped by injuries, some of them incurred weeks ago, included Jean Ratelle, Vic Hadfield, Gilbert—the members of the top Ranger line—and defencemen Jim Dorey.

Pros Return To Quinte Club

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

The Bay of Quinte Country Club hits given itself quite a birthday present to celebrate the golf course's 50th year of operation.

After a three - year absence, a "Pro Day" will again climax the club's August Civic Holiday Festival weekend.

Largely through the efforts of club pro George Salzes and Games Captain Bill Gregory, Quinte's lengthy fairways may again be trod by the likes of Moe Norman, Wilf Homenuik, and Gary Bowerman come August 7.

"George was the prime mover — he made the initial contact with the CPGA", club director Gregory notes. "Then we found that tourney date open and we were lucky to get the first sponsor we approached."

It's no coincidence that the first sponsors approached — Motorland Chrysler proprietors Bruce and Al Lyon — also happened to be Quinte Club members.

But even at that, their support for resurrection of the Festival's pro day took unexpected proportions.

In addition to kicking in $1,000 of the day's $1,500 purse, (the winner gets around $300 for the 18 holes), Motorland Chrysler will also donate the use of a car for the balance of the year in a "closest-to-the-pin" contest.

"Oh, I can't be the world's worst caddy, sir. That would be too much of a coincidence!"

"It'll likely be the 18th — it's a natural, finishing right at the clubhouse," noted Gregory.

The Quinte layout's formidable par-three finishing hole, playing about 220 yards from the pro tees, is no easy pickings for any cabbage golfer.

"I'd like to see some pro who comes in with an 85 win the car," grins Gregory. "Wouldn't that just make his day."

* * *

The car competition will probably grab much of the pro day's spotlight, and the area public is invited to take in roundings free of charge.

We expect a good turnout. There are a lot more people playing golf around Belleville than there were in 1938 when we had our last pro day," added Gregory.

Preceding the professional event will be B and C amateur flights Saturday, a mixed two-ball Sunday, and an A amateur flight the morning of the Monday holiday. The pros are expected to start tee-off around noon.

Director Gregory emphasized amateur participation in the event. "At time we held a pro day, we had about 45 entries. But last year, we had 130 amateurs and this year we can have more with the Festival back to three days.

"We must have at least $1,200 worth of prizes for the amateurs."

This year's Festival could mark the last time the area golfing public will see the existing Quinte layout.

Highway 2 widening could force the elimination of the course's opening hole before the summer is out, and two new holes separated by a mammoth 14-acre figure - eight-shaped pond may be opened for play some time in August.

All of which should make Pro Day 1973 an even more testing affair.

The Apollo Barbell Club, which boasts of being "the Home of Canadian Champion" added another one this winter. Carol Armstrong, two-time Canadian women's archery champion, added weight training and swimming to her training program in a bid to capture a spot on Canadian Olympic team. Her first test of the program will come Saturday when she competes in a qualifying round at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville. Lifting only 3-4 pound weights Carol proved to be the weakest member of the Apollo Club, but she compensated by being the best looking.

Archer Getting Ten Chances

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

Greater love hath no woman than to button her lip for her sport. At least it's that way with Belleville archer Carol Armstrong as she makes her bid to gain a spot in the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich.

"I promised Floyd (her husband) that if he'd coach me, I'd pay attention and not argue," she admits to making the supposed feminine sacrifice. While she jokes that, "Floyd says if every student he has was as stupid as me, he'd give up the sport," it's doubtful that any of the 500 students he has tutored could approach the Olympic qualifying standard that his wife is shooting for.

The women's standard is four rounds of 1296 points or better, a feat which Carol failed to accomplish last summer. She'll have 10 chances to accomplish the feat this year however in a series of qualifying tournaments, eight of which will be held in Belleville on the next four weekends.

"If you're shooting well you should be able to meet the standard in just about all of them, but I guess I'm a bit of a pessimist. It could rain or be windy for a lot of them and all the scores would be low. Anything could happen." For that reason Carol is anxious to make a good showing in Saturday's tournament to be held at Centennial Secondary School. Over 30 top archers from across the province will be competing in the event.

Competition meeting the necessary requirements will have a chance to compete in the Olympic trials, to be held July 1 and 2 in Regina. The top three men and women will then comprise the Canadian archery contingent to Munich.

"They weren't giving me any chance of making the team last summer. It was almost like they'd already picked the team, and that's something I don't like. You should n't be deciding who's going to make the team before the trials even begin," explains Carol.

For that reason she's begun a heavy training program which included swimming and weightlifting sessions. As part of the program, the former Canadian champion has completely re-vamped her style of shooting and made modifications in her equipment.

"The competition just keeps getting tougher and tougher so I have to improve. I taught myself archery so I learned a lot of things I shouldn't do. I look at the way I used to shoot and I wonder how I ever managed to even hit the target.

Included in her equipment changes is a switch to longer, heavier arrows. The heavier shafts should be better under windy conditions. "No matter how long you shoot it's hard to adjust from indoor to outdoor conditions." To make the adjustment Carol has been practicing virtually every day and has lengthened practice sessions considerably in the past week.

The Olympic hopeful admits that she's been "shooting pretty well" in practice, but is beginning to feel the pressure of her bid for a spot on the Olympic team. "Everyone has been so great about providing facilities and such that I feel like I'd be letting them down if I didn't make it."

Last year the former two-time Canada champion was a member of the national team which represented Canada at England. It was her first summer back after a year lay-off from competitive shooting. She proved to be just as effective this winter by capturing the Ontario Indoor Archery championship in Hamilton.

Saturday's competition, the first of eight to be held in Belleville, should give Carol an indication of just how well her training has paid off. It will run from 11 a.m. - 3.30 p.m.

Big Soccer Guns Settle for Draw

Determining the top dog in Belleville soccer will have to wait until later in the season as Parsons and United battled to a 1-1 tie in their opening Bay of Quinte Soccer Association encounter.

Parsons drew first blood in the battle of the Belleville rivals when Peter Kontandis scored to give them a 1-0 lead at half time. Stu Hedley squared accounts for United when he cashed in a corner kick in the second half.

Bill Lucas was a standout for Parsons, while team captain Jim Bryce was the driving force behind United.

In a game at Bayside, the Trenton Braves opened their season with a resounding 7-0 win over Quinte Transport. The Braves jumped into a 3-0 lead at half time before adding four unanswered goals in the second period.

Nick Pahapoui paced the winners with a three-goal performance.

A WHOLE NEW CONCEPT IN PERMANENT AND RECREATIONAL LIVING

Except you.

We've been making outboards for more than 60 years (a lot longer than anybody else). And we've always been willing to listen to good ideas from the people who buy our motors.

When you told us that you didn't see any reason why an outboard had to be huge to be powerful, our engineering people came up with loop-charging and pressure pulse tuning to coax a lot more power from the same engine size.

When you told us that you didn't like getting your hands dirty, we developed Firepower CD ignition that practically eliminates ignition tune-ups.

When you told us that you didn't like to keep your outboard in peak tune, we developed Firepower CD ignition that practically eliminates ignition tune-ups.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Davis Cup action gets under way at Jericho Tennis Club today (at 12:30 p.m. PST) with Canada's ace Mike Belkin of Montreal and Tony Bardsley of Vancouver pitted against Mexico's Joaquin Loyo-Mayo and Raul Ramirez.

The opening of the three days of Davis Cup play, the first in Vancouver for seven years, was marred Thursday by the defection of Peter Burwash of Toronto from the Canadian team.

Burwash, ranked number one in Canada, left the team in a huff, saying that he "didn't feel part of the team."

Playing captain Baltin had chosen Bardsley over Burwash to play against the Mexicans in singles matches. However, Burwash could have played in the doubles Saturday, when the players can be named up to an hour before the match.

Riessen Rallies

DALLAS (AP) — Tenacious Marty Riessen lost the first two sets but rallied Thursday to stun stumbling CBW Dryadale 5-7, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3 to advance to the semi-finals in the World Championship Tennis tournament.

In the final quarter-final match of the night, American Arthur Ashe blasted Holland's Tom Okker in straight sets 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Ashe will meet defending champion Ken Rosewall of Australia in the semi-finals tonight.

Riessen will meet top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia in tonight's semi-finals.

No Verdict on Memorial Cup Format

OTTAWA (CP) — The jury is still out on whether the brand-new format for the Memorial Cup is a success.

Earl Dawson of Winnipeg, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association official in charge of this year's junior hockey championship, said Thursday it will be sometime before a verdict is rendered.

For the first time, champions of the Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada junior hockey leagues are meeting in a three-game, round-robin series. The best two clubs in the series meet Sunday in a sudden-death game for the Memorial Cup.

Foreman Wins Quickie

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Unbeaten heavyweight contender George Foreman scored his third knockout of his professional career, and one of the quickest by stopping veteran Miguel Paez Thursday night at 2:59 in the second round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

Foreman, weighing 217 pounds, trapped the 32-year-old South American in a corner and pounded him with a combination of punches throughout the second round.

The 23-year-old winner from nearby Hayward made his pro record 36-0. He is ranked third among heavyweight challengers to champion Joe Frazier.

tario champions, are assured of a spot in Sunday's play. They beat both Cornwall Royals, Quebec champions, and Edmonton Oil Kings by two-goal margins earlier this week.

Cornwall and Edmonton play tonight with the winner getting another crack at beating the OHA entry.

National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell told promoters at the Memorial Cup luncheon that the new format could become a great national sporting event.

To accomplish this, Campbell noted, the series would need television coverage lacking this year. The stryke at CBC, and CTV's already-hefty sports programming, ruled out TV coverage.

Dawson was pleasantly surprised at the opening-night crowd Monday of just under 8,000. The attendance went down to 4,189 Wednesday.

"But we have sellouts (about 16,000) for Friday and Sunday," said Dawson.

All three coaches of this year's teams are lined up against the format. They complain of the pressure put on their players in so short a series, the lack of home crowds and other factors.

All three teams visited Parliament Hill Thursday on the official tour but only the Petes met Prime Minister Trudeau.

They arrived early on the Hill and chatted briefly with Mr. Trudeau before he left for southern Ontario. The late-arriving Kings and Royals settled for a look at the Commons question period and a tour around the Parliament Buildings.

While the Petes enjoy their well-earned three-day break, it's do-or-die for the Royals and the Kings tonight.

If the game doesn't produce a team scores.

Sault Makes Second Bid

OTTAWA (CP) — Its bid for a new Ontario Hockey Association Junior A franchise rejected, Sault Ste. Marie now is in the running for a franchise held by Montreal Junior Canadiens.

The OHA junior council decided Thursday that if Montreal and Sault Ste. Marie interests could agree on transfer of the franchise, the matter could be decided at a Toronto meeting next week.

Sault Ste. Marie, Kingston, Thunder Bay and Niagara Falls were turned down by the council in bids for new franchises. They needed unanimous consent from the nine teams already in the league.

However, transfer of an existing franchise requires only a majority vote and Sault Ste. Marie had enough backing Thursday.

Montreal, under pressure to rejoin Quebec junior hockey ranks, decided to suspend the OHA franchise it's had for a year.

The nine clubs already in the circuit are Toronto, London, Kitchener, Peterborough, St. Catharines, Ottawa, Sudbury, Oshawa and Hamilton.

Baseball Gets the Willies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No sooner do the New York Mets get Willie Mays than Willie is the star of the show at Shea Stadium . . . Willie Crawford, that is.

The Los Angeles outfielder labeled a double, tripled in the fifth home run to spark the Dodgers to a 6-4 victory in the first-game portion of a twi-night doubleheader after the Mets took the opener 2-1.

Elsewhere on a lighter-than-usual major league schedule, the Mayo-less San Francisco Giants trimmed Montreal Expos 4-3, Philadelphia Phillies edged San Diego Padres 6-5 in 12 innings, St. Louis Cardinals slipped Houston Astros 4-3, Texas Rangers downed Baltimore Orioles 3-1 and Boston Red Sox whipped California Angels 8-1.

Willie-Mays, that is—arrived at Shea during the first game as 41 Tom Seaver, with ninth-inning relief from Danny Frisella and backed by Ed Kranepool's home run, was turning back the Dodgers.

Willie—Crawford, that is—was already at the park and in the process of an 0-for-4 afternoon.

Things got better at night. Willie—Mays, that is—got the Dodgers started with a fourth-inning homer off Jim Andrew, his fifth of the year, and Crawford slammed his fifth into the fun.

Tommy John protected the lead until the seventh when Crawford tripled, Bill Grabarkewitz walked, Chris Chambliss singled, Bobby Valentine was hit by a pitch and Bill Russell hammered a decisive three-run double off reliever Chuck Taylor. That offset a late New York rally.

The Giants battered Steve Renko and Tom Walker for six runs on 10 hits in the first three innings and trounced the Expos behind Ron Bryant.

Allen Gallagher singled to start a three-run outburst in the second inning and a two-run upper-deck shot by Dave Kingman Rader lashing a run-scoring hit in each inning. Bryant struck an RBI double in addition to winning his first game.

It was the first time the Giants had won two consecutive games since the first two of the season.

Greg Luzinski's single with two on in the 12th sealed it for Phillies to defeat the Padres and climb within one-half game of the Mets in the National League East. Luzinski also belted a run-scoring triple in the fifth and scored on one of Don Money's four hits. Nate Colbert and John Jeter homered for San Diego.

Jerry Reuss, traded from St. Louis to Houston in the opening day, was leading his former team—and the Astros—until the ninth inning when the Cardinals erupted for three runs to pull out the victory.

Ted Simmons and Bonn Clendenon opened with singles and both runners scored when Reuss fielded Ted Sizemore's bunt and heaved the ball past first. Sizemore wound up at third and scored the winning run on single by ex-Astro Marty Martinez.

Texas scored two runs off Jim Palmer before a man was retired in the first inning and held on to beat the Orioles behind Jim Bibby's single and double of Bill Sudakowski and three hits by Rivers.

Elliott Maddox led off with a double and Palmer walked the next three batters, forcing in the first run. The second scored on an error by shortstop Bobby Grich and Toby Harrah scored in the eighth for the Baltimore run.

Boston's Ray Culp continued his mastery of California, shutting the Angels for the sixth time in a row since coming to the American League. Tommy Harper drove in three runs with a single and triple and Reggie Smith knocked in a pair with his first home run of the season and a grandslam.

Mays Starting New Career

NEW YORK (AP) — "It pleases me," said Willie Mays, "that people still want me."

With those modest words Thursday, the baseball great began a "new career" at age 41 with New York Mets.

The San Francisco wonder player, acquired in a much-publicized deal, responded with a thumbnail at the idea of playing in New York.

"I love baseball and I love this town," said the second best home run hitter in history. "I'm glad we're going to playing—I'm not looking forward to embarrassing myself. I'm glad the Mets didn't worry about how old I was.

"That tells me something about Willie Mays. It tells me that maybe I've got something left.

"For awhile, it looked as if the baseball writers were going to get great centre fielder at all. News of the prospective deal broke in San Diego, but it was especially cooled when the Giants' asking price came.

Interested in one of the Mets' starting pitchers, the Giants settled Thursday for raised league right-hander Charlie Williams and an undisclosed amount of cash. The deal was quickly closed Thursday morning after Mays was personally brought in on the talks.

Mays is making $165,000 a year under his current contract.

New York manager Yogi Berra acknowledged that Mays had lost some steam out of his batting eye in Tampa. "He knows where to play them."

Mays will be used essentially as a first baseman against left-handed pitchers and a centre-fielder on a regular basis. Tommie Agee's problem knee acts up.

U.S. Throws All Punches

Pugnacious Pepin Is Bruised

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin looked bruised but still pugnacious at the end of Thursday's round of the Canadian-U.S. economic policy fight, during which the U.S. threw all the big punches.

Mr. Pepin told the Commons Canada will lose American automotive investment because of U.S. tax subsidies to its car exporters through new domestic international sales corporations, or DISC.

He then warned Canadian subsidiaries of U.S.-controlled auto companies that Ottawa expects these to use tax concessions in last Monday's budget to reduce their prices to the Canadian consumer relative to the prices the U.S. consumer pays.

Earlier in the day, the U.S. government hit the Canadian chin with other trade punches.

Washington announced it intends to go ahead with a trans-Alaska oil pipeline, despite Ottawa's argument that Alaska oil should be piped along the proposed Mackenzie River valley route to U.S. markets.

The U.S. treasury department announced it is considering countervailing duty on tires shipped to the U.S. from the Michelin tire plants in Nova Scotia because they have been subsidized by the Canadian government.

The only positive glimmer was an announcement that the U.S. broadened its restrictions on oil imports to permit increased Canadian shipments to the market east of the Rocky Mountains—to 576,000 from 549,000 barrels a day.

Even then the increase wasn't much of a gesture considering the traditional special relations between the two countries. The quota on oil imports from the Middle East and Latin America was boosted by 368,000 barrels a day—nearly three times as much.

Ontario Will Help Farmers Buy Heifers

TORONTO (CP) — A beef ried, the farmer will pay only heifer loan program to help farmers increase their herds in most growing consumer demands was announced in the Ontario legislature Thursday by Agriculture Minister William Stewart.

The program will take the form of government guarantees on bank loans to farmers who wish to develop beef cow-calf operations, he said.

The maximum loan for each heifer is $250 and the minimum loan to a farmer is $2,500, the maximum $15,000. A farmer must have an annual income of $3,000 to qualify.

The loans will be over a seven-year period at current interest rates plus one per cent. During the first two years of the pro-

Appraisals To Commence

TORONTO (CP) — Appraisal of the land to be bought by Ontario in the development of the new community of North Pickering will begin next week, Darcy McKeough, provincial treasurer, said Thursday.

Shulman Acts

TORONTO (CP) — A private member's bill to provide for control of sweatshopping was given first reading in the Ontario legislature Thursday. Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) said he reintroduced his bill this year because the federal government has failed to prunish its sweatdropping legislation.

NDP MP Complains

Income Not Redistributed

OTTAWA (CP) — In the first day of full debate on Monday's budget, Max Saltsman, NDP financial critic, told the Commons a recent assessment by Statistics Canada showed there had been no appreciable change in redistribution of income between various levels of Canadian society between 1967 and 1967. This was despite all the vaunted programs the subject produced by Conservative and Liberal governments in those 10 years.

He said Robert Kaplan (L—Toronto Don Valley), chairman of the finance committee, raised the issue when Statistics Canada officials were before the committee and was dissatisfied with the information.

Mr. Saltsman quoted Mr. Kaplan as saying that if true, it constituted "one of the most serious allegations" against government he had ever seen.

His speech set the tone for a day of criticism of government tax and spending programs for the year.

Marcel Lambert, Conservative financial critic, called the budget a bit-and-miss effort that took money away with one hand, gave it back with another, but still treated the country as a whole forest of money trees that could be harvested without limit.

Main thrust of the budget was a reduction in corporation income taxes in an effort to stimulate job-creating industrial expansion and increases in pensions for the elderly and disabled war veterans and their dependants.

The budget debate, which can go a maximum six days, provides a chance for motions of non-confidence in government policies.

Conservatives and New Democrats spoke with the opposite effect. Mr. Lambert moved one saying the government had failed to bring in adequate measures to relieve unemployment, provide incentives for Canadians to invest in their own economy and to provide personal income tax relief as an "economic stimulant."

Mr. Saltsman added a sub-amendment saying the government should have reduced taxes for middle- and lower-income groups to replace the cuts given corporations.

Both criticized the government for not adopting a real industrial strategy.

Both also noted that the new tax law, brought in late last year and applying for the first time this year, is going to produce about $1.3 billion more from direct taxation of individuals.

With direct corporate taxes being reduced by $50 million at the same time, Mr. Saltsman said, and with the bulk of Canada's industrial sector owned by foreigners, this amounted to the wages and salary earners of the country being forced to pay a greater subsidy than would benefit foreigners.

This amounted to a straight bribe in an attempt to keep U.S.-owned subsidiaries in Canada from fleeing back across the border to take advantage of recent tax legislation giving breaks to U.S. corporations that sell abroad, Mr. Saltsman said.

"Faced with the need to establish a policy on foreign ownership of Canadian industry, the Liberals had come up only with a policy "to bribe the hell out of them."

Limit Will Be Set On Campaign Costs

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Thursday night the government will introduce a bill shortly limiting campaign expenditures and requiring "the state to pay at least part of the bill of election expenses."

The bill was approved by the cabinet Thursday morning, he told a public meeting at an east-end high school on the first day of a two-day visit to southern Ontario.

Bill Sweeping

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia's Liberal government has been told by a former Conservative premier that its environmental bill threatens people's liberties.

G. I. Smith said Thursday that the bill would put people out of business or out of jobs without appeal.

Contaminant is defined in the bill as "a solid, liquid, gas, odor, heat, sound, vibration, radiation or combination of them, and includes any transfer of energy, present in the environment in excessive quantities as a result directly or indirectly of the activities of man."

Probe Litter

TORONTO (CP) — A committee of government, industry and laymen will be established to take a tough, new look at the waste and litter created by container and packaging manufacturers, an Ontario legislature committee was told Thursday.

Immunity Asked

TORONTO(CP) — A bill introduced in the Ontario legislature Thursday by Ray Haggarty (L—Welland South) would relieve persons who provide volunteer emergency services at accident scenes from any liabilities.

Now that we can brew Club Ale faster, we won't.

Formosa Spring has been slow brewing Club Ale for over a hundred years.

Now we've built a new brewery near Barrie, which means we could brew beer as fast as anybody.

But the thing that makes Club Ale different is slow brewing.

So even though we've gotten bigger, we haven't got any faster. We still brew Club in the old way, slowly, letting it take its own sweet time.

Try a slow brewed Club Ale. It's a difference you can taste.

Club Ale.

At Formosa Spring, we won't hurry our beer.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, May 13

Aries (March 21-April 19): Those who know you well can intercede with little confusion. Others are fairly baffled unless you deal with them directly and with all details out clearly.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Concern over material resources and their management is likely to be justified; with early diligent attention you can do well about it.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Friendly money gains, now particularly if they relate to business. Given time and patience, harmony.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your opinions include wishful thinking as you reach out to help and contribute less for pleasure. Evening has a definite change of pace and mood.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You may find the help you asked but in forms you find inconvenient. Remember that nearly all around you have similar goals.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Family needs tend to crowd out some career effort for the moment...Find a balance and do something for both sides of the situation.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's just as well you don't know all of the opposition's comments today, as it spends no answer. Expect a bright and open treatment of friends.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Complete and careful explanation may persuade your associates to do things your way—if you are really sure of what you want.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Group welfare takes precedence over the wishes of any single individual, and you'll get your share of all that comes from people working together.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Look back over the very recent past, make sure an outdoor error remains to create later confusion. Expert advice is favored.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Those who help most are those who know best the needs of what had been happening, thus are more objective. Keep away from speculative ventures.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Family and social contact form a web about you and there's a no-good push through it that helps all, eventually. Patience now.

Operation Shunts Liver Circulation

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had a portocaval shunt operation. Can you give me any information on it?

I am on a low-protein diet because I get food intoxication—H.A.C.

In severe cases of cirrhosis of the liver, a patient may develop internal varicose veins. These occur in the lower part of the esophagus, or gullet, and can be detected by x-ray.

If these varicose veins rupture, there can be a dangerous amount of bleeding.

The portocaval shunt is an operation by which a share of the circulation to the liver is sidetracked, or shunted. The purpose is to relieve the pressure in those varicose veins in the gullet. It can, therefore, be a lifesaving technique in many cases because a great amount of blood can be lost sometimes when such veins rupture.

The operation may be advised as soon as the varicose veins are discovered in the esophagus, as a preventive measure or may be done after a bleeding episode has occurred.

Your low-protein diet is required because of the extensive damage that has occurred in your liver and it must not be overburdened. The amount of protein that you can handle has to be determined on the basis of your own reaction, so you'll have to be guided by your doctor as to the types and amounts of protein that you can safely eat.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar. With the small amount of sugar in ordinary bread, soup, canned stew, spaghetti sauce, etc., warrant eating these things?

Is syrup or molasses harmful?—Mrs. R.F.

Specifically, the amount of sugar in the items listed in your first question would not be harmful but, while you must avoid sugar, you must also be careful not to eat too much carbohydrate. Spaghetti, for one, is starchy, so go easy.

Syrup and molasses should not be used. They are concentrated sugar.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am willing to try anything if it was a sucker. Reading in a book on nutrition about massive doses of vitamin C as a remedy for arthritis, I made a trial. Negative results. Is there anything wrong over to this vitamin C business, or is it just another false alarm?—J.S.M.

No evidence whatever that it will help arthritis. There's some thinking that massive doses of vitamin C may even do some harm.

Arthritis being the deceptive sort of disease it is, quite sometimes it does undergo remissions and think that whatever they happen to be taking is doing at the time is the reason. But, of course, being utterly convinced themselves, they put up convincing but misleading testimonials. Dr. Pauling found the cure for arthritis. "Vitamin C is essential in a well-balanced diet. Exorbitant claims for massive doses for therapeutic effects are not warranted.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a chest shrunk your ear with a heavy instrument cause a ringing and loss of hearing?—R.C.

It could. Better see an ear specialist.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Bidding Quiz

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable, and bid One Diamond. Partner responds One Heart. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠AK ♥QJ65 ♦AKJ6 ♣KQ7
2. ♠J5 ♥KT62 ♦AQ86 ♣AQ52
3. ♠AQ64 ♥Q87 ♦AKQ52 ♣J5
4. ♠AQJ86 ♥A5 ♦KQJ864 ♣J5
5. ♠AQ5 ♥95 ♦AK86 ♣AQJ5

1. Four hearts. You can't settle for less than game, for it is hard to imagine losing four tricks after partner responds with a heart. The jump to game is not a closing bid; on the contrary, it shows extra values, points above the heart response guaranteed only 4.

To raise to only three hearts would be dangerous — because partner, with minimum values, might pass. The jump to four is much more accurate for both game and slam purposes.

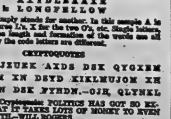
2. Three hearts. Though the high-card point count is only 13, the good trump support and the singleton spade raise the value of the hand to about 13 points and make it clear that a raise to two hearts would be inadequate.

Partner may pass, but, if he does, you should feel that game is unlikely and, in fact, that making even three is in doubt. It must be borne in mind that partner will have a minimum of three hearts for a passer.

3. Two spades. The outlook for game is excellent and no risk should be run of playing in hand at four of partner's suit. The jump - shift is forcing. There are prospects for a game or slam in spades, hearts, diamonds, or even no trump. Partner's first response will help to clarify the issue.

4. One spade. This hand is far from a minimum opening and there might therefore be a temptation to indicate the excess values by jumping to three diamonds. But, since this might result in missing a 4-4 spade fit, it is better, all things considered, to show the spades and leave the intention of taking strong action later in the auction. It will be reasonable to assume that partner has at least 5 spades and that a game, at least, must be reached. The leap to three no-trump shows a minimum of 19 points and hence inferentially suggests the possibility of a slam. To jump to two notrump would not quite do the hand justice, for partner might pass.

Three notrump identifies not only the high-card point count but also the balanced distribution. It draws a very precise picture that permits partner to choose the best final contract.



Tomorrow: Stayin finesse.

Canadian Steel Union Head Assails AFL-CIO

OTTAWA (CP) — The U.S. labor movement was clobbered with self Thursday for protectionism and isolationism by William Mahoney, Canadian director of the powerful United Steelworkers of America.

In an opening address to a national convention of the Steelworkers, Mr. Mahoney said the Canadian labor movement had become increasingly concerned about the protectionist stand of the AFL-CIO.

He said liaison between the AFL-CIO and the Canadian Labor Congress has been re-established to deal with the problems.

The U.S.-based Steelworkers union, the largest in Canada with 150,000 members, is affiliated with both the CLC and the AFL-CIO.

"We appreciate the concern of our U.S. members about labor competition from Japan and Taiwan. However, we must make it clear that the same conditions do not exist as far as Canada is concerned.

"We have done a job in our industry to eliminate wage differentials between U.S. and Canadian workers."

In his address to close to 500 delegates, Mr. Mahoney also

Costly Dollar May Disrupt Export Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs expressed anxiety Thursday that the rising value of the Canadian dollar will soon reduce sales between Canadian exporters and their customers abroad. The Canadian dollar cost $1.01 U.S. Thursday, reaching its highest value since the government took it off a peg at $1.03 U.S. each June 1, 1970.

Then means Canadian goods are more costly—and harder to sell—to foreign buyers who must trade their currencies for Canadian dollars to purchase Canadian goods.

T. C. Douglas (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) blamed the rising rate on high interest rates in Canada, which tend to lure U.S. investors and increase demand for Canadian dollars.

Finance Minister John Turner replied that "there are a number of other factors operating on the value of the Canadian dollar as well."

If steps are taken, they will be announced in the Commons, he added.

Dollar High

Hees Wants to Double Tax On Capital Gains Abroad

NORTH BAY (CP) — Canada should double its tax on capital gains realized on investments made in foreign countries by Canadian corporations, Opposition Conservative MP George Hees said Thursday.

Such a measure would "provide an almost irresistible attraction for bringing this capital back to Canada," he told a party fund-raising dinner.

Mr. Hees suggested the tax applies only to 50 per cent of capital gains. Mr. Hees suggested that 100 per cent of capital gains made in foreign countries be taxable.

That was one of several measures suggested to induce Canadians to increase their investment in development of Canadian industry.

Mr. Hees welcomed the government's recently-announced takeover mechanism for foreign takeovers, calling it long overdue.

Ford Says Pollution Standards Can't Be Met

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II warned again Thursday that if stringent 1975 anti-pollution standards for cars are not suspended, the United States auto industry might have to shut down.

The board chairman told stockholders at Ford Motor Co.'s annual meeting here that since 1967, the company has spent $300 million and directed "the unceasing thing about last week's presentation was that it dealt in no way with future investment in new Canadian development.

"There was nothing to encourage greater investment by Canadians in the development of their country's industry, and nothing that will enable Canadians to own and control more of that development."

Mr. Hees said Canadians invest $3 billion a year in new savings accounts, savings bonds, savings bank, foreign securities and foreign bank accounts, and "a good proportion" of this could be made available for new Canadian development.

A text of his speech was given to the press before delivery.

Cauvette Angry

OTTAWA (CP) — The Montreal labor leaders now in jail for promoting an illegal province-wide strike would be released that if they only drop some things in Cuba, Social Credit Leader Real Caouette said Thursday.

Mr. Caouette called for respect for labor and justice in Quebec, where thousands of employees left work this week to protest the 90-year jail sentences handed out to the three leaders.

Chicago Seven Contempt Sentences Are Thrown Out by Appeal Court

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal appeals court has reversed contempt sentences imposed on eight defendants and two defence lawyers during the controversial Chicago seven conspiracy trial.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the charges returned to the United States District Court for retrial. The court cited a 1971 Supreme Court decision which held that a trial judge should disqualify himself from contempt proceedings if the citations are not made until the end of the trial.

Judge Julius Hoffman sentenced Bobby Seale, chairman of the Black Panther Party, to four years on 16 charges of contempt after he severed Seale's case and declared a mistrial six weeks after the trial began in September, 1968.

Hoffman waited until Feb. 14, 1970, the day the jury adjourned to consider a verdict, before he cited the other seven defendants and two lawyers for contempt.

Five defendants were convicted Feb. 18, 1970, of crossing state lines to incite a riot at the time of the 1968 Democratic national convention in Chicago. They were acquitted of conspiracy to do so.

Two other defendants were acquitted of all charges and the government did not re-try Seale on the conspiracy charges. The appeal of the riot convictions still is pending before the 7th Circuit Court.

Defence lawyer William Kunstler, one of those charged with contempt, called the decision a "victory" but said he was "disappointed the appeals court did not dismiss the contempt charges."

Pacifier Fatal

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury urged Thursday that all immigrants who cannot speak English should be required to take classes until they have a conversational knowledge of the language.

The jury was investigating the death of 13-months-old Elisabeth Zografos, the daughter of Greek immigrants, who died her crib April 9 when she strangled on a cord attached to her pacifier.

It was brought out in testimony the grandmother, who found the baby, had difficulty using a telephone and that the family did not seek help from the fire department.

Chute Found

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Searchers have found a parachute harness and jumpsuit they believe were discarded by the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines plane after he bailed out over Honduras with $363,000 in ransom.

Farmers in the area of northern Honduras where the articles were found told government agents they saw a man sitting on the ground counting money before he disappeared into the countryside, the government said Thursday night.

Heavy Water Shortage Costs Canada $30 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has paid an extra $30 million since 1968 to run its nuclear atomic energy plants because of a shortage of heavy water, A. L. Gray, president of the Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., said Thursday.

He told the Commons natural resources committee the power stations had to pay at least $18 a pound more over the last few years because of the unexpected shortages from Canadian plants.

Es agreed with R. J. Thonson (NDP — Battleford-Kindersley) AECL should take more interest in assuring that the heavy water supplies are available.

Supplies should be sufficient by the first few months of 1974, Mr. Gray said.

Iroquois Is Separatist

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The possibility of the Iroquois Confederacy entering the United Nations as a nation separate from Canada or the United States was raised Thursday during a lecture and question program on the Canadian Indian.

Mike Mitchell, a Seneca Indian from the Cattaraugus reserve in New York state and a law student at the University of Buffalo, said one of the advantages of such a move would be the confederacy's eligibility for foreign aid.

"We could conceivably go to France or . . . to Russia," thus allowing Indians to break their financial ties to the Canadian and U.S. governments, he said.

Treaty questions could then be brought in from of the World Court and dependency on Canadian and U.S. systems of justice would be ended.

Such a plan was attempted during the 1920s, he said, and it is being reconsidered.

Uniformity Urged

STRATFORD (CP) — Recent Canadian-American pollution-control agreements affecting the Great Lakes should have been placed under the jurisdiction of recreational bodies in both countries to assure uniformity, says Thomlea Mayor Leo Del Villano.

U.S. Marines Back in War

Their 'Copters Carry Vietnamese to Battle

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam recaptured the first piece of North Vietnamese-held Quang Tri province today in an assault by government troops ferried into battle by U.S. marine helicopters, field reports said.

In the southern region, heavy fighting raged for the third straight day at An Loc, the long-besieged provincial capital 69 miles north of Saigon. North Vietnamese troops made repeated bloody attacks on the city, which President Nguyen Van Thieu has ordered held at all costs.

The U.S. marine helicopter crews in Quang Tri province—the northernmost area in South Vietnam—were the first marine air units recommitted to the Vietnam war since April, 1971, when marine air forces were withdrawn under President Nixon's pullout program.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the northern front that the U.S. marine helicopter crews were from the carrier Okinawa. They landed 1,500 South Vietnamese marines into Hai Lang district town in the southern edges of Quang Tri City, the provincial capital.

The airlifted South Vietnamese marines, joined by a column of 500 Saigon marines moving on foot, reoccupied the district town in less than three hours, Arnett reported.

The 19 U.S. marine helicopters, with between 75 and 100 crew members from the 7th Fleet amphibious force off the coast, landed the South Vietnamese attackers in two waves.

Arnett said one big CH-46 helicopter was destroyed by a mechanical failure.

Quang Tri City, capital of northernmost Quang Tri province, fell to the North Vietnamese May 1. South Vietnamese forces have since retreated to a new defensive line 30 miles south of th demilitarized zone pushed back by the North Vietnamese invaders.

The South Vietnamese marines engaged North Vietnamese troops immediately after landing in Hai Lang district on Highway One, 25 miles north of the threatened former imperial capital of Hue. At least two South Vietnamese marines were wounded and several North Vietnamese troops were reported killed in the first 15 minutes of the operation.

At An Loc, just 69 miles north of Saigon, a score of B-52 bombers pummelled North Vietnamese troop concentrations again. About 300 tons of explosives were dropped within one to three miles of the city, almost 10 per cent destroyed after five weeks of fighting.

An Loc, on Highway 13, has been under heavy siege since April 7. It has taken shelling barrages ranging up to more than 7,000 rounds a day.

THIS WAS THE SCENE outside Bridge Street United Church this morning as "victims" of a simulated explosion in the church parlors were moved to ambulances for transportation to Belleville General Hospital. St. John Ambulance members gave the "victims" first aid at the scene.

Convicts Form Union

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's convicts have formed their own trade union — and one of its main aims is the almost total abolition of imprisonment. The union, the Preservation of the Rights of Prisoners, has been organized by 42-year-old Dick Pooley, who has spent 20 years behind bars and was once described by a judge as "the top safe-cracker in Britain."

Larvae Replace DDT In Control of Skeeters

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States government scientists say they have scored what could be a major breakthrough in the control of disease-bearing mosquitoes without the use of DDT or other chemical pesticides.

Agriculture department scientists, who directed the research, say the use of tiny parasitic worms which bore holes in mosquito larvae "holds particular promise" for controlling the insects.

The tiny worms, called nematodes, are being field-tested by the U.S. public health service in El Salvador and by the World Health Organization in Taiwan and Thailand.

U.S. Auto Firms Denied More Time to Halt Fumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus refused Friday to give the United States auto industry an extra year to meet 1975 anti-pollution standards.

Ruckelshaus told a news conference he believed the technology to meet these standards is available and that there is time enough to apply it and even to improve it.

But he emphasized that it is a close decision and that auto manufacturers could return later and renew their requests for a delay if their renewed efforts produce convincing evidence that they could not really meet the standards.

Under the clean air amendment of 1970, emission of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide from 1975 automobiles must be reduced 90 per cent from their 1970 levels.

Disaster Exercise Finds Hospital Staff Prepared

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

If Belleville ever experienced a real disaster, says Dr. Bruce Morgan, staff at Belleville General Hospital would be well equipped and ready to receive patients in record time.

Dr. Morgan, medical co-ordinator of Operation Be Prepared . . . a disaster exercise which began at 8.30 a.m. today . . . gave a brief summary following completion of the trial run.

"I've seen some real disasters, but if it works as well as it did today, we'll be all right," he said.

He said evacuation personnel worked extremely well, clearing "injured" cab scouts and their leaders from the scene of a simulated explosion at Bridge Street United Church.

"There were adequate personnel at the hospital to handle the patients," he observed, commenting on the number of doctors and administration staff who had been alerted through telephone answering service.

Operation learns, if this had been a real disaster, were ready to operate by 9.15 a.m., less than an hour after the first alerts were given by Emergency Measures Organization chief Col. Angus Duff.

"There was moderate confusion, but the exercise went much better than I had expected," Dr. Morgan told The Intelligencer.

At a planning operation several days ago, Dr. Morgan and associates made approximations about the hospital's ability to handle the disaster exercise. Although they knew there was to be a simulation today, none of the hospital personnel were to have been made aware of the actual time or extent of injuries involved.

Texas Flood Damage Placed at $10 Million

NEW BRAUNSFELS, Tex. (AP) — A wall of water sweeping out of flooded streams hit this small Central Texas town Friday and raced southward toward to nearby Seguin, leaving at least 11 persons dead, an undetermined number missing and heavy damage.

New Braunfels manager Jim Hester estimated damage in his city of nearly 30,000 at $10 million with at least 1,000 persons homeless.

Almost a third of the city was without electricity and pressure for the city's water supply was low, but the water drinkable, Hester said.

Hester estimated 4,500 persons fled their homes during the night and early morning sent by torrential rains caused the flooding. About three-quarters of the people returned to their homes by dusk.

"It was fast," General Camp Sheriff Walter Fellers said of the flood. "We had one area up there (in surrounding hills) I hear that had 13 inches of rain in 1½ hours."

Fellers described the flood as "a wall of water and rising at the same time."

The flood waters receded rapidly as they ran off in and the Gulf of Mexico.

Bourassa Shuffles Cabinet Ministers

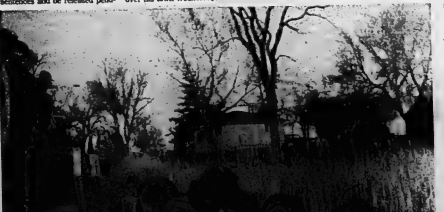
QUEBEC (CP) — The reaction of Premier Robert Bourassa's government to spreading illegal strikes, occupations and shutdowns across Quebec was restricted Friday to a cabinet shuffle.

Mr. Bourassa said he hopes Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer can bring government and union negotiators together again in his new civil service portfolio.

Jean-Paul L'Allier, moved out of the civil service post, retained his communications portfolio and will head a group to study labor relations in the public service.



At a news conference, the premier also rejected suggestions his government grant amnesty to the three jailed leaders, whose imprisonment has sparked the protests.

Mr. Bourassa said the three can still appeal their one-year sentences and be released pending the outcome like 49 other labor officials who received prison terms for their part in last month's 11-day strike by public service employees.

Meanwhile, workers protesting the jailings have virtually closed down all business, industry and public services in Septiles, St. Jerome and Thetford Mines.

The municipal council in Sorel, 45 miles east of Montreal, Friday became the second to call for repeal of legislation ending the public service walkout and for release of the jailed leaders. The resolution was passed after workers cleared the courthouse and occupied the radio station and city hall.

Donald Gallienc, mayor of, Sept-Iles, agreed Thursday to make similar requests to the provincial government after meeting with workers who took over his town Wednesday.

Car Overturns in Cemetery Creek

An Ontario Provincial Police officer checks mud-filled interior of car for more victims in accident which claimed lives of a Deseronto man and woman and a friend from Woodstock. The vehicle veered off Highway 2 one-half mile east of Deseronto late Friday afternoon, coming to rest in a shallow creek which runs beside Deseronto Cemetery. Service crews tok three hours to haul out the vehicle.

Three Die at Deseronto

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

DESERONTO — Top Deseronto residents and a friend from Woodstock were killed Friday when the car in which they were travelling left Highway 2 and plunged into a shallow creek one-half mile east of Deseronto.

Dead are John Mosier, about 35, of 68 Mechanic St., Deseronto, Bessie Mosier, about 75, of the same address, and Carl Griffith, 35, of 181-A Vanier St., Woodstock.

The three were heading east along Highway 2 at about 5.30 p.m. when the car, a 1968 Mercury, veered off the road onto an old, unused portion of the highway.

It proceeded along the dirt path for 200 feet, then slid off a narrow bridge over Cemetery Creek, landing upside down in three feet of water.

Constable Jim McGuigan of Napanee OPP arrived at the scene five minutes later to find the Mosier bodies lying outdoors and Griffith still in the vehicle.

A bystander unsuccessfully applied artificial respiration to the Deseronto victims while Mc-Guigan jumped into the water to free the trapped man.

Mr. Griffith lived with his wife in Woodstock and at least five children.

Two tow trucks took three hours to haul the vehicle from the water. A rear turn signal was still flashing when the car was finally hauled onto the road.

BCI Reading Lab Showing Results

The sweet smell of success is changing lives at BCI.

So far, only a few, are affected, but every success is a milestone for the teachers who staff the reading laboratory at Belleville's oldest high school.

The new lab has been in operation for two years and is now drawing a few students from BCI's feeder schools, notably Queen Alexandra.

As the school year draws to a close, teachers are seeing results, as reading skills improve among those taking the credit course in reading.

"The change in attitude of some students has made my year," says one teacher.

It's no secret that some people manage to get through elementary school without really learning to read with comprehension at reasonable speed. They fall by the wayside in secondary school, with a large label across their psyche saying "failure".

But schools are beginning to do something about it, with reading machines and programmed learning cards. These allow the student to work at his own level, at his own speed, and gradually progress to higher achievement.

The best remedial work is still done on the basis of individual tutoring, teachers say, but in the era of mass education, there simply aren't enough teachers to go around. Within the lab, one teacher and several machines can teach a class at a time, with the teacher's personal time budgeted to handle only the difficulties the machines can't straighten out alone.

But a modern reading lab is designed to do more than remedy the mistakes of the past. Almost anyone, but especially a student going on to university, needs to develop his reading skills, to learn to read faster, comprehend better and retain more.

Reading labs are used extensively in some schools for this purpose, and in at least one Toronto secondary school all potential Ontario scholars are groomed with a year's work in the reading lab.

Council Backs Cement Union

Quinte District Labor Council has expressed support for local 307 of the Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers in their dispute with cement manufacturers over the Sandwich issue.

After listening to a report Tuesday from local president Stewart Norval of Picton, council voted to send a letter to the Ontario Federation of Labor recommending that Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. be allowed to remove blown sand from land not touch the original dunes.

Only dissenting member was Doug Sword of Belleville.

Emergency Radio Licences Won

More than 4100 area men were awarded their licence to operate emergency radio equipment recently, through a course sponsored by the Belleville Emergency Measures Organization.

Two grants, one in Picton and one in Belleville, took the two-part course over seven weeks, working for the necessary 75 per cent for a pass.

Completion for the course, coming from many of the ambulance companies and fire departments throughout Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, was marred only by long and for verbal capability.

The Picton group, numbering 68, was the largest group assembled in the area to take the course. Forty-nine applicants came from Belleville.

Only six failed to be accredited by the course.

Instructors for the course were Stu Meeks of Belleville and John Kaine of Trenton.

The groups were both tested by an inspector from the Department of Communications.

Competition Youth Key Says Beach

Competition is the key to the successful development of young people today, a former Albert College physical education director, said in his address at the annual athletic awards banquet.

M. A. "Steve" Beach, athletic director from 1935 to 1957, reminded three young sters receiving trophies for track and field events this past year, that "you are only where you are because of the many who have competed with you.

"Recreation, athletics, and sports are only one area of things that make happiness. The first is some more young to guide our actions. The second is some activity to give some life in the form of recreation with family or friends. The third is some form of work which justifies our existence in society and makes us good citizens. The fourth is some decree of leisure and the use of it in some way that makes us happy."

Mr. Beach said living a vigorous life helps people take advantage of learning and training opportunities.

"We are generally more alert to recognize opportunities both physically and perhaps, in today's world . . . mentally."

Artist Sees Beauty in Bay

While pollution probers are massing to create waves, regarding the condition of the Bay of Quinte, French-Canadian artist Denise Rousseau of Sorel, Quebec, sees only beauty in the yacht club harbor and Bay ter in general.

Travelling with her husband and one other crew member, Mrs. Rousseau said "Ontario is not only a richer province than Quebec, but is also a more beautiful province."

The Rousseau family had come to Ontario to buy a sail boat and had been travelling from Lake Huron back to their French home when Mrs. Rousseau decided she needed the security of dry land for a while.

While the crew sailed on, Mrs. Rousseau jumped ship and travelled by train to Belleville and spent four hours here Friday, chatting with local mariners and painting harbor scenes.

The ship remained in port over night and left on the morning tide, carrying a little piece of Belleville in the painter's box.

Rabies Clinics Coming

The Federal Government health of animals branch of the department of agriculture, based in Belleville, will again conduct rabies vaccination clinics for dogs and cats in Hastings county this year.

The clinics were approved late last month by Hastings county council and this week James F. McCorquodale, veterinarian in charge of the clinings, Prince Edward and Northumberland counties, said tentative scheduling calls for commencement of the clinics in North Hastings about mid-July. The clinics will run through until about July 7, ending in the south part of the county.

Dr. McCorquodale said it was likely that rabies clinics would also be held in Prince Edward county.

The comparatively high incidence of rabies in Hastings and Prince Edward counties during the past winter prompted the decision to hold the clinics.

Dr. McCorquodale said that since last November there had been many instances of cattle and other domestic animals being bitten by rabid foxes or skunks.

At least a dozen cattle in the three-county area had died as result of bites by rabid animals since last November, the local supervisor said.

Of these, five cattle killed had been owned by one Hastings farmer.

He said the latest incident in the county was only about a week ago.

But despite the numbers of cattle killed, Dr. McCorquodale didn't classify the rabies outbreak as "epidemic" or an "enzootic" as long as confinement was being reduced by the disease.

"epidemic" of rabies to diminish shortly as the fox population has been reduced by

Council Blasts Grier

TRENTON (Staff) — The Quinte District Labor Council blasted Stanley Grier, Trenton councillor George Grier for supporting a motion last week to abolish the town's permanent fire department.

Belleville member Robert Andrus said he could not comprehend Mr. Grier's stand, particularly after the council supported him during his 1970 election campaign.

"The town spent 20 or 30 years trying to get a force and now he wants to take his backward step," said Mr. Andrus. himself a fireman.

Mr. Andrus said that not only would it jobs be abolished, but that hours saved in the process would be eliminated by increases in fire insurance.

Trenton council voted 4 - 3 to retain the permanent force with Mayor Duncan McDonald casting the deciding ballot. Other opposition councillors Paul Tripp and Stan Kitchison also voted in for criticism from the labor council.

Council voted 10 aard a letter of protest to the Trenton council and Mr. Greer to the next meeting of its Trenton bureau.

Housing Survey In Bancroft

Provincially owned housing accommodation for senior citizens is no longer something to be expected only in the larger urban centres.

In Hastings county, the Ontario Housing Corporation hopes to have accommodation nearing completion in Stirling and is also investigating the need in other villages.

Commencing early this month, a survey to determine need is under way in Bancroft. The OHC advertisement states the senior citizens housing, if needed, would likely be an apartment structure but consideration will also be given for one-storey units which, in no require stairs.

Rentals would be geared to income, the minimum being $32 a month, including services.

Service Club Plans Cleanup

Members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club are pollution minded and have plans for a cleanup operation along the Moira River and the bay front serving a dual purpose.

In addition to clearing the river banks and bay front of debris, club members have hopes for the effort to also be a fund raiser.

Club members are calling their cleanup campaign a "trashathon" with workers to be rewarded for their efforts at so much a pound for salvaged debris.

The project would be carried out on the same basis as a walkathon and would hopefully become an annual event.

Club president Gerry Brennan yesterday outlined initial plans for the trashathon to members of the city parks board and said monies raised would be earmarked for West Riverbank Park development.

Date for the trashathon is June 10.

The local service club has already pledged $3,000 toward the West Riverbank Park development and the parks board is expected to retain the firm of Johnson, Sustronk, Weinmann and Associates, Toronto planning consultants, to prepare a five-to-six-acre feature area development plan for the new park site.

This special feature area would have a definite theme setting and have facilities for children's entertainment and family-oriented activities.

A concept plan for the entire West Riverbank area has already been prepared by parks superintendent Lloyd Syer. This calls for provision of a swimming beach, erection of a changeroom and canteen structure, which is already underway, and construction of parking areas and a roadway network.

Crowe Lake Prefabs Said Possible Polluters

MARMORA (Special) — Charging Hastings county health unit with inadequate investigation of a potential pollution site, Marmora township area residents have called for a halt to construction of 28 houses on Crowe Lake.

Alex Fraser and Ralph Heal claim this area, over rock at the Marble Point Road site in Marmora township makes it unsuitable for 28 septic tanks and wells for the houses.

They say the pollution from the tanks could find its way through rock crevices and contaminate Crowe Lake.

But when the obviously disturbed men appeared before the Marmora and Lake township council, they were told the health unit has approved the site for septic tanks. Mr.

Fraser was critical of the health unit survey, saying he felt officials hadn't fully studied the area.

The two men objected to the installation of 26 prefabricated homes by Renatec Homes of Oshawa Ltd . Mr. Fraser said he realizes the township needs the added assessment, but he feels the houses are not of a lasting variety. He said he is afraid the area will eventually become a slum.

He called for a halt to construction until the health unit undertakes a thorough survey of the whole drainage system in the area.

Mr. Fraser said he had a selfish reason for being disturbed about the development because he has a home on Crowe Lake. But he added that he was also concerned about the unsuspecting buyers of the houses who could be flooded out.

Reeve John Wilkes said Marmora township has no official plan governing land use in the township. It must await approval now under way by the trustee planning Planning Board.

Council said Mr. Fraser was overly concerned. But it agreed to ask the health unit to see that all septic tanks are properly installed and inspected.

Work Good Medicine For Mentally Retarded

PICTON (Staff) — Lloyd George, director of Arc Industries in Prince Edward, this week stated "Of all the many excellent jobs done in workshop offers, the one that seems to be highest on the preference scale is work."

He explained "a massive case of boredom" would certainly represent one major result of denying society its right to work.

In comparison, the mentally retarded are members of a minority group unwittingly condemned to such a social environment.

"For all the wrong reasons they have been denied the basic right to work and thereby denied the experience of achievement," he said.

The sheltered workshop in our community, ARC Industries located beside Vince's Farmer's Market, offers one solution to this inequity. When the trainee leaves the workshop it is a whole new world. Instead of the hurtful gawking of fear of the unknown and the lack of self-confidence that are apparent from initial contact, experience soon reflects smiles of mutual trust and respect and the self-satisfied smile of achievement," he mentioned.

Mr. George said although the Prince Edward workshop has been in operation less than two months, already a long list of individual achievements has been recorded. Attendance by trainees is "outstanding" as is the level of participation in project activities to date.

Parks Open Next Monday

May 15 is the day the St. Lawrence Parks Commission gates open to its picnic and camp ers to Fort Henry and Upper Canada Village.

The Commission provides 14 campsites in its parks, along with beaches, nature trails, a wildfowl sanctuary, marina playgrounds and the two historical reconstructions.

The spectacular Retreat ceremonies are the staged this year at Fort Henry every Wednesday and Saturday evening, except for Aug. 9, 12

Farmer Wants Road Closed

MARMORA (Staff) — Trespassing and destructive snowmobilers have prompted a Marmora township farmer to ask council for closure of a road allowance bordering his property.

For 50 years Jack Doyle has maintained a bridge on the road allowance, in addition to a small annual sum from council. Now, he wants to sell his farm, but a prospective buyer won't consider the purchase while the road allowance remains open. Mr. Doyle, considering that snowmobilers were cutting his fences and travelling on his property without permission, asked to buy the road allowance. Failing permission to buy, he asked that council close the allowance to traffic.

Council was reluctant to set a precedent in closing the allowance, but promised to consider the question. Three township residents, Reginald Connor, Lyn Kelsey and Al Ridgway had their proposal for a road into their property turned down. The department of transportation said that the proposed road was too close into the properties in the only one it would approve. Mr. O'Connor said he would like to bring his stretch of the road to the township's attention, which would be prohibitive.

Council refused to take over the old Beaver Creek bridge and section of road leading to it in its present condition.

County council had transferred it back to the township. Its roads committee will be asked to inspect the bridge during a tour at the end of May.

Douglas Bedore lodged a claim for $100 damages sustained when the old Bedore road gave way under his car as he was driving along the road.

Township clerk Thomas Hagerman reported that $14,175 of federal winter works grant had been spent on clearing dead elms and repairs on town ship roads. The remaining $1,300 had to be spent before the end of April.

"It takes money to make money. If your property is saleable we'll advertise it at our expense until we sell it."

Organized Confusion

Church Hall Evacuated Quickly

At 9:30 this morning, Belleville's master disaster plan was put into operation when rescue and civilian vehicles were called upon to take part in Operation Be Prepared.

The simulated disaster, co-ordinated by Belleville General Hospital and the Emergency Measures Organization, was planned to test the reaction ability of the hospital and various civic groups.

At 9:30 a.m. Col. Angus Duffy of the EMO alerted the Belleville Fire Department that an "explosion" had occurred at Bridge Street United Church at the corner of Church and Bridge Streets. His notification was also picked up by St. John Ambulance and city police.

A switchboard operator at the fire department immediately landed the alarm and alerted the hospital emergency wards, and The Intelligencer.

At Bridge Street United Church hall, approximately 40 cubs and scouts who were to act as "casualties" in the disaster operation, assembled to await the simulated explosion which was to send them to hospital.

Actually there was no explosion but members of the St. John Ambulance did a realistic job in the application of first aid bandages and splints to allow their removal to hospital.

Dr. Bruce Morgan began applying burn dressings to the first 'victims' as soon as ambulances arrived. '

Disaster Exercise Held

When Col. Duffy first gave the alarm to city fire department, the fire emergency vehicle, ambulance, police and St. John's Ambulance cars were dispatched, along with two equipment trucks from The Intelligencer. A total of 20 rescue people showed up at the scene . . . several more than expected.

In addition, eight first-aid trained men from Northern Electric turned up to assist in the physical bandaging of the excited boys.

"This is the sort of thing that would happen in case of a real emergency," said Col. Duffy. "But if they weren't trained, they wouldn't be of any real use . . . except to carry stretchers." He agreed untrained volunteers would be more of a hindrance than a help.

Each of the boys from the 11th Belleville, Bridge Street United Church Cub Pack, was tagged with an injury. These ranged from burns, convulsions, broken bones, burns and a ruptured spleen. There was only one "casualty" transferred to the hospital morgue.

"They were a great bunch of actors." Dr. Morgan complimented.

Dr. R. M. Anderson, commenting on the hospital bed situation, said following completion of the exercise, the; a total of 134 beds at the hospital could have been made available in the advent of a disaster.

Albert College and Trenton Endorse Hockey School Plan

The Tam O'Shanter Hockey School in Toronto has entered into an agreement with Albert College in Belleville and the Town of Trenton for the operation of its hockey school in the Quinte area this summer.

Donald Williams, president of the Albert College Board of Governors announced signing of the agreement Friday afternoon, continuing earlier negotiations that the hockey school would operate.

Ice facilities at the Trenton Arena will be used for hockey practice, while Albert College in Belleville will provide living accommodation and transportation.

The hockey school will commence Aug. 1 with between 600 and 800 boys expected to be enrolled over the following four-week period.

Mr. Williams said that boys from all over the province would be enrolled in the hockey school but instruction would also be available to area youth on a day school basis.

The Tam O'Shanter hockey school is a division of the Toronto golf, curling and skating club of the same name which lost its ice facilities for a few years ago. The hockey school, in operation for the past 12 years is by Larry Hughes as director.

Local sports officials earlier approached the Belleville Recreation - Arena Committee for possible use of the Dick Ellis rink, but committee members felt the cost of flooding the rink for 12 month/ operation would be too great.

Albert College business administrator Taylor Franklin said he had been in contact with Trenton,-seeing officials and was satisfied the Trenton facilities were ample for the four-week period of the hockey school.

"It is unfortunate that Belleville was not able to take advantage of the opportunity," said Mr. Franklin.

If this summer's hockey school is successful. Mr.

Cuts Coming

TORONTO (CP) — Some cuts in service may be necessary to deliver health care in its most efficient and economic form, Health Minister Richard Potter said Friday.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association, however, that arbitrary cuts, are not the right way to go about it. "They don't necessarily slice off the right priorities."

But little government is faced with heavy and increasing demands on its money, some kind of change is essential.

Dr. Potter also continued to criticize the medical profession and the public for placing too heavy a burden on health facilities resulting in rising costs.

"By far the most serious problem we face today is overcoming the general tendency of us all — the profession as well as the public — to overuse and abuse the program," he said.

Franklin looked forward to conclusion of an agreement with Tam O'Shanter in years ahead.

"It will mean that college facilities will be put to good summertime use," said Mr. Franklin.

Mr. Williams said the hockey school would be an asset to both Belleville and Trenton as well as Albert College.

In addition to summer time use for Albert College, the school will also provide employment for "a number of students and some of the supervisory capacity for the approximately 200 boys who will be enrolled at any one time in the hockey school.

For Trenton it would mean that the town would have year round use of its ice facilities.

Man's Real Need

Of all the ballads and poems ever written on the eternal theme none has expressed it more poignantly than a letter from a teenager on this page today. What it says is for people everywhere and particularly for those in that period of sensitivity that is his own age group.

We live in an age of monumental impersonality and, alas, insincerity. There is a superficiality and lack of warmth to human relationships compounded of defense mechanism functioning, modern materialism and our bleak northern temperament. The well-adjusted adult recognises this phenomenon and makes allowance for it; but he realizes also that something is missing from his life: a degree of warmth that cushions men and women against the evil day. To the young person growing up in such an atmosphere it can be a chilling experience.

Young people today seem to be more than ever affected by this latter-day sterility of mind and spirit and a Waterloo Junction university psychologist had some interesting observations on the subject recently. Dr. Donald Morgenzon said youngsters are turning to unreality — witchcraft, astrology, telepathy and palmistry because they are being denied that vital period of being an innocent child.

Dr. Morgenzon said children today "tend to intellectualize many things, apparently somewhat afraid of being human — they are considered by many to be passive, mature, cool, detached, emotionally bankrupt and completely bored — they are also developing a self-centred intellectualism."

He suggested some of the reasons could be the Death, technology, affluence of which some is not earned, depression-bred parents and the fact that children have been exiled to a world where adults do not care to enter. It used to be that adults and children lived their lives together, enjoying the same activities. Children were not thought to re quire special entertainment, special clothes, a special and sometimes artificial environment.

Nowadays a youngster can sniff glue with impunity but when he and his brother and twe friends smoked an entire carton of cigarets, getting sick in the process, a neighbor phoned their mother.

Society confirms Dr. Morgenson's observations. There is more tension among the young today because of the directions in which our institutions and community mores are drifting, a fact incidentally confirmed also by U.S. studies which the psychologist mentioned.

* * *

The young long since have been thrust into a lifestyle of their own. Yet we believe teenagers desire and need to be closer to their parents and vice versa. Segregation by age is as artificial as it is dangerous. That does not mean we want a constant state of togetherness; as in everything else there is a happy medium.

On Front Street the other day we saw a couple with their pretty, well-groomed daughter. The girl was about 16 and they all looked happy together.

Brainy Too

Say what you will about beauty pageants and, most recently, the Junior Miss pageants in the United States, but the young people have both beauty and brains. They are alert and very much aware of the world around them. Their letters in replies to questions of current interest by the five finalists. Their answers reflected clear-thinking, good sense and awareness. All were faultlessly expressed and this is not surprising when it is realized that of the 50 girls competing from all over the country 36 were A students and the remainder Bs.

Waterfronts Image

While driving around the back of the hospital recently the waterfront looked as if it had undergone some fairly recent grooming. Or has it been thus all along and like many citizens we had just not trekked that far up river. Anyway the green parkland along the water's edge is a most particular area, indeed very trim and as the weather improves the whole effect should be most attractive.

Copters Useful

The sowing of the annual harvest of fish species in Quinte waters from aircraft and now by helicopter (seen as a superior method by conservation officials) is one that may be unfamiliar to many. Described in our news pages recently it is a reminder of that parallel method of sowing land crops pioneered by special low-flying aircraft in New Zealand.

Down on the Farm

Student Loans and An MP Who Did It The Hard Way

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Bruce S. Beer isn't sure but he thinks today's student loan plan is getting a pretty good deal. He tends to compare today's student loans and opportunities with the Youth programs and other aids offered to young Canadians with his own experiences.

"Young people should be thankful about the assistance governments offer," he told me. "Perhaps we are too generous in this regard and young people are calling too many careers with public funds. But I'm not absolutely sure. Perhaps there are not the same kind of opportunities today as when I was young."

Elected as the Liberal member for the Ontario riding of Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe in 1962, Mr. Beer was re-elected in 1963, 1965 and 1968 but recently announced that he will not be a candidate in the next election.

His political career is typical, in many respects, of that of back-bench MPs. He has been a parliamentary secretary to four cabinet ministers and holds the distinction of being the only MP to have been a parliamentary secretary to two ministers at the same time. Since the fall of 1968 he has been chairman of the important Commons agriculture committee.

His remarks about young people stem from his own experiences of finishing public school and then going home to help out on the family farm for 13 years. By borrowing a few hundred dollars from an uncle at three per cent interest he was able to resume his education at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. He supplemented his meagre resources by milking cows at the OAC barn at 25 cents an hour. He owed over $1,000 when he finished and that was a lot of money to a young man in those post-depression years.

By 1945, after holding several jobs including that of a provincial agricultural representative, things were better and he bought a farm just outside Brampton. He acquired 100 acres and later added another 200 in a purchase from Tom and Harry Hays. Harry Hays later became Canada's agricultural minister and Mr. Beer became his parliamentary secretary.

Mr. Beer had started full circle and Mr. Beer recently sold off all of his property except his house and one acre which he intends to retain as a horse boss.

At one time he felt, if not bitter, at least disappointed that his political career did not develop as he had once hoped. He contemplated the possibility of becoming minister of agriculture some day but was passed over. And under prime minister Trudeau's system of rotating parliamentary secretaries, he too had spent and the extra $4,968 a year that goes with it.

"If you are interested in being a parliamentary secretary, it is almost automatically conceded that a cabinet position is not an impossibility," Mr. Beer notes. "I think the rotation of secretaries is hard on the party because it creates disappointment even resentment, among those who lose the job. But perhaps Mr. Trudeau had no other choice than to recognize the MPs who supported him for the leadership!"

Mr. Beer did not support Mr. Trudeau. He was an active worker for the late Robert Winters and regards Mr. Winters as one of the outstanding men he has known. He enjoys being committee chairman more than a secretary and believes the chairman can bring a lot of influence to bear on legislation, but acknowledges that rotating bill is, in his view, better legislation because the committee fought over it for many months.

Rarely in the headlines, Mr. Beer is one of those quiet MPs who make a significant contribution to public life and who form the backbone of our parliamentary system.

MPs—Do They Qualify?

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

We are going too far. There is a movement afoot to remove land ownership as a qualification for those who would run for public office. This removes the only qualification, except for citizenship at large, that a man or self it means nothing, if our doctors, lawyers, dentists, electricians, etc., have to have qualifications, why not those in public office?

The way it is now, if it takes two to make a half-wit, they are still eligible to run, and can even go on welfare to get the $500 to qualify their nomination. If they are not smart enough to run their own business at a profit, they can aspire to a lucrative government post, the only business that can run at a deficit, and get away with it. I figure it is costing every Canadian $1,000 a year to allow our politicians to play politics. Imagine if you can, every government post filled with a hard-headed business man, from the township level, right through to the Prime Minister. We would soon be operating at a profit. We pay good businessmen and good hockey players $100,000 a year, or more our elected representatives up to $29,000 and none of them are not capable of earning that. Some would even do it if they mumbled something in the House four times during their four years of office. $5,000 a mumble, this is expensive government, especially when they are not too sure what they are mumbling about.

Let's get down to business, make the first qualification for these aspirants at least four letters after their name, start them at $10,000 a year, and if, after two years, they still cannot prove to we, the taxpayers, that they have made a profit for Canada, fire them, and try another. We pay politicians to run the country in the interest of its citizens, and the unions tell them what they want to do. We would it not be a pleasant change, to have red-blooded Canadians get up and prove to us that they were putting the taxpayers ahead of votes, men that had the necessary qualifications to do what they wanted to do, men with blackbone enough to tell Canadians that Canadians are going to do in the interest of Canada, rather than how many hand - out cheques the Canada can print at a certain budgeting deficit. In two years, our taxes would be cut in half.

I don't expect to win, I wrote Mr. Trudeau some time ago, and suggested that one qualification for elected representatives be that they be adjutants, bachelors, or orphans, this would help do away with the "baby government" or "Mr. Blarney" problem, and within two weeks of answering my letter, he got married.

Hutton Letters Strike A Responsive Chord

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

My apology to Mr. Gerald Boyce for this delayed recognition and appreciation of his record writing and presentation of the letters of Mrs. Hutton. It was my good fortune to have been present last November when he presented to the Hastings Historical Society a preview of the contents of what is now the published work.

First and foremost the book could never have come into being had Mr. Boyce never been the many regular letters to his mother in Ireland, which quite by chance were recently discovered. "Suffice it to say no one could know the moral support Hutton received from the reading of these letters that was another can write. So let us in our imagination picture his great pleasure when a letter from his mother came to him. So often today we are reminded that a letter-writing is a lost art. Remember the good old days of Mother's Day to write her? Perhaps if those of our citizens who have recently emigrated to Canada let us hear from them as often as Hutton did, they will treasure and keep that letter into the last. We do hope that no matter how many years hence your mother's letters may be discovered —that names like Sidney, Hastings and Belleville will remain as of old.

Hutton's sense of real values is in effect a lesson for our experience when one follows his searchings for a suitable site upon which to build their new home in choosing Sidney Township in the letters.

But above all, having settled, his dedication to the principles of education in a pioneer land surpasses, or at least equals, his love for his Irish mother.

HAROLD F. VARTY
Tweed

(Warden of Hastings County 101 years after Mr. Hutton's death in 1875).

P.S. Mr. Boyce, Mrs. Varty and I will be in Ireland this week on a trip. I'm sure it will interest you that I am presenting your book as a gift to a relative who was recently honored with an honorary degree in Dublin when his historical writings among other accomplishments were recognized. — H.V.

What the World Needs Now...

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Maybe you will feel that it is a waste of time, money and effort to write with what I am going to ask you, but please consider. I am 14 years old and I would like to get a message across to some people. That message is "love". I don't know if it is an exciting diet, but I have had an impulse to give it a try and I thought that maybe your paper would donate space for something people could learn from about.

There is such a lack of gratitude in the world today and it makes me very sad. It hurts me deeply to see people trying to take it and because of that, I don't know how sure, I can be of giving my love to someone without being rejected in the end. But I guess you have to have faith in a person. If you look for perfection, it will probably pass you by.

Love sharing. It means sharing the good times and the heartaches without giving up or losing interest. It's a mutual trust and a sense of belonging to someone or to others. But the most important thing to remember is that love is no good unless it is used. It can hardly wait until I find someone I can love and who can love me. I believe this so much, that right now I cannot help crying. But they are just tears of joy, which can express only a fraction of the emotion inside of me.

I really hope you print this; it would help so many people. I think the Prime Minister quoted a lovely poem recently which says it all perfectly. Please don't print my name or address — that way people can put on whatever name they want to it and identify more easily with it.

"Shucks, that wasn't so much," he said as he lifted back the oar and stepped ashore at the dock. He was cheered on the journey by scores who stood on the river bank and watched him pass by. Once did he have to beach the wallowing punt and that was at Cooper's Dam.

More Government Extravagance Is Bared

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The public accounts committee has uncovered that in 1968 $38,000 was spent to refurnish the office suite of then Municipal Affairs Minister D'Arcy McGeough. The present incumbent Stewart Smith collected $15,000 for broadloom and $540 for two "love seats."

The committee also found out in this spending only because there was some irregular accounting connected with it.

Chances are it won't bother Smith much more about the costs and executive suites. This was just incidental to the regular inquiries.

Smith, it will might, to its own profit as a watching and to the public purse.

He initially started with a secretary some 20 years ago.

William Goodfellow was a key minister in the Frost government. He was somewhat of a fireman, put into departments in trouble, and he moved a lot. His portfolios included welfare, highways, agriculture and municipal affairs.

His secretary always moved with him. So did his surroundings.

The secretary had strong opinions on decor. She particularly had firm beliefs about curtains. She liked a hand-blocked pattern based on the trillium. So every time the minister switched offices there was a decorating job and a new set of hand-blocked curtains.

That started a vogue. Before then, when a minister changed offices he moved his personal papers and that was about it. Now there began to be decorating jobs. The secretaries saw to more and more elaborate.

Then the government established a "consign" branch in public works, actually an interior decorating department, with interior decorators there had to be something to decorate. With the combination of this and the handy open-end public purse, we began to get more and more elaborate.

Our executive suites became such. Mr. McGeough's present suite in treasury, for example, could serve as a movie set for a Mussolini palace.

Some inquiry into this should be helpful, than is the rural municipalities in other directions.

Such as it may, we are quite willing to believe that other considerations may well have played an important part in leading Stirling council to its decision to pull out. Top heavy representation from Belleville and curious tendering procedures immediately come to mind as possible reasons why some municipalities supporting two bureaucracies at the same time. The manner of handling the bids for an office building capped the climax. Trenton was justly indignant. There can be no excuse for what was done.

Stirling News - Argus

For better or worse, Stirling has now officially severed connections with the Quinte Area Planning Board.

Whatever the reasons, (nobody seems to know, or isn't saying), Stirling council certainly is not alone in its feeling that it works no part of the. Quinte area. The town of Trenton, the townships of Murray and Brighton and the village of Brighton were quick to make their move when it became known that the Minister had approved Stirling's withdrawal.

It has been our feeling throughout the whole discussion that Stirling's future growth is tied much closer to Sidney township and the urban centres to the south, than to the rural municipalities in other directions.

Interchurch Helps to Change Type of Religious Broadcasts

TORONTO (CP) — Religious broadcasting in Canada stood meant Sunday morning services broadcast on radio stations which divided up time among various denominations.

Or it meant mid-sermons of two minutes usually televised about 3 a.m. when the station was signing off for the night.

Now Interchurch is helping to change religious broadcasting by moving away from denominationalism and piety.

Interchurch, formed in 1967, is a co-operative broadcasting agency supported by the Anglican, Roman Catholic and United churches with some involvement on the part of Baptists, Lutherans and Presbyterians.

All national radio and TV broadcasts in English which involves the three main churches — apart from International broadcasts, as does much local, regional and syndicated material, will now be the new face of religious broadcasting involves?

Dorothy Forbes, television producer for the Anglican division of Interchurch, said religious broadcasting is "any program that deals with persons or community, that tries to do it with integrity and real information."

And Roger C. Cann, communications director for the Ontario-Quebec Baptist Convention says "broadcasting ought to be done with all churches. We have no Baptist gospel alone that needs only Baptists preaching it."

Allan Bestall, in charge of radio broadcasting for the Anglican Church, divides religious broadcasting into Big-S religion and Little-R religion.

"Big-S religion is Billy Graham or church services," he said. "Little-R religion is something like our 'Jean Pasley Comments.'"

Jean Pasley Comments is one of the syndicated radio features produced for Interchurch. Each week Jean Pasley, a Montreal social worker, writes and broadcasts comments on current events. Other features are two-minute commentaries on the world from a broadly religious point of view.

"Big-R religious broadcasting is not dead. Morning devotions, abandoned by stations in most parts of Canada, are still broadcast in Newfoundland."

Interchurch says church service broadcasts attract a devoted but small audience adding that "there is a place within local community."

"But since religion is an evolving event, I strongly prefer short messages sprinkled throughout broadcasting day to concentration on one message in one hour on Sunday."

Thus, Interchurch's Religious Television Associates distributes 30 and 60 second television spot films to local stations. Though they are usually made by religious groups in the United States, denominations, Lutheran, the Pauline and Franciscan religious orders—there is usually Canadian participation behind Interchurch.

The spot films are sent out every 13 weeks, each dramatizing in vignette form some common experience or relationship.

Interchurch does not produce regular series for television but contributed three programs to the CBC's Man Alive series last season.

Interchurch Radio issues a series of mini-messages—10 seconds to a minute—on religious values in everyday life.

Doubt as Needful as Faith

By the Rev. Gordon C. Scarth

The word expression, "Doubting Thomas" is seldom intended as a compliment. But it can often be received as such. The seed of faith sobs and flows. Sometimes it is easy to believe. Sometimes it is difficult. It seems that doubt is as needful for faith as faith.

Doubt is the readjustment of thinking to the requirements of a new experience. A snake that does not shed its skin dies. The individual who does not shed certain expressions of faith could not accept any Christian belief. He clung to only one principle. He said, "I believe that it is right to do right and wrong to do wrong."

Another is a student at Glasgow University. He was a candidate for the ministry of the Church of Scotland. But he appeared before Presbytery one day to ask that his name be stricken from the roll. He stated that he no longer believed in God.

Another wrote home to his mother from Columbia University, saying that he had reached a decision to "severe God out of the universe" and to start again, taking nothing for granted.

Who were these men? The first was Horace Bushnell, sometimes referred to as "the father of modern Christian education". The second was George Matheson who was to write the beautiful hymn, "O Love that wilt not let me go". The third was Harry Emerson Fosdick, the most celebrated preacher in the English speaking world in this century.

And a fourth? Thomas! He was as much in earnest as anybody could be. He refused to say that he believed what he did not believe. There was an uncompromising honesty about Thomas, as he is portrayed in John's Gospel.

"Now Thomas was not with them when Jesus came. So the other disciples told him, 'We have seen the Lord.' But he answered, 'Unless I see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger in the print of the nails, and place my hand in His side, I will not believe.'"

Then, have you ever wondered about what happened to her with the rest of them "eight days later"? Because they can't. They tracked him down. They were not going to let him become a recluse or go back to old ways, when he could go on from strength to strength in richer fellowship.

Doubt is a matter of the heart, not just the head. One's own secret uncertainty disqualifies us for the search for good. So, let us be in earnest about our faith! If a person is a newcomer, he needs a welcome. If he is in a Senior Citizen's Home, he needs friendship. If he drops out of church, he needs us to drop in on him. And all we know deserves our prayers.

Religious Enrolment Doubles

TORONTO (CP) — Enrolment in religion courses has doubled during the last two years at many universities as students search for a valid commitment in their lives, says the executive director of a new council of religious scholars.

Dr. Norman Wagner of the Council on the Study of Religion, comprised of eight North American learned societies in the religious field, said he believes that religion now is "the fastest-growing academic discipline."

During a news conference in Toronto to announce the council has established branch offices at Waterloo Lutheran University, where he is director of graduate studies, Dr. Wagner said religion is spilling over into other related areas of study.

"It's a crucial time. People in related areas—sociology and psychology—regard it as a threat that religion is wandering all over the place."

He said religious studies now encompass many areas of the humanities and therefore have a greater appeal.

The establishment of young persons was "to do something about the critical areas of life."

Dr. Wagner said that education has been touted as a means to an end, in that students are promised they will make more money if they graduate from university.

But this no longer is true, and students are disrupted.

"It doesn't take much imagination to predict a drop in enrolment at universities this fall," he said.

While many university department worry about declining enrolment, religion departments are experiencing rapid growth.

At Waterloo Lutheran, Dr. Wagner said, enrolment in religious courses has increased to 1,200 from 600 in two years.

"And that's just one small university."

Indian Soldiers For Christ

HALIFAX (CP) — Barkat Masih Khokhar, soldier of God for a quarter century, now is dedicated to becoming a soldier of Christ.

The 51-year-old retired colonel from the Indian army came to Canada late last summer and enrolled at the Atlantic School of Theology here under sponsorship of the Anglican diocese of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Mr. Khokhar's decision to exchange sword for surplice came during the 1963 war with Pakistan when he admits he began to find purpose in life.

He joined the Indian army in 1941 and fought on the Second World War served in Burma as commander of a commando platoons operating behind Japanese lines.

He saw active duty in the first Indo-Pakistan War of 1947-48.

His father, before him was a soldier and his son is a fighter pilot with the Indian air force.

Mr. Kokhar says his mother was one of the greatest influences. It was her wish that he become a priest "and I felt I had not answered from reality and now was the time for my turning back."

An Anglican, he is a member of the Church of North India, a union of Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Disciples of Christ and The Brethren churches of India.

After completing studies in Canada, he will return to his people where there is "a great need for ministry."

Backstage Chit-Chat

Several of the junior students in the sewing classes at Centennial High School wait backstage anxious to do their best in modelling for "Centennial's Fashion Show". These styles from the long dress to the hot pants illustrate a few of the current styles the students have undertaken to make and successfully completed. This was the fifth annual fashion show.

CSS Presents Fashion Show

The Centennial Secondary School fashion show was held on Thursday evening when 38 students in the sewing classes under the instruction of Mrs. Anneka Chapman modelled a wide selection of their carefully made clothes to an audience of 450 which included families and friends of the models who fashionably showed what they had made.

The stage was set in a garden effect with a white picket fence centred by a stately arbor and enhanced by spring flowers including tulips and colorful greenery. There was even a wishing well to enhance the decor.

Commentator for the evening was Phil Easton, a grade 13 student while music was provided by the Centennial Dance Band under the direction of Monty Emmerson.

Whether in grade nine or 13, these students illustrated how home made clothes can provide an economical, stylish wardrobe. From baby doll pyjamas to a winter coat, the students modelled their successful year's endeavor in their sewing classes.

The school girl fashions included colorful jumpers, hot pants, smocks and pant suits, for the casual and easy care wear. Above the knee lengths with knee socks are a popular trend in the school scene. Formal dresses and special occasion fashions were also shown. Crimplene, crepe, cotton wool or double knit polyester, in geometric designs, the nautical look and floral pattern were a few of the fashionable creations. While solid colors of navy blue, purple and black were just a few seen in the show.

"The first year I taught, I had the girls make the same thing — an apron — but then the next year I realized that the students would rather make something to suit their tastes. From grade 10 on, I let the girls try whatever they liked." This may account for the large and successful endeavors of her students.

This is the fifth year Centennial High School has provided a fashion show at which time the students have an opportunity to show their fashions in a professional - like manner.

Ushers and usherettes for the evening were Terry O'Bryan, Debbie Chapman, Ron Hall, Mike Bennett and Brian Kleinteuber.

The lighting crew under the guidance of Mrs. Vince Prewer assisted in making this event a successful personalized fashion show.

OES Chapter 55 Entertains Officers

A large number of presiding past Matrons and Patrons attended from the district and many other points; as far away as Montreal. All were introduced and escorted to the East by the Conductress, Mrs. Ivy Loveless, and the Associate Conductress, Mrs. Janet Hamilton, whom they were welcomed by Worthy Matron, Miss Joane Stephenson and Worthy Patron, Keith Elliott.

A unique feature of the evening was that the degree work for the initiation of a new member into the Order was put on by the Presiding Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons of the District, who came from — Peterborough, Havelock, Marmora, Madoc, Napanee, Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne, Trenton, Warkworth, Picton, Wellington, Ameliasburgh, Belleville, and Oakville.

After the buffalo was over presentations of honorary memberships into the Chapter were given. The membership to the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Peggy Murphy was made by Miss Joane Stephenson, WM; to the Worthy Patron, George Pike by Keith Elliott, WP; to Past Grand Matron, Mrs. Agnes Young, by Mrs. Luella Brickman, PDDGM.

The Worthy Matron presented an Estart award of $200 to the Worthy Grand Matron from the Chapter to assist a student Minister; and also a donation for the Worthy Grand Matron's project of assisting a Scout Cub Pack.

The Associate Matron, Mrs. Laura Simpson made a novel presentation to the Worthy Grand Matron, of a crown and sceptre on a white satin cushion to which was attached a fan of crisp $5 bills. The presentation was made with an appropriate verse. A presentation was also made to the Worthy Grand Patron by the Associate Patron of the Chapter, Harold Bankier.

Brief addresses were given by several of the distinguished guests. The Chapter closed, and a buffet lunch and social hour was enjoyed.

Wife Put in A False Position

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My husband makes dirty jokes about our sexual relations to all our friends. He claims it makes them laugh and so is funny. He brags about this and how I expect more sex than he can give, hooping him from his work. How untrue this is!

I have got to the point where I hate myself for wanting sex with him. When we are alone he wants me, too, but do our friends need to know everything?

Arising from this, one or two of our friends want to get fresh with me whenever I'm alone with them. My husband knows this but he still goes on making his off-color jokes. — Put In False Position.

Dear Put: I have reproduced only part of your letter and even that much shows it is your husband who has a fixation about sex — not you. He doesn't know how fortunate he is to have a responsive partner; nor does he realize how sacred and intimate this part of your love expression should be kept.

Perhaps in his early life he felt himself rejected; and now he is going overboard because he has found a woman who wants him — his wife! He is not honoring you enough.

Dear Doris: My husband and I owned a mobile home in the south but he passed away before Christmas and I could not go there for some time. A neighbor asked if she and her brother could stay in my home until I came and I agreed.

The two couples spent 10 days in my home. When I arrived and they left I froze to my chair after my sheeting me $20. These hoshes in the park are rented for $18 per day x 2 = $36.

I feel like taking the $20 back to her and thanking her for the insult, but my daughter said she wouldn't even look at anyone as small as she. — Bothered.

Dear Bothered: You have been had — but is it worth the stress it has put on you all winter?

Right now you are lonely, depressed, in need of new friends. See what you can do about picking yourself up by your own bootstraps — and you and your precious peace of mind.

Dear Doris: How pleased we are when you mention any of our projects!

Our "Handy-Bag" project is a most interesting one, for people wanting to work in their own homes — Canadian Save The Children Fund.

Dear LOVE: More power to you! I understand the Handy-Bag or Ditty-Bag is approximately 10 by 13 inches with a drawstring. Contains things like a toothbrush, pencil, small hand games, skipping rope, and a dozen other items.

Sometimes the Handy-Bag is the only gift a child receives on either his birthday or Christmas. Readers may get the Information Sheet about how to make up and send one or more — by writing to The Canadian Save The Children Fund, 56 Hayter Street, Toronto 101, Canada.

(If something is troubling you, I'm here to help to be had. Write to Doris.)

Additional Suggestions To Break Up Marriage

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed eight suggestions for how to break up the marriage of a son or daughter. I would like to add two more. These are guaranteed to work. I know because they destroyed my marriage. Here they are:

1. Whenever your married son and daughter visit with their children, make a point of how thin and tired the kids look. Get across the message that you don't have a very high opinion of the way your beloved grandchildren are being cared for.

Intimate that the mother's neglect is detrimental to the health of the youngsters. Ask repeatedly what they eat and why it is that they have so many colds. If the kid breaks a tooth or is injured during play, get all the details and place the blame on lack of supervision.

2. If your son has a button off his shirt or if his shirt is ironed as well as you used to do it when he lived at home, say something. Also mention the hole in his sock or the spot on his coat. It will fan the flame of self-pity and it could start the final fight that ends in the divorce court.

I hope you will reprint the original eight rules along with the two additional suggestions as a refresher course for in-laws. The divorce lawyers from coast to coast are sure to profit from a reruns. Thank you. — It Happened In New Mexico

Dear N. Mex.: Thank you for two splendid additions to the original eight ways to break up a marriage. For those who didn't see the first eight, here they are:

1. When a daughter-or son lets your know he plans to be married, show open hostility to the person of his choice. After all, marriage means less love and attention for parents and they have a right to resent it.

2. Expect your married children to spend every Sunday and holiday at your home. Act hurt if they have other plans.

3. If your married children have problems with their mates, encourage them to come home, no matter what. Listen attentively to all complaints and point out additional faults which may have gone undetected. Remember, a drop of water at a time can wear away a rock if you keep at it long enough.

4. If your married children are having financial problems, rush in with the cheque book. If you are having financial problems yourself, borrow if necessary but let them know they'll never have to do without anything so long as you are around.

5. If a married child has a drinking problem, keep telling him his mate drove him to it. It will make him feel better. Everyone needs someone to blame.

6. If your married child gets an opportunity for advancement which takes him to another city, tell him family is more important than money and if he leaves, God will punish him for not obeying the commandment, "Honour thy father and thy mother."

7. If there are grandchildren, smother them with gifts. If the parents object, tell them to keep out of it. After all, grandchildren are to spoil. Sneak money to the kids secretly if you have to. You love your kids.

8. If your married child has a lifelong history of misery with his mate, get into the act and give them both a sample of your wisdom born of years of experience. What do they know? You've lived! If you talk loud enough, maybe you can turn a minor argument into a major hassle and break up the marriage.

Confidential to Friendly Al: Don't stop being so "friendly" or you'll wind up paying her bills again. Dummy.

ASSOC. PROBLEMS

RIO HORIZONTE, Brazil (AP) — Police investigator Francisco Grossi plans to register the city's estimated 10,000 prostitutes to give authorities a clearer picture of the profession's problems. He says the prostitutes, whom he prefers to call "waterlines," will be able to enroll in government health and literacy programs.

New Role For Volunteers

TORONTO (CP) — A new role is being created for volunteers in community life, Gertrude Wilshire, president of the Ontario Council of Women, said Wednesday.

She said that traditional job opportunities are becoming scarce but there is an increasing need for volunteers in such services as drop-in centres, half-way houses, outpatient hostels, community cablevision and co-op day care.

"We have a bumper crop of young men and women who in a decade will be on the downward side of the hill toward being a bumper-crop of senior citizens.

"There is no indication that we will ever be work in the old-fashioned sense for all of them. Therefore it seems unreasonable to look at resigning our resources to take advantage of expanding situations such as volunteer work."

Mrs. Wilshire, who also is a member of the City of Ottawa planning board was advessing at a meeting of the provincial conference of women here.

She suggested public funds be allotted to organizations that create healthy communities.

"Most work done by volunteers is essential and much of it otherwise would become a charge directly or indirectly on public funds."

She also urged various facilities be made available to volunteer workers such as the Manpower retraining programs.

CLERICAL ERROR

PETERBOROUGH, Eng. — Lord (CP) — Joyce Lough got a letter from a local hospital asking her to report for an operation she had three years ago. A clerical error, explained the hospital.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Should a girl drop a reluctant beau?

YES: If the man is reluctant about marrying, and the girl is seriously concerned about getting a husband. Even if she heeds him, the girl may wonder if the struggle was worthwhile. If she does, the girl may wonder if the struggle was worthwhile. If she has the truly loves the man, though, the girl might give the romance a little more time. Perhaps he is battling a personality or emotional problem and their love will give him the confidence and the desire to overcome it.

Can a tiny child be too smart?

PERHAPS for his own good and for the special "burden" his high IQ puts on his parents, a little child might indeed be too smart for his own good. His mental and father, for instance, might expect him to behave better than he does. Unfortunately, in such cases, the parents seem to think that their child's exceptional intelligence means that he can think like an adult and therefore should be able to act like one.

Is it best to meet anger with anger?

NO. In fact when someone is angry that might be a chance to make him a friend. As Dr. James C. Coleman says in "Personality Dynamics and Effective Behavior" (Scott, Foresman and Company), "If we can see another person's anger, especially when it is directed at us, as a problem for him rather than as a threat to us, we can often make the response that will lessen his tension and thus make a better relationship possible."

Pension Changes Sent to Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to raise old age pensions was hustled off to committee by the Commons Friday increasing prospects of 1.8 million Canadians getting bigger government cheques as early as next month.

"Political heroics," charged Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin (Peace River). "Exploiting the plight" of old people, said his counterpart for the New Democrats, Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre). Too little for too few, complained Rene Matte (Gaspe Champlain).

But all parties agreed to send the bill to the Commons welfare committee for detailed study, paving the way for enactment possibly by next week.

Mr. Knowles, Rae Harding (NDP—Kootenay West) and Lorne Nystrom (NDP—York-Peel-Medicine Hat) said the pension should be based on $150 a month rather than the current $90.

Veterans' Benefits May Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Disabled veterans and dependents receiving pensions may stand to gain more in the near future than the increased benefits announced in Monday's budget, Veterans Affairs Minister Arthur Laing said Friday.

Opening debate on a bill to increase allowances by the annual increase in the cost of living, Mr. Laing said the government is carefully studying whether the base rate for current pensions is high enough.

He assured the House that the base rate for pension and proposed yearly adjustments for veterans and dependents are "two different things."

Mr. Laing also gave assurances that the government would be seeking authority to make sure the increases would not be treated as income if the veterans and dependents are over 65 and qualify for old age pension increases as well.

Pensions should be linked to the growth in a country's living standard, not just the cost of living.

Proposed increases would just allow pensioners to maintain the same standard of living they had when they retire, Mr. Knowles said.

It was inhuman and uncivilized to tell old people they would not share in improved living standards along with the rest of the country.

Mr. Harding and Mr. Nystrom said the pensionable age should be lowered to 60 from 65, to entail earlier retirement and more jobs for younger workers.

Mr. Matte and Henri Letarte (Bras (SC—Compton) reiterated party philosophy that a guaranteed income for all should replace current social security programs.

Bombs Explode

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Bombs exploded at a police building in Munich and Augsburg Friday as authorities investigated the blasts at a U.S. Army headquarters compound in Frankfurt that killed an American officer and injured 12 persons Thursday.

May Study Fees

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon suggested Friday that the provincial government form a committee to hear submissions from the medical profession concerning fee increases.

Women in FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation changed its male-only policy Friday to let women apply to become special agents.

Break Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — An education professor told a Conference on Learning in the Seventies Friday that there should be no difference in teaching qualifications between elementary and secondary schools.

Prof. Paul Park of the Arbour College of Education at London, Ont., said the present complete break between elementary and secondary schools can create difficulties when students attempt to transfer from one to the other.

Parley Sought

TORONTO (CP) — Manufacturers and retailers of child carseats and harnesses have asked for a meeting with the federal department of consumer and corporate affairs.

They want clarification of new regulations covering car safety restraints for children and add additional time to get old models off the market and new ones on.

Cadets Guilty

KINGSTON (CP) — Four officer cadets at Royal Military College have been found guilty of possession of narcotics.

The cadets were given reprimands and fined. A fifth cadet was found not guilty and charges against a sixth are still to be disposed of.

Speed Rules

OTTAWA (CP) — After September 1, any physician wishing to prescribe amphetamines for a period exceeding 30 days will be required to notify the health department and have his diagnosis confirmed by an independent medical consultant.

Health Boards Will Remain

TORONTO (CP) — Proposals to create health councils throughout Ontario won't abolish local medical health boards, Health Minister Richard Potter said Friday.

Dr. Potter, replying in the legislature to Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, said the boards still will be required to operate hospitals.

He said the proposal is to have councils that can plan research and be responsible for the total health needs of a community, ranging from nursing care to mental health and home-care services.

Mr. Nixon expressed fears that the proposal will put medical health officers out of work.

Wrong Labels

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario department of health has warned hospitals to check for mislabelled drug vials that could cause death in seriously ill patients.

Some single-dose vials marketed by one manufacturer as sterile water were found to contain two cubic centimetres of potassium chloride.

Germa Says INCO Easily Hides Fumes

TORONTO (CP) — Bud Germa (NDP—Sudbury) said Friday International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. needs only 15 minutes' notice to rid its Sudbury smelter of sulphur dioxide pollution before the arrival of visiting dignitaries.

Mr. Germa, a former worker at the smelter, castigated Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier in the legislature for saying Inco received no warning when the minister or other government officials visit the plant on an inspection.

"You have not seen it as it is right now, or as the men know it." Mr. Germa said during committee study of Mr. Bernier's department estimates.

"Because in 15 minutes it is possible to clean that place out, and as long as they see you coming in your black car, they can be prepared for you, and they can get the 301 out of the building."

Mr. Gygusa said no government inspector has ever seen "actual conditions" at the plant.

"There are 1,000 men in there right today choking and gagging and I wonder who is responsible."

"I've often wondered who was the man I was cursing as I was dying in that smelter, and now I come here and I look him in the eye, and I am surprised to see what I have."

Pointing at the minister, Mr. Germa said:

"You are responsible for the situation as it exists today."

Mr. Bernier said his department has had pollution monitors at Inco for more than a year and is aware of conditions at the plant.

Woman Choked

TORONTO (CP) — Police were seeking a man in connection with the strangulation death of a 32-year-old Scarborough housewife. The body of Sheila Price was found Friday afternoon by a resident of the house. Police were looking for a man who visited the home on Thursday.

Tennis Defection Could Cause Canadian Team Early Exit

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mike Belkin, playing captain of Canada's Davis Cup tennis team, said after the first day of play Friday in the North American Davis Cup challenge round against Mexico that the departure of Peter Burwash from the team may cost Canada a chance to win.

Burwash, the 26-year-old Brockville, Ont., player, quit the Canadian team in a huff Wednesday after being informed he wasn't playing the singles matches.

Instead, Belkin chose Tony Barckley, 27, of Vancouver, as the singles player, along with himself.

If the scores in the same as last year's, in which Mexico took a 3-2 victory in the best-of-five series, Burwash's flight may mean defeat.

It all hinges on the doubles competition, which gets under way today at 2 .m. EDT.

"I haven't played with either Tony or Dale Power, our other team member," Belkin said, "so it's going to be tough to beat the Mexicans, who are good in doubles."

Belkin took the opening singles by banging on in defeat Joaquin Lope Mayo 8-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-8, 7-5.

"Let's face it, we're in a lot of trouble," the 35-year-old Belkin said.

"I'm pretty damn mad at Peter and I certainly hope something is done about it.

"I'm tired now and I don't know if I can last out the three days, It's going to be very tough."

Last year, Belkin's two victories in the singles were all Canada could manage.

Neither the Mexicans nor the Canadians have named their doubles team. They have until one hour before the match to make their choice.

If Canada loses the doubles, the outcome of the round would depend on whether Belkin and Barckley can come through to defeat Ramirez and Lopo Mayo on Sunday's singles matches. The round will face the defending Davis Cup champion United States' team.

In Friday's matches, Ramirez showed why he is Mexico's hope for the future.

He played a non-stop retrieving game against the hard-hitting Barckley, pounding crisp volleys with well-placed passing shots for the win, which featured two players in their first Davis Cup games.

Belkin, who was informed shortly before the match that his grandfather had died in Montreal, overwhelmed Leyo Mayo in the opening two sets but tired badly before banging on for the victory.

"I was really upset when I heard of my grandfather's death," Belkin said. "I cried for some time before the match and thought about leaving and going to Montreal. It certainly affected me."

Belkin was hampered by leg cramps in the final three sets before changing his strategy to pull out the victory.

Both today's doubles and Sunday's two singles matches, which begin at 2 p.m. EST, will be televised nationally by the CBC.

Royals Make Memorial Final By Blanking Edmonton 5-0

OTTAWA (CP) — Cornwall Royals and Peterborough Petes play Sunday night in a memorial hockey game for the Memorial Cup. It's the first time either city has gone this far in the running for the Canadian junior hockey championship.

Royals made their way into the final Friday night in convincing fashion, blanking Edmonton Oil Kings 5-0 before 8,408 fans. From the noise in the Civic Centre, most of them were Royal supporters.

Petes earned their place into the final earlier in the first-ever round-robin series in the junior category put on by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Peterborough dumped the Royals 4-2 Monday and beat the Oil Kings 6-4 Wednesday.

Edmonton general manager Bill Hunter, who screened both Wednesday when illegal-stick penalties played a part in his team's loss, said Cornwall "brad us on the ice."

"We were outplayed," Hunter admitted.

Orval Tessier, Cornwall's coach, said the win was the result "of a 200-per-cent effort from every player."

"And we'll need the same effort against Peterborough," said Tessier.

A perfect note was an eye injury to defenceman Keith Magnuson who apparently was struck in the face with the puck. It is believed that a contact lens he was wearing was shattered. He was taken to Ottawa General Hospital.

Oil Kings once again displayed poor shooting from the goalmouth Friday. While their skating was much-improved over Wednesday, they were inclined to take too many plays while deep in Cornwall territory, giving Royals the chance to break up their more threatening scoring attempts.

Edmonton was called for nine minor penalties and twice the Royals cashed in their man advantage. The Royals took seven minors and guarded well.

At the 17:18 mark, with his club down 3-0, Edmonton coach Brian Shaw removed goalie John Davidson for an extra attacker.

The move backfired twice and Davidson was in the nets when the game ended.

The Royals took a 3-0 lead in the first on a power-play goal by Dave Johnson. King defenceman Tom Bladen was serving an elbowing penalty at the time.

Less than a minute later Gary McGregor scored Cornwall's second goal, using a team-mate as a decoy in a two-on-one break.

Early in the third period, Edmonton's Brian Ogilvie took a hooking penalty and Garry Temple sent the Oil Kings' hopes with his power-play goals.

Tessier Wants Hitting

OTTAWA (CP) — Orval Tessier, Cornwall Royals coach, says that to win the Memorial Cup his team must skate hard and hit even harder.

The Royals, Quebec Junior A Hockey League representatives in the Memorial Cup playoffs, advanced to the final game of the round-robin competition Friday by defeating Edmonton Oil Kings 5-0.

The Royals will oppose Peterborough Petes, Ontario champions, in Sunday's deciding game for the Canadian junior hockey crown.

"We have to take control of the game early," said Tessier. "We have to come out skating and hitting."

He said his team "is a smooth, freeflow" than Peterborough and that having an extra line will help the Royals over the long haul in the game. Peterborough has three regular lines and Cornwall four.

Tessier gave credit to goalie Richard Brodeur for the win. Brodeur played a brilliant game, turning aside all 40 Edmonton shots to earn the only shutout of the series.

Jacques Plante, coach of the Peterborough team, said after the Cornwall-Edmonton contest that he felt the Royals "played a good solid playoff hockey."

"They handled Edmonton a lot easier than we did . . . it's going to be a great final game."

Barrie Rebounds to Tie Series on Canadian Ice

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP) — "It was just like old home week," Darryl Sly, playing coach of Barrie Flyers, said Friday night after his team responded to a return to Canadian ice with a 4-1 victory over Spokane Jets.

The win was the second straight for the Flyers and tied the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship and Allan Cup at two games each.

Spokane had taken the first two games on their ice, 3-0 and 8-3, and Barrie had turned to closer checking to take the third game 4-2 Tuesday, also in the Washington State city.

A long-standing commitment at the Spokane Coliseum made the ice unavailable until Monday, so games were scheduled Friday night and tonight in the much smaller rink here.

On hand for Friday's fray were 1,285 fans, many of them Jets' supporters who had travelled from Spokane, but almost an equal amount were British Columbians, backing the Ontario entry.

"All in all," Sly said, "coming back to Canada was just like playing at home again."

He forecast another Flyers victory tonight "without changing our style of play."

John McMillan, fourth place finisher in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A scoring race this season, led the Flyers with two goals, one of them unassisted.

Team captain Corby Adams, a former member of Canada's national team, and Pete Panagabko got the other Barrie markers.

Counting the lone Spokane goal was Ron Huston, who was with Calgary's Allan Cup finalists last season, and shared the Western International Hockey League scoring championship this year.

The Flyers jumped into an early lead with a goal from Adams at 9:47, and reinforced it less than six minutes later with McMillan's first.

Spokane's goal came late in the first period.

McMillan scored again for Barrie midway through the third and Panagabko shot into an empty net with eleven seconds remaining.

Spokane goalie Russ Gillow had been pulled with 1½ minutes to play for Panagabko's broke through the Jet's defence.

The sixth and deciding match, if necessary, will be played in Spokane Monday and Wednesday.

Pacers Jump Into Lead

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Burly George McGinnis fired in 30 points and grabbed 20 rebounds as Indiana Pacers raced to a 116-108 victory over New York Nets Friday and took a 2-1 lead in their American Basketball Association championship series.

An ABA playoff-record crowd of 15,341 watched the Pacers regain the home-court advantage they had lost by splitting the first two games of the best-of-seven series in Indiana. Game four will be played Monday night here at the Nassau Coliseum.

The standout performance by McGinnis, six-foot-nine rookie, enabled the Pacers to overcome a 64-point effort by the Nets' Rick Barry.

"I know how you feel, dear. The thread on my sewing machine is always breaking, too!"

Sport Briefs

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference Friday announced signing Roy Bell, 22, a halfback from Oklahoma Sooners. The 5-foot-11-inch, 195-pound Bell was the ninth-round draft choice of Dallas Cowboys.

Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., and Jane Blalock of Cape Cod, Mass., tied for second place in the 54-hole tournament at the Brookside Country Club course. Sandra Post Elliott, formerly of Oakville, had a 71.

"Let's play a slow, friendly game with Cavendish. We look terrible together!"

Woman Driver Popular Behind 50-1 Winner

TORONTO (CP) — Pegasus-metka, a 50-1 chance, was first across the line in the sixth race at Greenwood Raceway Friday night and combined with 11-1 pick Nobie Alvin for an exactor worth $605.50.

The five-year-old trotter, driven by Retta Herrington, the lone woman driver in the Greenwood meeting, paid $105.90, $29.90 and $30 for the win—his second in eight outings this year.

Two hocky exactor players collected $4,003 for $10 tickets, two others held $5 tickets worth $2,001 each and 32 customers held $1 tickets.

Everybody Hits McLain

Orioles Have Hitting Shortage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Orioles and Oakland pitcher Denny McLain have a hitting problem. The problem is that the Orioles aren't hitting anybody and everybody's hitting Denny.

The Orioles did manage six hits Friday night, which matched the total of their two previous games, but bowed to Chicago White Sox and Wilbur Wood 4-3.

The Athletics got McLain off the hook after the former 30-per-star was rapped for four runs in the second inning by Boston, including home runs on Rick Miller and Tommy Harper.

It said in the paper that Gerald Ford is becoming a candidate

Weird Warmups Pay Off

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A fishing pole, a beer can and a deck of cards served as the instruments of preparation in Jerry Heard's success that $135,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

Dave Stockton prepared himself with a California bass for grabbits, explained.

Their methods, however unorthodox, reaped dividends. They shared a one-shot lead today going into the third round of the tournament, five under par on the treacherous par-70 Trinity River layout.

"I hadn't played in five or six days and I really didn't know how I was going to do here," said Heard, who turned 25 during his unusual preparation for the tournament.

"All I did was fish, drink beer and play cards—I just fiddled!"

Armed with a .22 caliber pistol, Stockton said he pursued his quarry through the hills of northern California, but admitted: "I'm not a real threat to then anyway . . . I couldn't hit the side of the barn."

Heard lacked a four-under-par 66 on to an opening 69 while Stockton strung a 68 to a 67 for the 135 total and a stroke edge over Fred Marti and Lee Elder.

Marti, co-leader, with Bruce Crampton at the end of 18 holes, matched par after an opening 69 and shared second with Elder, who floundered in a trap at the final hole, wound up with a 74 and then confessed:

"My wife told me if I didn't win some money she was going to take me off the tour and get me a job."

Phil Rodgers' 69 left him two shots back at 137 while rookie Len Thompson and veteran Dave Marr were the remaining sub-par players in the field at 202 with a 36-hole total of 139 each.

Crampton limped in with a 74 to join Bruce Devlin, Harold Johnston, Bert Greene and Bobby Nichols at 140.

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 72 for a 143 total and Will Homenoff of Winnipeg carded a 73 for 144.

Gomez Blames Birds

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Jockey Avelino Gomez's riding comeback has been punctuated with collisions with racing stewards and Canada geese.

Gomez, who withdrew his appeal of a 15-day suspension by stewards Friday, found himself in the midst of another disqualification which, he said, was caused by the birds.

A number of ducks and geese reside in the infield lakes at the picturesque Fort Erie racetrack and Gomes said strolling ducks caused his mount Eaglite to veer and interfere with Don Costume in the ninth race.

"The ducks did it," snapped Gomez later. "My horse tried to get out when he saw them."

The stewards say the ducks and geese are a natural hazard at this track and placed Son Costume first and favored Eaglite second.

Son Costume paid $5.80, $2.80 and $2.50.

Three weeks ago Gomez was riding Symmetric when a Canada goose flew into the colt's chest and Gomez had to bang on light to gain a victory.

Gomez, who had been held blameless in three previous riding incidents since beginning his comeback April 12, said the day suspension was the possibility he could lose his Queen's Plate mount at a crucial time.

Savonnette won the featured sixth race Friday, going the six furlongs in 1:08 3/5. The three-year-old filly paid $11.20, $5.50 and $2.60.

Title Searcher and Castle Mey combined for a daily double of $33.80.

The fourth-race exactor of Little Bandido and Dear Devil paid $14 and the sixth-race exactor of Savonnette and Lee Cart Exacta paid $40.50. The ninth-race exactor of Eqalite and Son Costume paid $14.20.

Expo Attendance Indicates Support

MONTREAL (CP) — The romance, which began in 1969 between this city's baseball fans and Montreal Expos, appears to have wedded itself into a solid, happy marriage , more than three seasons later.

The cold threats of separation or divorce, apparent earlier this year when the National League club traded hogue-loyes favorite Rusty Staub to New York Mets, have disappeared.

Staub, who owned right field in the small, intimate surroundings of 29,000-seat Jarry Park for three full seasons, was exchanged April 6 for a trio of New York irregulars—shortstop Tim Foli, first baseman Mike Jorgensen and Ken Singleton, a switch-hitting outfielder.

More than a month later, protest over the departure of Staub —dubbed Le Grand Orange by partisan French-Canadian fans —has subsided.

"There apparently is total acceptance by the fans here now," Jim Fanning, general manager of the Expos, explains. "Initially, we had some letters—most of them unfavorable—to deal—and a number of phone calls to our publicity department."

Whatever adverse reaction was around at the time of the deal hasn't stuck around to haunt the club at the box office.

After its first 10 home dates, and despite cool and windy nights in early May, the club attracted 164,625 fans, 15,973 more than for the same number of games last season.

Fanning said the club gets more enthusiastic "as our deals every time we look at it."

"I found this in your locker. Why not try it instead of the ball?"

Mets Nip Giants Without Willie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We want Willie! We want Willie!" the fans chanted in San Francisco.

Willie Mays was making his debut Friday night in a New York Met uniform. But No. 24 gave the chanting fans and his staff ageinst his former team, San Francisco Giants, much to the dismay of the fans who thronged Shea Stadium hoping to get a glimpse of their newest hero.

It would have been perfect for baseball's hap right-handed home-run hitter to step to the plate and crash his 647th over the wall.

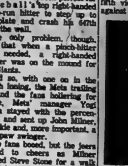
Willie Say problem, though, was that when a pinch-hitter was needed, a right-handed pitcher was on the mound for the Giants.

And so, with one on in the eighth inning, the Mets trailing 1-0 and the fans hollering for Willie, Mets' manager Yogi Berra signed with the percentages and sent up John Milner, a rookie and, more important, a southpaw swinger.

The fans booed, but the fans turned to cheers as Milner worked Steve Stone for a walk and later came home with the tying run on Ken Boswell's double that knocked out the San Francisco starter.

The cheers continued in the ninth as the Mets loaded the bases with one out against reliever Jerry Johnson and Jerry Grote singled up the middle to give the Mets a 2-1 victory.

It was the eighth straight National League games. Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Philadelphia, Phillies 6-1, San Diego Padres beat Montreal Expos 5-3, Houston Astros 5-4, Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2, Chicago Cubs blanked Atlanta Braves 2-0 and Cincinnati Reds edged St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.



"It's great for the kid," Mays said of Milner, who had to leave the stands at the crowd. "But it didn't seem to bother him. And Yogi probably did the right thing by letting the kid bat."

Berra stuck by his strategy, one he'll probably stick with the rest of the season.

"If it's a left-handed pitcher, I use Milner," he said with a nod toward Willie. "I don't let the speed make decisions for me."

Unbeaten Don Sutton finally gave up a run—he'd gone 21 innings before—but the Dodgers cared less.

"As long as we had five more than they did, I wasn't worried a bout that run," said the Dodger ace, who chalked up his fifth victory with a four-hitter against the Phillies.

WILLIE MAYS

Frank Robinson gave him the backing he needed with a three-run homer in the fifth inning and Bill Russell added a solo shot.

"These young kids keep pulling together like this," manager Don Zimmer said of his Padres, "and they might shake up the West Division a bit."

San Diego has done some shaking already by winning six of eight games. "These kids are all hitting. Nate Colbert and Larry Lee are a threat to bad Enzo Hernandez, Dave Campbell or Jerry Thomas—everybody's getting wood on the ball."

Lee did it against the Expos with a three-run homer. Campbell and Dave Roberts also delivered runs with singles. Mike Caldwell scattered a two-run homer for Montreal.

Coach, Pupil See Olympics Differently

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Apollo Barbell Coach Ken Carr-Brakel and his prize pupil at Canadian Heavyweight Weightlifting Champion Price Morris — disagree about their objectives. But they're working towards it just the same.

Carr-Brakel, who will be accompanying seven club members this week to the Canadian Weightlifting Championships in St. John's, Newfoundland, has a surprising contention to make.

"I don't really like the Olympics. They can be too discouraging for a boy. I've seen them come back after Olympics knowing for they are behind other athletes in the world and never compete again.

"I'm more in favor of competitions like the Commonwealth and Pan-Am Games where Canada has produced some champions," the outspoken city sportsman stressed, noting that no Canadian has ever won an Olympic weightlifting title, and only one — Doug Hepburn in 1953 — ever won a world championship.

In the Apollo Club's 25-year city existence, only one member has ever competed in the Olympic Games.

Middle - heavyweight John Lewis finished ninth in the 1964 Tokyo Games.

Olympic qualifying standards are so high that this year's Canadian contingent to the Munich Games could include no more than three weightlifters, Carr - Brakel predicts.

Despite his negative feelings about the Olympics, Carr-Brakel proudly concedes two of those three Canadian weightlifters could be members of his club.

Four - time Canadian 242-pound champion Price Morris, Commonwealth and Pan-Am games bronze medallist, made his Olympic standard at last month's Ontario championships, which still stand in his favor if he fails to do so at next weekend's Canadian meet.

And rapidly improving 23-year-old Gary Walt hoisted a 1,040 - pound three - lift total in training Wednesday night, only seven pounds below the Olympic standard.

Morris regards his virtually-assured trip to Munich this summer (he's the only Canadian weightlifter to make Olympic standard) - as the highlight of his weightlifting career.

"It's something I've always wanted to do — compete in the Olympics" the stocky 26-year-old repeated when asked why his goal is competing in an event in which his chances of finishing in the world's top ten are remote.

"I'm not doing it for what my country has done to help me, that's for sure," added Morris, who has protested financial restraints placed on amateur athletes.

He and the other six Apollo Club members, for example, must come up with half their air fare to compete in the Canadian Championships.

Morris hinted at retirement after competing at Munich, and devoting his efforts to helping coach, close friend and training mate Gary Walt.

In fact, with his position as a Canadian team member to Munich sewn up, Morris says he will compete as a middleheavyweight at the Canadian championships to crest a possible spending for his teammate to make the Olympic squad.

Joining the two heavyweights on Saturday's quest for Canadian senior titles will be middleweight Art Wall, last year's national junior and light-heavyweight champion; brother Bob, who will be competing in the 242-pound class; Ontario middleweight champion Paul Barrett; and Ontario featherweight champion Ron Hayes and middleweight Ross Evans, who have qualified for Friday's intermediate championships.

"We've qualified more lifters than any other club in the country for the Canadian championships", noted coach Carr-Brakel, pointing out that the seven Apollo entries in both competitions will represent about half the total number who qualified from Ontario.

Carr-Brakel estimated his club had qualified more than 50 entries for Canadian Weightlifting championships in its 25-year history.

"That may not sound like a lot, but for the first 19 years or so we didn't really do anything so you can see how interesting the average." noted the coach.

Travelling Heavy

Mays Tags One

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays faced the first four pitches before he tagged a soft line drive to centrefield. An outfielder flubbed it and the ball and stabbed it.

Mays fled to right, fouled one off, singled to right and then hit his first home run. The ball sailed over the 371-foot mark in left-centre field at Shea Stadium.

It was only batting practice, but it was Willie Mays's first batting practice Friday night as a New York Met, so it was something special.

"He'll be good, you'll see," said outfielder Dave Marshall, sitting near the batting cage and watching Mays take his cuts. "He's happy. You can see he's happy. This is great for him, being in New York."

If Mays was happy, then so were his new team-mates. They all chatted animatedly with the 41-year-old super-star acquired in a trade with San Francisco Thursday.

"You were my hero when I was younger," said coach Joe Pignatano, pointing a bat at Mays and laughing. "My father used to take me to see you play."

Mays's eyes lit up and he broke into a wide grin.

"He was always my hero."

BCI Nets Lacrosse Crown

Belleville Collegiate wrapped up the Bay of Quinte high school lacrosse title Friday with a 3-1 win over second-place Moira Secondary.

Andy Ricketts, Bob Pope, and Kevin Dockrill scored for the title winners, while outstanding goaltending from Pete Cox.

The teams played through a scoreless first period, but two unanswered second period goals by the Collegians paved the way to their win.

said centre-fielder Tommie Agee. "I once played against him in an all-star game in St. Louis and I was excited just being around him. When I went out to play my position in Wednesday I was just about where he stood the inning before and tried to imitate how he'd play centrefield."

Lakers Take Dunking

BRANTFORD (CP) — Paul Suggate scored four goals to pace Brantford Warriors to a 15-11 National Lacrosse League victory over Peterborough Lakers Friday before 1,200 fans.

Environmental Law Approved By Nova Scotia Legislature

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tough environmental law that a former premier of Nova Scotia said might produce layoffs in pulpmills, close all sawmills, stop every farmer if too strictly enforced, received provisional approval in the legislature Friday.

"The minister by a stroke of a pen can put a $1 million industry into bankruptcy and the industry has no recourse to appeal," said former premier G. I. Smith (PC—Colchester) before he was attacked by two amendments in committee-of-the-whole.

The house also received a commitment that a select committee of the legislature would study the bill and its regulations and produce amendments before the measure is enacted, probably next spring.

Mines Minister Glen Bagnell, expected to become the new environment minister, suggested allowing appeals to a county judge on environmental decisions and inclusion in the environmental council of a representative of the forestry industry.

Mr. Smith had pointed out that decisions of the minister could only be appealed to him.

Steelmen Want Canada Exempted from Tariff

OTTAWA (CP) — A top U.S. labor leader said Friday his union will recommend that protectionist tariff legislation now before Congress should not apply to U.S.-Canadian trade.

Iorwith Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America, sought at a news conference to placate Canadian officials concerned about the strong support organized labor in the U.S. has given the protectionist Hartke-Burke bill.

He said labor is far from giving a blanket endorsement to the bill as it now is drafted.

Mr. Abel said the Steelworkers, with 128,000 members in Canada, will recommend to the AFL-CIO that it press Congress to exempt Canadian exports from the increased tariff charges.

He agreed that wage settlements in the U.S. steel industry may have been a trigger for the short-term protectionist measures announced last Aug. 15 by U.S. President Nixon.

"Some people argue that we're pricing ourselves out of the market.

"We say that the need is to increase the (wage) standards in other countries."

Imports from Canada, he said, suggest that wages are not the key factor in the competitive steel market.

Canadian steel accounted for 1.5-million tons of the total of 18.3-million tons of steel imported by the U.S. last year.

Yet wages in the Canadian steel industry were higher than in the U.S. for most of the year, he said.

Mr. Abel, here for the union's Canadian national policy conference, was given a demonstration of continental solidarity that overwhelmed the few voices raised in favor of nationalism.

Only four of more than 350 delegates at the conference voted for a resolution to break away from the giant international union to create a new United Steelworkers of Canada.

Introducing Mr. Abel after the vote, William Mahoney, Canadian director of the union, told delegates he had arranged for the resolution to be "buried first so that the president could hear the views expressed."

But once aroused, the union's silent giant was not to be forced so easily even though Mr. Abel's speech dealt plainly and at some length with the matter of autonomy for the Canadian branch of the union.

Mr. Abel was interrupted at one point when outsiders appeared at the door of the convention ballroom to hurl "an embarrassing question about a Steelworkers' local in Hamilton that has been clapped into trusteeship by the union following an attempted breakaway.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, May 14

Aries (March 21-April 19): Think up something that picks up neglected hobbies and the like and gets you of the way of people who have nothing much to do.

Taurus (April 20-May 2): Family, home, health care should fill your day. Take the time to express your faith and concern in the local community. Evening parties wind up fairly early.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Visits, expressions of your deeper feelings are of them. Current events are to be long remembered. Some of them never to be repeated.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Secret connections come to general notice, with less surprise than anticipated. Find a way to share your strength and faith with others.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Romantic interests threads all through this busy Sunday with its great traditions and opportunities for floral expression. Get an early start.

To Your Good Health

Sex Life Is Ended

By G. C. THORESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thoreson: I have a hardly know where to begin. I very personal question and am 38, my husband 40. We have been married 20 years.

The problem is; and this is very hard to talk about, all at once my husband just changed. He never touches me! I don't believe there is anyone else involved. He just says he can't and doesn't understand why himself.

He had a slight heart attack in 1966 and a bypass was done once in a while. Then I believed it must be the medicine and the doctor, but he hasn't taken medicine in over a year now.

I am terribly frustrated and wondering if there is something physical. If so, I think my husband should he go to for help?

I've asked him to go to a doctor but he says he will one of these days, but so far he hasn't. He cooks, does odd chores and empties that would be just what he needs.—Mrs. B.S.M.

You aren't alone. Others have the same problem you are having, and around the same a.k., and sometimes younger, and sometimes older.

Some of the common causes are fear, fatigue, anxiety and loss of self-confidence, the grind of day-to-day living the saps emotional energy as well as physical—and lack of sound sleep is the long pattern of both bills and work. It is true that some physical illness can be involved, but that usually shows up in other ways.

In short, the emotional aspects, by and large, are vastly more important than physical ones.

Without knowing your husband, or ever having examined him, I have to do a good deal of guessing but can it be that after his heart attack he began to worry about conserving his strength? That wouldn't be unreasonable, would it?

And the longer he worries, the more his self-doubts be has, the less he is able to make love. And the longer he doesn't, the more sure he becomes that he can't.

So far as I can think he should go back to his doctor and the longer he postpones it the harder the task—and just get himself checked over. I'll bet you'll find the direct question, whether there is any reason he shouldn't engage in sex now.

Certainly one overlooked aspect is shedding the workaday cares. How long since the two of you have had a real long vacation? It doesn't have to be a long one, but a few days can release a lot of tensions and that's what is usually most needed when nothing else is lost to break the pattern of worry about providing and one's health, and whether one is getting "too old," and all the rest of it. It is important that you not criticize him since that can be really his impotence.

It is being said increasingly that it's too bad the average physician doesn't get more training in sex problems, which are important in our hectic worry society.

I agree. I wish medical professors knew, and that doctors would be taught even 10 per cent as much as they do problems as they have to know about your blood, bones and digestion.

Battle in Belfast Halted by Troops

Religious Factions Fight for 36 Hours

BELFAST (AP) — British parastroops pushed through a crossfire of bullets early today to establish a true line between battling Protestants and Roman Catholics in Belfast. Nine persons were killed in the weekend of violence, including a 13-year-old girl.

It was Northern Ireland's most violent weekend in 3½ months, since British paratroops killed 13 demonstrators on Bloody Sunday Jan. 30, in Londonderry. At least 227 persons now have died in nearly three years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland.

The army said quiet p evailed early today on the battlefield of bullet-scarred buildings between the Ballymurphy district, one of the toughest Catholic enclaves in the city, and the Protestant Springmartin housing development.

"But there is till a lot of tension in the air," one British officer said. "It won't take much to touch things off again."

More than 2,000 shots were fired in the 36-hour battle, and more than 70 civilians and soldiers were wounded.

There were fears that the long-expected Protestant counter-offensive finally had been launched.

The battle began Saturday afternoon when a bomb in a car blasted Kelly's Bar, on the edge of Ballymurphy. The Catholics charged that Protestants planted the bomb; the army said it believed it belonged to the Irish Republican Army and went off prematurely.

The pub was jammed with soccer fans watching an international match on television, and 53 persons, including some children playing outside, were wounded. Two men seen near the car when it blew up may have been killed.

Snipers hidden along the grassy edge of the Springmartin estate opened fire on the crowd which raced to the blast scene. IRA guerrillas, rected to strategic points in Ballymurphy and sent a hail of fire into the equal of Protestant houses overlooking the Catholic zone.

The shooting spread along a mile-long perimeter, and troops moved up to try to restore peace. They came under fire from both sides.

Troops ringed the city to keep out reinforcements for the fighters, but sporadic fire crackled throughout Saturday night and raged again into Sunday's fullscale battle between the two religious groups.

South Vietnamese Forces Regain Base

Tukker 281

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces reoccupied Fire Base Bastogne, 12 miles west of Hue today after 36 hours of fierce fighting and B-52 saturation strikes, field reports said.

The base fell to the North Vietnamese April 28. The counterattack that took it was the second on the northern front in three days by South Vietnamese forces who in six weeks of setbacks had retreated 30 miles below the so-called demilitarized zone and given up the provincial capital of Quang Tri City.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the northern front that South Vietnamese infantrymen were only a stone's throw from another important fire base called Checkmate on a hill overlooking Bastogne.

In the central highlands, North Vietnamese forces made fresh probes during the night of the defenses of Kontum City, and sources said they believed it to be preliminary to an all-out assault.

U.S. B-52s dropped more than 800 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese positions three to 30 miles north, northwest and northeast of the provincial capital. The South Vietnamese claimed 273 of the North Vietnamese were killed. 19 tanks destroyed and one captured in fighting around the city Sunday.

On the southern front, North Vietnamese forces cut the Saigon-Phoon Penh highway 25 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital, and heavy fighting was reported near Trang Bang, a district town.

North Vietnamese gunners kept up 1,200 artillery, rocket and mortar shells on An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, continuing a 51-week siege. Light ground fighting was reported.

The North Vietnamese were reported still holding sections of the northern part of the city.

The U.S. command announced three F-4 Phantom jets were lost over North Vietnam last Thursday and Friday and said all six crew members are missing. Spokesmen said 46 U.S. planes and 38 helicopters have been lost in North and South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30. The 84 Americans have been reported killed and 78 missing in the crashes.

British Train Service Is Restored to Normal

LONDON (CP) — Britain's badly-disrupted train system seemed to be resuming normal service today after a weekend of major developments in the current railway labor dispute — including an unprecedented Sunday sitting by the Appeals Court.

The judges met again this morning to continue hearing the appeal by rail union representatives against an order from the newly-established Industrial Relations Court.

The order called for a compulsory ballot of the 230,000 union members asking them whether, in the light of the latest pay offer by the publicly-owned British Railways, they want to participate in further strike action.

The unionists insist that the ballot order is illegal, unjust and irrelevant.

China Names New Foreign Office Experts

PEKING (Reuter) — China has appointed 10 new vice-foreign ministers in a move seen here as underlining a serious effort to improve international relations.

Two foreign ministry assistants—including a woman believed to be Chairman Mao Tse-tung's niece—have also been named.

Diplomatic sources said today the appointment of so many at the same time shows how much China's role in world affairs has developed in the last year, and how big a part foreign affairs now play in top-level thinking and policy.

Quebec City Workers Stage Surprise Strike

QUEBEC (CP) — The second week of province-wide labor unrest began 8 a.m. today with a 24-hour walkout of 800 blue collar workers in this provincial capital.

The surprise action by the Quebec City workers came as public interest was split between threatening developments in the north shore St. Lawrence River port of Sept-Iles and sprawling Montreal.

After a weekend in which labor and government dug in their respective heels on the root causes of the unrest, there were plans by businessmen in the ore-shipping port of Sept-Iles, 220 miles northeast of here, to end what they called a "reign of terror" that began last Wednesday.

In Montreal, there were predictions of a thin and subway drivers strike Tuesday to follow a vote tonight by 2,000 drivers.

Also in Montreal, non-common employees of the morning Le Devoir launched a 24-hour strike today that was expected to prohibit publication of the Tuesday edition. Newspaper publication has been a favorite target of the protesting unionists, who also have occupied about a dozen radio stations for various periods.

As well, 3,000 of 8,000 striking City of Montreal blue collar workers voted by a narrow margin to cut off all their services today, including essential services, with the exception of the city water supply.

The workers collect garbage, clean streets and look after water supplies and the parks.

The Montreal workers said they walked out legally Friday to back contract demands but also to protest jailing Tuesday of three top Quebec labor leaders. The jailings were the reason given for today's walkout here.

Refugees Flown Out of Kontum

KONTUM (AP) — U.S. aircraft have begun flying the families of Montagnard refugees out of threatened Kontum City in South Vietnam's central highlands.

While fighter-bombers struck today at North Vietnamese positions a rifle-shot away from the provincial capital, helicopters and transport planes loaded Montagnard women, children and the elderly and flew them 25 miles south to Pleiku.

CLC Urged To Defend Strikes

OTTAWA (CP) — The ninth biennial convention of the Canadian Labor Congress opened today with close to 1,800 delegates rallying to a call to defend the right to strike.

"The right of organized workers to withhold their labor is, in the final analysis, the only way in which the collective bargaining process can remain viable," CLC President Donald Mac. Donald said in his opening address.

"If the right to strike is outlawed," he said, "bargaining can be nothing more than chit-chat between the employer and the union, with the employer in the end unilaterally decreeing wages, salaries and other working conditions."

Mr. MacDonald attacked the Quebec government for ending an 11-day strike of 210,000 provincial employees with back-to-work legislation in April.

"If this is to be the future pattern of collective bargaining in the public sector of Quebec let us call it what it is, company unionism," he said.

He cautioned delegates not to permit confusion between compulsory and voluntary arbitration.

There was nothing undemocratic about voluntary arbitration in which two parties agreed to accept the findings of a third party. Compulsory arbitration, however, is a "simplistic, authoritarian weapon aimed at the heart of the collective bargaining process."

"Barring a highly ruthless and highly efficient police state, compulsion in industrial relations will not work."

Sadat Defends Ties with Russia

He admitted there were difficulties between Egypt and the Soviet Union and passed this off as normal in any relationship, but he emphasized Egypt is not a stooge of the Soviet Union and said there was no comparison with Israel's relation with the United States.

"We are friends on an equal footing," he said, adding that in any war with Israel he did not want "one Soviet soldier to fight."

"We are ready to fight our own battles."

He also said Egypt did not seek a confrontation between the Soviet Union and the United States in the Middle East.

Ohio Man Drowns

PICTON (Staff) — SCUBA divers from the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police this morning recovered their search for the body of an American who drowned Sunday afternoon in West Lake off MacDonald's Island.

The body was recovered at 10.30 a.m.

The identity of the drowning victim, who was visiting Prince Edward from Akron, Ohio, is being withheld by police pending notification of next of kin.

Three unidentified companions of the dead man with him in the boat when the incident occurred were taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital for treatment for shock. Two of the men were reported to be middle-aged while the third was described as a boy of 12. All were residents of Akron, Ohio.

The drowning was reported to police Sunday by Lyle Lloyd of Wellington, who was fishing with a friend at West Lake when they heard a call for help. It was believed the victim gave up his life preserver and drowned in an attempt to reach shore.

ONCE AGAIN
IT'S SPRING
Virgil described Spring more than 2,000 years ago — "Now every field is clothed with grass and every tree with flowers" while the woods put forth their beginnings and the year assumes its gay attire."
Well said! But, to many unfortunate folks an allergic reaction to spring grass and weeds brings misery and suffering. Tearing eyes, running noses will be common. Unlike Virgil's day, there is today a large variety of different drugs available that can provide relief. Your physician knows the one drug that is best for a specific allergy.

Kingston Bank Robbed

KINGSTON (Staff) — Ontario Provincial Police criminal investigation teams from Toronto, Kingston and Belleville have moved into the area as the result of an early morning armed robbery at a plaza bank here.

At 9.15 this morning, three men forced their way into the the Frontenac Mall branch of the Imperial Bank of Commerce on Highway 33. At press time, bank officials had not determined if any cash in the area.

Police believe the armed trio hid in the bank overnight, and forced their way out through the roof.

Bank manager Cliff Kolody told The Intelligencer a 11 employees of the bank were herded into nearby washrooms by the trio. When all were secured in the washrooms, David Ross were ushered to the vault area.

At this point, Mr. Kolody said, the would-be robbers noticed crowds beginning to accumulate in the corridors outside. The Frontenac Mall is similar to the Quinte Mall on North Front Street, Belleville.)

"They left through a closed window," the manager said in a telephone interview. "They left a big space all right. Lots of glass hanging from the edges."

Witnesses said the men ran to a car after the robbery but one slipped and was left behind.

A man has been arrested by police.

No bank employee was harmed during the incident, although this was the first robbery attempt at the Frontenac Mall branch. "all employees were pretty calm about the whole thing," Mr. Kolody said.

At time of the interview, the bank manager said "the premises are still under the control of the police identification detachment. Until they're finished, we won't know if any money is missing or not."

He confirmed that tellers had not been distributed cash to their drawers, when the armed men entered the bank.

A spokesman for the Kingston detachment Ontario Provincial Police, said road blocks in the surrounding Quinte area have been set up.

Inspector J. W. McPherson of the OPP CID bureau in Toronto, has been called in to assist Belleville investigators Detective Sergeant Jack Cassidy and Graham and Kingston OPP Constable William Judge.

Belleville Students Win Two Awards

Two young men from city schools got Belleville on the scientific map last week.

They both returned from the Canada-Wide Science Fair at Sarnia with first place awards in their categories — two winners for Belleville out of a possible five.

Peter Mischenko of BCI, won first place in the senior life sciences category and Curtis Nickel of Quinte carried off first prize for his category, senior environmental sciences. Both are grade 13 students.

Both were winners in the Rotary Science Fair here in April. For Peter, it was his first time in Canada-wide competition. Curtis was making his third trip to the national event — he entered previously when he was in grade 10 and 11.

Peter, first place winner in the science fair here, came home from Sarnia with four prizes: $75 for his first-in-category win, $100 from the Canadian Teachers' Federation for a chemistry project, $50 from the Canadian Federation of Biological Societies for experimental biology and an encyclopedia set as the Field Enterprises Educational Corporation award.

Curtis also won $75 for his first of category award and received $100 from the Agricultural Institute of Canada.

His project was predator-prey dynamics, an interest inspired by his work last summer at the department of agriculture's Jamesville Institute, here. The project was a statistical study of the feasability of biological control of insects, involving the spotted alfalfa aphid and the pest.

Curtis gave Dr. Thomas Barnett, research officer at the Institute and one of the world's leading insect specialists credit for the success of his project.

"Without his help I could not have done it," he says.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nickel of Plainfield, Curtis intends to study either medicine or agricultural science at university next year.

For him, the chief value of the Canada - wide competition was the chance to meet but the opportunity to meet his fellow contestants, all of them the top science students in Canada this year.

"It was a great experience to meet the six biochemists in the judges' category," added Peter. "It was a great compliment to attract so many professors."

His project on the formation of amino acids traced the first steps in the evolution of life and the possible origin of life on earth. He will carry on his project last December.

His advisers were two BCI science teachers, Glenn Shaver, Robert Fletcher and Gordon Bates. Encouragement was so intense in the senior life sciences category that the judges set a precedent and awarded two first prizes.

Peter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Mischenko of Belleville, and he will study mathematics at university next year.

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather George Johnston, who passed away on May 13, 1970.

Nothing but memories of a father's way.
Sadly missed by his daughter Mrs. Ruth Bonney, daughter-in-law Mrs. Dorothy Johnston, grandchildren Sandra, Judy, Alexis and George.

PEET — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mildred Parks who passed away May 13, 1973.

Our sad heart still aches with pain,
We miss you more than words can say,
To see you ever will.
Your memory is always cherished, saved and respected wherever she may be.
Sadly missed by her sons Lorne & Ronald.

We shut our eyes and see you still,
We close our lips and speak but still
Your voice in our hearts vanishes.
Sadly missed and always remembered by your daughter Mrs. Ruth Bonney.

SHARP — In loving memory of a member of our sister team dearly loved and sadly missed.
Sometimes I sit and think of you,

Sadly missed by Sandra, Judy and Alexis.

Little Dab of Paint and-Voila

Through a federal Opportunities For Youth grant, five young Belleville women have opened a day care centre at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, in order to preserve funds, they have constructed equipment for the youngsters and obtained donations of various items. Here, Ruth Wright, Diane Brethour and Karen McCoy prepare kitchen corners and paint pots while a young charge looks on.

Loyalalist Graduates To Run Day Care Centre

A cardboard box, with a little dab of paint, a piece missing here and a piece missing there, can soon become one of the best working stoves in a little girl's play kitchen. That is, with just a touch of imagination.

Five young Belleville women are building just such implements for a new day care centre they plan to open at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on May 15. This week, they received word from the federal government that their application for an Opportunities For Youth grant, had been approved. The girls, all graduates of Loyalist College's two-year early childhood education course, will receive a total of $2,800.

The grant will be used to pay their salaries, mileage accounts, church property maintenance, insurance, and provide food and supplies for the programs.

The Quinte Co-op Day Care Centre will be open to children between the ages of 2½ and 5½ years. Parents must fill out applications, medical reports and carry some kind of protective insurance for their children.

While the maximum number of youngsters will be 25, co-ordinator Mrs. Annie Pearson says children can be enrolled for half or full days. In this way, two half-day children would be counted as one full-day child.

With an emphasis on outdoor activities, the youngsters will be given a full roster of events to keep them busy until Sept. 15. A set of junior carpentry tools, dolls and doll props, supplies of arts and crafts, paints, and building blocks, will occupy the lazy set for those rainy days. A two-hour rest period will also be included.

Outside, additional fencing has been provided to afford a completely enclosed yard for the children.

Visitors such as safety police officer Corporal Robert Hall, will be invited. As well, the occasional field trip . . . the city fire hall is being considered . . . will also be in order.

For the full-day youngsters, three hot meals prepared following Canada Food Guide menus, will be supplied. Snacks will also be available, and each of the five girls involved in the program will share the K-P duties.

Pets such as rabbits, mice, hamsters, gerbils, kittens, fish, and various and sundry birds, will also be on hand to make life that much more pleasant.

The centre will be open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., with half-day youngsters staying between 9 and 11.30 a.m. and 1 and 4.30 p.m.

In the fall, with completion of the Opportunities For Youth program, Mrs. Pearson hopes to continue Quinte Co-op Day Care Centre on a permanent basis.

However, the five graduates have yet to learn of a building they might be able to use when Sept. 15 rolls around.

Although an open house is scheduled for May 22, the day care centre staff is hoping that word of mouth, notices at various clubs around town, and referrals through Loyalist College, will provide them with a basis for continuing their plans.

Shawano Developers Ask Road Takeover

MARMORA (Special) — Marmora and Lake township council has been asked to take over and maintain 6.3 miles of roads in the 51-million cottage development being built by Bowes and Cocks, Ltd.

The Shawano cottage development is situated at Dickey Lake in Lake Township and 3.5 miles of road into the 136 lots have been completed in phase 1 of the project. John Bowes of Bowes and Cocks asked council to take over this stretch this year and to take over another 2.8 miles in the phase 2 section next year.

He said 70 lots have been sold in phase 1 and 16 lots in phase 2. Phase 3 is still in the draft plan stage. It will have 2.8 miles of road, but some lots will be accessible only by water.

Mr. Bowes asked council to provide garbage collection for the area, suggesting an agreement with Wollaston or Limerick townships for use of their waste disposal site.

The developers admitted that his company has not dedicated any land for park use. He said the company might consider the proposal, made by Reeve John Wilkes.

Mr. Bowes said pollution of the lake from septic tanks will never be a factor at the development, because every cottage has been built well back from the water's edge and every septic tank has been specked on the lot. Trent University in Peterborough is doing research at the development and said will notify Bowes and Cocks if pollution problems arise.

Science Yet to Find Substitute for Sight

Science has almost conquered fear of man's senses, but the fifth, sight, has yet to be duplicated.

Arthur Gosselin of Montreal, representing the present state of eye research to members of the Hastings and Prince Edward advisory board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Wednesday at St. Andrew's Church.

The retired Bell Canada historian has been assisting the blind for 14 years and has since learned half-a-dozen codes in both English and French.

"Today man can walk almost normally with artificial legs," he said. "He can write and even use complex machinery with artificial hands; he can recover the senses of taste and smell through surgery or medication; his hearing can be helped with hearing aids and by surgery.

"To date, however, no one has ever been able to see with an artificial eye."

Mr. Gosselin illustrated the prevalence of blindness with statistics from around the world. Whereas in North America and western Europe, the blindness rate is less than two per 1,000 population, incidence doubles in less developed countries and can range from six to 18 times as high in parts of Africa, Asia and the Middle East.

"Isn't it sad to reflect that knowledge is available to prevent up to 75 per cent of all blindness which is caused by its chief enemies: disease, trauma and neglect?" he commented.

IAPA Meets Tomorrow

The Belleville and Trenton section of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association will hold its annual meeting tomorrow at the Picton Golf and Country Club, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

The major item of business for the day's luncheon meeting will be the election of officers for the coming term.

Those officers will number approximately 20 and represent the 17 firms that are members of the association.

Their business, while in office, will include planning and carrying out programs on accident prevention through evening and daytime meetings, courses and seminars to the benefit of all member firms.

In the event of rain, rather than the scheduled golf and boat tour, the representatives will be given a tour through the Proctor-Leywt plant.

Pollution Talk

The recent exchange in the legislature between Dr. Morton Shulman and Environment Minister James Auld said a lot about the current state of pollution of the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Auld had little answer to the NDP member's charge that the bay is "grossly polluted," beyond the fact that Domtar in Trenton is to have a waste treatment plant by 1973 and that pollution at Union Carbide had improved by 90 per cent since a disposal system was installed last November.

When the minister claimed that Ontario was 15 years ahead of every other jurisdiction in coping with water pollution Dr. Shulman's answer was predictable. "If everybody else is 15 years behind, God help us all."

There is nothing political in this. Dr. Shulman was merely expressing the concern of every thinking person on the problem of pollution. Ontario may be doing more than others, but is it enough? The same kind of self-satisfaction about our anti-pollution measures seems to apply at the federal level also. Federal Environment Minister Jack David said in Burlington recently that the $23 million cost of the Canada Centre for Inland Money was money well spent. It was perhaps the best establishment of its kind in the world, was foremost in providing data on the lower lakes for the International Joint Commission and be cause of the facilities there Canada led the way in research and remedies for pollution problems.

We are happy that both Mr. Auld and Mr. Davis can be so confident about the measures being taken, but let's not rest on our laurels. An immense task lies ahead and if we are from moments we should not hesitate to let the rest of the world, the United States included, know that we expect some pretty heavy spade-work on their part to clean up their respective environments.

Lunar Legend

There is nothing new in the fact that murders, especially in homicide-prone countries like the United States and among the unstable often show a marked rise during periods of full moon. This is where the word "lunacy" from Luna (in Roman mythology, the goddess of the moon) derives.

Further modern proof of this phenomenon however has been turned up by Dr. Arnold Lieber of the University of Miami's medical school. He says a two-year study has established a "scientifically-sound relationship between phases of the moon and the murder rate in Dade County."

The details were reported recently, showing an upsurge in the county's murder rate beginning 24 hours before the full moon, reaching a peak at full moon, then dropping back before climbing back again to a secondary peak at the new moon.

A senior resident in psychiatry, Dr. Lieber believes the outbreaks of murder may be touched off by the moon tugging on "biological tides" inside the human body, in the same manner as the moon pulls on the ocean.

It is an astonishing theory but it matches sense at an extension of existing folklore. We wonder was it full moon in Philadelphia last weekend when 13 persons were killed during what was described as one of the most violent weekends the city had known.

Short Run

There was little more than a handful of people at the final performance of The Boy Friend at The Mall Thursday night and if that had been the norm from the outset them it would not have had a short run. Which is a pity, for we found the movie version of Sandy (Wilson's long - running stage classic brilliant in concept, imaginative in execution, fast - moving and — in an age when movie musicals are something of an anachronism—very satisfying. Some may have passed it up thinking it too dated, but in doing so they missed some catchy tunes, superlative dance routines and a lot of sexy girls. The film marked the' emergence of English fashion model Twiggy (Leslie Hornby) as a fine young actress with a sweet manner and pleasant singing voice and also there with a small part was Glenda Jackson (of Elizabeth I television series), as the star who because of a leg injury gives Twiggy her big chance.

Lessons of History

Dream of Black Solidarity Runs Into Problems

By JOHN HARRISON

Movements for unity or oneness, in a racial or cultural group are not new. Pan-Slavism, with its dream of a large and influential Slavic state in Europe, helped fan the fire of the First World War.

The Nazi extremist who murdered Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand in June, 1914, the event which led to the war, was imbued with the ideal.

In our own times, Pan-Arabism repeats the concept of Pan-Teutons. Its most voluble exponents are, again, emotional men, the revolutionary young colonels who run the governments of Moslem Libya and Algeria.

Among all such movements, Pan-Africanism, the latest enemy of "oneness." Pan-Slavism's enemies were the Germanic empires of monarchs and bureaucracies of the German and Austro-Hungarian empires. The latter empire also included two sizable Slavic provinces. In 1918 we would say Pan-Slavist wanted them "liberated."

Of course the bitter enemy of Pan-Arabism is Israel. Though it is hard to see in what way the Israelis can destroy Libya. It is halfway across the Mediterranean from Israel, whose immediate and hostile Arab neighbors surround her.

Perhaps the least understood of these movements is Black Solidarity. It has arisen not in the poor African states but within the black communities of the U.S. and the Caribbean. These communities are reacting strongly to what Black Power advocates call centuries of exploitation.

This began with the colonial trader who brought the slaves from West Africa, then inculcated them with his culture and language. It continues with the commercial influences of North American big business.

Because on television in the Barbados, say Black Solidarity advocates, is a horrible example...of the notable "culturalization" of black Caribbean societies. As a result, they have forgotten, or are not allowed to remember, their African roots.

Black Solidarity and Black Power spokesmen emphasize a "back-to-Africa" program. Some say, "Africa is my home." They deny any cultural or emotional barriers have been made under duress in the U.S. south or the Caribbean, Jazz, perhaps is the chief of these.

But Black Power denies jazz ation, because of its commercialization by the whites.

What do the new black countries of Africa think of Black Solidarity? Not much. They have been too busy with their own Afrocentricity. Independence from colonial rule, and developing their own styles of government.

One of the basic elements in the brand of African socialism practised by President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania is racial equality.

"We cannot allow the growth of first, and second-class citizenship," he said in 1964.

And that goes equally for Black Power principles of separating blacks from whites.

The problems of nation-building in Africa are different than those in the Caribbean. And there are great differences, racially and politically, between black African states. In terms of population, Nigeria is Africa's largest country. But in the north some 8 in all black, but because it also has a large Moslem minority in the north.

Spiritually, Black Power follows Marcus Garvey's cry: "Back to Africa." In practice, it's the unemployed black African countries themselves who wouldn't know what to do with them when they arrived.

Books: We Lag in Publishing and Readership

Brantford Expositor

Canada's record in the publishing of Canadian books, including translations and works for children, is poor. Our dismal showing is revealed in a paper prepared by the Canadian Commission for Unesco as part of international book year (1972).

Should children, says the commission, learn to read from books in which the cultural symbols and images are those of another country? Obviously not. Yet of books valued at $50 million which Canadians bought in 1969, 6 per cent were imported.

Of the 22 per cent of total books produced from domestic Canadian sources, 80 per cent are published by foreign controlled firms," says the commission "so that only five per cent of all books sold are wholly authored, published and manufactured by Canadians." Repeat: Only five per cent are wholly Canadian.

For a bilingual country, our production of translations "hardly measures up to a reasonable standard," says the commission. Six countries produce half the world's translations (38,172 in 1969) — Russia, Germany, Spain Italy, Japan and the United States. In 1969, Canada produced 109 titles, roughly one quarter of one pre cent of the global total.

In Canada, 96 per cent of children's books are imported and children's books account for 31 per cent of the revenue from the sales of general books. We can see even when the commission says our children should "also have an opportunity to respond to the immediate world around them, to adventures set in their own country, and to cities and towns that they are likely to visit."

What is the answer? We have competent authors and publishers, and the number of our relatively sophisticated book readers is growing. Thus the problem here is not entirely that foreign publishers' runs are so large that they can sell their books much more cheaply than Canadian publishers can. The commission suggests that, since "millions of otherwise perceptive, literate Canadians just don't read books," the Canadian governments and book industry must find some way to cut prices and offer books of broader appeal — "as a matter of considered national policy."

The commission also found that while 34 books are produced domestically for every 1,000 inhabitants of Asia, Africa and Latin America, the United Kingdom produces 420 copies per 1,000. No wonder the British are probably the world's most bookreading people.

Perhaps it is time to revive the idea of a Canadian Book Publishing Corporation to help publishers financially. ...So far, the only official aid to Canadian book publishing has been the Ontario government's lending of $1.3 million to five book publishers in the past year and the continuing Canada Council grants to assist writers.

Manufacturing Gets Boost From Budget

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park

The federal budget should be welcomed in Ontario, as for the most part it has been.

The most significant feature of the budget is its action to stimulate manufacturing, and thereby employment.

This can't but help Ontario, the centre of secondary manufacturing in the country.

The dual step of a sharp drop in corporation tax plus machinery write-offs should serve to get our manufacturers expansion minded.

The tax relief also will help our position in the export market. There have been assurances, though this has yet to be proven, that it will even offset the enticements that have been handed out to manufacturers under U.S. tax and preference policies.

In other words, the budget should put our vitally important manufacturing industry in good fighting position again.

Incidentally, it also should give us an opportunity to assess whether the goal of full employment is actually feasible under our present working and social conditions.

I doubt of this. But still many believe the goal is attainable.

Now with a healthy climate established for industry we can get some realistic assessment.

It will be interesting to see about a year from now just how much production and employment have actually expanded.

Premier Davis was quick to point out that the budget illustrated the disparity between federal and provincial sources of revenue. In other words, he was quick to zero in on the long-time main issue of controversy between the two levels of government.

This time he had a good talking point.

The federal planners were able to come up with their big tax reductions and substantial additional payments to pensioners, budget for no new taxes and still project a deficit of only $400 million.

In Ontario we distributed relatively little new money, had no tax cuts, increased licences and fees, including gasoline and cigarettes, right along the line and yet had a budget for a deficit of nearly $600 million on revenues less than half of Ottawa's.

The apparent side result of Ottawa's initial only Ontario has been he resources to effectively regulate or stimulate the economy.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 15, 1972 . . .

The Winnipeg strike began 52 years ago today — in 1919—and the city was paralysed for 41 days. The Robson commission, which later investigated the strike, found it had been directed only at improving wages and labor's bargaining position, but most governmental bodies feared a Bolshevik revolution she h r r r g. Several labor leaders were sent to prison under war emergency powers law and repealed until 1938.

1862—Lieutenant States Air-Force Maj. Gordon Cooper was launched into space to circle the earth 22 times.

1958—Soviet scientists marked another milestone in space with the launching and orbiting of Sputnik III.

1851—The death toll was 35 in a fire at Ste. Gundegonde Hospital in Montreal.

1912—The boundaries of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba were extended.

Information Canada Opens

Ottawa Journal

Information Canada, supposedly unsurprising an agonizing reappraisal, has broken out in feverish activity. The chief government in on people it is launching an Automated Information Monitoring Service to supply officials with about 3,200 clippings a day! Under the title of AIMS — isn't that cute?

Information Canada proudly announces its new plaything this way:

"It will provide in its first and second stages of development a fast and efficient monitoring coverage of 76 daily newspapers 11 AM radio stations and 44 television stations including the national networks. It will provide a unique service that will enable top policy-makers and administrators of Canada's federal Government the better to tune into the moods of the nation."

They declare they'll get this kind of babel to their clients by audio facsimile, by phone, by microfilm, by electrochemistry, by cybernetics and, by golly, by laser.

The flood of all this regurgitated matter is unwarian in what it will do to Parliament and administrators. Imagine how useful it will be to know that 42 newspapers reported one item and only 31 reported another, or that there was more concern in the coastal provinces about a lighthouse services than in Manitoba.

Let's hear it again, from Information Canada. It says the objective of AIMS. . . .

". . . is to automatically survey press, radio and TV for news content, editorial content, opinion and public affairs programs on topics of national interest or pertaining to any federal government personality, policy, program or function."

All this in a flash by computer! "Any item will be available in 20 minutes from any field monitoring service."

Members of Parliament will soon become redundant, and no one will have to think need apply for the public service. Monitor the static of the nation, compute it here, pile it there, pull the lever and the flushout is the policy.

From Assessors to Taxes To Government Spending

Editor,

The Intelligencer.

The article in The Intelligencer captioned "Assessors Make Rounds" intimates we can expect a visit from a gentleman with "credentials" who will help us establish the real value of our property. That's nice. — a provincial government that wants to be sure we know the value of our own property and provides us with a system that will eliminate outdated assessment practices.

I'm not ungrateful but I think I know the value of my own property and I am unconvinced any visit will do anything much toward eliminating unfair assessment practices.

A brochure is on the way to all homeowners which will make the assessor and the victim feel more comfortable when inspection time comes. Personally I never feel comfortable when uninvited people drop in, especially when they come bearing "credentials". I am a poor liar and I am sure I shall be writing for the caution "You are not obliged to say anything but whatever you do say will be recorded and fully taxed".

Like the poor, taxes are always with us. If only elected officials had the same respect for tax money as those that pay it.

Of all the taxes we pay presably the most detested is that we pay for the privilege of living in our own home. I can even see under our present system the need to assess the house and the lot it stands on, but have never understood why annually I am faced with "credentials" to go poking and probing about inside.

The unthinking homeowner who bought a few flowers or shrubs in his caller in order that the kids can have a place to play ends up being punished so that governments can throw money away on schemes like the King Bird's Spadina Ditch...Ontario Place and $3 million dollar aircraft.

Taxes, who needs 'em?

Unheralded and unsung, members of the Salvage Committee of the Women's Canadian Club here, have been doing a tremendous job during the past seven months. Proof of their success and untiring efforts is seen in the fact that over $1,000 has been turned over to the Red Cross.

A valuable pure-bred bull owned by Charles Hoard of Hawkins Settlement fell into a 30 foot well which contained about 20 feet of water. Neighbours were summoned and willing hands held the bull's head above water while ropes were secured about the body of the animal and with the aid of block and tackle he was rescued from its perilous position.

Loyalist Film Society Makes Offer

Loyalist College Film Society is offering a bonus to potential members next week — two free film showings for those taking out a 1972-73 membership.

The society is offering Buster Keaton's The General and the classic short, The Red Balloon, next Wednesday evening, May 17 at 7:30 in the Lecture Theatre, Building B.

All new members will be admitted free to the screenings.

The General was produced in 1926 by Buster Keaton and Clyde Bruckman. Often compared to Charlie Chaplin, Keaton is considered to be a master director and accomplished actor of silent comedy. In The General, he plays the role of a Southerner who singlehandedly fights against the northern armies during the American Civil War.

The Film Society, now two years old, has more than 100 members and has outgrown its accomodation in the lecture theatre at the college. Next year, it will extend its showings of each film to two nights — the second Wednesday and Thursday of each month.

The Film Society was organized for film lovers, to bring experimental, classic and historical movies to the Quinte district.

Many of the productions it screens here are restricted for use by recognized film societies and universities only, and are not available to the general public.

Next season's program will begin Sept. 13 and 14 with Swedish director Ingmar Bergman's Through a Glass Darkly, the first of his religious trilogy, chronicling the plunge of a young woman into madness.

It will end in May with Fellini's La Strada, perhaps his most widely admired film. Others include Ikiru by Kurosawa and the Marx brothers' best comedy, Duck Soup, directed by Leo McCarey in 1933.

Nine feature films will be presented during the 1972-73 season for $6 for an adult membership and $10 for a couple. Students will be admitted to all nine films for $4 each.

Memberships can be purchased next Wednesday evening at the filming at the colleges, or by mail. No paid admissions can be accepted at the door. Mailing address is Loyalist College Community Film Society, Box 4260, Belleville.

4 Permits Are Sought

MARMORA (Special) — Richie Wells of Wells Brothers is applying to the department of municipal affairs for permission to construct at least four houses between Madoc Street and Crawford Dr. His company has decide to install mobile homes instead of conventional houses. Mr. Wells said. But Reeve Jack Reynolds said that although Marmora as yet has no by-law restricting mobile homes, it will soon adopt the Hastings County Planning Board recommendations. Municipalities get more tax revenue from ordinary homes than from mobile ones, he said.

Rideau Construction Company has returned to Marmora to clean up several trouble spots left from the water extension project last year. Council promised to take action on Cameron St., following a complaint from Mr. Wells. He complained of pot holes, no name signs and no house numbers on the street.

Despite one councillor's opinion that a by-law enforcement officer is unnecessary and a waste of money, council decided to advertise for someone to replace Fred Parcells, who resigned April 30. Councillors said they were still unhappy about the lack of police surveillance, especially on Friday and Saturday nights.

Ann Landers

Woman Madly in Love With Other's Husband

Dear Ann Landers: How can I get a 45-year-old woman to face reality? Her husband and I have a once-in-a-lifetime, totally uncompanying love for each other. It was our destiny to meet a year and a half ago.

Our relationship is exciting, alive, passionate, deep and abiding, something their 23-year-old marriage never was. Our love was meant to be and no power on earth can destroy it.

I wrote and explained this to his wife and enclosed a picture of me with her husband to show her how happy we are together. She did not respond. I am fifteen years younger than she is and am considered beautiful. I am also interesting to talk to. His wife is neither. Many times she has behaved in an immature and unstable manner.

This man cannot give me up. He has tried. His wife's stubborn refusal to let him go is preventing two people from achieving complete fulfillment.

Your advice is needed.—Frustrated Unlimited in Detroit

Dear Frustrated: Since you have withheld so many vital facts —your marital status, your track record, his children, if any—I must lean heavily on the meager bits of information contained in your letter. Any woman who would send a Picture of herself and her married lover to the man's wife to show her how happy they are is bananas. Such zany behavior makes me wonder what the objectivity and substance of the rest of your letter. My hunch is the man likes things the way they are and I would be willing to bet that's the way they'll stay.

Dear Ann Landers: It happened again this evening and I am so furious I must get rid of my anger before I pop a vessel. I stepped in some dog-do right outside my office, slipped, turned my ankle, ruined my shoes and used a few words I didn't know were in my vocabulary.

My office isn't in the sticks. It's in the best part of town. What a disgrace that a person can't walk on the sidewalk without risking this disgusting nuisance. What can be done about it? I thought the streets were for people.—Mad In Ohio

Dear Mad: You are right—the streets are for people. So, in the words of Mike Royko, use the street and take the dogs to the vet's room.

To put it another way, dogs use whatever facilities are available—so you can't blame them. It's the owners who should be penalized. But try and find 'em. Leash laws are, of course, a good solution, but they are not in force everywhere. Your best bet is to keep your eyes open and watch your step.

Dear Ann Landers: The high schools in our city have had a real problem with pregnant girls. It used to be that they ticked them out, even if they were married. A few years ago, pressure was put on the school board to change that punitive rule, so now the pregnant girls are allowed to finish the semester, married or not.

Teachers, however, get no such privileges. We must quit teaching as soon as we enter the fourth month of pregnancy. This forces teachers to lie, wear uncomfortable girdles and loose-fitting smocks. Naturally all babies are premature. The last "premature" baby born to a faculty member weighed nine pounds and had a full head of hair.

Isn't this ridiculous? What do you think should be done?—Mad in Chicago

Dear Mad: Yes, it's ridiculous. It's also unrealistic. The rules should be changed.

Successful Living

Talk to Your Beloved

By DORIS CLARK

Dear bride-to-be, learn to talk to your beloved. Don't depend on him to read your mind by a sort of high-geared osmosis.

You have come from different families. Your unique personality has been molded through a wealth of experience with parents, sisters and brothers, school friends, work friends.

It is the outward expression of this personality which your man has fallen in love with. Just be sure he knows and loves the inner you.

One couple I know got a divorce after 15 years of apparently happy marriage. When I talked to the broken-hearted wife she said they just never talked to each other.

And added, "Perhaps if we had talked about things, even fought about them sometimes, we might still be living together."

Dear Doris: I am sending a copy of the song "Little Bloswom", and if any of your readers would have a copy of the song, "No Children Allowed", I would appreciate having it. — Vivian.

Dear Vivian: Thank you for the poem "Little Blossom". We can now take care of the many requests from readers sending in 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Why on earth such a sorrowful, sad little poem would be in demand, is beyond me. I thought I was a sentimentalist, but I find I have my limits when it comes to talking about a drunkard who kicks and actually causes the death of a "poor little innocent blossom".

Obviously this story came from the early 1900's when the evils of rum were in the forefront of the minds of all God-fearing people.

Oh yes — can anybody send us "No Children Allowed" (I hope it has a happy ending).

Dear Doris: I was glad to read your answer to "Eye Failure". She was asking for help for her blind mother.

Most blind people do see a little. By definition blindness includes those who can see up to the large "E" on the doctor's chart, after correction. Much better than no sight at all, but still very limiting.

It prevents people from driving a car, restricts reading; and about two thirds of Canada's 17,000 blind persons have some sight, from light perception to the large "E".

Once Eye Failure's mother's doctor has filled out the necessary form and she is certified as a blind person, many doors will open. She can get help with reading and such crafts as knitting, leather work, even touch typing.

Card games are tops, using embossed playing cards. Women are helped with the handling of household duties.

Then, of course, there are seeing-eye dogs; and help for the family of a blind person, in understanding and working with him or her. — Director of Public Relations, Canadian National Institute for The Blind.

Dear Director: Reading over your booklet on CNIB services, I am greatly impressed. You have branch offices in most cities across the country. Persons wishing further information may write to you at your National Office, CNIB, 1929 Bayview Avenue, Toronto 17, Ontario.

(Talking it over helps. Write to Doris for help with your dilemma, care of this newspaper.)

LIKELY REHIRED

TORONTO (CP) — Most of the 49 school health nurses who received dismissal notices recently from the board of education in suburban North York will probably be hired by the borough health department in September, Controller Irving Paisley said recently. Paisley, chairman of the board of health, that the school board had "pushed the panic button" by sending the nurses dismissal letters effective in June.

Avocado Soup Is Something Different

By ALICE DENSHOFF

These fine avocadoes in our markets are an inspiration to do something special with them, to build delicious dishes around them as is done in California.

One idea is an avocado soup, something very special, very different and very, very good.

AVOCADO SOUP
4 fully ripe avocadoes
2 cups chicken broth
2 teaspoons lime juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups heavy cream

Halve avocados lengthwise, twisting gently to separate halves. Whack a sharp knife directly into sides and twist to lift out. Peel avocado halves, then puree in electric blender with remaining ingredients, except cream. Stir in cream.

Chill thoroughly. Garnish with lemon slices or with heavy cream whipped with a dash of garlic powder.

Serves eight with a soup that makes a nice change from the familiar vichyssoise.

SALSA DE AGUCATE
(Avocado Relish)
2 fully ripe avocados
2 large tomatoes, peeled and chopped
1 red onion, coarsely chopped
1 green pepper, coarsely chopped
1 green chili, minced
1 teaspoon salt
Dash black pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Halve avocadoes lengthwise, twisting gently to, separate halves. Whack a sharp knife directly into seeds and twist gently to lift out. Peel avocado halves.

Place cavity-side down and dice; then toss with remaining ingredients. Chill. Serve over lettuce as a salad, or with meat as a side dish.

Well, we've soup and salad-type dish, so to round out this California late spring or early summer feast, here's something different:

COCKTAIL TACOS WITH STUFFED OLIVES
2 packages (about 11 ounces each) frozen heat-and-serve cocktail beef tacos
2 cups (1 pound jar) red pepper relish
1 green pepper, chopped
2 jars (4½ ounces each) pimiento-stuffed olives

Prepare beef tacos according to package directions for crisp tacos. To serve, open hot beef tacos gently and fill with relish and chopped pepper. Arrange on platter with olives.

And here's a lively dip:

OLIVE CHILI CON QUESO
1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes
1 large onion, finely chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
3 tablespoons chili powder
1 tablespoon ground cumin
1 tablespoon oregano leaves
½ pound very sharp cheddar cheese, cubed
½ pound processed cheddar cheese, cubed
½ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
Salt to taste

Combine tomatoes, onion and seasonings in saucepan. Cover and simmer over low heat two hours, stirring occasionally. Add cheese and olives; stir until cheese is melted. Season to taste with salt. Serve hot dip with corn chips or crackers, as desired. Yields about 3½ cups.

Club Activities

TOPS CHAPTER 357

At the meeting of TOPS Chapter 357, held Thursday evening at the Recreation Centre, there were 42 persons present with a total loss of 49 lbs. reported.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and leader of the Chapter read a letter from the area supervisor which dealt mainly with the errors some of the Chapters had made in sending in reports.

Awards were presented to six members. Among these was the best loser of the month, who lost 9½lbs., and was presented with a banner and crown to wear for the remainder of the month. Remembers received bracelets for a 19-lb. loss and two for a 20-lb. loss. One backslider also had lost 10-lbs.

The program for the next meeting will be in charge of Shannonville members.

CHILLED avocado soup needs canned chicken broth, lime juice, cream, a blender. Pepper relish goes into canned tacos.

All in the Family Wins Six Awards

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Glenda Jackson and Keith Michell, a regal pair from Britain, and All in the Family, based on an English comedy, reigned over the 24th annual Emmy presentations Sunday.

Miss Jackson won two Emmys for her portrayal of Queen Elizabeth I—as best actress in a series and for a single performance. Michell, also British, was named outstanding dramatic series and outstanding new series. It was shown by the Public Broadcasting System.

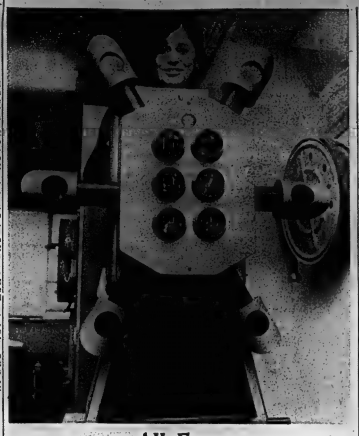
Michell, who portrayed King Henry VIII from the beginning of his reign until his death, was named outstanding actor in a single performance for the Catherine Howard Segment of The Six Wives of Henry VIII on CBS.

Peter Falk was named best actor in a dramatic series for his slouching, plodding, cigar-chomping portrayal of Columbo in the NBC Mystery Movie.

CBS's All in the Family, adapted from a similar British show—was the biggest over-all winner with six awards at the ceremonies at the Hollywood Palladium.

It was named outstanding comedy series and Emmys went to three members of the Archie Bunker family—Carroll O'Connor, Jean Stapleton and Sally Struthers, who tied with Valerie Harper of CBS's The Mary Tyler Moore Show for best supporting actress in a comedy.

Brian's Song a touching ABC movie of the Week about two football players—Dale Sayers and the late Brian Piccolo —was named the outstanding single program.



Paul Junger Witt, the producer, who accepted the award, said:

"It was a labor of love. I want to thank one special person whose memory lingers with us, Brian Piccolo."

The Carol Burnett Show on CBS was named the outstanding musical variety series on its fifth nomination for the award. Miss Burnett, barrying off to catch a plane to begin shooting a movie, said: "I guess the cliche is always a bridesmaid and now I'm a bride."

Jack Lemmon in "S Wonderful, S Marvelous, S Gershwin, seen on NBC, was named the outstanding single musical or variety program.

The Dick Cavett Show, which is on notice from ABC that it must improve its ratings by this summer or face cancellation, was named the outstanding talk variety series.

Dan Blocker Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dan Blocker, the hulking Texas who as Hoss Cartwright helped rule a television rangeland on the western epic Bonanza, is dead at 43.

Blocker, whose 300-pound and bounce-and-laughter made him a favorite with the series' TV viewers in 70 countries, died in Sunday afternoon of complications following an operation earlier in the month.

He had been released after surgery for a gall bladder problem May 1 but suffered a subsequent infection, a family spokesman said. He died of a blood clot in the lung after he had gone to hospital in the morning complaining of shortness of breath. His wife and daughter were with him when he died.

The actor blended humor, sensitivity and power both on and off the TV screen.

Raised in West Texas, where in Bowie County he was legged, as the biggest baby ever born— 14 pounds, 2 ounces—he observed that he had never lost a flatfight and that his most toughs gave up trying to pick one when he was about 12.

Dan's career making $15,000 a show on the NBC series and another $15,000 a rerun, a salary that made him a millionaire in one of television's longest series, he talked wistfully of going back to ranching.

Young Mother Dies In Flaming Auto

TORONTO (CP) — A 18-year-old wife and mother died screaming in a flaming car at the top of a gas station hoist Sunday while her husband vainly tried to open the car door.

Edna Graziano, separated from her 16-year-old husband Michael for economic reasons, was visiting him, he explained, because "she was lonely . . . there was no one to talk to."

She was sitting in her husband's car listening to the tape recorder while he worked below, putting extensions on the shock absorbers.

Michael said his wife "fell asleep while the car was on the hoist." He finished his work, lowered the hoist and heard a bump.

"I let the car back up to the air. The clamp on the gas tank had pulled out and the gas started pouring out."

He started hosing the gas down.

"I thought of my wife and went to let the hoist down. Then I heard a loud pop, like a light bulb breaking. The flames shot across the floor and under my feet. . . . I stomped out the fire and then grabbed the door handle, but it burned my hands. I tried . . . I really tried . . . but I couldn't get it and I could hear her screams.

Quebec To Review Position

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa says Quebec is conducting an assessment of its relations with the federal government.

He said in an interview on radio station CJAD Saturday that the federal system had benefited Quebecers as individuals in the last two years more than the province as a whole.

People in Quebec have always considered the province to be the major government and the federal government as their secondary one.

And to reflect this, Quebec needs new financial powers although Quebec has gained on spending programs from the federal government in the last two years.

"We decided that the best way to negotiate was the quiet way," Premier Bourassa said. The traditional Ottawa-Quebec exchange of ultimatums appeared to get no results and the quiet approach had to be tried.

"In the next few days the cabinet will study a balance-sheet on Ottawa-Quebec relations prepared by the department of inter-governmental affairs . . . and perhaps we should consider a new strategy.

"We have to examine the alternatives available to us . . . the kind of retaliation we can use to a federal government which does not understand the particular requirements of Quebec."

Bourassa Flays Ottawa

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa lashed out Sunday night at what he called arrogance of the federal government in prosecuting social legislation which Quebec finds "totally unacceptable."

Mr. Bourassa said in an interview he sympathized with two of his cabinet ministers, Communications Minister Jean-Paul L'Allier and Social Affairs Minister Claude Castonguay, who were reported to have resigned last week because of the federal government's interference with Quebec's jurisdiction in the field of social affairs.

Both ministers said they would remain in the cabinet because of the labor difficulties the province is experiencing.

"The unilateral decisions of the federal government in a provincial field—health and welfare—put heavy pressure on our social welfare budget," Premier Bourassa said.

"Intervention in other sectors, economics for instance—is less important, but social affairs is extremely important."

In the past, Mr. Bourassa has kept differences between the two levels of government behind closed doors, saying "the provincial government in the past has too often issued ultimatums."

The social legislation Mr. Bourassa referred to was the increase in old age pensions contained in the federal budget presented May 8 by Finance Minister John Turner.

Backlash Surfaces in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Signs of division, uncertainty and backlash are purging through the torn curtain of Quebec society.

In the St. Lawrence north shore steel-belt lead work by workers' protests which virtually halted all business activity, businessmen have called for an end to "the reign of terror" and said they will reopen today since "police are in full control."

In a television broadcast, public service common-front supporters protesting the jailing of Quebec's three major labor leaders called the business reaction a "provocation."

In Montreal, blue-collar workers plan today to cut off all essential services except the city water supply, in a heated mass meeting Sunday. 2,000 of the 8,000 union members voted by only a narrow margin to expand their strike and reject city contract proposals.

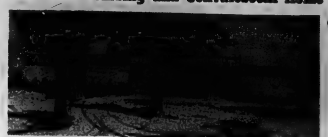
Where blue-collar leaders support confrontation of the legal strike and sympathy protest, leaders of city's public transport operators said they are trying to avert a work stoppage. The operators' union president, Roland Fauvier, personally applied a strike," said he thinks the majority of some 3,000 bus and subway drivers will vote in favor of a strike at a meeting tonight.

Port of Montreal officials said all crews called in Sunday reported for work after two days of walkouts. A number of rank and-file members were reported angry at common-front claims of their support, saying union leaders had forced them off the job under protest.

Even Quebec Power, a labor financed weekly, was the subject of division.

A group of militants claimed control of the paper, substituting a common-front text for the regular column by Jacques Parizeau. Parti Quebecois economist, but immediately, the common front issued a statement saying the action was stupefying and not approved because the weekly is already considered a common-front supporter.

Fernand Daoust, secretary-general of the Quebec Federation of Labor, said the protests "must not stop."



"Otherwise all the gestures of solidarity expressed spontaneously last week could be wasted."

In Hanford Mines, where workers were reported to have given over 100-per-cent support to the protest last week, union leaders said they would not require workers to strike against their will.

Union leaders added that merchants who open their businesses "will be considered traitors to the working class" as would anybody who buys their goods.

Okinawa Returned to Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The United States returned Okinawa to Japan today and Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew said the transfer opened a new era of full partnership between the two countries that fought the last great battle of the Second World War on the island.

Ending 27 years of American occupation, the 73 islands and one million inhabitants of Okinawa and the Ryukyus archipelago reverted to Japanese rule at 12:01 a.m. to the din of sirens, whistles and horns in the area.

Ten hours later, Agnew read President Nixon's proclamation of the turnover at a subdued Tokyo ceremony attended by Emperor Hirohito, a moist-eyed Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and other Japanese leaders.

There was a background of protest and threatened demonstration against the continued presence of U.S. military forces in Okinawa. The Tokyo ceremony was boycotted by the opposition Socialist party and by deputies who will represent the restored state of Okinawa in the Japanese parliament.

There was no violence during the Tokyo ceremony but tens of thousands of riot police were on the alert.

Agnew said the transfer "resolves the last major issue of the war," ends one era and begins a new one.

The audience of 4,000 stood during a speech by Emperor Hirohito, in whose name 110,000 Japanese soldiers died, defending Okinawa 27 years ago. U.S. casualties in the March 23-July 2, 1945 battle were 12,520 dead and 37,000 wounded.

Eight Japanese cities with leftist governments refused to observe the official half-day holiday proclaimed today.

The United States retained control of a number of bases.

The movement of American planes, ships and men from Okinawa now is subject to prior consultation with the Japanese government if they are headed directly for combat.

Okinawa has been a major American staging and supply area for the Vietnam war, however, and its importance has been reduced as American ground forces have been withdrawn from Vietnam.

10,000 Prostitutes Jobless

TOKYO (AP) — Ten thousand prostitutes' face unemployment in Okinawa with the return Monday of the island base to Japan. Prostitution is banned under Japanese law. Okinawa's economy has had little to sustain it except spending by the U.S. government on its military bases and by some 45,000 servicemen stationed there.

Students Hold 'Starvathon'

TORONTO (CP) — Eighty-nine students at 8 Roman Catholic girls' school here have gone 24 hours without eating to raise money for a visit this summer to a tiny, Northwestern Ontario community.

The Loretto College School students, raised $700 in the weekend "starvathon" for a trip to McDermott, a community of about 300 Indians and whites, north of Thunder Bay. A group of students will spend two weeks there this summer working with children and teen-agers.

Cabaret Club Fire Kills 117 in Osaka

OSAKA (Reuter) — Japanese on officials began an inquiry today into the rooftop cabaret club fire which killed 117 persons Saturday. Police said they had arrested an electrician suspected of causing the blaze.

One of the questions the fire department investigators were asking was why the door leading to an emergency stairway on the top floor of the seven-story building was locked when frantic nightclub hostesses and customers tried to escape.

Meanwhile, police were also questioning the manager of the cabaret, who escaped the blaze, on suspicion of having failed to lead those inside to safety.

A hostess died Sunday night, bringing the death toll to 48 men and 69 women.

The electrician was working on the third floor of the building with four others before fire swept through the structure on Saturday night. Police said they assumed he may have discarded a lighted cigarette.

The blaze, Japan's worst post-war fire, destroyed the interior of the building which housed a department store, packed with textiles and other goods.

Scantily-dressed girls and their customers plunged to their deaths from the seventh floor cabaret Play Town as flames and fumes from burning merchandise filled the buildings.

At least 49 persons escaped unhurt down firemen's ladders. But some shot out of the untended bottom end of a canvas rescue chute to be killed or severely injured.

Graham calls his discovery Poseiden, while the U.S. scientists call it Planet X. (CP Photo)

Bombs, Bullets Fail to Stop Eire Tourists

BELFAST (Reuter) — Despite the bombs and bullets that keep Northern Ireland ablaze, the tourists keep on coming.

"Of course there aren't as many as there used to be," said Ian Hill of the Northern Ireland Tourist Board.

"Some people seem to come just for thrills. There was one busload of American tourists last year who ran into an army search. They were in an afterwards saying how exciting they found it.

"And there were some German tourists recently who complained that their bus was not taking them into Free Derry."

Free Derry is the name used for the Roman Catholic region of Londonderry where the Irish Republican Army is virtually the only law, and where British soldiers and policemen do not go.

"We also get a lot of students coming because Northern Ireland is in the news," Hill said.

Statistics show that Northern Ireland had 775,000 visitors last year. This includes businessmen and people making multiple trips. About 40 per cent of these visitors were with friends or relatives in Northern Ireland.

The comparable figure for 1968, which was the last year before sectarian strife between Protestants and Catholics burst into open violence, was 1,694,000 visitors. Tourist revenue for 1971 was $32 million compared with $22 million for 1968.

The thrill-seeking tourist does not have far to look. Even to get into the headquarters of the Northern Ireland Tourist Board, he must go through strict security checks.

On the streets of Belfast and Londonderry, he can see soldiers crouched in battle positions in doorways while unconcerned housewives amble past.

At least once a day in Belfast he will probably hear a bomb go off.

In an ordinary department store, he may have to pass a checkpoint where a young girl is assigned to per inside shopping bags to make sure they contain nothing lethal.

Should a tourist break her hand mirror, she will have trouble getting a replacement. Glass is in heavy demand to replace thousands of shattered window panes.

The tourist will have to put up with restaurants closing early and buses disappearing from the roads in early evening.

Not all visitors are thrill seekers. Many head hurriedly for the country, away from the sound of gelignite exploding.

"We get a lot of Swiss going to the lakes in Fermanagh," Hill said. "They like to take out motor cruisers. Apparently you need a license to drive a motor cruiser in Switzerland and these are limited. So they come here."

Despite the closure of two hotels in Belfast, for lack of business during the last year, the number of hotel beds available in the city is greater than it used to be.

One 200-room hotel opened last year and another is due to start up in June.

One large hotel has been bombed three times but is still in business. They're putting so much gelignite under that place," says a wry joke going around Belfast, "that it'll likely be the first licensed hotel to land on the moon."

Disparity In Incomes Deplored

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Canada's Catholic bishops, in their recent meeting in Ottawa, noted "scandalous disparities" in the use of society's resources and said the unequal sharing of the nation's wealth is a social sin.

In a series of documents released after the meeting at the end of April, the statement reports, the bishops said Canadians should consume less and share more with the impoverished, both at home and abroad.

The newspaper says the bishops felt they should "set the pace" in avoiding unnecessary consumption themselves. They invited Canadians to support legislative programs leading to an "equitable redistribution of income."

Free Milk Demanded By Pupils

LONDON (AP) — Teen age revolutionaries have raised the banner of pupil power and called a strike for Wednesday in London's schools.

Among their demands: no more canning, no more staying after school, no more censorship of school magazines, no more school uniforms and free milk every day.

The School Action Union, known to have links with several grown up leftist groups, said if the one-day strike in London is successful, a country wide pupil walkout will be its next move.

Strike leaders claimed pupils from at least 72 of London's 224 schools will take the day off on Red Wednesday. They said that 10,000 will rally in Trafalgar Square and march on County Hall, the administrative seat of London.

About 180 youths between 12 and 18 met Sunday at a planning session in a curtained room at a London book store. Most were Mao badges and said they were Marxists. Police detectives questioned several of the leaders later.

"Don't take my picture," one youngster pleaded with a news photographer. "My mother thinks I'm at an art gallery. I'd lose my pocket money if she knew I was a

Connally Is Proposing 3-continent Trade Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally has raised the possibility that the United States may one day be linked with Canada, Japan, Western Europe and other countries in a trade alliance similar to the European Common Market.

Connally has been expounding the idea in a series of lunches with reporters in recent weeks, making it clear that he is merely speculating about the way he sees the economic world developing in the long range.

But the thought is intriguing to Connally and his treasury department associates, especially since they think that the European market has grown more restrictive, protectionist and inward-looking in recent years.

"He said that it is unlikely that Canada or Japan would want to make such an agreement with the United States now, even though he broached the idea of closer co-operation with Canada in recent talks.

Underlying the notion of another common market is a realization that the European union has created considerable economic clout.

Connally and his people clearly worry about competing trade blocs aggressively building and extending a pattern of trade and financial restrictions and controls around themselves.

Lowering or elimination of tariff barriers between the U.S. and Japan may be particularly difficult, Connally said, Japan, which is "perhaps the strongest economic power in the world" in terms of its growth, has erected a number of barriers making it difficult for U.S. exporters to sell there.

Connally has said that he expects Canada to continue some of its barriers, saying that he doubts the Canadian government would change its policies to suit the United States soon.

In short, officials say, the conditions under which another Common Market could be set up now between the United States, Japan, Canada and other countries are not good. But Connally indicates that may change in the future.

Sewage Dumped Around Tents to Stop Health Hazard

GLASTONBURY, England (AP) — Town council, fearing an invasion this summer like the one that brought 18,000 youngsters trampling into the district last year, is dumping sewage around tents and caravans of Jesus freaks.

But the youths refuse to move.

Tal Dressel, an 18-year-old girl who lives in a caravan on the outskirts of town, where legend has it Jesus Christ visited in his youth, said:

"I've been in poor health since the council dumped the stuff. It's enough to make anyone sick. But Glastonbury is a religious place for us and I've heard the angels singing here. We'll just sit tight."

Town clerk George Harland said: "The dumping is a preventive action. We've been warned that this summer the town will be invaded by hundreds of hippies.

"They can be a danger to health."

Airport Protested

Man Makes Flight Hanging to Kite

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — A Kite-flying exhibition highlighted the People or Planes Committee's spring festival which was held in northern Pickering Township this weekend.

Michael Robertson, 30, who operates the Flying Circus, a group which will appear at the Canadian National Exhibition this summer, flew about a quarter of a mile here on to a bright orange kite pulled on the end of a long rope by a pickup truck.

Mr. Robertson made the flight in protest of the new international airport.

Signs such as "You Can't Go To Heaven On A 747," and "Birds Fly, Let Them," and "We Will Not Be Moved," were nailed to trees and fences and buildings throughout the area.

Information centres contained anti-airport literature, including a special festival issue of Airport Information — a parody on the government's information bulletin on the airport.

Souvenirs sold in all centres included pictures of historic homes which will be destroyed by the airport.

Earlier, in an interview on radio station CKBB Barrie, Mr. Stanfield said he thought national leaders should not condemn the prison sentences of Quebec labor leaders.

"I am not interested in trying to defend the Quebec government but we have to maintain law and order for the courts in this country."

He said the three Quebec labor officials had the opportunity to appeal their sentences, "and I can only assume because they didn't that they would rather be martyred."

Dentist, PC MPP, Urges Dental Group to Accept Denturists

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Parrott, a dentist who is the progressive Conservative MPP for Oxford, shocked a meeting of the Ontario Dental Association Sunday by urging his colleagues to accept denturists.

The attitude of the dental association toward the use of auxiliary personnel such as denturists shows "we are still in the Second-Surgeon days," he told the assembled dentists.

His audience reacted angrily. As one point, their heckling became so intense Dr. Parrott pleaded with them to let him finish before making their criticisms.

After his speech Ivan Hrabowsky, a St. Catharines dentist and past president of the Ontario Dental Association, called Dr. Parrott's criticisms of the profession "completely preposterous and irresponsible."

Lyle Hatfelder of Kitchener, president of the Royal College of Dentists, said he found parts of Dr. Parrott's speech "very distressing."

Dr. Parrott said his views are compatible with those of Health Minister Richard Potter and the Ontario government, but he said his "thinking on this subject" was ahead of the government.

At present denturists are prohibited by law from selling dental plates directly to the public. Dental plates must be prescribed and fitted by a dentist.

Dr. Parrott says he is not waging a campaign to change the law, saying they can lower prices by dealing directly with the public. The dental association has reacted by bringing charges against denturists who open clinics.

Dr. Parrott said he sympathizes with the aims of the denturists though he disagrees with their methods.

He noted that denturists, in their submissions to the Ontario government, have proposed rigid controls over the qualifications and training of members of their profession.

In fact, said Dr. Parrott, he thought that their proposal that future denturists be required to have two years' practical training and two years' theoretical training went too far. —

"Frankly, I doubt if it takes four years to train a denturist," said Dr. Parrott, who has taught in dental schools at the University of Toronto and the University of Western Ontario.

In a later interview he suggested one year of practical training and one of theoretical would be adequate.

He made clear what he thought the dentist association should do:

"I think that we must accept them; the time is long past due. But we obviously must set up formal programs of training and also legalize the expanded role that they could play in providing services."

In other areas, he criticized the dental association for opposing that the cost of dental care for children up to age 18 should be covered under provincial health insurance, with the coverage being extended to older children one year at a time.

Dr. Parrott pointed out it would take 15 years for all school children to be covered under this plan, which "to me is completely unacceptable."

Quebec Police Shoot Fugitive

QUEBEC (CP) — Police shot and killed Pierre "Satan" Dansault Saturday night during a 20-minute gun battle near the Chateau Frontenac.

Dansault, serving a 15-year prison sentence for armed robbery, escaped custody Friday while being transferred from Ste. Anne des Plaines penitentiary near Montreal to the maximum-security Orsainville jail here.

He was to stand trial for the murder of Gerard Bergeron, 64, robbed and beaten to death with an iron bar last June.

He disarmed two Quebec Provincial Police officers who were transferring him, took their revolvers, and escaped into the city's Lower Town.

Municipal police tracked him to a boarding house where they were fired on. They replied with three shots before a woman appeared near the window of Dansault's room.

Dansault threatened to shoot her if police did not let him out.

Police fired tear gas into the rooming house and rushed the room where Dansault was hiding.

A series of shots rang out and Dansault was found dead on the floor, killed by a bullet below his left eye.

The woman, 22, in whose room Dansault was hiding, was questioned by police and later released. She said Dansault had broken into her room and held her prisoner.

Construction Worker Slain on Second Try

MONTREAL (CP) — A 42-year-old construction worker was killed Saturday when a train walked into his suburban Longueuil home and opened fire.

Andre Laclaie was in the kitchen watching television with his wife and 15-year-old son when the assailant burst through the doorway.

The victim did not have time to say a word before the gunman shot seven bullets into his head and body, police said.

It was the second time gunmen had fired at Mr. Lacaze in four months. Two men hit him with five shots in a shooting incident in the parking lot of an east - end shopping plaza last January.

Crash Kills 3

BRAMPTON (CP) — Three persons were killed and two seriously injured in a two-car accident near here Saturday night.

The dead are Keith Eccleston, 19, of Brampton, Catherine Blogeman, 19, of Waterloo, and Pamela Gawley, 17, of Georgetown.

Reported to be in serious condition are two Georgetown men, Charles Christie, 18, and Robert Christie, 25.

Owen Sound Wet

Apps Says Few Indians Want to Work in Jails

KINGSTON (CP) — Correctional Services Minister Sylvanus Apps told delegates attending an ethnic community workshop Saturday that few Indians have shown a desire to work with their own people in correctional institutions.

"Jobs for Canadian Indians go begging in reform institutions ... we've advertised for Indian workers in the Indian and Metis homes' organization at Stony Mountain penitentiary here. He told representatives of Kingston's ethnic cultures that Indians are underrepresented in institutions in Northern Ontario where 25 to 30 per cent of the prisoners are Indians.

Parole Rules Wrong for Indians

WINNIPEG (CP) — The senate committee on legal and constitutional affairs was told Saturday that more emphasis must be laid on conditioning convicts to live outside penal institution walls if progress is to be made in prison reform.

A brief from the Indian and Metis homes' organization said paid present parole regulations are unsuitable for native peoples. The parole rules and conditions were made by whites and did not take Indian and Metis into consideration.

Commons to Consider Election Cost Controls

OTTAWA (CP) — Debate on government plans for the collection and disposal of public money, began last Thursday following Monday's budget, continues in the Commons most of the week.

But parliamentary attention will be diverted at some point during the next five days by bill on election expenses.

That bill, which a government source says will be a "step toward putting all candidates on an even footing," follows lip-service intentions by a number of federal governments to reform election campaign finances. Despite extensive study, efforts have always been varying ideas on how to bring about reform.

Central to the budget was a reduction in corporation income tax in an effort to stimulate industrial expansion and create more jobs. It also increases pensions for old people and disabled war veterans and their dependents.

The old age pension provisions were referred by the Commons to its welfare committee Friday, increasing prospects that 1.8 million Canadians over 65 will get a bigger government cheque in time for any federal election after June.

Legislation to beef up veterans pensions will probably be referred in the same committee following debate Tuesday.

Budget discussion moved from the Commons to television during the weekend. Finance Minister John Turner appeared on both the CBC's national program Encounter and CTV television's network show Question Period Sunday to defend his taxing and spending plans.

He said his job as finance minister rests on business reacting to budget tax breaks by creating more jobs.

Royals Baffle Experts

OTTAWA (CP) — For the first time since competition for the Memorial Cup began in 1919, Cornwall, Ont., is the home of the national junior hockey champions.

The Royals, considered underdogs in this year's three-way competition against Peterborough Petes, Ontario Hockey Association champions, and Western representatives Edmonton Oil Kings, wowed the experts and delighted their loyal fans with a 2-1 win in Sunday's eight sudden-death game against Petes for the title.

"The toughest bunch of kids in the world," beamed their coach, Orval Tessier, after the Quebec Junior Hockey League champions skated off with the upset victory.

This was the first test of a new round-robin format for the Memorial Cup, bringing together Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada junior champions.

Although all three coaches spoke against the round-robin series to decide which two teams would play in the sudden-death game, the series was a success on the ice and at the box office.

All four games were reasonably close and provided good hockey. And more than 30,000 fans attended the Civic Centre for the games for a gate of approximately $198,000.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, governing body of amateur hockey, also announced during Sunday's game that all three major junior leagues have agreed to play the same type of series next year.

The OHA, Quebec and Western Canada leagues also agreed to move towards uniform regulations and rules and to continue to acknowledge the CAHA as their governing body.

Sunday's winning goal was the result of a hooking penalty to Peterborough's Danny Gloor.

His two-minute sentence was up and he was just about to leave the penalty box to play when Cornwall's Gary McGregor got the puck past Petes Mike Veisor to make it 2-1 early in the final period.

The Royals hung on grimly from there to the final bell but there were some tense moments as the Ontario champions tested Cornwall goalie Richard Brodeur.

Brodeur's brilliant work was the difference in the tight battle and it came as little surprise that he was named not only to the tournament's all-star team but also walked off with the Conn Stafford Smythe trophy, awarded for the first time to the tourney's most valuable player.

The Conn Stafford Smythe trophy was donated this year by the family of the late Stafford Smythe, to honor his long-time involvement in junior hockey.

DAN LUPEMETTE
On Cup Winners

Also named to the all-star team were defencemen Colin Campbell of the Petes and Bob Murray of Cornwall; centre Gerry Teeple of the Royals, and wingers Rob Smulers of the Petes and Dave Johnson of the Royals.

Teeple, a product of Trenton's minor hockey system, was one of two Quinte area members of the Memorial Cup champions.

The other was rookie Dan Lupenette, who graduated last season from Belleville Junior B ranks.

This was Peterborough's first win in the week of hockey. They earlier had defeated Royals 6-4 and Oil Kings 4-3 to qualify for the final game.

This also was the second time a Peterborough team played and lost in the Memorial Cup. They lost to a Winnipeg team 13 years ago.

Referee Joe Cassidy of Calgary assessed 76 minutes in penalties in the first period along with a game misconduct to Craig Brown of the Petes. Only seven minor penalties were called in the rest of the game, as the teams settled down to brilliant, two-way play in the second and third periods to get rounds of applause from the 10,155 fans.

Cornwall opened the scoring in the second period on an odd goal. Brian Bowles got credit for it after his slapshot from the point hit the boards behind the Peterborough net and bounced back into the crease.

Before goalie Veisor could control it, it was behind him.

Mike St. Cyr tied the score later in the period, setting the stage for McGregor's winning shot at 2:11 of the final period.

Thus the Memorial Cup remains in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League. Quebec Remparts won it last season.

Spokane Assumes Lead On Canadian Ice

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Spokane Jets' coach Norman Johnson is confident the return of Allen Cup play to the Jets' home ice tonight will give Spokane fans the chance to see their team win the cup.

The Jets lead Barrie Flyers 3-2 in the best-of-seven series for the cup, the symbol of Canadian senior hockey supremacy.

They moved back into the lead Saturday night by defeating the Ontario club 7-3 in Kimberley, B.C. The Flyers had won the previous two games to tie the series at two games apiece.

Two weekend games were played in Kimberley because Spokane ice had been previously committed.

A seventh game, if necessary, will be played here Tuesday.

Flyers' coach Darryl Sly said Friday his team was glad to be back on Canadian ice, but Spokane turned the change to their advantage Saturday, dominating the scoring throughout.

In Saturday's game, Barrie moved into an early lead with two goals from Ron Robinson in the first four minutes of play.

Spokane quickly substituted Russ Gillow for goalie Dave Cox, and from then on took over.

Don Scherra banged in a goal for the Jets less than a minute later and Ron Huston added the first of his three markers before the first period was over.

Barrie goalie Gerry McNamara was pulled from the game early in the second period after he was hit in the leg by the puck.

Key to Mint Wins Second Trial

Key To The Mint, which was kept out of the Kentucky Derby after winning the Derby Trial, scored an impressive victory Saturday in the Preakness Prep at Pimlico track in Baltimore.

Robert Woodhouse guided the colt to a 3½-length victory over previously unbeaten Ladigs, but trainer Elliott Burch said he was committed to use jockey Braulio Baeza in next Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness.

Upper Case, expected to run in the Preakness as an entry with Derby winner Riva Ridge, wound up a disappointing last in the five-horse field.

Parent Much in Demand

OTTAWA (CP) — At least three World Hockey Association clubs have said they are willing to pick up goalie Bernie Parent's contract from the defunct Miami Screaming Eagles, says Ed Fitkin, an administrative assistant to the WHA president.

Fitkin said in an interview that New England Whalers and Minnesota Fighting Saints are in the market for the Toronto Leafs' goalie-it-the still is willing to switch leagues.

The third club said to be interested in Parent is one of two new cities being considered for WHA franchises. The best bet is Philadelphia.

Fitkin said that if Parent agrees to join any of the three clubs, his three-year contract, said to be worth $750,000, will be guaranteed by the WHA.

General managers from the 10 WHA clubs were in Ottawa over the weekend to discuss policies on such administrative matters as rules, number of players to be carried and training camps.

BERNIE PARENT
Contract Still Good

While the new league will go along with most rules now in force in the National Hockey League, one change being considered is playing overtime.

Most of the managers said they would be making announcements of signings of NHL players next week in their home cities.

Bill Hunter of Edmonton Oil Kings, for example, said he had in his pocket "signed contracts of two young NHL players."

Fitkin said that some of the NHL players signed are in the super-star category.

But the WHA was more concerned with tight competition, he said. That would attract fans.

Fitkin told the news conference that 10 clubs already have posted bonds and will be definite starters next season.

MAKE IT A SAFE HOLIDAY CELEBRATION

Every Year Many Children Are Seriously Injured Through Mishandling of Fireworks Displays . . .

HERE'S HOW TO THROW A SAFE FIREWORKS' PARTY:

1. Keep firing location clear of overhead obstructions such as wires and trees.
2. Use buckets or boxes of sand as firing bases. Set fireworks at a 10 degree angle away from spectators.
3. Keep a garden hose nearby.
4. Keep a metal container handy, partially filled with water for disposal of used firework pieces.
5. Use "punk" as an igniter. Hold at arm's length, apply to wick and stand clear immediately.
6. Keep all fireworks in a box and close lid after removing each piece for firing.
7. Keep your children back from firing points.
8. An adult should be in charge of the actual firing of the display. An older child may assist.

This youngster agrees that Victoria Day wouldn't be the same without the famous Sparkler — the only firework designed to be held in the hand.

What few people seem to realize, however, is that that a lit Sparkler can reach a temperature of 2000 degrees F. Even the wire's afterglow can cause serious burns and clothing fires.

Sparklers should be held away from the body and discarded in a metal container immediately after use.

Mays Makes Self at Home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I'm just glad I'm back playing in New York," said Willie Mays Sunday after he had made a dramatic debut with the Mets, hammering a tie-breaking home run in a 5-4 victory over his former San Francisco teammates.

"There's no place to play like New York," said the 41-year-old Mays, who started his major league career in 1951 with the Giants, when the club was in New York.

Mays acquired Thursday from the Giants for minor league pitcher Charlie Williams and an undisclosed amount of cash, said he had mixed feelings about the homer he hit off Don Carrithers in the fifth inning.

"I had feelings for both sides when I hit it," he said. "I wanted to help the Mets, but I had a feeling for the Giants.

"As I rounded third, I looked into the dugout and saw Giant uniforms. That's the only uniform I've worn until now. I didn't know what they were thinking."

Mays' home run was the 647th of his career, but only his first of the season. He is the all-time leader among right-handed hitters, two ahead of Atlanta's Hank Aaron. Babe Ruth's 714 homers top the list.

Mays recalled that his first hit as a Giant also was a homer, a drive off Boston Braves Warren Spahn.

The victory Sunday gave the Mets a 17-7 record, best in the National League, and put them three games ahead of runner-up Philadelphia in the East Division.

Mays' homer, which tied him with former Giant Mel Ott for seventh place on the all-time RBI with 1,859, overshadowed Tony Taseh's first grand-slam homer with the Mets.

"It was Mays' day," conceded Staub, former Montreal Expos' star.

Staub's homer followed three walks by Sam McDowell in the first inning. The Giants tied the score in the fifth on Bernie Williams' run-scoring pinch triple, Chris Speier's RBI double and Tito Fuentes' two-run homer. Then, in the bottom of the inning, Mays lined his homer into the left field bullpen.

Twins' Students Revolt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's a student revolt going on in the American League West Division where, with full approval of Al Worthington, Minnesota's dean of pitchers, the Twins have taken over.

It's a peaceful demonstration, though. At least most opposing batters have acted peaceful enough to give the Twins' pitching staff a 1.86 earned-run average following unbeaten Jim Kaat's 4-3 victory Sunday over Milwaukee Brewers.

The Twins are off to their fastest start in history with a 16-5 record and lead the West by 2½ games over Oakland. Kaat, 4-8, is off to a better start than 1966, when he won 25 games.

Worthington, who retired as an active pitcher in 1969, came back to coach Minnesota's pitching staff this season and school started in spring training.

"We talked about a lot of things," Worthington said. "We brought in the infielders to talk about pitchers, hitters to talk about pitchers. We talked about a lot of things pitchers need to know."

Kaat not only stopped Milwaukee on six hits but hit a two-run homer in the third. Two Minnesota errors helped the Brewers spoil Kaat's shutout bid in the ninth and Billy Conigliaro homered in the ninth for their other run.

Belgians Score First

By REUTER

Belgium scored a historic but blitzkreged 3-1 victory over title-holders Italy in Brussels Saturday night to reach the European soccer championship semi-finals for the first time in its history.

Belgium's win was only its second in international matches against Italy and earned it the right to stage the semi-final tournament starting June 11 in which they will meet West Germany.

West Germany drew 0-0 in its quarter-final second leg against England in Berlin to qualify for the last four on the strength of its 3-1 first-leg triumph in London.

When Is 474 Not Bad?

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

There aren't many five-pin bowling tournaments in which a 474 would win anybody a high triple trophy.

Saturday's Eastern Ontario Bowling Tournament for the Blind was an exception.

Peterborough's Earl Schyens won for his 474 three-string, highest rolled by any totally sightless bowler, of which there must be one to each competing team.

Teams from Ottawa, Cornwall, Belleville, Peterborough and two from Kingston participated in Saturday's tournament at the Bowl-O-Drome, marking the first time the annual event had been held in this city.

All competitors must be registered blind, having 5 per cent vision or less.

Kingston's Elma Smith took totally - blind ladies' high triple honors with her 362.

Margaret Mirco of Peterborough topped partially-sighted female contestants with a 405 triple, while Ottawa team captain Francois Avon compiled a 389 total to top partially - sighted male entrants.

Avon was also presented with the Corby Distilleries Trophy when it was announced the Ottawa team had won the first year's Mail-O-Gram competition for their performance over a 29-week period.

The presentation was made by Cecil Becker of the Belleville plant, the director responsible for eye bank information on the Hastings - Prince Edward advisory board to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Ottawa's Staff Sgt. Rallah also earned a trophy for a 792 triple, highest among the coaches, the only sighted members permitted on each team.

Saturday's tournament, the 20th-plus Intalmost of it the event, was officially opened with a frame of blindfolded bowling by city aldermen Robin Jeffrey and Intelligencer Sports Editor Maurice Switzer.

The latter compiled a grand total of seven potsts on three balls to zero for his opposition.

Acknowledgements were scored to Mr. Maurice Hollins, the Knights of Columbus, Corby's, the Kinettes' Club, the Bowl-O-Drome, the Tuneamen and the Belleville Federation of Musicians, Local 357 for their contributions in making the tournament and an evening banquet successes.

Strikes Worth Suntan

Some bowlers expect to get high scores out of their sport, others exercise, or plain enjoyment.

Leslie Dostator can add a suntan to her other bowling accomplishments.

Mrs. Dostator won a July expense-paid vacation for two to Bermuda in a Sunday five-pin roll-off in London sponsored by Belleville's Brunswick Bowl and Toronto and London Brunswick houses.

Mrs. Dostator's 280 single last of her three tries, was the highest rolled by any of the finalists. She is the first Belleville winner in the six-year history of the Bowl-Your - Way - to - Bermuda event.

Don Lougheed, one of three Belleville men competing, was a distant runner-up, rolling a 267 high single to the Toronto winner's 300.

Team Effort

There was a lot of teamwork involved in the first Belleville staging Saturday of the Eastern Ontario Bowling Tournament for the Blind. Here local CNIB director Cecil Becker presents the first Corby Distilleries Trophy for team Mail-O-Gram competition to Francois Avon, partially - sighted captain of the winning Ottawa team. Six teams participated in Saturday's event, open to bowlers with 10 per cent vision or less.

Barcovan Members Golfed Mother's Day

Members of Barcovan Golf and Country Club took their ladies golfing for Mother's Day in a Mr. and Mrs. Friendship Tournament.

Ruth Burtt took ladies' low gross honors on the club's par-three layout. Diane Root and Jeanne Stickle were hidden hole winners. Rachel Brown turned in the most honest score for a hole, and Pat Ellis and Barb Paul were tied as the most honest ladies for the nine-hole round.

Pat Brown, Wilbert Green, and George Mountenay tied for men's hidden hole honors on the course's regular nine.

"I was just going to see if I could trade in my shot for a power mower!"

Track Issue Soon Settled

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Wednesday is a day of reckoning in the lives of Gerry Farrell and Jim Thomson. That's when they'll answer the call, deciding once and for all who really is a faster runner.

A warmup Saturday at CCD to this week's Bay of Quinte track meet did little to resolve the issue, every Quinte Secondary School, barely held Jim off as he won the 1,500-metre senior event by a one second in the time of 4:37.

Jim, from Centennial Secondary School, came back in the open 3,000 metres to finish first with a time of 9:18, nine seconds better than runner-up Gerry.

Both runners will compete in each event against the best in the county when the COSSA regional meet is held at Trenton Secondary School Wednesday.

Saturday's run-offs featured athletes from seven secondary schools in Belleville, the top six finishers in each event qualifying for Wednesday's showdown.

Among the boys, Ross Simmonds of BCI was the big winner, capturing the midget 100 metres, shot put and discus events.

Four triple winners from three different schools highlighted a strong showing by the city's girls.

Anne Senson of Moira Secondary School took top place in the midget 100 and 200 metre sprints and anchored Moira's winning 400 - metre relay team.

Another Moira miss, Ginnie Irwin, swept the junior ladies field events with firsts in the shot put, discus and javelin.

BCI's Joy Redner captured the senior 100 and 200 metre races, returning to the asphalt later to help her school win the 400 metre relay.

Gary Mutsswaire, grade 12 student at Albert College, took the junior boys' 100 and 200-metre sprints in convincing times of 12.3 and 24.3.

The native of Rhodesia, whose parents are teachers in Moosonee, Ont., also had a third in the long jump, won by Ken Bowen of Quinte.

Other double winners were Ralph Kolmer of Moira, banten 100 and 200 metres; Mitch Hannah of BCI, bantam 1,600 metre and high jump; Dan Meeca of Centennial, midget 1,600 and Roger Bay of Quinte, junior 800 and 1,600 metres; Dan Golonka of Moira, midget high jump and triple jump; and Rick Meagher of Quinte, senior triple jump and javelin.

Among the girls, two-time winners were Barbara Graham of BCI, 400 metres and high jump; Pat Gorazdowski of Albert College, junior 400 and 800 metres; and Janice Cook of BCI, senior 400 and 800 metres.

Ryun Falters

PHILADELPHIA (Reuter) — Dave Wottle, a 23-year-old college student, won the mile by a nose in the fourth annual Martin Luther King Freedom Games Sunday as world record holder Jim Ryun faltered and finished ninth. Wottle, of Bowling Green University in Ohio, was clocked at 3:58.5 as was Harold Mitchell, a U.S. marine, who was just behind. Ryun was unofficially clocked at 4:14, well off the world mark of 3:51.1 which he set in 1967.

Hosts Top Shots

The Quinte Trap and Gun Club were the hosts with the most in a five-club competition staged at their range Sunday.

The top five scores from each club counted, with the host club's A. B. Burgess, D. Scrimshaw, A. H. Pringle, D. Johnston, and C. Thorn compiling a winning 331 total.

Peterborough was next at 311, Picton third at 310, Cobourg fourth at 307, and Modoc fifth at 294.

CAROL ARMSTRONG

Rovers Win

Opportunity knocked twice and Lino's Rovers were there to answer in a Sunday exhibition arbitor soccer match.

The Belleville Ontario Cup side missed on one penalty kick attempt, but Ernie Brown scored on their second to give the Rovers a 1-0 win over Toronto Deisa, 1971 champions of the Metro Toronto League's second division.

Archer Passes One Olympic Test

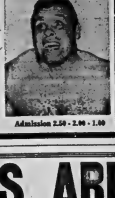
It's one down and three to go for former Canadian Women's Archery champion Carol Armstrong.

Sunday the Belleville Archery Club-standout shot one of four rounds she needs to qualify her to compete in the Canadian Olympic Team Trials in Regina July 1-2.

After missing the women's 1,050-point standard by eight points in windy Saturday shooting, Mrs. Armstrong adjusted and came up with a 1,091 - point effort Sunday.



Competitors shot 144 arrows, worth a maximum 10 points apiece.

The two rounds at Centennial Secondary School marked the first of four consecutive weekends of Olympic qualifying archery in the city. National champion Don Jackson of Lindsay conceded the men's qualifying total of 1,100 points on both days, but needs only 2 rounds of 5 completed rounds, or one more than required to attend the Olympic Trials.

Kitchener-area bowman Elmer Ewert shot a 1,214 round Sunday to give him the four required to go to Regina.

Next weekend's two Belleville rounds, which will get under way Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m., will be classed as a FITA Star tournament, one of only 10 the Federation of International Target Archers alots to member countries each year at which records will be recognized.

Tough Test for Ballet

LONDON (CP) — Canada's National Ballet company begins a tough round of rehearsals today in preparation for its gala European debut Wednesday, before Princess Anne, Prime Minister Heath and the cream of Britain's ballet world.

The 62-strong company—including a full stage crew as well as 34 dancers—flew into London Sunday. Some technicians and a planeload of $150,000 worth of scenery arrived last week, preceded by publicity director Joe Lewis and artistic director Celia Franca, who is making her first professional visit to Britain since she left here for Canada in 1951.

The dancers see London as the key in establishing the international recognition they hope to achieve in the seven-week European tour.

Lewis, who started laying the groundwork for the tour as long ago as the summer of 1969, said Sunday London probably is the world's most important centre for ballet criticism.

"The major ballet critics of the world are here—at least a dozen, who are very well respected."

As well as top critics, the first-night audience watching La Sylphide and The Mirror Walkers will include such ballet figures as Dame Ninette de Valois, Marie Rambert and Sir Frederick Ashton. Miss Franca studied under Rambert and danced with Dame Ninette's Sadler's Wells company before heading for Canada, where she founded the National Ballet in 1951.

The company is presenting nine ballets during its 18-day London tour.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, May 16

Aries (March 21-April 19): If you're good humor will last, you'll have something to be proud of. Try to do a little better than most people in the stress they feel.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Expect mixed schedules, complications requiring an extra move. Give everybody time to turn around before trying to rush matters.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): The bright idea may be little more than skim—think twice before acting. Financial moves require checking.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): It's an uphill day, in which you see more of your mate's needs, meet resistance. Pay attention to the doings of younger people.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Make some definite operation plans early and stay with them. You can keep watch on only so many details at the same time. Just so split up the job.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cautious with strange people and new circumstances pays. No province on your part will work, so play it straight.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The complex becomes easier to resolve if you try to clear up simple questions close at hand, expecting no great help from anywhere.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you get anything serious settled today, you're good. If you keep your sense of humor. Even better, see the day as a circus.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Follow yesterday's actions with skepticism. Taking too many people into your confidence comes very easily—be a bit more discreet.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Show both patience and persistance as you go through logical sequence of plans and transactions today. Seek diversion.

Aquaries (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It is easy to tell others what to do; what needs improvement is your way of doing anything. Just a little thought brings returns.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Rely on your own resources; avoid scattering money. Some tough spot in your work yields to sustained effort now.

MS Not Hereditary Nor Contagious

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please publish some facts about multiple sclerosis, especially to clarify that it is neither hereditary nor contagious.—Mrs. F. F.

I'm glad to comply with your specific request. Multiple sclerosis is not contagious. You don't catch it from anyone else, so it is not hereditary. Long ago in the study of the disease given no evidence that it is inherited.

There is absolutely no reason only some, because there can be to be afraid of a person who has MS. But you can and should have sympathy for him.

The disease affects the sheath which covers nerve trunks. The material of which the sheath is composed, myelin, is lost. This is a patchy situation, and the place (or places) where the loss of myelin occurs has a great deal to do, naturally, with the manner in which the patient is affected.

Some of the symptoms—I list so many—include periods of numbness or tingling, visual difficulties such as blurring, double vision, temporary episodes of blindness; slurred speech; involuntary eye movements; poor coordination; muscles weakness.

Not all of these symptoms need be present and there can be others I haven't mentioned. Diagnosis of the disease because there is no simple, specific test for it, seldom is made when the disease first begins. It requires elimination of other possible causes for the various symptoms.

No specific cause has been ascertained. Many have been suspected and discarded. But what is known at present is that there is no specific treatment. It becomes a matter of allowing time to what extend we can, some of the troubles resulting from it. Avoiding excessive fatigue or injuries and preventing or quickly combating infections are part of the task.

For whatever unknown reasons, the disease is mostly likely to attack adults in the prime of life (age 20 to 40), but apparently more often in cool, damp climates, seldom in hot. (That does not mean that moving to a hot area will cure the disease, though.)

Occasionally MS comes on suddenly but more often it creeps up insidiously. It usually progresses slowly and is quite accountable ups and downs. Often a patient has periods of feeling well, with no obvious symptoms. But usually there is a return of the symptoms, and they are gradually more severe. There are remarks, however, of remission—that is, periods when the disease seems to have halted—lasting for years.

Should a dependable treatment for MS be discovered, you won't have to look for news of it in this column; it will be news of worldwide importance, since neither sex nor race appears to have any effect on who gets it and who does not.

Research and information on MS are sponsored by the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada, 76 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ont., and all interested in the disease will do well to get in touch with that organization. There are local branches in many cities.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl 15 years old. I get headaches right above my eyes.

My mother has been telling me that long hair is the cause of my headaches. Does long hair cause headaches?—C.K.,

Long hair does not cause headaches and, of course, it's hanging down over your eyes.

Note to A.E.C.: I am not aware of any harmful aspects of the Transcendental Diet. They are destroyed by cooking.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Famous Hand

West dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

| | NORTH | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ K976 | |
| | ♥ AKQJ1087 | |
| | ♦ 4 | |
| | ♣ K7 | |
| WEST | | EAST |

| ♣ Q32 | | ♣ 10985 |
| | SOUTH | |
| | ♠ A | |
| | ♥ 65 | |
| | ♦ AKQ876 : | |
| | ♣ AJ64 | |

The bidding:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1♥ | Pass | 3♠ |
| Pass | 3♥ | Pass | 4♥ |
| Pass | 4NT | Pass | 7♦ |
| Pass | 7♥ | Pass | Pass |

Opening lead — queen of spades.

This dramatic hand occurred in the playoff last fall between the Aces and a team headed by Lew Mathe of Los Angeles. The Aces won the 160-board match handily, and so earned the right to represent the United States in the 1972 World Olympiad.

When Goldman and Lawrence were North-South for the Aces at the first table, the bidding went as shown. There were of course many different ways of arriving at the optimum contract of seven notrump, but it's hard to quarrel with the Goldman - Lawrence sequence that got them there.

Some expert opinion, vociferous at the time, held that Lawrence should have passed seven hearts instead of bidding seven notrump. This argument being based on the dread possibility that Goldman might not have the king of clubs as an entry to the hearts. However, Lawrence was a 100 per-cent right in the actual case — seven notrump is a safer contract than seven hearts. Besides, it's always hard to argue with success.

At the second table, with Krauss and Mathe respectively North - South, the bidding was more brisk. It went:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1♥ | Pass | 7♦ |
| Pass | 7♥ | Pass | Pass |

This contract failed when the diamonds proved to be divided 4 - 1, and the Mathe team lost 2,320 points on the deal!

Mathe was heavily criticized for his splurge to seven diamonds, and it does seem that he could have adopted a more leisurely pace in approaching the grand slam. Krauss also came in for criticism for passing seven diamonds, though the weight of opinion was that his pass was correct.

Regardless of who was to blame—the fact remains that a cold vulnerable grand slam went down the drain.

Tomorrow: The king can do no wrong.

Tennis Team Ousted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vicente Zarazua, playing captain for the Mexican Davis Cup team, said before play began he was confident of his team's ability to defeat Canada in the best-of-five challenge round.

His confidence was borne out as the two teams completed three days of competition Sunday with Mexico taking a 3-2 victory and the right to meet the defending Davis Cup champion United States team.

"We thought before the series began that it would come down to the doubles," Zarazua said.

"We were very confident of taking the doubles. After all, we have never lost a doubles game against Canada."

In fact, the Mexicans had never even lost a set against the best Canada could offer in doubles competition in Davis Cup play.

Mike Belkin, the Canadian team captain, and 21-year-old Dale Power of Toronto broke that record in taking one set, but the Mexicans took three others, and the match. Saturday.

Zarazua and Joaquin Loyo Mayo defeated the pair 6-4, 6-3, 8-6, 6-3.

For the Canadian side, the round was a dreary repetition of last year's Mexico City round. In which Mexico also won 3-2. Mike Belkin took two singles matches, as he did in Mexico City, but Canada couldn't manage another point.

"I'll say you had some bodies today. In fact, nobody would believe the ones on 18!"

Heard Sets His Sights

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Heard is a casual, relaxed, quietly-confident young man, who has immediate goals now, especially after his victory Sunday in the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

"I want to knock off Jack Nicklaus," he said, lacking even a trace of bravado.

"I'll play next week in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Open starting Thursday, but I'm not sure what I'll do after that. I want to be right for the U.S. Open. I want to get Nicklaus."

The NIT was his third career victory and second this season.

Nicklaus skipped this event but will play in Memphis.

Heard's $25,000 first prize increased his tour winnings this season to $150,000, second to Nicklaus' $154,000.

George Knudson of Toronto picked up $1,267 for his 286 total after a final-round-75. Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg also shot 75 Sunday for a 294 total and $276.

Rosewall Defends Court Crown

DALLAS (AP) — Ken Rosewall captured the dramatic tie-breaker to climax a marathon five-set match Sunday and successfully defend his World Championship of Tennis crown against the same man he beat in 1971, fellow Australian ROD Laver.

The 36-year-old Rosewall earned $50,000 with his 4-6, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6 victory over the 33-year-old Laver, who got a consolation prize of $20,000.

Rosewall, at times stumbling from the fatigue of the gruelling 220-minute match, won the final set tie-breaker 7-5 over the disappointed Laver, a tennis millionaire who twice has won the sport's grand slam but was again denied the WCT title.

Rosewall, besides winning the big pay cheque, received an automobile, a diamond ring and a trophy.

In the third-place match, Arthur Ashe beat Marty Riessen 6-3, 6-4 to earn $10,000. Riessier collected $8,000 for fourth place

Unser Wins Pole

INDIANAPOLIS (A P) Bobby Unser drove a fragile, lightweight race car 10 miles at an unbelievable 195.940 miles an hour Sunday and said: "I feel like crying."

"We had our necks stuck out a mile, and for the first time in years I really felt like I was driving at the ragged edge of disaster," said the man who almost surely has clinched the pole position for the 56th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 27.

Plagued by bad weather that washed out all of Saturday's first session of time trials at Speedway officials managed to place 12 drivers in the 33-car field after waiting out rain showers that twice interrupted proceedings Sunday.

Bobby Unser, driving a new Eagle produced by Dan Gurney's All-American Racers, rocketed around the 2½-mile oval to compile his 195.940 average.

Monaco Winner Led All Way

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — France's Jean Pierre Beltoise, in a BRM V-12, led from start to finish to win the Monaco Grand Prix Formula 1 auto race Sunday in pouring rain. It was his first Grand Prix victory since he started in major competition eight years ago.

Belgium's Jacky Ickx, in a Ferrari, was second. Emerson Fittipaldi of Brasil in a JPS Lotus was third and increased his lead in the world driving championship.

Stanbury Hints More Curbs Due

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government's plan to veto foreign takeovers not beneficial to Canada is only the first step toward a more forceful policy on foreign investment, Robert Stanbury, federal communications minister, said Saturday.

He told about 150 persons at a Liberal riding association meeting that the proposal for cabinet review of takeover bids is "not the last step nor the last word."

"It shouldn't be interpreted as a rejection of all the other ideas that were presented to the government.

"The provinces have been the most difficult group to convince of the seriousness of the problem, the most difficult to convince of the necessity for any policy."

Epileptics Form Group To Seek Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Epilepsy Association is establishing a Canada's first job placement program for epileptics, the association's executive director says.

David Goodyear said in a weekend interview the new program will find suitable job openings and match them with candidates who are adaptable.

Mr. Goodyear said the program was planned after a survey of 110 companies in Metropolitan Toronto which showed they have misinformed and cautious about hiring epileptics.

Ronald Baker, the man who conducted the survey, said: "The epileptic seeking employment in Metro Toronto will face discrimination, not out of hostility, but out of ignorance."

Autopsy Is Planned On Egyptian Mummy

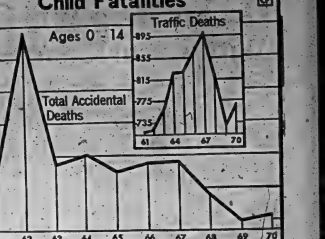
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doctors will perform an autopsy Tuesday on an Egyptian mummy to discover whether cancer, hepatitis, syphilis and polio existed in the country 3,000 years ago.

The autopsy will be conducted at the physical anthropology laboratory of the University of Pennsylvania Museum by doctors who hope it will help prepare for possible future study of living patients in case patterns.

"We will see if man then died of the same things we do," said Dr. Martin Mandel, a 46-year-old oncologist said today. "I have a good idea they may have, but I don't think they lived long enough to develop some of the diseases we're now getting."



The subject of the autopsy will be one of three mummies which have been carried at the museum. None is a pharaoh or a queen—just an ordinary citizen of ancient Egypt.

STUBBORN CONTENDER

LONDON (CP) — Tory eyebrows were raised when it was announced that one candidate for a Young Conservative adult branch was an inmate of a local mental hospital. The nomination was rejected. "Kenneth Wiley, 24, single, one child," in fact Kenneth Wiley turned out to be a Conservative goat; he was nominated by Young Conservatives protesting that the organization was just "playing the goat" with Tory party policies.

Keep an Eye on The Kids

The Canadian Safety Council, which holds its Child Safety Week May 17, says more Canadian children under the age of 15 die as a result of accidents than from the major diseases.

Graph shows the number of children killed in accidents since 1961, with the total reaching a peak of 2,975 in 1968. During the same period the highest number of traffic deaths was recorded in 1967 with 983 children killed. The latest figures, unaudited, show that 1,626 children died in 1970, 178 in traffic accidents. (CP Newsmap)

Queen Elizabeth to Stay In Palace 'Sun King' Built

VERSAILLES (Reuter) — During her state visit to France this week, Queen Elizabeth will stay in a 17th-century palace built by the "sun king," Louis XIV, as a place to hold parties and to impress the court formally.

At the Grand Trianon Palace in Versailles, the Queen will find herself surrounded by a carefully crafted reflection of French glory in architecture, art and furnishings, with reminders of Louis XIV in the three-centuries-old portraits of himself and of Napoleon in the first-empire style of many rooms.

Although much smaller than the nearby main Palace of Versailles, the Grand Trianon still has 70 rooms. Among them are Napoleon's bedroom, bathroom and study, the great dining room of King Louis-Philippe, and the five "rooms of mirrors" inspired by the 17th-century royal council room.

Queen Elizabeth will not sleep in the Grand Trianon's royal bedroom but in a less ornate room is nearby—at her own choice.

The history of the palace stretches back to January, 1688, when Louis XIV bought the ground on which stood a village called Trianon.

The bosses and village church were demolished and a royal artichoke built a small chateau designed for royal parties and known as "the house of porcelain." Because it was constructed in materials which resembled porcelain.

But for all its decorativeness, the house of porcelain had been built for barely a year when, in 1687, another royal architect drew up plans for a new building on the same site.

Louis XIV inaugurated the building—the present Grand Trianon—with a dinner Jan. 22, 1688, at which he was accompanied only by a select few, other guests being invited to the Grand Trianon for evening entertainment.

Queen Visits Stanbury Country

Queen Elizabeth will visit Stanbury country in Yorkshire, England, on her state visit to France this week. Stanbury is the setting for the Bronte sisters' novels, including "Wuthering Heights" and "Jane Eyre."

Better Pollution Controls Urged Ere Smokestack Used

SUDBURY (CP) — Delegates to a weekend pollution conference demanded that the International Nickel Co. of Canada improve its anti-pollution measures before putting its giant proved a resolution urging the company to install "proper and effective" anti-pollution devices.

The resolution, passed at the conference of delegates also urged that no smokestack be used before adequate anti-pollution devices are installed.

The resolution was introduced by Sudbury area supervisor for the United Steelworkers of America, said the resolution was aimed at the tabled strike contract negotiations between the union and Inco.

Neither the provincial government nor Inco had representatives at the conference although both were invited to attend.

Prof. Ross Hall of McMaster University in Hamilton said in a briefing that Sudbury area should concentrate on reclaiming sulphur and selling it for fertilizer, rather than losing it through air emission.

Ontario Loans Aid Farmers

TORONTO (CP) — Gordon Hill, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, says a provincial loan program to help farmers purchase breeding stock will put Ontario's beef industry on an equal footing with other provinces.

"We have the land and we have the grain but we don't have the financing," Mr. Hill said in a statement.

Government guarantees on bank loans were announced in the provincial budget tabled by Agriculture Minister William Stewart.

The minimum loan to a farmer is $2,500 and the maximum is $15,000. A farmer must have a minimum net of $3,000 to qualify.

The loans will be over a seven-year period at current interest rates plus one per cent. During the first two years, the farmer will pay only the current interest.

Red Arrows Take Off For Canada

LONDON (CP) — The crack Red Arrows of the Royal Air Force, who thrill audiences by propelled aerobatics in many parts of the world, left Britain for Canada today on their first visit to North America.

Led by Sqdn. Ldr. Ian Dick, the nine tiny planes in the team took off from the RAF base at Kemble in Gloucestershire on a transatlantic trip which will take them to Canada by stages —first to Scotland, then to Iceland and Greenland, and with a refuelling stop at Goose Bay, Labrador, via Frobisher, N.W.T., May 17.

After that the team flies on to Trenton, Ont., and from there to Cornwall, Montreal, Que., for its first Nato American performances.

The Red Arrows, flying their advance-trainer jets, return to Canada from the United States for performances at Bagotville, Que., June 9 and others at Trenton and St. Catharines, Ont., June 18 and 19.

The Gnat is the smallest jet now in RAF service, its top range of 1,000 miles caused the group to take its Atlantic crossing in stages.

Happy Ones Go Home After 2 Years on Isle

MATSU (AP) — The landing strip stood like the sand, its bow doors gaping like the jaws of a breached whale, as Taiwanese soldiers trooped aboard.

"Tony're the happy ones," a local onlooker said. "They're going home."

But though a few hundred of Matsu's garrison were flying home to Taiwan, ending their two-year stint on the island, thousands more were remaining behind in the rocky hills of the island, only two miles from the port of Foochow on the Chinese mainland.

Some 200 miles to the south, a larger Taiwanese garrison holds Quemoy Island in the mouth of the mainland's Amoy harbor. "The army's lonely vigil on some 15 such islands along the China coast is all that remains of Chiang Kai-shek's hold on the Chinese mainland.

None of the islands has seen battle for years.

The Taiwanese cannot leave if only because they have spent years trying to build up the islands and telling their allies how important they are. How could Peking throw them out without heavy losses and a range of unfavorable publicity.

With both sides at stalemate, the islands have become for the most part backwaters.

Communists and Taiwanese have worked out a series of tacit agreements to keep the peace while maintaining the image of war.

The two sides have even reached a detente on the inshore fishing grounds, where junks of both sides take the prized lowfish for which this part of the coast is famous.

There is no conscription of the 30,000 Taiwanese, but everyone is enrolled in militia units for civil defense.

Token U.S. support for the islands continues despite President Nixon's trip to China.

The U.S. Central Intelligence Agency also maintains a small monitoring operation on the islands.

Many U.S. officials long ago wrote off the islands militarily. Efforts have been made to pressure the Taiwanese to reduce their commitment to the islands on grounds they are too expensive to maintain and the down too many of the government's best troops.

But even if the value of the islands is questionable in military terms, they are crucial to the morale of the troops that the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan form the government of all China.

Quebec Issue Will Catch Up With Labor Congress This Week

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec issue will catch up with the Canadian Labor Congress this week.

Whether it will overshadow all other matters at the CLC's ninth biennial convention opening today will depend largely on the role of the province's labor crisis in the province itself.

The main question will be resolved if the congress leadership demonstrates that it does have an active part to play in the effort to bring some peace to a situation now marked by violent walkouts and demonstrations.

That was the role proposed at a pre-convention news conference Sunday by CLC President Donald MacDonald. Both the CLC executive and affiliated unions in Quebec are in agreement that "there must be a return of calm and reason leading hopefully to a return to the bargaining table," he said.

But the CLC will have to find room for itself in the dispute that has pitted the provincial government against a common front of labor organizations, among them the Quebec Federation of Labor that is affiliated with the congress.

Mr. MacDonald said the CLC has offered its services as an intermediary but so far has been unsuccessful in its efforts to contact any members of the provincial cabinet.

"Our good offices are available but we're not going to impose them on people," he said. "If they want us and will accept us, we'll be only too glad to act as an intermediary."

During the news conference, Mr. MacDonald said almost nothing that could be taken as criticism of the Quebec unions. He heaped most of the blame on the Quebec courts and the government which has refused to consider amnesty for unionists locked up in the course of the dispute, including Quebec Federation Louis Laberge.

He also emphasized that CLC affiliates are not the main groups involved in the breakdown of industrial relations in the province.

Of the 210,000 provincial employees involved in the 11-day strike in April which started the strike, fewer than 30,000 were represented by the QFL, he said. The great majority belong to the Confederation of National Trade Unions and the Quebec Teachers Federation.

Jean Beaudry, the CLC's Quebec-based executive vice-president, conceded that there may be some differences of opinion with the QFL.

Uruguay State of War On Guerrillas Extended

MONTEVIDEO (Reuter) — The Uruguayan parliament today authorized the government of President Juan Maria Bordeberry to extend its "state of internal war" against subversion for another 45 days.

The extension was approved by 81 votes to 36 after a 6-hour debate in the legislative assembly.

A first 30-day "state of internal war" officially expired at midnight Sunday night. It was authorized to allow the government to use special powers, including the suspension of civil liberties, in the fight against left-wing Tupamaros urban guerrillas after an incident April 14 in which the Tupamaros assassinated four government supporters. Eight guerrillas were killed.

The government had wanted the special powers to be extended indefinitely. But the motion passed at dawn today authorized an extension until a public order bill before parliament was passed or, failing that, until June 30.

posed by a caucus of 55 representatives of the International Brotherhood of Pulp and Sulphite Workers.

Acting on an earlier resolution at this congress, its Quebec delegates, the pulp-subsidiary group urged Canada-wide support for striking Provincial and jailed union leaders and left the matter of a general strike to its 55,000 Quebec members.

Serious questions will remain about the role of the QFL within the CLC, however. Until last week, there had been little communication between Quebec leaders and the congress since a dispute during the winter over the status of CLC representatives in the province.

Of main concern was the radical political stances adopted by the QFL in December. Whether the Quebec federation actually drifted into the separatist camp is questionable but the CLC opposes the very idea.

"We would have very strong differences if the QFL position was to be interpreted as separatist," Mr. MacDonald said Sunday. "We are very strongly for national unity."

Fight Ban on Strikes But--

Strike Action Is Rejected By Ontario Civil Servants

TORONTO (CP) — The executive of Ontario's 52,000 civil servants rejected strike action as a means of opposing proposed legislation that would deny them the right to strike.

The Civil Service Association of Ontario executive met Saturday with 300 representatives of its local membership to discuss action against the bill. CSAO President George Gemmell described as a "dangerous piece of legislation."

The legislation, which received second reading in the Ontario legislature, would deny provincial government employees the right to strike and sets out areas on which they may bargain.

The general membership authorized the executive to take "whatever action it deems necessary" to fight the bill.

Mr. Gemmell said the Ontario government knows there would be little public support for a strike.

He suggested the legislation was introduced deliberately during Toronto's garbage strike to capitalize on anti-strike feeling.

Don Brown, association lawyer, agreed.

"Strike posture will put the association in willing to be denied the right to strike but agreements must be negotiated, "not legislated."

Assistant general manager Bob Hebdon said the association is merely seeking "a system of arbitration that will work."

The bill, a revised version of one which was introduced last year but never passed first reading, would restrict some areas of bargaining such as car mileage and meal payments.

It also provides that no collective agreement contain as a condition of employment, membership in the employee organization.

Harold Brown, association general manager, urged delegates to encourage all association members to send petitions to their members of the legislature outlining their opposition to the bill.

Other suggestions called for pickets at Queen's Park and a campaign to enlist support from unions.

CBC Power To Be Given Creative

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says CBC president elect Laurent Picard will announce a major policy change this week, suggesting programmers should have as much, and possibly more, power than administrators.

Quoting from a speech Mr. Picard will give to the European Broadcasting Union in Belgium this week, the newspaper says Mr. Picard believes "leadership must be organized around the creative workers," because such a policy offers the only hope for the CBC to cope with changes in broadcasting.

In the speech, Mr. Picard says television is already operating in a saturated market and is threatened by video cassettes, outdoor recreation, cable TV, closed-circuit TV and increasingly diverse audience tastes.

"If television is to survive, and since what matters now is the quality of the product . . . leadership must be organized around the creative workers. They must play an increasingly important part in shaping the destinies of the corporation."

Toronto Workers Sign Pact

TORONTO (CP) — City and Metro inside workers ratified a new wage pact Sunday and averted a strike scheduled for 9 a.m. today.

The settlement provides a 14-per-cent increase in wages over two years for the 4,500 workers involved.

Technicians, public health nurses, social workers and clerical staff voted 1,525 in favor of the settlement with 278 opposed.

After the vote Wallace Higgins, president of Local 79 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, said the terms represented a minimum basis for settlement.

"I considered that a strike was not justified," he said.

The eight-per-cent increase for the first year gives $100-a-week employees an $8-a-week raise retroactive 19 weeks.

The settlement achieved a union goal of getting a recognized seniority clause that would apply to layoffs and promotion. The union also won a long-term disability plan to provide 65 per cent of earnings after six months.

The union's original demand from Metro and the city was a four-day week and a $30-a-week pay raise.

Wallace Is Paralysed By Bullet at Spine

Presidential Race Affected

WASHINGTON (CP) — The attempted assassination of George C. Wallace has thrown the U.S. presidential campaign into disarray, again moved the issue of violence in America to centre-stage and cast an element of fear over the camps of other candidates.

Aside from expressions of sympathy for Wallace, the shocked comments of friends and foe reflected also a revived sense of national tragedy that the American political process again has been disrupted by violence.

Wallace, shot as he campaigned Monday in nearby Laurel, Md., lay critically wounded and partially paralysed in hospital as Maryland and Michigan voted today in Democratic primary elections which experts generally had predicted would provide the last big lift to his campaign before the party convention showdown in Miami Beach in July.

For most Americans the attempt on the life of the fiery little right-wing governor of Alabama received afresh memories of the Kennedy assassinations and that of Negro leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.—dark images they hoard had passed from the American political scene.

But beneath the pervasive feeling of tragedy, the realities of political life raised numerous questions for which there were no ready answers. There was lots of speculation, much of hinging as whether Wallace will recover sufficiently to resume the campaign trail. His press secretary said he will continue his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

President Nixon immediately ordered Secret Service protection for lesser candidates not previously eligible under the law because they had not registered the required five-per-cent in popularity polls. Wallace's principal opponents, Senators Robert H. Humphrey and George McGovern, cancelled indefinitely scheduled campaign appearances.

White Gunman Fires 5 Shots

By PETER BUCKLEY

SILVER SPRING, Md. (CP) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, crippled by an assassin's bullet lodged near his spine, spent a quiet and peaceful night in hospital, his doctors reported today.

However, Wallace was paralysed from the waist down by the bullet near his spine which surgeons decided not to remove during emergency surgery. Four or five bullets from the assassin's .38-calibre pistol struck him Monday while campaigning in Maryland.

Police quickly arrested the man who allegedly fired the shots, and identified him as 21-year-old Arthur Bremer, a tooky, short-haired blonde from Milwaukee. He was wrestled to the ground by members of the crowd.

Dr. Joseph Schanno, vascular surgeon at Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring outside Washington, said the 52-year-old Wallace's condition is satisfactory, but he still is on the critical list.

"Nobody with this kind of injury is completely out of danger for several days. He is a very vigorous patient. He is also remarkably well considering the magnitude of his condition."

Asked if the governor had been speaking, the doctor said he had. "He says, 'It hurts'," Dr. Schanno said.

Gov. Wallace had been given eight pints of blood in transfusions. He had taken no food.

Dr. Schanno said the decision whether to operate to remove the bullet lodged between his lower vertebrae could be up to the neuro-surgeons.

"It would not have been to my advantage to have gone ahead and removed the bullet tonight," Dr. Schanno said.

Doctors said Wallace was hit by four or five bullets. Only two lodged in his body, they said. One was removed from around his right shoulder. The second, which punctured the stomach and lodged on the lower part of the spine, was left in. Bullets

Ride to Hospital Long For Suffering Wallace

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — The ride to the hospital seemed interminably long to Gov. George C. Wallace.

"How much longer?" he asked several times during the 15-minute trip. "I hope they give me a shot of something soon."

It was a trip the provocative campaigner was mentally prepared to make. "I suppose some day somebody might throw something at me other than a rotten egg," Wallace once remarked during his 1968 campaign for the presidency.

Did he worry much about being shot?

"It's not something you let worry you," he said at that time. "But I'm fully aware of the possibility. I'm reminded of it every time I step behind that lectern."

The lectern is a three-sided, bulletproof steel barricade which takes two men to set in place.

Wallace used it in three campaign trips in the last eight years and spoke from behind it Monday at nearby Laurel—just before he mingled in the crowd and was shot.

At his side and also wounded was Capt. E. C. Dobbard of the Alabama state police, a taciturn man who has described his feelings for the governor simply: "I love that little man."

At rallies across the country the last eight years, burly Capt. Dothard has fended off blows from picket signs and many times has stepped in front of Wallace amid barrages of rotten eggs, rocks and bottles, always without a word.

Monday, Dothard, who suffered a flesh wound in his right side, wordlessly held up his forefinger and thumb in an okay sign when he was helped into the ambulance alongside the governor.

Wallace returned the sign and winked at Dothard, who was released from hospital Monday night.

Assailant Asked For Handshake

SILVER SPRING, Md. (CP) — Governor George Wallace was leaving a rally, in a supermarket parking lot, when the man accused of shooting him called him back, says Emmett Eaton, a campaign aide.

"Hey, George, ain't you going to shake my hand?" Eaton said the man called out.

"George turned and walked toward him and that's when he was shot," Eaton said.

Eaton said he rushed to the fallen Wallace, who was lying on his back, and began unbuttoning his shirt.

"Where did they get me?" Eaton said the governor asked him.

"I told him I didn't think it was too bad," Eaton said. "I don't think he thought it was either."

Another campaign worker, Charles Carmon of Mobile, Ala., said Mrs. Wallace embraced the governor as he lay on the pavement, staining her bright yellow jacket with his blood.

"The blood was awful," Eaton said. "I tried to stop it with my handkerchief and improved two more handkerchiefs. It seemed like the ambulance would never get there."

Accused Is 'Loner'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer, the one-time photography student charged with shooting Democratic presidential candidate George C. Wallace, is described as a quiet but confident loner.

Among the items in his apartment were a Confederate flag and newspaper clippings about Wallace's campaign, some dating to 1968 when Wallace staged a third-party effort.

"He must have been for George Wallace, because he had a Wallace sticker across the door," said Stephen Warren, a neighbor in the apartment house.

Bremer's truck driver father, William, 52, said his son had never expressed anything political."

Members of Bremer's family —who hadn't seen him since he moved to the apartment from his parents' home in October— described him as "shy and timid."

Connally Resigns

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon today announced the resignation of Treasury Secretary John Connally, the only Democrat in his Republican cabinet. Nixon said he would name Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns, director of the office of management and budget, to succeed Connally.

Quebec Unions Make Three-point Demand

QUEBEC (CP) — Demands for the release of three imprisoned labor leaders continued throughout Quebec Monday but without the dramatic impact of last week's protests.

The union common front representing more than 200,000 provincial workers issued a statement calling for the release of labor federation president, withdrawal of strike-ending legislation and a resumption of negotiations.

A union official said about 40 of 52 other union officers sentenced to jail following last month's 11-day public service strike were expected to give up their freedom today in support of their colleagues.

He said the officers, free on bonds pending appeal of contempt of court sentences, had decided to revoke their bonds as a gesture of solidarity.

All construction in Montreal was halted Monday when 40,000 men walked off the job.

In Montreal Monday night about 600 bus and subway drivers voted by a show of hands not to strike.

About 1,500 teachers left their posts in the lower St. Lawrence River area and on the Gaspe peninsula while teachers in Rimouski and Mont Joli, 180 miles northeast of here, split their protests between classes and occupation of school buildings.

Unions representing 8,000 Hydro-Quebec workers and 20,000 public servants decided not to join the protest walkouts.

U.S. Planes Wreck Hanoi Air Defence Centre

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers wrecked North Vietnam's air defence headquarters on the southern edge of Hanoi and cut the main pipeline feeding tanks and supply trucks on the northern front by South Vietnam, the U.S. command announced today.

Intelligence reports have said Russian technicians and advisers were known to be working in the headquarters, but there was no immediate comment on this from the command.

A six-page communique reported the assessment of damage done by nearly 2,000 strikes in North Vietnam during the last week.

The command also disclosed that air strikes against North Vietnam have been stepped up to an average of 250 a day in the campaign ordered by President Nixon a week ago to choke off supply routes to the South.

The command had announced earlier that both the northwest and northeast rail lines between Hanoi and China had been cut, and the 7th Air Force reported Sunday its bombers had destroyed the Dragon's Jaw bridge at Thanh Hoa, 80 miles south of Hanoi, a key link in North Vietnam's supply network.

Spokesmen estimated the North Vietnamese had a month's supply of fuel close at hand for their tanks and vehicles in the south.

Fighting in the 48-day North Vietnamese offensive slowed, but the reason was not immediately clear. One U.S. military source said the Communists may have pulled back to consolidate their forces.

South Vietnamese forces continued to push out from Hue to keep the North Vietnamese from getting close enough for an all-out attack on the old imperial capital.

Danes to Limit Fishing

LONDON (CP) — Denmark has agreed to increase restrictions on salmon fishing in the northeast Atlantic and this in turn may reduce Canada's hopes of getting a complete ban on salmon fishing in the northwest. A spokesman said the increased curb, to which Denmark subscribed, was approved by the 14-country Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Commission last week. It prohibits a high-seas salmon catch over an area of about 8,000 square miles around Iceland.

Jobless Number Declines

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of unemployed persons in Canada dropped by 38,000 from mid-March to mid-April, reversing the pattern of the last two years.

Statistics Canada and the manpower department reported today that there were 582,000 unemployed last month, down from 642,000 the previous month and 650,000 a year earlier.

In both 1971 and 1970 unemployment rose slightly in April and had its big drop in May as warmer weather stimulated the economy.

Contributing to the improved unemployment figures was a smaller-than-usual increase in the number of persons in the labor force.

The number of persons employed rose to 8,085,000 in April from 8,016,000 in March, while the total labor force rose to 8,671,000 from 8,658,000.

Both employment and labor force were up from the 7,737,000 employed and 8,288,000 in the labor force for April, 1971.

While the actual rate of unemployment fell to 6.8 per cent of the labor force in April from 7.4 per cent in March and 7.8 per cent in April, 1971, the seasonally-adjusted rate also fell, to 5.8 per cent from six per cent in March.

The seasonally-adjusted rate is computed by statisticians to show the underlying trend of unemployment by removing normal variations due to seasonal factors.

Wallace Paralysed by Bullet

sine injected Wallace's right forearm, grazed the back of his left shoulder blade and grazed his upper left abdomen.

"I think the governor is going to make a recovery," Dr. Henry Schwarz said. "Now what disability he has as a result of his wounds is difficult to evaluate at this time. We're all very optimistic at this point."

Dr. Herman Magnuson, a heart specialist attending Wallace, said his heart is in excellent condition. "He's doing remarkably well, considering the extent of his injuries," Dr. Magnuson said.

The 52-year-old segregationist governor was gunned down Monday by a pistol-blast range so he plunged into a crowd of supporters after a campaign speech at a shopping center in Laurel, Md., near Silver Spring and just a few miles from Washington.

Today was to have been the highlight of his long-shot presidential campaign to win the Democratic party nomination and oppose President Nixon in the November general election. He is favored in today's two primaries — in Maryland and Michigan.

Wallace, onetime Golden Gloves boxer, was in the middle of a neurological fanel with yet another paralysis but his press secretary insisted the governor would continue his campaign even from a wheelchair.

After five hours of surgery at Holy Cross Hospital, police and hospital spokesmen said Wallace's life was no longer in danger, but some paralysis was reported. One physician said the outlook for full recovery was "very good." The governor's press secretary quoted doctors as saying the paralysis may be temporary, "but it will take years about this in the next 48 hours."

Wallace spokesman said Wallace, "always optimistic," told him, "I'm going to be all right, I know, his nature, he didn't earn the title of the "Fighting Little Judge" for nothing, and I expect him to continue in the same vein."

Three other persons were wounded in the assassination attempt, including a 21-year-old worker, an Alabama state jo-liceman and a Secret Service agent. All were reported recovering today.

Mrs. Wallace had said earlier outside the operating room door that her husband was in surgery below the waist. Dr. James G. Galbraith, head of the neurological department at the University of Alabama, said the governor's injuries were "extensive and extremities.

"The outlook cannot be predicted but it is not favorable," Galbraith said. "It would be unusual to get complete recovery under these circumstances."

But Galbraith added a bullet "has a blast effect as it goes in, but this time the bullet is not, and there is a good canal. There is a free flow of fluid."

Early today, doctors said Wallace was alert, awake and making progress "as well as we can expect."

Bremer was taken before U.S. Magistrate Clarence Goetz in Baltimore and held without bail and ordered held under $200,000 bond on charges of assaulting Wallace and the Secret Service agent.

The agent, Nicholas Zarvos, underwent six hours of surgery for a bullet wound in the left leg and was listed in good condition. Zarvos was also built in damaged Zarvos's voice box.

Capt. E. C. Dothard of the Alabama State Patrol said the shot was hit, was treated for a flesh wound on his right ankle and released from the hospital.

Dora Thompson, a Wallace campaign worker, received a grazing wound and was listed in satisfactory condition in Holy Cross.

Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's press secretary, said yesterday today that the governor's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination will continue. Camp said Wallace himself made the decision which was relayed by Mrs. Wallace.

He will be at the Democratic convention as a strong, viable candidate," Camp told a news conference. "He expects to win in both Maryland and Michigan."

Drowning Victim Identified

PICTON (Staff) — An Akron, Ohio, man who drowned in the choppy waters of West Lake Sunday afternoon after rescuing his 12 - year - old son, today was identified as 47-year-old Glen Albert Clark.

Mr. Clark drowned attempting to reach shore after his 16-foot aluminum boat overturned in West Lake off Macaulay Island.

His companions in the boat were Clarence Bee, 35; Eugene Bee, 29; Earl Norman, (his father-in-law) and Glen Earl Clark Jr., 12, who reached shore safely.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said the men had turned their boat toward calmer waters Sunday when a wave capsized the craft, pitching them and sank it.

Eugene Bee reached shore while Earl Norman and Clarence Bee clung to the overturned craft. Glen Earl Clark was trying to swim to shore when his father, the strongest swimmer in the group, reached him and helped him into a life preserver.

The boy swam to safety, but his father collapsed suddenly and drowned. Although the boat was equipped with life preservers for all passengers, no one was wearing one when the accident occurred.

Police said no inquest will be held.

Bach's Masterwork Performance Moving

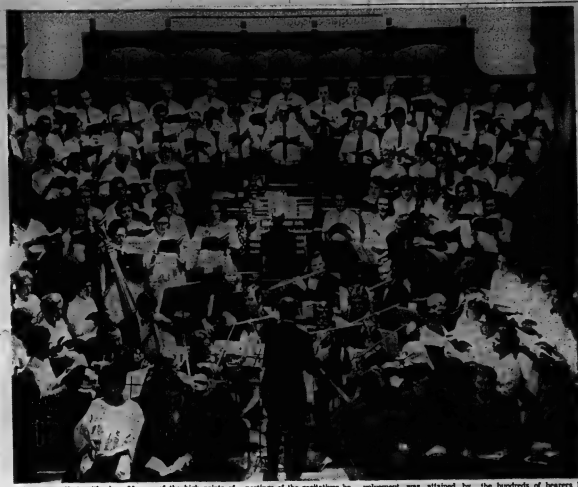
By EUGENE LANG

In the realm of musical art there are certain compositions that loftily tower above their peers such as an Everest that looms over best rest of the Himalayan massif. These works are few and far between, standing out in isolated grandeur from their peak of noble conception. Most of these tremendous outpourings of musical sounds lean toward the sacred rather than the secular as can be exemplified in Beethoven's Missa Solemnis in D Major, Wagner's consecrational music drama, Parsifal, Mozart's Requiem and these two gargantuan creations of Johann Sebastian Bach — his Mass in B Minor and the St. Matthew Passion. It is to the last named opus that we turn our attention in these lines, as a result of the performance given by the Bridge Street United Church Choir Augmented, with soloists and orchestra under the direction of Robert Reid, held before a sold out congregation last evening in Bridge Street United Church.

But first, a few words about the St. Matthew Passion itself. No form in music has such a long and continuous history as that dealing with the telling of Christ's crucifixion and the events leading up to His death on the cross. In the distant past of the fifth century we find choral passages being chanted in plainsong during Holy Week. The Passion Play came into being during the era of the medieval church with this tragic story acted out in dramatic guise. In the centuries that followed, these two traditions gradually merged, with the Passion continually being transformed as music and drama progressed.

By the time of Bach, in the early 18th century, this had become a mixture of both sacred and secular operatic arias interspersed with hymns (that the congregation took part in), with the poetic translations set to the Biblical texts in haphazard ways. Bach's great achievement was to crystallize all of these uneven elements into a work of profound religious sentiment that bespoke his convictions of a pure and lasting faith. He wrote four passions beginning with the St. John, first performed in 1723; the second, written around 1725 is lost; the St. Mark Passion of 1731 exists only in fragments; and the St. Matthew Passion, which was performed for the first time on Good Friday, 1729 at Leipzig. Of the over 1,000 works written by Bach, this is considered his greatest, and is no doubt the finest passion music that has ever been written. It has been rightly called "the most intensely personal document in the whole range of musical art."

A work of this huge scope and magnitude is usually heard only by professional choirs in metropolitan centres, owing to its large canvas and the difficulty of gathering soloists that are well versed in its dozens of pages of recitatives and arias. Small wonder then that many were surprised when the word got around that it was to be performed locally by the Bridge Street Church Choir Augmented with all but one of the soloists imported from the Toronto area.



It can be said without any argument that this is the largest and most auspicious musical undertaking ever attempted in this city within living memory. Credit galore must be heaped on all shoulders of the vast choral group that spent so many arduous hours of diligent practice during the past few months to shape this colossal musical edifice into the imposing structure that was heard last evening.

Above all, to Director Robert Reid, for his courage and stamina in electing that a nebulous dream became a shining reality. Only through his careful guidance and ever-demanding perfection could this transcendent score be revitalized with so remarkable an effect as the participants threaded their way from opening uncertainty in January to knowledgeable sureness in mid May. His reward was the life-giving rendition that he brought into being from the near 125 voices that he directed. And then add to that the orchestral body of 17 that had to be honed into shape, along with the added acumen of organist S. Alec Gordon, and the final spicing by the six vocal principals in their solo numbers, and you can realize what a formidable task Mr. Reid set for himself and his charges. The challenge was met and conquered in an over-all performance of humble approach, solid musicality and lasting remembrance by the over 1,100 who thrilled to Bach's immortal score.

To evaluate this music page by page would take many times the space that we have at our disposal, but perhaps a few salient remarks will not be amiss. First the choir: Bach's fortuous contrapuntal writing was handled by both choirs in splendid fashion with a unanimity of purpose. Vocal cutting was met with striking precision and dynamics ran the gamut from hushed pianissimo to shattering fortissimo outbursts. The opening chorus left no doubt as to what the rest of the composition would entail like as a majestic sound filled the cavernous church. The added ripieno choir of youthful female voices sang their canto ferma in sonorous measured pace as the other two choirs traced their linear harmonic weavings with careful restraint. In final chorus again we witnessed a flowing of voices that elicited warmth yet brought the contours of power as required in closing measures. The chorales were given lovely treatment as fervent singing, but fervency was not noticeably lacking in God, I fall before Thee, where a much softer approach would have preferred these words.

Turning to the soloists, we must first single out Tenor Larry Marshall for his superb singing of the difficult role of the Evangelist. He imparted to this personification the solo vocal highlight of the evening in his traversing of the tricky recitatives being sung with intense feeling as we recall in And he went out, and wept bitterly.

Basso James Bechtel as Christus delivered from his resonant voice a sincere depiction of The Savior that was wrought with dramatic declamations yet offset with devoted warmth of tone.

Hazelanne Reid sang all of her solos with true religiosity of spirit. The aria Jesus, Saviour, I am Thine was given a beautiful reading with crystal crystal clarity of voice in devout styling.

Contralto Doris Pritchard's deeply hued voice was used with richness and instilled ardor in her various solos, but at times it veered on overthreadiness in intensity of tone.

Tenor Glyn Evans sang model interpretations of his offerings, one of his most satisfying selections being marred by double bass accompanist falling apart at the seams.

The bass voice of William Perry was adeptly used in his solo work with his rendition of Gladly Would I take upon Me one of the high points of his performance.

The double orchestra was a great additive, with their accompaniments providing well devised backing to the soloists. Flute obbligatos were enhancing to the vocalists that they supported. Marion Stratton's violin solo in the contralto aria Have Mercy, Lord provided an eloquent dialogue to the long lined cantilena of the singer. S. Alec Gordon turned in fine shadings at the organ with the continuo supportings of the recitatives being noticeably "on the dot". There were some unduly long pauses at end of recitatives before chordal conclusions, we imagine these being extended for dramatic reasons by the conductor.

To assess in one sentence: A very stirring performance by all who took part, and one that will go down in local musical history as a milestone reached by city and area participants, be they vocal or instrumental. Congregational involvement was attained by their joining in some of the lovely chorales — this old Bach would have admired immensely. Once again Robert Reid and the forces under his discerning conductorship have pulled off a first rate performance of a masterwork. Lasting over three hours (and this somewhat cut, especially in the second part) the hundreds of hearers left the church in exalted feeling, perhaps many of them forgetting the diabolical means that were employed to bring this work but knowing that they have witnessed a timeless story declaimed by forces that presented Bach's St. Matthew Passion viewed by the entire cast with a mind full of reverence, sympathy, and faith.

Past and Present

There is the tyranny of the automobile —that we all know in this day and age: whizzing along the highway, on its way to the dealers by road and rail, ultimately to end up in one of those auto graveyards. Driving along say 401 the thought occurs, what will this countryside be like a thousand years from now; will the archaeologists of the day be probing the remains of this artery, perhaps even the remains of our cities also and gaining clues to that early lifestyle, just as was done at the Viking settlement in Newfoundland.

Then our pet we are tyrannized by newspapers; we hate to miss anything and it is a classic love - hate relationship. Sometimes we wish we were out there driving a tractor and enjoying the fresh country air, or working on an assembly line, for keeping up is not always half the fun. We put aside newspapers and clippings for subsequent study and do not subscribe to the axiom about such-and-such being "as stale as yesterday's news." The news per se may be just that, but old newspapers contain a great deal else that is of lasting interest and often it relates to contemporary happenings.

On Saturday the Looking Backward column by Mrs. E. P. Allen noted that on May 13, 1932 Claud Quinn steered his leaky punt from Canniton through three dams and rough water to the mouth of the river. "Shucks, that wasn't so much," was his comment afterwards. And relatively speaking he was right, for didn't a man and a woman recently row a boat across the Pacific from the U.S. to Australia, braving sharks and cyclones?

Fifty years ago the new owner of the Massassaga Point vacation complex was getting things ready for the season and we are reminded that more recently plan for reviving this popular recreational spot are supposed to be under way.

And catching up on some old reading piles of our own we see a picture of Leading Wren Sharon Ford of Roslin. Miss Ford, assisted by another navy girl from Sudbury is seen jokingly raising the hemline of her skirt to mini-length — but only for a moment, for service regulations do not permit uniform lengths above mid knee cap. At least they did not in November 1969 which was the date of the picture in the Brockville Recorder and Times. Another interesting article noted that Canada's forces included about 1,600 women. Incidently, they receive the same pay as the men.

Another interesting item from the same period in late 1969, this one from The Globe and Mail, quotes author Charles Webb (The Graduate, among others) who devotes some of his time to organizations working on the pollution problem. "There is a question," he said then, "whether or not it can be solved in time. The increasing destruction of the total environment, including the slaughter of wildlife, is a signal, I believe, that we are not too far from extinction ourselves. I plan to do what I can, and only hope others, in great numbers, will join the fight."

Quebec Sentences

Perhaps six or even three months would have been a sufficient sentence for the three Quebec labour leaders who have been jailed for one year for contempt of court in connection with the recent Common Front strike in the province. The trio find themselves where they are for urging strikers to ignore court injunctions aimed at halting work stoppages in essential services.

However, we do not believe that the sentence or the judge involved is handed it out warrant the ever - reaction they drew from NDP leader David Lewis, who is himself a lawyer and should know better. For too long now the judiciary, encouraged no doubt by the permissive ways of Solicitor - General Goyer and the Parole Board, have been making things much too easy for crime to flourish in Canada.

What the three labor leaders did was an act of irresponsibility which, had it led the general mass of strikers to even further disobedience of the courts could have had very serious consequences for the province.

The NDP leader's intemperate attack on the judge and his court decision was not in the least helpful either to the people of Quebec or the country at large. It was a negative attitude which unfortunately permeates to a dangerous degree the thinking of many in opposition today. Constructive criticism is one thing, bitter, carping reaction is another. Canadians should beware of public figures who openly encourage contempt for the law, for it is a reflection of the game being played on many fronts by those who would destroy western society.

Budget Sequel

Corporations Once Again A Source of Campaign Funds?

By FARMER TESSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

Ottawa cynics were suggesting the other day that the Liberal party bagman had become so knocking on the corporation doors early in the morning after the presentation of the latest budget.

The cynics said the bagmen had been called off the hunt by campaign funds when they found that business and industry were giving them the cold shoulder. Business had become increasingly upset by the government's proposed Competition Act, the changes in the labor code and surplus anti-business moves by the government.

Wait until we bring in our foreign investment policy, followed closely by the budget, and then start making the rounds again", the fund-raisers were advised.

Judging by Mr. Turner's budget, the strategy should pay off. Party bankruptcy and the party should soon be financially capable of waging a strong and effective election campaign.

Of course the opposition parties, particularly the New Democrats, will rail against the budget, pointing out some obvious weaknesses: little or nothing for those important economic groups, the fishermen and farmers, only $2.85 a month more for the pensioners, too many concessions to business and no cut in personal income tax to lighten the load on the important middle income group.

But on balance, you have to conclude the budget was a good one as budgets go, and Mr. Turner's star shines even brighter today. He is pinning a good deal of failure-perhaps too much-on the corporate concessions creating the jobs required to satisfy our expanding labor force. That his measures will have some good effect in this direction seems certain, but the question is how much and how soon.

This sort of thing takes time to filter down through the economy to the point where it has some direct effect on the individual.

Then there is the problem of growing automation. In terms of creating permanent jobs, there may not be too much point in making it easier and cheaper for industry to acquire new and modern machinery if that machinery is going to displace workers.

If the New Democrats can make some political hay at Mr. Turner's expense, the Conservatives are ready to find it much harder to do so. If the budget has one general tone it is surely that of stand-e conservatism. It was the sort of budget, in easy times, a Conservative administration might have been expected to introduce under a similar set of circumstances.

There was the usual speculation as to whether it was an "election budget." Considering it is almost certain to be the last budget presented before the election is called, it must be an "election budget," despite the absence of any cuts in personal income taxes.

Mr. Turner was a realist in this decision. Personal income taxes account for a surprising 44 per cent of total budgetary revenues. With the rate of federal spending money in large and frequent chunks, it needs every cent of revenue it can get if it is to come anywhere close to its budgetary deficit. Salary and wage earners will have to continue to provide a lot of this revenue and, one hopes, the corporations will do their bit to provide the new jobs and increase the gross national product.

Airport Issue Heavy Going For Davis

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Premier Davis' hair is beginning to show some gray.

A reason could be that "people" are being a bit more of a problem than he had counted on.

He, of course, keyed his election campaign last October to the "people" most notably in his Toronto Spadina Expressway decision.

In rejecting the expressway he coined a phrase "Cities are for people, not for cars" and then made good political mileage with it.

Now, however, there is a kick-back. The phrase is being thrown back at him.

There is a strongly-organized campaign against the projected Pickering airport.

One of the main opposition groups has come up with the label POP—Planes in People!

And the label seems to be effective, to the extent that it is hurting the government. For there has been considerable public criticism, and this appears to far outweight the actual strength of the opposition.

If the government is suffering, it is partly to blame.

For in its handling of this airport issue the government has appeared particularly clumsy.

The airport, of course, is mainly a federal project. It is the federal government which has had the say whether a new airport is actually needed and then decides where it will be located.

But the provincial government is also much involved—in providing services, regulating the development, providing controls for the environment and other facets. This involvement will cost hundreds of millions of dollars.

And despite this interest the government has appeared remarkably vague about details.

Under questioning it has left the impression that it never went into the question of just how necessary a new airport actually is. There has been controversy on the point. And it apparently had no concern that the site eventually selected did not meet criteria that had been initially set out for it.

The main reason for this was that it wanted it made clear that the final decision was Ottawa's. And to accomplish this it ducked publicly accepting any responsibility, though it obviously had some.

And it has carried this so far it has been looking either negligent or irresponsible.

NDP's Waffle Group Just Won't Lie Down

Montreal Gazette

The Ontario branch of the New Democratic Party is once again telling the Waffle to "clean up its ways or get out. This time, an executive committee under Ontario president Gordon Wilbert has prepared a report recommending that the Waffle group be disbanded as soon as possible.

Mr. Vichert says the report is basically a "plea to the Waffle to disband voluntarily." However, he adds, if Waffle members decide to continue to operate as a group, "machinery" is available for the purpose of expelling them from the NDP.

It will be interesting to see whether the NDP will actually try to back up the threat that is very explicit in Mr. Vichert's remarks. Stephen Lewis, the Ontario leader, has not so far done a very convincing job of showing the Waffle who is boss.

The NDP prides itself on being the most open and democratic of Canadian political parties. That's imagery, of course, but dissident opinions have at least as much a chance of making themselves heard and felt in the NDP as anywhere else. How the line between dissidence and repudiation of the party leadership and program has become completely obscured with the rise of the Waffle within the NDP.

The situation is absurd. The Waffle is a separate party that will not separate. It has all the distinguishing marks of a political party but for the fact that its members retain their official adherence to the NDP.

Their allegiance, though, is to the Waffle.

The difficulty about expelling them, however, is that the NDP executive on federal and provincial levels, cannot be certain that the Waffle's power has not reached well beyond the bounds of its formal membership. Perhaps it is the NDP itself, as distinct from the Waffle, that is the dissenting group.

Parti Quebecois Progresses

Montreal Le Devoir: At a time when many rejoiced at its apparent stagnation, the Parti Quebecois has just demonstrated not only its vitality . . . but that it will play an irreplaceable part in Quebec political life . . .

Several months ago, PQ Leader Rene Levesque admitted frankly that the party's finances were in bad shape, down state. . . .

The fact that the Parti Quebecois was able to collect a sum from its members which surpassed the objective by two or three times at least, is undeniable proof of the party's vitality. . . .

Of all the parties Quebec has known since the Confederation, the PQ is the only one to have succeeded . . . in financing itself through its members. . . .

What is striking about the campaign . . . is not the total amount collected, but the wide variety of sources the money came from and the means used to collect it. The brochure "Who finances the Parti Quebecois?" contains some interesting points. . . .

The money collected comes from individuals, private groups or institutions; of the total $632,154, more than $500 each passed $500 and the average was $25; most donations were in the form of monthly contributions. . . .

The party also released comprehensive figures allowing interested persons to see how the money is being spent. . . .

It is necessary now to attack other aspects of the problem. . . . In particular it is necessary to oblige every party to reveal its annual report, duly audited, to show its financial activities; . . . to oblige every party to reveal the names of supporters who have donated more than a certain sum, for example $1,000; encourage participation of citizens in affairs of parties by allowing deductions on income tax up to, say, $100; and forbid any political institution to make a political donation . . . unless it is authorized by shareholders at a meeting and mentioned in the annual report.

Anti-war Protests in U.S.

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — The pace of demonstrations by American campuses has begun to pick up, in step with the increased fighting in Vietnam, but the mass marches and fevered pitch of former years has yet to develop.

There have been few public demonstrations outside of college grounds. Most of the disturbances have been relatively limited to about a half-dozen states and to a hard core of veterans of previous anti-war rallies and protesting veterans from Vietnam.

Anti-war groups have been publicizing a pair of demonstrations scheduled for Saturday in New York and San Francisco. Both are major protests being organized elsewhere. But there was nothing to indicate that the turnout would approach the size to match the massive protests of former years.

Reports from several of the campuses which have experienced problems in the past indicate that the overwhelming body of students has been neutral in interest or apathetic.

Even at New York City's Columbia University, where militant anti-war leaders apparently failed to get significant support from students for their efforts to close down some of the faculties.

The presidents of the eight Ivy League universities, including Yale, Columbia, Harvard and Princeton as well as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology issued a rare joint statement Wednesday in the University of North Vietnam, supporting the Johnson administration's policy attempts to interfere with others' education.

The statement came as part of an attempt to head off serious disturbances, although there was little evidence to suggest the protest movement would gain momentum.

Some of the anti-war feeling may have been put into the current election campaign.

Warmer weather and the termination of classes could bring stepped-up protest next month. But the anti-war movement faces a formidable obstacle in the apparent weariness of the American public including the students, with both the war and its militant opponents.

Cockneys English

BBC London Letter

Some parts of London have been designated as Educational Priority Areas — EPA's. They are in poorer neighborh o o ds where social conditions are substandard and to which special help is being given to improve the educational facilities and bring them into line with those available elsewhere. A BBC reporter talked to the Director of an EPA about one aspect of the teaching, improving a child's ability to communicate verbally.

The area in which the children live, he said, sometimes has a language they use. Once they step out of that area, they find themselves at a disadvantage in what is essentially a middle-class world. So the children are being taught to be more fluent.

Much of the teaching is done by games. In "Lucky Bag" a child feels an object in a bag without actually looking at it and then describes it until others can tell what it is.

Teachers in these schools do not say any longer "Bring me that book" and let nothing more like "Will you go and fetch that book and take it to Johnny," and explain where you got it from.

Sometimes the children sit in pairs with a screen between them. One child is then tries to instruct Child B, by words alone, to draw something of a family car object out of individual plastic pieces.

One thing the schools do not do, said the Director, is to correct the children's English of a newsreader'. They are left to carry on with their familiar Cockney accents.

Labor Heads 'Old' Say CUPE Leaders

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates from the Canadian Union of Public Employees are unhappy about the way they are being treated by the Canadian Labor Congress.

The delegates got together at the close of Monday's session of the congress conference and complained that the CLC couldn't even provide them with adequate facilities to meet in caucus during the week-long convention.

Stanley Little of Ottawa, CUPE national president, said he tried to get better facilities but the only place available was a section of the huge convention hall vacated minutes earlier when the convention adjourned until today.

A few minutes prior to the CUPE caucus, Hugh Lennon of Toronto, a CUPE representative, asked CLC president Donald MacDonald to step down and let younger people run the labor organization.

"We have got a bunch of tired old men in the Canadian Labor Congress," said Mr. Lennon. "They should step aside when elections are held Friday."

During Monday's opening session, delegates spent a large portion of the day debating an emergency resolution calling for a "general amnesty for all trade unionists in Quebec" during the current labor crisis in that province.

Although all the delegates who had a chance to speak favored the emergency resolution, a delegate representing a machinist union in Montreal said, "Bonanza and his garbage government must be stopped."

But he added, the "strategy of the Quebec labor leaders did contribute to Bill 19"—the bill ordering the public service back to work.

'10-Cent Turner'

OTTAWA, (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner reacted quickly in the Commons Monday when George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) asked if the minister is getting any mail from old age pensioners addressed to "10-cent Turner."

the minister is getting any mail dressed to "10-cent Turner."

Mr. Turner said he is getting mail thanking him for the "one-third of a billion dollars" he had given to old age pensioners in his budget last week.

Mr. Hees said the increase was less than half of that given by the Liberals in 1956 under then finance minister Walter Harris. Mr. Harris then was dubbed "six-buck Harris."

And everybody remembered the defeat of the Liberal government in the 1957 election after Mr. Harris's budget, he said.

Lewis' Charge to Be Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — Sources say they expect all parties will agree to debate a Commons motion today calling for committee study of remarks by New Democrat Leader David Lewis regarding the judge who recently sentenced three Quebec labor leaders to a year in jail.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux said Monday he had serious doubts whether a motion to debate the case, put by former Conservative prime minister John Diefenbaker, is procedurally correct.

But the Commons governs itself, and with unanimous consent the matter could be considered. He discussed the issue with party leaders Monday and sources said later the motion is expected to come before the House today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Lewis remarks were a blanket condemnation of the judiciary and could lead only to national lawlessness and chaos.

Mr. Lewis told the United Steelworkers of America at a policy conference Saturday that any judge who has the stupidity to impose the savage sentence of one year in jail on the three union leaders has no right to be on the bench in any court in this land."

Mr. Lewis added that "the moment a defeated Liberal or Conservative is appointed to the bench, he thinks he's God."

"That's the characteristic of a judge who sits on the bench."

Pre-Wedding Parties and What to Do

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My daughter is to be married in July. We want to give the usual teas and parties so that friends of both families can share in the celebrations.

Could you outline what we should be doing? We are also being asked by her friends and the in-laws-to-be what is expected of them. — Mother of Four Girls.

Dear Mother: We have just completed a new leaflet which goes into this, called "Pre-Wedding Parties". Discusses engagement party, trousseau tea, bridesmaids' luncheon, showers, bachelor dinner and rehearsal party — briefly outlining what is expected on each occasion.

I'm sending you one. (Note to readers: This leaflet is available to all readers for 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

* * *

Dear Doris: At 43 my doctor tells me I am in excellent health; I hold an outside job and can whip through my housecleaning and all the rest of it. My worries are pitiful ones like when is my husband going to fix the fence.

But I now have a problem so big I can't cope with it. For two weeks of every month I am the most unreasonably bad-tempered person. My doctor gave me tranquilizers and then everything made me cry.

He tells me all this is due to my age. But if I could both understand why; and if others are going through this Jekyll and Hyde period I would feel better. — See-Saw.

Dear See-Saw: Others are—but that's not really much help. Your doctor is still your best friend, and recent news about hormones might indicate that they would help you too.

The menopause has many symptoms, few people sail through without a qualm; in others the glandular changes which accompany menopause take years — and may give the people you live with their own kind of depression when you treat them badly.

I am enclosing my 28-cent leaflet "Facing Forty" which will shed a little more light on the subject for you. If your doctor approves, see what the hormones can do.

* * *

Dear Doris: My problem: Personality: I have none.

Very often I feel left out, ignored as if I was a nothing . . . though I must admit I have a very hard time finding something to interest them. I also try to make friends with other people, but I guess they find me either shy or stuck-up!

Also, I've noticed that in my classroom almost every girl (even those that are not as beautiful as I am) aren't afraid to talk to guys, the ones who are considered big shots.

I'd like to try but I'm always afraid they'll laugh at me, or do something that'll really make me feel bad.

I'm dressed o.k., I'm just as proper and feminine as any of the other average girls, so what am I supposed to do? — Helplessly Yours.

Dear Helplessly: If you feel like a nothing, maybe you have not been in the habit of mixing with people. There is no substitute for a happy early social life.

All you can do now is start from where you are. Start by forgetting whether people are going to laugh at you, and do something which will be kind and helpful to someone else who may be just as afraid of being laughed at as you are.

Lots of girls are shy of the so-called big shots, who are really quite small if they do not put-you at ease.

Write in for my 2-cent leaflet, "Don't Be Shy". And remember that a stamped envelope next time.

* * *

(Talk it over with Doris. This Canadian social worker can shed new light on your problem.)

Women's Institutes

MOUNTAIN VIEW WI

Members of the Mountain View Women's Institute enjoyed a tour of the Campbell Soup Mushroom Plant near Wellington. The members and several children present were met by Donald Richards, manager of the plant, who spoke briefly and noted that there are four mushroom farms in the United States and two in Canada and employ a total of 30,000 people. The fungus is fed on rye grain grown on these farms.

Mr. Richards continued by taking the group on a full tour of the plant, which ranged from the moving of the spawn to the finished product ready for shipment. At the end, Mr. Richards also answered a number of questions.

Thanks to those in charge were expressed by Mrs. Margaret Wallbridge.

The members also enjoyed a tour of Barber's greenhouses and were escorted by Mrs. Joan Stanton who also presented each with two carnations.

On conclusion of two most enjoyable tours, members gathered at the home of the hostess, Mrs. Bob Barber for the regular meeting where Mrs. Barber presided. Mrs. Wilfred Motley was convener and Mrs. K. Motley, co-hostess.

During a short business, plans were made to entertain for the district annual on May 24 at Mountain View.

Coffee and doughnuts were served at the close of the meeting.

Human Bite Can Be Dangerous

Dear Ann Landers: My 18 year-old son is going with a girl 20. They spend almost every evening together, often at our home. She comes here after work and has dinner and then she and Steve watch TV or wrestle. The wrestling is all in good fun—or at least I thought it was fun until I noticed that sometime they really hurt each other.

Several weeks ago the girl bit Steve so hard it broke the skin. He had her toothmarks on his neck for several days. Last night Steve bit her in the fleshy part of her upper arm. She screamed so hard they must have heard her in Buffalo. It bled quite a bit.

I once heard that a human bite can be dangerous. Yes or no?—A Canadian Reader.

Dear Reader: A human bite can be very dangerous. The mouth is full of bacteria and complications can result if the victim doesn't have enough resistance in light of infection. I hope these two gladiators have had tetanus shots.

Dear Ann Landers: I didn't care for your answer to Hopping Mad In Modesto, the woman whose husband was a great deer racer and got nobbled at parties by wives whose husbands had hernias, prostatic trouble or would rather sit and drink. You seemed to think the wife should keep her mouth shut and sit it out.

It so happens that my husband is a wonderful dancer, so I've been around that track plenty. When I was young and foolish I used to have my hair fixed and get decked out in my best bib and tucker, only to end up sitting by my lonesome while Wallflies was pulled and hauled every which way. (Wooden cent coil is on us!!)

I got to thinking maybe it was up to me to tell those brassy blondes to leave my husband alone. Then I decided no; it was up to him. Finally I informed him that unless he could figure out some way to say "no" I would not accompany him any place where there might be dancing. He solved the problem with a simple phrase, "Sorry, I promised this dance to my wife."

I hope you will print my letter since it makes better sense than your smarty-mouthed, submissive approach which reflects your well-known philosophy of a long leash for husbands.—New Jagged Wall.

* * *

Dear Nellie: Your solution is much better than mine and I heartily endorse it. Thanks for improving on my answer.

Is a contented person easy-going?

YES—up to a point, an individual will be quite easy-going. Yet, something happen to destroy that contentment, though, and then watch out. In being contented, the person rather expects his daily comings and goings to fall into a certain pattern and he becomes accustomed to feeling secure and at ease. Then the first jarring note in his serene routine is apt to make him so irascible that he snaps everyone's head off over nothing.

Can superstition affect a marriage?

ONLY if a wife or husband were to have doubts about his or her love. Oh, a bride, for instance, may be afraid to admit how happy she is for fear that it wouldn't last. But once her love has been tested and proved by a minor scrap or some other vicissitude of marriage, the bride will gradually become more sure of herself. She will become confident that she can be supremely happy without having to take a rabbit's foot all the time.

Are faults resented in a hero?

NO. A hero may have feet of clay to his valet, but the more human failings a hero has the more he seems to be adored by his worshipers. Take a closeling home-run hero—not necessarily one of the established stars who have proved their ability, but a potentially great batsman who has caught popular fancy. Let one of his faults get bruited about and his fans will feel that in spite of his "greatness" they can now identify with him.

Potter to Change False Teeth Rules

TORONTO (CP) — New regulations governing Ontario's dentursits will be presented to the legislature within the next few weeks, Dr. Richard Potter said Monday.

And the health minister says he hopes the regulations will settle the continuing conflict between the denturists and most of the province's dentists.

Denturists now are prohibited by law from selling dental plates directly to the public. Plates must be fitted and prescribed by dentists.

The denturists say they could lower the price of plates by dealing directly with the public, and have been campaigning to change the law. The dentists' association has brought charges against denturists who deal directly with the public.

Dr. Potter hinted to the legislature Monday there may be good news for denturists when he brings in his bill to cover the health disciplines shortly.

Dentistry Dean Backs PC MPP

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Gordon Nikkeruk, dean of dentistry at the University of Toronto, Monday supported the principle that medical auxiliaries, including denturists, should provide service directly to patients but only after an adequate training period.

Dr. Nikkeruk made the statement in a news release issued after statements Sunday at a meeting of the Ontario Dental Association by Harry Parrott, a dentist and Progressive Conservative MPP for Oxford, that instead of prosecuting denturists for supplying dentures directly to the public, the association should accept them.

Report Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada had a current account deficit of $332 million in its dealings with other countries for the first three months of this year, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

There was a $78-million surplus in the first quarter of last year.

Physicians Called Push-cart Vendors

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's health services are provided piecemeal, resulting in rising costs, Dr. Jan Dukesz (NDP—Toronto-Parkdale) told the Ontario legislature Monday.

"The majority of physicians operating alone as private entrepreneurs constitute an army of push-cart vendors in an age of supermarkets," he said in opening debate on estimates of Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter.

Donald Paterson (L—Essex South) noted that health-care costs in Ontario have passed $2 billion, compared to $1.7 billion in 1976, "and it looks like this is going to escalate in the months to come."

Several Pharmacists' Licences Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — There were "several cases" in Ottawa of pharmacists having their licences suspended after it was discovered they were charging more than prescription rates set out by Parcost, Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter said Monday night.

A system of spot checks has turned up other such violations.

King of Game Fish Comes from Cordova

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

CORDOVA — This is where the king comes from.

His title: Maskinonge, which familiarized to the common sports name of muskie, reliant Ontario waterways as the supreme and elusive surprise sought by thousands of anglers.

Right now operations are in full swing near here to produce the annual boost to fresh maskinonge stocks supplying all Ontario waters. It's an exclusive — if little known — role for the department of Natural Resources Deer Lake hatchery, skirting the Crowe River, 12 miles northwest of Marmora.

Begun in 1940, it has produced millions of muskie for the province's waterways, estimates hatchery manager John M. Hunt.

At this stage in the annual process, the maskinonge gives no clue to the famed fighting stubbornness or great size it may reach in full maturity—qualities which give the breed its respected reputation.

Right now, they have been weighed in, not by the pound, but the quart — small specks they down the chain of development process whose last link is release as a future champion of waterways stock.

Tiny fertilized eggs, they lie quiescently in shelved jars here in the hatchery, waiting to hatch.

Our function is to assist nature in the hatching and rearing of maskinonge," explains Mr. Hunt.

There are also strong conservation overtones.

The hatchery manager describes it this way: Maskinonge spawn in shallow, weedy bays in late April or early May. The eggs, taking about 15 days to hatch to fry, another 19 days for fry to absorb their yolk sacs. Changing water levels sometimes may leave the dormant eggs and fry high and dry — resulting in destruction by the millions. (A large female can provide up to 150,000 eggs.)

Department conservationists strip eggs from parent fish in Stony Lake, 30 miles west of here, fertilize them immediately and ship them to the hatchery — a harvest usually totalling around 4 million. Some two quarts—more than 100,000 eggs are placed in six-quart jars, constantly circulated with fresh water. Periodically they're gently stirred with a long feather, and dead or broken eggs are siphoned off.

After hatching, the sac-encased fry are transferred to trays, until they develop to the swimming stage — usually in about 18 days.

At this point a major distribution of the stock occurs. Some 3 million fry are planted in suitable waters across the province from Cornwall to Sudbury, the bulk of it in the Kawartha-Trent system, with the egg-supply source receiving a large share. The remainder, maybe 300,000 fry by this time, are reared to the fingerling stage in the hatchery's outdoor ponds.

Preparing the ponds' feeding resources for the muskie is "an excellent example" of the universal chain process by which all nature, including man, survives, says Mr. Hunt.

First, the ponds are filled with water, then fertilized by soy-bean meal which stimulates vegetable plankton. In turn the vegetable growth produces animal plankton which provides the half-inch 'musky' with their first meals. This lasts less than a month, when the growing population are fed sucker fry which are hatched concurrently.

With the sucker gone, the still-growing muskie is fed live minnows, foraged from surrounding lakes. Thus the minnow hatch looms largely in the culture of the maskinonge," says Mr. Hunt, "if the hatch is poor the men must range further afield . . . but seven with this herculean effort there is difficulty in keeping the maskinonge appetite filled."

And, says the hatchery-manager, the maskinonge's appetite can be as finicky as it is a voracious.

They will eat only life food, and have been known to reject even that if, say, a minnow is crippled or damaged.

The whole painstaking process lasts up to 18 weeks, when the tiny muskies are about seven inches long. By seven weeks, when the fingerlings have grown to four inches, distribution begins to stock 45 lakes in the Lindsay forestry district.

Not that the hatchery's work ends there. Starting in October, and lasting through the winter, its ponds are used for holding brook and lake trout fingerlings, soon to be distributed as year-old trout ready for the catch.

But watch it with the muskie. His determined powers of resistance are also assisted by law.

A maskinonge must be 28 inches before it may be taken — a size which takes from three to four years to attain, depending on its habitat, says Mr. Hunt.

LIP Projects Wait for Word

Local Initiatives Projects will be a year-round proposition, if predictions from the Canada Manpower Centre in Belleville come true.

James Staveley, LIP co-ordinator with the local CMC, said yesterday: "they are talking now that there is a possibility of five - month extensions to some programs that are worthwhile.

"If this keeps up, it will turn into a year - round affair," he said. "There are bound to be more projects next fall to handle unemployment with the finish of the more lucrative, summer construction months."

The program started as a temporary solution to the unemployment situation, employing men to cut dying trees from the shoulders of highways.

Since then the program has grown both in its length of employment during the winter months and in its scope of project choices, employing 32,000 Canadians this year.

"All the time we are getting people coming into our office thanking us for the opportunity to do something worthwhile to earn money rather than sitting at home collecting unemployment insurance," said Mr. Staveley.

In cases such as the Salvation Army camps being constructed at Roblin Lake, the federal government has permitted a two-week extension.

No extra money is being granted, but the added time will make up for time - loss due to bad weather and lake-clearing snow.

After being briefed completely on the scope of the extensions, Mr. Staveley reported, "at least 75 per cent of the projects in the Quinte area are applying for lengthy extensions."

Most representatives are looking for five months of extra time.

All have been contacted by the manpower centre and have been advised to contact head office in Toronto by mail.

Reports should be coming soon, announcing projects that will continue through the summer.

Lost Camper Just Quit

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Police said here today, the mystery of the missing camper at Presqu'ile Provincial Park is solved.

A spokesman for the Brighton detachment of the OPP released this morning, investigation of a report that the young man who set up a camp site in the park 10 days ago and then went home because of cold weather has proved true.

Last Wednesday, park officials notified the OPP that an early-bird camper was missing.

Following a lead over the weekend, police determined the camp had been established by a young Trentonian, "whose father now knows his whereabouts," and he (the missing youth) is all right.

French From Kindergarten Recommended

Ontario's Federation of Home and School Associations has recommended that voluntary French instruction begin in kindergarten and be financed by the federal government.

The federation sees the extension of the French programs in schools as an ideal opportunity for the federal government to apply its bilingual policy in a more effective way.

The recommendation was made in a brief presented to the provincial committee on costs of education by the Home and School delegation.

The delegation also recommended that services provided in schools that are not educational in nature should be charged to the appropriate departments of the provincial government.

This includes mental and physical health services, probation, corrections, recreation and social services.

First President Is Honored

It was announced at the last meeting of the Women's Sales and Advertising Club that Carolyn Emerson will become president of the club, replacing charter president Jane Anne McGaw.

Other members of the club elected to the executive are first vice - president Betty Ling, second vice - president Doreen Reid, secretary Audrey Parry, corresponding secretary Beverly Clapp and treasurer Betty Temple.

Directors are Beverly Lewis, Lt Christy, Lorna Malcolm and Nora Kincaid.

Mrs. McGaw, who had been instrumental in forming the local chapter, was presented with an engraved, silver tray marking the end of her term of office. She had been club's president for three years.

All officers will assume their duties at the beginning of July.

Maskinonge Official Name

Cordova — What's in a name?

Like muskie, muskellunge, maskinonge.

To the sportsman lucky enough to land one of Ontario's most prized game fish, the name probably doesn't matter.

In fact, among anglers it's known as all — or either — of the three.

But any confusion about names was put to rest settled long ago, says John M. Hunt, manager of Deer Lake hatchery, near here, which produces all the hatchery-bred species for the entire province.

For reference he quotes an official 1921 Ontario government study on the species, which notes:

"The original spelling of the Indian name was undoubtedly maskinonge and as such it is officially called in the statutes of Canada, in which country the fish was first known and the name originated."

Pedalling Licence

Cyclists in Belleville are now required to pay $1 and obtain a distinctive yellow plastic registration licence for the bikes. Here, city treasurer's department employee James Burr attaches plate to bike owned by Elizabeth Robinson, 8, of 131 Leland Drive. Her mother, Mrs. H. L. Robinson, left, city police safety officer Corporal Robert Hall and records department typist Wanda Nowakowski watch proceedings.

The police safety van, equipped with plates, registration slips and typist, will visit all city elementary schools to sell the tags. They are also available at police headquarters.

4,000 Bicycle Plates Expected to Be Sold

Pedal pushers and cyclists alike are having to dig into their pockets as the city of Belleville's bicycle licencing program swings into high gear.

Early Monday morning, city police safety officer Corporal Robert Hall, pulled the safety van into the parking lot of the John A. Macdonald public school on Harder Drive. He was met in the rain by a group of excited teachers and their youngsters.

This mobile bicycle command post was fully equipped with a records typist, supply of new plastic licence plates, and literature explaining the city bylaw. It's now mandatory for all cyclists to record their vehicles with city police and stamp out the new identification tags to the rear of their bikes.

Corporal Hall predicts approximately 4,000 plates at $1 each, will be sold by the July deadline. After that date, anyone cycling without one of the distinctive yellow tags, will be faced with a possible $5 fine.

The whole program centres around an attempt to curb the increasing number of bicycle thefts experienced in recent years. By recording serial numbers, make and color, body style, condition plus name and address of owner, police are attempting to complete a central registry in case of theft.

If a bicycle bears no serial number, James Burr of the city treasurer's department, will stamp a special number on the frame. Mr. Burr has been assigned to help Corporal Hall install the tags. Miss Wanda Nowakowski (soon to become Mrs. Peter Jeffrey) of police records, is preparing registration slips.

Each of the schools in Belleville will be visited by the mobile licencing van. Any younger or older cyclist who doesn't catch them at the schools, will have a chance to obtain the plates at police headquarters on Campbell Street.

Davies Dominates Local Winemakers

Gord Davies scored four firsts and two seconds to dominate the Belleville Winemakers' Guild competition Friday.

Mr. Davies won the sweet aperitif, white table, dessert and after dinner categories against 15 other competitors. Altogether, 35 bottles were entered.

Also winning were Joe Heimback in dry aperitif and still rose table, Jules Donald in red table and Doug Fort in Sparkling.

First place finishers are eligible to enter their beverages in the Ontario amateur competition June 10-11 in Toronto. National winners will be decided at the same event.

Judge David Nicholls, chief wine consultant for a Toronto importing firm, was very impressed with the quality of wine. A member of the national judges association, he commented:

"Considering that the members haven't been making wine for very long, the club is in good shape and will only be better when it practises more."

Operation Big Ditch

Power shovel gnaws away dirt by the side of this ditch being channelled through high land in the North Park Street area to accommodate $442,443 storm sewer. The 66-inch storm drain will run from the Fairbey-Tracey Street area west of north Front Street to the Moira River just below Lazier's dam. Earth and rock excavation will reach a depth of 31 feet at the deepest point.

New View For Drivers

Ontario motorists will be peering through a periscope instead of into a rear view mirror if this province follows the lead of safety standards set by the U. S. Government.

The new equipment, which gets rid of blind spots that are a hazard with the interior and outside rearview mirrors now employed, will come into use in the U.S. four years from now.

Charles Kachin, director of driver vehicle standards for the Highway Traffic Safety Administration says the new system gives twice the horizontal view than can be obtained from a conventional mirror.

The present rearview mirror gives a 30-degree sweep of vision while a test version of the periscope offers 60 degrees. The system to be adopted in the U.S. — probably in September 1974 — will cover about 90 degrees.

The test mirrors ride atop the car so that from the outside they resemble the sign on a taxi.

No trouble is anticipated keeping the rearview system clean, except possibly with heavy snow, which is a problem with any system.
